C. CHRONOLOGICAL ROLL AND SERVICE YEARS

1. ELDERS IN FULL CONNECTION IN ORDER OF SENIORITY

*Denotes Retired Relationship

‡ Denotes serving extension or other valid ministries

† Denotes Personal Leave

§ Denotes Granted Medical Leave

f Denotes Family Leave

S Denotes Sabbatical Leave

t Denotes Transition Leave

“Ent. Probationary/Provisional” is the year entered into membership as Probationer/Provisional.

“Other Years” are years in the chaplaincy, institutions or other conferences which Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc. is not responsible for years of service.

“Va. Conf. Yrs.” include years of service that are counted toward retirement eligibility under ¶357.2 in the Book of Discipline.“Total Yrs.” are the total years of service that are counted toward retirement eligibility under ¶357.2 in the Book of Discipline.

These records are revised to correspond with the records of Wespeth and Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc. as of July 1, 2024. Contact Nancy Blair, Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc., 10330 Staples Mill Road, Glen Allen, VA 23060 with questions. Each individual will need to be in contact with Wespeth or the Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc. office to determine pension benefits available at the time of retirement.

Bishop H. Hasbrouck Hughes Jr. (Retired), Bishop Ray W. Chamberlain Jr. (Retired), Bishop Charlene Kammerer (Retired), and Bishop Thomas Berlin, having been elected to the episcopacy from the Virginia Conference, are Honorary Members of the Virginia Conference.

In accordance with action by the Annual Conference body during the 2024 Virginia Annual Conference, these Minutes are the result of transcription and oversight by the Minutes Committee. Clergy Session was recorded by the Conference Secretary. In subsequent years, the official “Minutes” of the Virginia Annual Conference will be the transcription of the livestreamed event.

DAILY PROCEEDINGS

242nd Session

The Virginia Annual Conference

Hampton Convention Center

Hampton, VA

June 20-22, 2024

Thursday Morning, June 20, 2024

LAITY SESSION

The Laity Session began at 8:30 a.m. Martha Stokes, conference lay leader, and musicians, Ms. Madison Elliott and Ms. Kim Young. Ms. Stokes recognized the lay ministry during the session. When a pastoral charge is not able to be served by an ordained or licensed minister, the bishop, upon recommendation of the cabinet, may assign a qualified and trained layperson, lay minister or lay missionary to do the work of ministry in that charge. The Lay Supply class of 2024 included: Susan Ayers, Louis Joseph Berkeszi, Catherine Berry, Bonnie-Karen Byrne, Scarlett Danraj, Angela Renee Dickerson, Eric Scott Fury, Bobby Joe Gardner, Sadie Cabaniss Hawthorne, Frank Johnson, Kelly Morris, Alexis Ward Owens, Benjamin Smith, and Brandon Zobel.

A certified lay minister is called and equipped to conduct public worship, care for the congregation, assist in program leadership, develop new and existing faith communities, preach the Word, lead small groups, and establish community outreach ministries with members of the faith community. The Certified Lay Ministers, Class of 2024 included: Aurora G. Concepcion, James Arthur Granger, Gloria Jeannie Hearn, Virginia Ruth Jones, Lauren K. Leggett, Laura Summers Maher, Tricia O'Hara, Gary Franklin Riley, Jennifer Ann Secki Shields, and Wanda Gail Von Mosch.

Amy Purdom was recognized in her ministry in the Office of Deaconess that was first authorized in the Methodist tradition in 1888.

CLERGY SESSION

At 8:33 AM, Rev. Jessie Colwell, Director, Center for Clergy Excellence, welcomed the clergy and guests to the Clergy Executive Session of the 2024 Virginia Annual Conference. Rev. Colwell invited clergy to a Clergy Day Apart on October 10, 2024, at Floris United Methodist Church.

Opening worship was led by the chairs of Orders: Rev. Lyndsie Blakely, Chair, Order of Deacons; Rev. David Edinger, Chair, Fellowship of Associate Members and Local Pastors; and Rev. Darcey Johnson, Chair, Order of Elders; and Rev. Marcus Stallworth. Music was provided by Rev. Drew Willson. The sign language interpreters for the session were Ms. Katherine McMullen, Ms. Nancy Martin, and Ms. Virginia Bryant. Marshals were Rev. Susan Hannah, Rev. Sarah Locke, Rev. Brian Johnson, and Rev. Mikang Kim.

Rev. Edinger gave a sermon about God's dreams for us based on the Scripture Acts 2:17.

Rev. Tammy Estep, Chair, Board of Ordained Ministry, recognized the end of the quadrennium and thus also recognized the end of the term for our Chairs of Orders. Rev. Jessie Colwell recognized Rev. Tammy Estep, Chair of the Board of Ordained Ministry for her work.

Rev. Estep shared the responsibility of the clergy to help those who are hearing the call to ministry to recognize God's call on their lives. Rev. David Vaughan, Chair, Ethics Committee, encouraged the clergy of the Virginia Conference to not share their papers with those who are interviewing through the licensing, commissioning, and ordination process as this has led to ethical dilemmas of plagiarism through the process.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, Resident Bishop, Richmond Episcopal Area, has shared the relationship of the Episcopal Authority and Sacramental Authority in that the Episcopacy has always had the ability to extend sacramental authority to deacons and has now announced that in light of the recent vote of General Conference, that all Deacons will have Sacramental Authority effective this day. Bishop Hauptert-Johnson clarified that she does not have authority to allow Provisional Members or Licensed Local Pastors authority outside of their own pastoral appointments. She also thanked all Pastors for their continued ministry through the recent difficult times within the church, She encouraged all Pastors to continue to support one another.

She shared a passage from John 16 reminding all that Christ said we “will have tribulations” and encouraged the assembly to “be of good cheer” because God has overcome the world. In conclusion, she shared the focus of this annual conference is to reclaim our spiritual disciplines and encouraged each member to read:

Thompson, Marjorie J. Soul Feast, Newly Revised Edition: An Invitation to the Christian Spiritual Life. Westminster John Knox Press, 2014.

Wheatley, Margaret. Who Do We Choose to Be? Facing Reality, Claiming Leadership, Restoring Sanity. Barrett-Koehler Publishers, 2017.

Rev. Tammy Estep, Chair, Board of Ordained Ministry, explained the purpose of the Board of Ordained Ministry and outlined the core values of the Board of Ordained Ministry. She began with a word of prayer and shared the purpose of the lit candle is to remind us of God’s presence.

Rev. Estep then led the Clergy Executive Session through the Minute Questions beginning by explaining who has voice and vote.

Rev. Estep moved for the voting bar of the clergy session to be Ballrooms D, E, F, and G at the Hampton Roads Convention Center.

The motion was approved.

Rev. Estep moved we admit to this session with voice and no vote: all diaconal ministers, the administrative staff in the Bishop’s Office, Terri Biggins; those on Minute Question 16; the Conference Chancellor, Heather Hays Lockerman; and American Sign Language Interpreters Ms. Katherine McMullen and Ms. Virginia Bryant. The motion was approved.

Rev. Estep led the members in the presentation of the Minute Questions. The entire printed booklet of Minute Questions, with additions and corrections distributed separately, was presented in an itemized manner. Bishop Haupt-Johnson asked the historic questions of those persons who were to be ordained. Candidates for commissioning, associate membership, recognition of orders and transfer into the conference from other denominations were presented and approved. Persons receiving their first appointment as local pastors in all categories and those who have completed the course of study were invited to the platform to be recognized by the members.

All Deacons who had received their degrees in a specialization were invited to stand and be recognized.

All full time and part time licensed local pastors were approved. Appropriate recognition was given to all persons being received into a new relationship with the Annual Conference at the current session. All retirees were asked to stand and be recognized.

All retirees were called forward. Bishop Hauptert-Johnson gave thanks for their ministry and prayed a blessing over the group for their retirement.

Rev. Denise Bates, Dean, Cabinet, was recognized and she stated,

Recognizing that ‘all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God’ (Romans 3:23), and that throughout the year, areas of concern have been identified and complaints or charges filed, we the appointive cabinet, do believe that the licensed, commissioned, and ordained clergy are earnestly striving after perfection and are blameless in their life and in their official administration.

All other Minute Questions requiring a vote were passed with the required majorities as written in the Clergy Session booklet, addendum, including corrections.

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson prayed for the clergy who have left the Annual Conference and for those who have joined this Annual Conference, in addition she prayed that the fruits of the Spirit fill the clergy during this time.

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson lifted and gave thanks for the clergy members who have joined the communion of saints this previous year. A moment of silence was observed, and Bishop Hauptert-Johnson prayed a prayer of thanksgiving for these saints and prayed for comfort for those who grieve these losses.

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson encouraged the clergy to remain connected to those who are on leave and lifted them in prayer.

Rev. Estep continued leading the body through the Minute Questions, voting upon those Minute Questions which required vote. All votes were approved. Further, elected the new Chairs of Orders for the following Quadrennium. Rev. David Edinger was elected to remain Chair, Fellowship of Associate Members and Licensed Local Pastors (2024-2028); Rev. Lisa McGehee was elected to serve as Chair, Order of Deacons (2024-2028); Rev. Jae Song was elected to serve as Chair, Order of Elders (2024-2028).

Minute Question 71.C was not voted on with the rest of the Minute Questions and was circled back to and was affirmed.

Rev. Estep recognized and thanked Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson for her leadership over the past year. She further asked the Cabinet to stand and to be recognized for sharing their gifts and so much of their time for the conference. She then asked the Board of Ordained Ministry and the District Committees on Ordained Ministry to stand and thanked the Board and Committees for their work over the past year.

Rev. Estep thanked the staff of the Center for Clergy Excellence: Rev. Jessie Colwell, Director, Rev. Crystal Sygeel, Associate Director of Call and Candidacy, and Rev. Lyn Harding, Administrative Coordinator.

Rev. Jessie Colwell then presented a commissioned stole to Rev. Crystal Sygeel who will be returning to the local church this year.

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson adjourned the Clergy Executive Session with a blessing at 10:17 AM.

WORSHIP

The Opening Worship Service began at 10:30 a.m. Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson called the 242nd Annual Conference into session and invited the oldest member, Rev. Jim Godwin, and the youngest member, Benton Crigger, to lead in prayer. The worship began with interpretive dancing to Genesis 28:10-22, the story of Jacob sleeping at the well and awaking to the overwhelming presence of God.

Bishop Sue shared about living in Florida when Hurricane Charley was about to hit. They were able to find shelter but described the eeriness of venturing out after the storm. They had no idea what they would find. She described feeling isolated and wondering if the rest of the world even knew about the devastation that just happened. Bishop Sue then shared that later she was able to see the operations system and know that people were very much aware of what was going on – she was very joyful to learn that “we are on a grid!”. She transitioned to recalling the story of Jacob.

Bishop Sue reminded us that God is on the grid. Jacob wakes up at the well and realizes that God is there with him. Heaven is breaking in all around us – we are not always aware of it! She challenged us to focus on our own spiritual disciplines. She often challenges people to just sit in silence. We are on the grid, every single human being and God is beside us. God calls us to share with everyone that we have been called to be a people of blessing and we are to let people know that they are not alone that we are all connected to each other. She challenged us to focus more on our spiritual disciplines and we will reflect the fruits of the spirit even more.

The Service ended with a time of Communion presided by Bishop Sue and Deacon Rev. Lyndsie Blakely and anointing. The conference offering was also taken.

TEACHING SESSION

Speakers of this session include:

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, resident Bishop of the Virginia Annual Conference

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz, VAUMC AC Teacher 2024, pastor of The Nett Church and District Superintendent of the Central East District in the North Georgia Conference

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page, VAUMC Director of Connectional Ministries for Innovation & Creativity

Rev. Woo Kang, VAUMC AC Teacher 2024, Associate Pastor of The Nett Church and the Lead Pastor of At The Table in the North Georgia Conference

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck, VAUMC AC Teacher 2024, pastor, professor, and author

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I am going to call this session to order because I want to make sure we're on schedule. I should have remembered this morning that when you add anointing to the service, it takes lots of time, but I think it's worth it and I hope you enjoyed it. I loved watching people be anointed. There's something that's very special about that moment and taking the time to do it.

This afternoon, I am very excited. This is an annual conference in three movements and I hope you will learn those movements by the time we're done. The first movement is the movement in the human heart from the beginning of turning to God through prevenient grace to perfection and love, and that's a lifetime journey, a long journey, but we're all on it together. That's the first movement.

The second movement is the Methodist movement that John and Charles Wesley began in the 1700s, a movement that saw that the church was too much the frozen chosen. The church was too privileged, the church was too blind to all of the ills around it, and so John Wesley cracked it open and said, "The world is my parish and I will go anywhere where people need to know Christ." The church must be open to all people, all races, all social levels, all educational levels, and we celebrate that as part of our Methodist heritage.

The third movement is the movement from inside your church to outside to the community, and that's what we celebrate. That's our Methodist heritage, that we are a vital force in our communities to introduce people to Christ and introduce change and changed lives on their behalf.

I have three great teachers for you. I'm so delighted. Two of the three I have worked closely with, and the third one I can't wait to hear, but today we'll first hear from Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz. Rodrigo was on my cabinet in north Georgia. He started the Nett Church, which is one of the truly multi-ethnic, multi-racial, multi-national churches I've ever seen. And it's like playing risk with Rodrigo. He just keeps taking churches. If there's a church around, he'll ask you for it because he'll open and he'll make it vibrant. He just has the gift of creating fantastic churches. And sadly now, he's going to be the assistant to the bishop, so we pulled him out of the church. But he will be directing all of North Georgia's movement across the annual conference to new vitality and new growth in his churches. So he will explore the first movement with us.

The second person is Dr. Michael Beck, who I've known even longer than Rodrigo. Michael and I served in Florida together and I saw him from his very beginnings in ministry. I got him through the DCOM. I think we could say that. Can't we say that? Yeah. I got him through the District Committee on Ministry. He has a life story you won't believe, and I'm sure he'll share some of that with you. But he also has started vibrant churches in Florida, churches that really, a lot of churches, we want our folks cleaned already when they come, and Rodrigo (Michael) will take anybody where they are, whatever status of life they find them in, and he will help them know Christ and move them toward perfection and love.

So Woo Kang is also a great leader in the fresh Expressions movement and I can't wait to hear from him, as well. Jonathan Page, our Director of Connectional Ministries for Innovation and something else, I can't even remember the title, but he's the King of Innovation, that's what I call him. But he saw these three teaching and said, "We need to share this with all of you." So it is my great joy to introduce to you Rodrigo Cruz, Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz as he comes to teach us today.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Thank you, Bishop. Bishop Sue told me I could do this in Spanish. Is that correct with you guys? Well, let us start with a prayer.

"Dios que las palabras de mi boca que la meditación de nuestros corazones sean gratas delante de ti. Que yo decrezca para que tú crezcas en esta mañana en el hombre Jesús a. (God, may the words of my mouth and the meditation of our hearts be acceptable in your sight. May I decrease so that you may increase this morning in the man Jesus. Amen)"

If it's okay with you, Bishop, I'll just move a little bit away from the stage. April 9th of 2007, the day that in the Methodist world, or in the church life we call Easter Monday, the Monday that follows Easter, and I remember that day because that was the Easter Monday after I preached, for the first time ever, the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

You see, I moved from Mexico with my wife and my six-month-old baby in the fall of 2006. We moved so I could go to seminary, but before I was able to do that, before I was able to go to licensing school, a United Methodist church in north Georgia that was trying to reach the Hispanic Latino community, they offered me a job. I have no qualification or theological training outside of being Mexican-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

He's a lawyer.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Which speaks to some of the systematic issues that we have, but that's a story for another day.

So I joined the staff in November. In December, we start gathering people, and on Easter we launch worship in that church. So Easter Sunday was my first time preaching. Some people claimed that was my best sermon, some people claimed that was my worst sermon, and it was probably truth in both cases.

26, maybe 27 hours later, I was at home on that Monday around three o'clock and my phone rings. As I pick up the phone on the other side of that phone, there was a lady screaming, crying in complete panic, trying to get me to her house. "Can you find a way to come to my home?" She said. I got in my car. I drove towards that apartment complex. I pull into the parking lot, which was already full, perhaps with 200, maybe 300 people right there. Parked my car. I found myself making a way through the body to the apartment where she was. The door was open, there were people in and out. Through the bodys, I make myself away to the room in the back where she was. And as I walk into that room full of people there she was on her knees with her hands on her head on her bed.

I approached her, I touched her shoulder, and before a word came out of my mouth, she looked at me as a preacher. "Did you believe what you preached yesterday?" I told you that was my first time preaching ever. And if there is something that I learned as a preacher is that by Monday, I have no idea what I say on Sunday.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Exactly. That's so true.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

I wasn't going to tell her that, so I just simply ask her, "Ma'am, are you okay?" And in her crying, in her desperation with a broken voice, she said, "You said yesterday that Jesus rose from the dead." I said, "Yes ma'am." "And then you said that those who believe in Jesus can experience the same." You see, it was in that moment where I learned that a couple of hours earlier, her twelve-year-old son was riding his bicycle in the parking lot of the apartment complex, and as the rain was coming down and he found or tried to found his way back to his apartment, he was struck by lightning and was killed instantly.

So she was on her knees, her hands went over the bed, and on top of that bed was the body of a twelve-year-old boy without breathing. And then she asked me the question that, to be honest, I was dreading she was going to ask and she said, "Pastor, can you pray for my son to come back to life?" There has nothing that I have experienced in life before that had me ready for that moment. That was before ordination, that was before seminary, that was before working in the church. And I tell you that after doing all those things, I'm still not sure if I'd be able to answer that question. But when she asked, "Can you pray for my son to come back to life to rise?" I said, "Yes, ma'am." And I prayed for that boy and I put every ounce of faith that I had in those words.

And I wish I can tell you here that after my words of that prayer, that boy opened his eyes that lung fill, that air fill his lung, that he wake up and he was able to hug his mom. But that was not the case. And three days later, I found myself officiating my first funeral ever. You see, during those three days between the moment of his passing and his funeral, my conversations with mom were full of questions. Probably the question that you anticipate and you expect. Why did God do this? You saying God, the one who controls the weather and the lightning and the storms. And as I was trying to explain her in a raw way that I didn't think was God who did it, then her question shifted to, "Well, if God didn't do it, why did God allow this to take place?" And as I was one more time trying to explain her why I didn't think it was that simple, then she raised the question that was eating her alive the most. "What happen to my son now?"

She went to told me that she grew up in Guatemala and she went to church for several years, but when she was seven years old, she stopped attending church. She had been in the United States for 20 years and she had never been in church before, but once, 24 hours ago. And that son was 12 years old, he had never been in church but once, 24 hours before. And she went and said, "I don't think me or my son believe in God. I don't think we fully understand Jesus and everything that you said. So what happen to my son? Where is my child right now?"

You see, without the seminary training, without writing questions for the Board of Ordained Ministry, somehow in that moment, I found myself having to explain to her what eventually I learned, it was called prevenient grace. Telling this mom that God's love for your child goes beyond the fact that he may have acknowledged that or not. The fact that he was able to understand that or not, or the fact that he was able to believe it or not, that God's love was there, that he didn't have to go to church to experience God's love, that he didn't have to go to Sunday school class to experience God's grace, that he didn't have to read the Bible in Hebrew or Greek or English to experience God's grace. That's what God's love is.

And it was also in that moment that I started wrestling with what the role of the church is when it comes down to prevenient grace, because it was in that moment that I acknowledged that, as a church, we have two roles; either we can be an instrument for them to acknowledge that God's love is there, or might as well we just get out of the way.

I told you, I was born and raised in Monterrey, Mexico, and one of the things that I appreciate about Mexico was every time that short-term mission teams will come to Monterrey, and I'm thankful for them, they brought my wife to me, and I'm sure she's thankful for that. But every once in a while, there will be that mission team that will claim that they were there to bring us Jesus.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Who claim that they were there to bring us Jesus. And I remember, as a child and as a teenager, hearing those words and thinking, so does that mean that God wasn't here before? So if I don't do the Vacation Bible School song that you want me to do, if I don't play with that sacky ball that you want me to play, if I don't drink the Kool-Aid that you're making or eat the peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, which I still don't eat, does that mean that God is not there? The role of the church when it comes down to God's grace, to the movement of the Holy Spirit with God's prevenient grace, is to allow God to use us, to work in us or through us. And God will work despite of us, and might as well we get out of the way.

But the beauty of our understanding of grace as Wesleyans is not that God's love is just limited to that prevenient moment, but it actually moves us to that moment when we could recognize that we need Jesus Christ in our lives, that we are sinners, that we are separated from God. John Wesley uses the word like justifying grace, that moment when you acknowledge your sins. And there's a role for the church in that type of grace as well.

You see, this past Easter, I preached my 18th year of preaching Easter sermons. And this is the first time that I actually preached this story a little bit different. I just simply did not tell the story of what happened with Jesus on the cross and on the tomb and how that impacts everyone. I actually told that story from Judas' and Peter's perspective. And you know that story, Judas was the one that betrayed Jesus. Peter was the one that denied Jesus. And you remember the story of Judas, right? He goes to the religious leaders, they gave him some money. He goes and betrays Jesus.

But if you read right between that and Easter Sunday, there is those moments where you get a glimpse that Judas regrets what took place when Jesus found himself with the weight perhaps of sin in his life. And where did he go? He went back to church. He went back to these religious leaders, with the weight in his heart of what I did was wrong. And what did he find in there? Judgment. They threw the coins back to the floor and they said, "That's your problem what you're dealing with. That's not our problem." You see, on the other hand, Peter, who denied Jesus one, two, and three times. He found himself also with the weight of what he did. And in that case, where did he go? He went straight to the empty tomb when he met Jesus, and he went and changed the course of history. You see, the role of the church matters when people are looking for Jesus. It's not that complicated when it comes down in pointing people to Christ. It's about creating this credible witness of God's love.

Me and my wife, we have five kids. I think there may be a picture here on the screen. The younger two, which is the blonde one that is feral, fighting my wife, and Benjamin who is adopted from China. So the younger two are adopted. And adoption is part of their story and they know that. And we tell them that. In January, Ben, who is nine, came home one day and he was visibly upset about something that happened at school. We were having dinner at the table. And after several attempts to try to get out of him whatever it was that was bothering him, I said, "Ben, what's wrong?" And then he finally broke crying. He said, "Do you know my friend Johnny from school?" I said, "Yeah, I know Johnny." "Well, he said that you guys are not my real family, that you guys are my fake family, that my real family is in China."

So in that moment, all I'm thinking is, how do I get to school and have a one-on-One meeting with Johnny? I know there are rules and laws about that, but how do I have a meeting with Johnny? So I told Ben, "Ben, I'm going to go and have lunch with you tomorrow." And I told the older three, his three older siblings, I said, "Guys, you're not going to school tomorrow. You're coming with me." And I was telling Gabe, who is the 12-year-old, who is the closest in age. I said, "We're going to go and meet with Ben and you better look for Johnny."

And before I finished the statement, I have my wife looking at me saying, "Dude, remember you're a pastor and I'm a teacher? Watch out what you said." And before I finished my sentence, Ben who was sitting in a bench that we have, he pulled off the bench and said, "Dad, you don't understand." He stood up and started telling me this, "I told Johnny that there is no way that you guys are not my real family." And then he goes, "Because I was telling Johnny that if I'm all the way here in China, and that you guys are all the way here in America, that somebody that doesn't love me for real will not go all the way over there to come and get me." Still gives me goosebumps.

That's the role of the church. That somebody, as they're going through whatever it is that they're going through, that they can acknowledge that they're over here loving God, that sent not only his son, Jesus Christ, but the church to create a credible love for them. That there is no way that the love of God is nothing but real because of the way that church loves me. That's the role of the church when it comes down to justifying grace.

But one more time, one of the things that I love about our Wesleyan theology is that we believe grace not only moves right in the convenient ways and in a justifying way, but it actually moves us towards perfection. John Wesley used this term of sanctifying grace. In a way that moves us for us to be able to respond to God's love back by loving him and loving others, by moving into personal and social holiness. And my friends, that grace in the church, it gets lived out not on Sunday mornings. It gets lived out from Monday to Saturday. I mean, on Sunday mornings it's easy. We as pastors, we tell you where to stand, when to sit, what to read, what to pray, what to sing. We make it really easy for you. Living your faith on Sunday morning, that ain't hard. Living your faith from Monday to Saturday, that's when it becomes real. Showing your true identity, how you walk the talk, that's when things matter.

My oldest son, he just finished high school. Gosh, thank you Jesus for that. He's a good kid, and we're grateful for who he is. But he was this close not to finish high school. There was one particular class that he struggled the most. And no, it wasn't physics. No, it wasn't biology. No, it wasn't math, common core, or old math, or whatever math you want to say. It was Spanish. And I'm like, "Dude, are you kidding me? I can't help you with biology. I can't pronounce half the stuff that they teach you in school. Can't help you with math. They're teaching new ways of doing math that make no sense. But I can't help you with that. But Spanish?"

All year long, he was between 60 and 65. And we're just praying for that boy to finish high school. So we sent him to school on his last day of school. And then he comes back that day, said, "Dad, I passed the test." He put his hand up for a high five. He says, "I got a hundred in my test." My first reaction was, "Boy, you cheated." There's no way you are failing the whole year. And all of a sudden you got a hundred in a test. I said, "Boy, you cheated on that test." He said, "No, dad, I didn't. I promise you." He goes and said, "At the end of the day, my Mexican just kicked in." And I'm like, "Dude, I'm Mexican, and I don't even know how that works." But he was right about something. At the end of the day, who you are shows in life. Integrity comes into place. Moving into perfection shows who we are as a church.

Let me finish with this. April 18th of 2008, there was 53 Mondays later. For 53 straight weeks, I went to this mom's house and met with her. Sometimes we pray, sometimes we read the Bible, sometimes we just cry, sometimes we laugh. Sometimes we just sat in silence. And as, that week, I was getting up to go home and I said, "I will see you next week." She grabbed my arm, and said, "Pastor, I don't need you to come back." I said, "Ma'am, it is my privilege to be here with you." She said, "No, you don't understand. Remember I asked you where my son was? I know where my son is. He's risen in glory with Jesus Christ. I don't need you to come back. But what I need from you," she said, "is that you go and find somebody else that doesn't know that. And you tell them that."

I have those words in my mind and in my heart, as loud as I had the bishop's hands in my shoulders saying, "Take thou authority," when I was ordained. Being in the church is not that complicated. Being part of what the Holy Spirit is doing, moving through grace, it's not that hard. Most of the times, all's required from us is just to show up. Sometimes to shut up and to let God show off. That's the role of the church in this movement of grace.

Let me pray. God, we just give you thanks for the way You invite us to be part of this movement of grace in this world. God, for us individually, as we recognize what you're doing in our lives, as we recognize your love for us, before we can respond to it, God we give you thanks for the fact that you enable us to acknowledge our sinful nature. But God, we also give you thanks for the possibility to be part of your redeeming plan for this world. God, I pray for the Virginia Annual Conference that you'll continue to let them be used by you and by your Holy Spirit as you reach every single human being that exists within the boundaries or the state of Virginia and beyond. We pray that in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Congregation:

Amen.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Friends, would you join me in offering Rodrigo a word of gratitude for his wise words?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Thank you, man.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Rodrigo, I think we're all blessed by the words you've just shared with us. And the prevailing word that comes to my mind is the word grace. And so much of what you had to share is really about the fluid movement of grace, and that it's not something that's just stagnant or where you've kind of accomplished this one thing and move to the next thing. That there's this constant motion.

And so what I wonder for all of us who are here, is if you might take a moment to just reach out to a neighbor. It doesn't matter if you've known that person for a decade or a decimal of a second, I want you to just take a moment to talk to your neighbor about how have you experienced the fluidity of grace? In other words, how have you maybe experienced God's grace in your life in a way that maybe it's moved from one understanding to another? So we're going to take about two minutes. This isn't going to be a long time. One minute for one partner, one minute for the other, and just talk about how have you seen God's grace at work in your life? Let's take a moment to do that together.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

I hope that was [inaudible 00:48:21]. And I think we sometimes look at grace like, okay, I achieve one level. I go to the next one. [inaudible 00:48:45].

Rev. Jonathan Page:

All right. So take just about 20 seconds to finish up those last conversations, if you would. And then we're going to come back together so that we can have a couple of questions for Rodrigo and bring the rest of our panel up. All right, so as you're wrapping up, I'll tell you one thing that we talked about that I thought was funny, was that sometimes we can treat grace like a video game, where you have to beat a boss to get to the next level. And then you just kind of progress forward. And that so often the way that grace really works is that there's this fluid motion and there's this beautiful fluidity that's present.

Rodrigo, when you were speaking to us, one of the things that you talked about is the idea of the role of the church being to sometimes show up and sometimes shut up, and that we are called to create a credible witness of God's love. I wonder, just as folks here are representing a lot of different churches from a lot of different contexts, if somebody hears that and says, "Hey, what does it mean to establish that credibility of witness of God's love?" Do you have thoughts about how folks could go about that?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah, I will start by saying, as a church, I believe we don't have the spiritual authority to tell people what to do with their lives if we cannot even call them by name. But if we don't even have a relationship with them, if we don't even try to find a way, what their journey of life is, I believe perhaps the 90% role of the church when it comes down to meeting people where they are, is just to go and hear people's stories. It is just to go and find out what their journey of life has been. It is actually doing more of the listening than the talking. And often, it isn't in them telling their own story. In us listening that God gives us what we need to say, versus we just running in to tell them what we want to say.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Well, and within that, there's probably a little bit of an importance that we're listening and not hearing, right? Because if all we're doing is hearing, it might be just that we're waiting for our chance to speak.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Absolutely.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

And so I wonder, have you seen examples, whether it's at The Nett or in other places in your ministry existence, of what the transformative power of that true listening and that true embodied presence can be with persons in your community?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah. One of the things that we do at The Nettis we are a multiethnic church. We believe in the biblical mandate to reflect here on earth the diversity that we believe exists in heaven. And we believe it's not optional. And we tell people in the church, "We're just trying to give you a glimpse of heaven so when you show up there you know what to do, and not be surprised at anybody that looks like you." And we point people, school systems, sports associations, recreational parks, the business world, they're doing life with one another. It is just in the church where we choose literally not to do life with people that don't look like us so we can be surrounded by people that look like us.

And I know there's fear, and I know there's so many biases that we may have and prejudices that we may have, but what breaks most of those things is just the ability to hear somebody's story. And it's just the ability to go from putting somebody in a giant demographic number, like, oh, you are just one of the million Hispanics that are here. Or Actually, "Your name is Rodrigo. Can you tell me your story?" And I'll tell you how hard it is as an immigrant to be in this country. And I'll tell you some of my story. And I'm not telling you to agree with my story or not, but I do believe, in the telling of stories, that's where we let God move.

Now, you may be in a place that is racially diverse around you. You may be in a place that is maybe more homogeneous, but socioeconomically is different or politically is different, or there's a reason why people don't come to church. So what it would look like for them to see you meeting them where they are, instead of you keep trying to tell them to come where you are so they can hear you? I love preaching and I love people coming to hear me speak. But I'm thankful that I only get to do it one day of the week, and I have six days that I just get to go and hear people's stories. Somehow we put a lot of energy into this one day that is, come and listen to us. What it would look like if we put all of our energy into the other six days of the week to go and listen to people's stories?

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Sounds a little bit like church to me. Amen. Rodrigo, one of the things that grace does, you talk about this sort of work of the Holy Spirit and the human heart is, for it to happen, well, oftentimes it means that we have to surrender control. I appreciated Bishop Sue calling me the king of innovation. I'd actually say, my wife and others would probably tell you I'm the king of being a control freak. So this question's for me, and probably nobody else in the room. I don't think anybody else here is probably a controller. Do you have any practical tips for how people can surrender control over outcomes in their faith journeys to the movement of the spirit?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Man, that's a great question. And I agree with you. I'm a big believer that you can either have surrender or you can have control. You can't have both. In my former life I was a criminal attorney. So I was trained and raised to walk into every situation having a plan A, B, C, D, and E, and an F in the back of my pocket. And I still do that in my life, in my faith journey. And I found myself often turning something to God in prayer, say, "God, I'm going to put this in your lap." And two minutes later was like, "Dude, you don't know what you're doing. I'm going to take it back and I'm going to go and do it myself."

And I found myself doing that so often. So one day I was just getting tired of that wrestling because it was exhausting. I grabbed one of the pillows in my bed. I took the pillow out so I have the cover of the pillow. And I got a Sharpie, and I wrote on that pillow and I put, "God or Rodrigo?" And I put it underneath my bed with my journal. And every time that I have something heavy in my heart, I will write it in my journal. And when I'm going to give it to God, I will put it in the pillowcase and put it underneath my bed.

Now what that does is I'm not just able to grab it. I have five kids, so there's Cheetos and Cheez-its and all kind of random stuff. I literally have to go and get on my knees, sneak my arms under my bed to drag that pillowcase and physically take it away from God. And I'll tell you that nine out of ten times, when I'm doing that process, I just put it back. And for me, I need that physical reminder to, "Okay, God, you have it. I'm going to give it to you, and I'm going to wait."

Rev. Jonathan Page:

That's beautiful. I think that's so, so beautiful. Well, hey, I'm going to ask you a question, but I'm also wanting to invite Michael and Woo to come up. I'm going to ask them this question too, and they're going to be teaching us later in our annual conference session. So Rodrigo, I'm curious, one of the things, so when we get to that point in the listening space with folks who may be in our community or outside our church and we want to talk theologically with them. Let's say we've done the work of listening. We want to be able to talk about something like grace. How do you see the ability to tackle those deeper theological conversations in non-intimidating or non-threatening ways? And then we'll point to you all to answer the same question.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah, I'll start with this. I like to use words that I can pronounce. So that eliminates a lot of heavy theological words out of my dictionary. But I really see theological understanding of God, the way I draw closer to God. And I relate that a lot in the way I draw closer to my kids. It doesn't matter what I read in a book to be a good father. It doesn't matter how many DVDs, well, nobody watches DVDs anymore, but how many things I stream to be a good father? It doesn't matter how many professionals I see on TV telling you this is how you do it. It is really until you do it.

And the way I do it is I have to be intentional to care about the things that they care. Because when I care about the things that they care, all of a sudden I draw closer with them. One of them cares about football. Makes no sense to me, but they care about football. So I have to care about football when I relate to him. Another one cares about lacrosse. Well, I have to care about lacrosse if I want to relate to him. One other one cares about softball. So I have to show an interest into softball if I want to draw closer to my kid. The same thing with God. I mean, if you start showing an interest in the things that God cares the most, and what is that? It's God's creation. If you start caring for the things that God cares the most, and that's people, those are the margins, that's those that are the least, the last, the lost. You'll draw closer to God by having that than by any book that you can read, in my humble opinion.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Absolutely. I think that's helpful. Michael, Woo, any thoughts about how do you be non-intimidating in community presence?

Rev. Woo Kang:

So you guys will learn more tomorrow. But my context as in The Nett, but also leading one of our campus is called At the Table, which is specifically trying to serve young people, twenties, thirties, or young at heart that have been hurt by the church, don't want anything to do with the church. And we find ourselves in a lot of these conversations. And something that I have found helpful is, do not go into these conversations with answers, but be able to go into these conversations with the heart of, I'm here to walk with you.

And the biggest thing that I found was being able to say, "I don't know". And I think as pastors, we want to be controlling and we have to have all the answers. But if they ask me something that I'm still wrestling with, and I'll humbly say, "I'm still wrestling with a lot." I can say, "You know what? I don't know. But how about we go with this together?" And that has been the biggest advice that I can give myself if, Woo, it's okay. You have to do your work, but it is okay to say, I don't know. Because the moment I say, I don't know, it's not showing that I am weak. Instead, it's showing that I'm being vulnerable with you, and that allows you to be vulnerable with me.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck:

As Rodrigo was sharing, I was thinking about, historically, Methodist, these waves of grace, they happen in community. So there were these social constructs, societies, classes, and bands where people were working through grace together. And the inclusive nature of the society, the only requirement for membership was a desire to flee their wrath to come. Probably not helpful language in the 21st century, that we want to scare the hell out of people into church. But that was inclusive language in the 1700s, right? The only requirement is some desire to move towards God.

So let me, to get in a practical space. So we're sitting around in a tattoo parlor. We have a thing called Tattoo Talk. We go around the circle, and everybody shares the story behind their tattoo. So sometimes that's, "I got this hummingbird on my arm from when my mother passed away because I saw a hummingbird that morning." Sometimes it's, "I got this rainbow Jesus fish tattooed over the scars on my wrist to remind me that there's hope from darker seasons of my life, to remind me I'm made in the image of God." Sometimes it's, "I got my child who died of overdose, their handwriting on my forearm, the last note that they wrote to me." And sometimes that's, "I got this poop emoji on my butt cheek when I was drunk at spring break." But there's some spirituality there too, right? There's a conversation there. But people are opening themselves, and the spirit is moving through that conversation-

Rev.... opening themselves and the spirit is moving through that conversation. Then it's not the responsibility of my team to now suddenly do a Romans road prayer or that, it's to follow that spirituality that's opening itself in that room, following that conversation. Then I, as a follower of Jesus, I'm throwing in things like, "Hey, when I went through this in my life, prayer and meditation was really, it's one of my spiritual practices that helps." I'm just throwing that into the conversation as a community of equals. It's like Woo said, we're not trying to answer questions that nobody's asking.

I feel like we've totally failed in our Evangelism kind of models, because we like to answer questions that people aren't asking. Nobody that I know, my generation, younger, is asking the question, how do I not go to hell when I die? When's the last time a young person walked up into you and said, "How do I not go to hell when I die?" But that seems to be like the answer to every question that we have as the church. But what people are really asking is, "How do I not be alone? How do I have meaning and depth and community? How do I have a spirituality that works?" So in dialogical kind of creating community and creating conversation, we just follow the traces of the spirit through those conversations.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I think that's really wise. One thing that emerges as we're talking about this is the concept that so much of what grace does, is it creates the space for invitation. When you think about especially being in community with folks who maybe aren't a part of an existing church or existing faith community or movement, what does that word invitation mean and how do you do that in a way that's not... I think of, I grew up in Virginia Beach and I can remember going on the boardwalk and there'd be guys with megaphones with the, "Yeah, you're going to hell," repent, all that sort of thing. That doesn't seem like the maybe most effective modality of evangelism or invitation. What are some practical ways to engage that sort of invitational mindset when you have that entry point that's crafted by listening and all of that sort of space with folks in your community?

Rev. Woo Kang:

Breaking bread is really important. Being able to have a space where you can eat together. I joke about this, but if you like someone, you'll grab coffee with them. If they're all right, you'll grab them lunch. If you love them, you're going to have dinner with them. I think having that sense of invitation is inviting people into your home, literally. Creating spaces where you can eat together and spend time together and serve one another.

Just a quick story is at the table, we had a young lady, early thirties who was really burnt and hurt by the church going to a homogenous church. She came to us, she was very committed, and one day she comes in and we're having service and she starts crying and just bawling for no... It wasn't like that time that you should be crying, but she was just crying. Nothing profound was said. I was like, "Hey, why are you crying?" She said, "This is the first time in my life that I was able to come to church with no makeup on and my glasses and with just a T-shirt because I felt safe enough to just be the way that I am." I was like, "Man, we have failed as a church if that is something that moves someone so much that we have made it that you have to be suit and tied up, that you have to look perfect and be perfect and act perfect and everything needs to be perfect for you to come to church."

And for us was just creating a space where you can be broken and it is okay because the prevenient grace and God's love will meet you where you are. How do we do that? It's for me to be broken too. I said it earlier, but I am okay with coming up to the pulpit to the stage and letting you know what I'm dealing with. They said, "You know what? That's why I'm allowed to be the way that I am, because you have taught me." I'm not saying I'm perfect, but that's something I've learned. Woo, it's okay to be broken. It's okay, and I learned this from you, to drop a couple cuss words in your sermon and just be the way that you are and just to show that you can be the way that you are.

Rev., Dr. Michael Beck:

Yeah. I was going to jump in, because I wonder if the whole concept of invitation and being invitational is one of those listening to respond versus listening to understand posture shifts we need to make. That it shouldn't be that we are waiting to give the invitation, it should be that we're watching for the invitations when people invite us deeper into their life, switching that where it's always been about come to us. We do hospitality classes and that's great, but I don't find it in Jesus' teaching where he was doing hospitality teaching. I think he was teaching his disciples to be good guests. At no point did he say, "Hey, I want you... Here's how you do it, form a hospitality committee." No offense to the hospitality committees. But he said, "Go out, trust me, travel light. Find the person at peace." Luke 10. "When they give you the invitation, let your peace rest on them. Do life together. Proclaim the kingdom. Heal." Looking for those little invitations when we're in relationship inviting us into deeper levels of relationship.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Rodrigo, anything you want to add?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah, I will add. Jesus said, "The way people will know you're my disciples..." Is what?

Body:

Love.

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

That's it. Everything else, it doesn't matter. We can overcomplicate it as much as we want to. If we find a way to love people the same way that Jesus did. People will experience what we want them to experience. For us, that's the only thing that [inaudible 01:10:35] that is not negotiable. Everything else, as long as it's not illegal or immoral, we're going to give it a try. We're not committed to a way of doing church because there's no way to doing church. We're just committed to finding a way that people can experience God's love. So in whatever context you may have, either whether it is you by yourself or there's two of you or there's a hundred of you, what it would look like to love the people in your community.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Love it. Michael and Wooas you were listening to Rodrigo, I wonder was there anything that he said that you would say, "Hey, folks out there, make sure you paid attention to this." Or anything that maybe made you take a beat and say, "Wow, I have maybe another question about this." Anything like that for you?

Rev., Dr. Michael Beck:

It came more emerging out of year two conversations around this idea of control verse releasing and submitting, surrendering to God. I think that's such a valuable thing that y'all brought out. There's some really interesting sociological studies on entrepreneurs. Saras Sarasvathy is a researcher who does work on entrepreneurs in the different kind of logic system that an entrepreneur brings. There's like a causal logic system, which is, I have a goal, three steps, fulfill the goal. We are going to have a long-range vision committee plan, and we're going to carry this out. Benchmarks. Entrepreneurs don't think like that. They employ effectual reasoning. They cobble together and they iterate, they take relationships and things as they emerge, so they're a lot more comfortable just kind of following where things go and creating something new out of that.

But we've essentially exiled that kind of thinking from the inherited church. All of our seminary training, all of that is causal logic to the extreme, and so control, making yourself indispensable in the congregational system if you're a clergy person, all those things. That kind of is at war sometimes with this effectual, just follow the spirit where it goes and be okay with wherever that ends up and then adapt and respond as it emerges. I wonder if there's a way that we can... I think that's what Methodism did historically within the Anglican system, it created a way for that, the apostolic incarnational impulse kind of live together. I wonder if we can do that again right now in this moment as a denomination.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

That's cool. That's really cool.

Rev. Woo Kang:

That's good. I think for me it's a privilege serving with you. I hear this all the time, so it's good. It is all great stuff and that's what we try to do. But one of the things that always sticks out is knowing when to let God show up and for us to shut up. For me, I'm reminded of the story of the Daughters of Zelophehad in Numbers. Sometimes we think as pastors and leaders, if we're like Moses, we should have all the answers. We should know what to do. But God spoke through these five daughters and Moses had to really just shut up and let them speak and God spoke through them and made crazy changes.

My encouragement for you, as well as for me, is that especially as leaders, we got to let our people speak sometimes, because God speaks through people and we need to be able to listen to people. We do that through what you said is relationship. And through the relationships we have, we don't just form bonds and see people in a better way, we see more of who God is through different people. That's my encouragement for us.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Amen. That's beautiful. Rodrigo, you shared some great stuff with us. We want to give you the closing word. Any kind of closing thought you'd want to leave us with?

Rev. Dr. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah. I start relating getting closer to God in your theological understanding as parenting. Let me say this. I did not become a father because I like to change diapers. Dealing with crap, pardon me Bishop, for the word, that just comes with the territory. It's part of the byproduct of enjoying so many great moments that the life of a little kid can provide to you. That's the same thing with the church. We're going to deal with crap, but we did not join the church because of that. Don't let the brokenness of the church steal the moments and steal the joy of the beauty of the church.

We just have gone to this pandemic that exposed our mortality as people, and we just went through this disaffiliation that exposed our mortality as a denomination. We are on the other side of that, and we have the opportunity to transform people's lives in the name of Jesus Christ. Is it going to be perfect? It ain't going to be perfect, but it doesn't have to be perfect. We're striving towards perfection, we serve a perfect Savior, and we have the opportunity to give it our best shot. So go and draw closer to God by drawing closer to people and just give it your best expression of that church.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

And let all God's people say, amen.

Body:

Amen.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Would you join me in thanking our panel.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you all. What a great word. All you control freaks. It's a good word for all of us. Why don't we take a five minute, 10 minute... Let's take a 10-minute stretch break. If you really have major biological issues, go take care of that, but it'd be helpful just to stretch. We'll take 10 minutes and we'll reconvene at 03:15.

BUSINESS SESSION

Major Speakers of this session include:

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, resident Bishop of the Virginia Annual Conference

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates, Mission Rivers District Superintendent

Martha Stokes, Conference Lay Leader

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, I am going to call us to order. I would like to invite the Rev. Tim Ward from the Northern Virginia District to come and give us our opening prayer for this business session.

Rev. Tim Ward:

Let us pray. God of grace, God of movement. We thank you for the gift of this space today. God, we thank you for all of these incredible people who represent a piece of your church. God, I pray for this day that we wouldn't get in the way. God, that as we do this work, we would show grace and love to one another. God, I pray for Bishop Sue as she leads us for Martha, and her leadership and for all who come to this platform, God. Might we walk away from this session this afternoon saying we have loved one another more and we have moved more towards who you are calling us to be as a church. Come Holy Spirit, do what you do. In Jesus' name, amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you Tim. Appreciate it. Now we will have our district welcome and organizing motions. I invite the Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates to come. He is our host, district superintendent. Charles.

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates:

Thank you. Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, sisters and brothers in Christ. On behalf of the board of directors, the trustees, lady and clergy of the Mission Rivers District, we welcome you to the great independent city of Hampton, Virginia.

Hampton is a place where hospitality is the core of what we do here. It is no doubt, we have no doubt that if you have not already enjoyed and or experienced the hospitality, wait, see and experience a little more and tell us about what you think a few days from today. I would like to recognize district and co-district lay leaders, Ms. Judy Cron. She's right there on the floor. Judy, thank you for all of what you do for us in the district.

Ms. Nancy Yarborough, she's somewhere here perhaps at the table outside. Nancy is actually celebrating her birthday today, and she did not think it [inaudible 01:31:43], but to come and help us with all of the work that we're doing, and so we're grateful to Nancy as she celebrates her birthday and as she helps with all of what we're trying to accomplish.

I would like to recognize our retired bishops and their spouses. Bishop Ray Chamberlain and his wife Martha and Bishop Hasbrouck Hughes and his wife Mira, who is unable to be here with us today. Also, a son of Virginia Bishop Tom Berlin and his wife Karen of the Florida Conference of The United Methodist Church. I'd also like to recognize our Episcopal spouse, the most Rev. Allen Johnson. He is somewhere here. There he is. We thank you.

So now Bishop, I would like to turn my attention to our organizing motions. I move that the bar of the conference be established as consisting of the platform and the floor, be it further resolved that the technical and camera platforms be part of the ball.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Do I hear a second on that?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I'm hearing a second. I invite you, if you would recognize the bar of the conference as described, please lift your hand. And it is so established. Thank you, Charles.

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates:

Bishop, I also move that the agenda be approved as printed on pages four and five of the digital book of reports.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, is there a second?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If you had approve the agenda, would you lift your hand as well? And that is approved. Thank you.

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates:

I further move that the election of Rev. Claire Miller to be the Virginia Annual Conference Secretary for the 2024-2028 quadrennium, effective July 1st, 2024.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If you would approve Rev. Claire Miller to be our new secretary, would you lift your hand?

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates:

Okay, Bishop, that is the end of the motion, but I will request for a moment of special privilege. The Deputy speaker of the House of Representatives of the Philippines Gloria Arroyo said, and I quote, "The power of one, if fearless and focused, is formidable, but the power of many working together is better." These words serve as great reminder of the importance of teamwork. Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, I will be remiss if I did not thank you for your commitment and dedication to the team that you have formed and the teams that you continue to form throughout the Virginia Annual Conference to ensure stability in our work of mission and ministry, including everybody.

Today, we celebrate the collective accomplishments of the Virginia Annual Conference as a team. For those persons who recall, most of the time when we come to annual conference, we just see the place all set up, and we do not know how it all began. But from scratch, there were teams formulating plans and doing things to ensure what you now see today. That is the vision and wisdom of our Bishop, to ensure that everybody is involved, to ensure that we have interest in, and that we have agency for the things that we do as a conference. So Bishop, your hard work is a manifestation of what we are experiencing here in Hampton this week. Your leadership is inspiring, and as we celebrate-

God's goodness, we also recognize your leadership and your inclusiveness. While I do not speak for the cabinet, I can say that we have embraced the concept of a team. You have incorporated us in major discussions and decision-making as a conference. You have embraced our diversity and value our opinions. You came to us at an unusual time in the history of our denomination in January, and you have been here just about a year and a half. And already we have seen and we have felt the shift and the things that you are aspiring to accomplish. Together we have persevered. Our outgoing Dean, Dean Bates, has been amazingly wonderful. She brought us together at a very crucial point during our time together. We say farewell to Dean Bates and our colleague, Dr. Brooks. You all have been wonderful colleagues and we celebrate you in your next steps.

There are two famous African Proverbs that I would like to quote that form the core of why I'm saying and what I'm saying today. The first is, and I quote, "A person is a person because of other people. A person is a person because of other people." The second is, "If you want to go fast, go alone. But if you want to go far, go together." Bishop, you have brought us together and we are on the journey together.

Amidst the spiritual confusion of BSA, Covid, disaffiliation, and division, this cabinet and this conference have chosen to remain together. This reminds me of the famous family rally cry that we have embraced, my family. When we had nothing, we had each other. The cabinet had each other and we still do. And so, Bishop, General Conference, the long-awaited General Conference is behind us. This disaffiliation is behind us.

But we have other pressure points in the Virginia Annual Conference. Yesterday's presentation on Juneteenth should be a reminder of some of the things that we have to do together. Our clergy, our laity are grieving, believing of our colleagues. We must pay attention to that particular pressure point, because some are traumatized by the deception and others are grieving the longstanding collegiality with those brothers and sisters who have left us. With this team that has been established, that you have built Bishop and you continue to build, we have no doubt that the Virginia Annual Conference will take its rightful place in our connection.

Matthew 18:18 and I will close, "What we bind on earth will be bound in heaven. And what we loose on earth will be loose in heaven." That is a rally cry also that my family used, and it was personified even in our culture in Liberia. And we will cry out, "If you believe and I believe and we together pray, the Holy Spirit will come down..." and then we fill in the blank with whatever we were talking about.

And so, the Virginia Annual Conference, I say to you, if you believe and I believe and we together pray, the Virginia Annual Conference will persevere. If you believe and I believe and we together pray, we all will return to civility. If you believe and I believe and we together pray, we will embrace diversity and not just speak it. If you believe and I believe and we together pray, we'll free ourselves for mission and ministry throughout the conference. If you believe and I believe and we together pray, we believe that unity will prevail. We will put an end to the vision and live out the mission and ministry of the United Methodist Church, only if you believe and I believe. Because a person is only a person because of others. And if we want to go far, we can choose to go fast if we want to go alone. But if we want to go far, let us choose to go together. Thank you, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Charles. I appreciate it.

Well, sometimes you're always disturbed when some tenure comes to an end, and Joshua King, you have been a tremendous secretary. And when we were setting up here, I said, "I need Joshua next to me because he can keep track of motions and procedure as well as anybody." So I have valued him; always a positive force, always a spiritual presence, always willing to help, and always available. And I thank you for that, Joshua. And all of us need to show us our appreciation for this quadrennium's work. I'm going to turn it over to Joshua now to introduce his successor who you've elected, Rev. Claire Miller, and to have a couple of other elections that we need to have. Joshua.

Rev. Joshua King:

Bishop, thank you. And Virginia Conference, thank you all for putting your faith in me to be able to lead these last four years with you all. It has been a joy. And I know that I've been working with Claire over the last couple of weeks, the last couple of months, last couple of years, and preparing her for this. And I know that she is ready and prepared and is going to do a wonderful job. With that being said, I move that for this Annual Conference session, not next, but for this session, Rev. Claire Miller and Mrs. Katie Mueller be Assistant Secretaries and Mrs. Madeline White to be the Editor of the Journal.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

There's a second. Okay. If you would approve these elections, please lift your hand. They are approved. Thank you.

Rev. Joshua King:

I also have the following announcements to make. I want to let you all know that Room 202 here in the Hampton Convention Center has been designated as a prayer room throughout the annual conference. I would also like to recognize that Room 201 has been designated as a chapel where the Eucharist will be celebrated on Friday and Saturday mornings at 7:30 AM. Also, I would like to mention that of any amendments to the agenda must be submitted before the end of the session today, Thursday, June 20th.

Also, I would like to ask that if you all have your hotspots turned on on your cell phones to please turn those off, as they have the potential to interfere with the building systems. And so, we invite you to please do that if you could.

Finally, I would like to mention that if you are making a motion, there are motion forms up here on this stage. We also are collecting motions digitally, and so at each microphone there is a QR code that you can go to and follow. And that QR code will take you to the website vaumc.org/ac2024, where there is a link to be able to fill out your digital form for a motion, an amendment, or a point of order. Those actually, I'm going to encourage you to use those because it will help us to be able to get those quicker up on the screen if possible.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. King. The devil is in the details, they say. I need to have a vote on the agenda as it appears in the official packet. So to clarify that, if you would approve the agenda as it appears in the official packet, would you lift your hand? Okay. Now we can all sleep better tonight.

Well, I've been looking forward to this so much. I look forward, I know you do too, anytime we can hear our lay leader Martha Stokes. And now we call upon Martha to give her laity address. Martha.

Martha Stokes:

Bishop Sue and Annual Conference, at the spring meeting of our Board of Laity, one of our associate district lay leaders powerfully reminded us that we must see ourselves as equipped by the Holy Spirit to transform individual lives, our local churches, our communities, and our world. We did that in a powerful way this morning during the laity session, recognizing the movement of the Holy Spirit and those responding to God's call to serve as lay supply, certified lay ministers and deaconess and home missionaries.

We were led in a time of centering during the laity session by our first cohort of our own Virginia Conference Certified Lay Ministry Program. The first CLM cohort designed and planned that opening time of centering that we were able to participate in this morning. We also remembered the call to ministry that each one of us has by virtue of our baptism. We were reminded of our call to lead in renewal and revival in this new expression of United Methodism.

And now that we're all gathered together, I need to express my appreciation and the appreciation of the Board of Laity to several members of our Board of Laity who are also finishing their quadrennial terms, those who hold conference wide roles and will be transitioning to new leadership opportunities and responsibilities later this summer and fall.

Nancy Walsh, our President of the Conference, United Women in Faith, will be completing her term. And Nancy, we thank you for your leadership, especially in this period of renewed focus and rebranding of the United Women in Faith. Albert Weal, our Conference President of the United Methodist Men, will be transitioning from his conference role to become the President of the Southeastern Jurisdiction, United Methodist Men. Albert, we thank you for your service, for your conference-level work and beyond. And Bill Chaffin, who will complete 12 years of service as our Conference Scouting Coordinator at the end of this month. Bill, we thank you for the length and the breadth of your service and commitment.

And now, just as I was able to make introductions of our lay supply, certified lay minister and our Deaconess this morning, I need to make two additional introductions. I'm going to invite Alan Webber to come and join me here.

I am excited to introduce to you Alan Webber as our new Scouting Coordinator for the Virginia Conference as of July 1st. Alan has long participated and served in scouting. He is an Eagle Scout and Brotherhood Member of the Order of the Arrow. He has served in a variety of roles as an adult volunteer, and currently serves as a District Commissioner and a member of the executive committee of the Tidewater Council. Alan is also deeply tied to the United Methodist Church and to his faith. He's currently a member of Oak Grove United Methodist Church in Chesapeake, where his wife Amanda is a pastor. Professionally, Alan is Vice President and Technology Market Analyst, serves as an Adjunct Assistant Professor and Program Manager on Emerging Technology at the Naval Postgraduate School, and is an Army combat veteran.

The job description for the scouting ministry coordinator notes that the coordinator should have one or more of the following spiritual gifts: servanthood, teaching, encouragement, giving, leadership, and administration. Alan possesses all of those gifts.

Alan Webber:

Thank you.

Martha Stokes:

You're welcome.

Alan Webber:

Bishop, Martha, thank you everybody for this opportunity. I look forward to working with you all and building on the great work that Bill's done, and as we move forward with all the changes in scouting and within the Methodist Church, what we can do to revive and go back to that little part about being reverent as a scout. And I'm looking forward to that. Thank you.

Martha Stokes:

Thank you. Bishop Sue and I look forward to working with Alan to enhance our mutual support for scouting ministries and civic youth agency connections in the years to come.

The second introduction I need to make is Amelia Mickelson, who is sitting in the Lay Leader chair. Amelia was born into the United Methodist Church and has been active in church all of her life. She's a member of Centerville United Methodist Church in the Northern Virginia District, where her mother currently serves as Associate Pastor. Amelia serves in many ways at Centerville, including on the Youth Council and participates in youth group, youth choir, and Teens Opposing Poverty. She's also a volunteer with Vacation Bible School and participates in multiple mission trips.

Amelia has attended many annual conferences but began serving as a Youth Cohort Member last year, and since then she has joined the Revitalized Conference Youth Council. She just graduated from South Lakes High School in Reston, Virginia, and will begin her freshman year this fall at Randolph Macon College, where she plans to study history and education. Who knows? That might be Amelia's assigned seat in the future. Yeah?

I've been thinking a lot lately about not only who will follow in the conference Lay Leader seat, but in other roles that I've been blessed to hold. There have been a number of life events since we gathered last in Roanoke that have really caused me to focus my attention on the need for greater lay leadership development, for stronger mentoring, especially reverse mentoring where I learn from those younger than myself, and making more space for leadership with younger voices and different voices at the table.

I've been thinking a lot about Norman lately. Some of you have heard me tell this experience with Norman, so if you have, please bear with me for a moment. I was returning from a Discipleship Ministries board meeting in Nashville, and was sitting at the gate at the airport. I'd only been working for Pinnacle Living for a short time. The gate that day at the airport was filled with college students headed out for spring break.

I curiously watched as this one young man worked the room with just great beauty and ease. He went from person to person, introduced himself, and asked where they were going for spring break and what school they were at. He not only stood out though because of his extroverted questioning of all of the others' plans, but because his hair was bright pink. And I sat there probably like many of you all have at the gate of an airport or somewhere you're waiting and thought, "Whoever gets to sit next to him is going to have a really interesting trip." And guess who that ended up being?

As I walked down the aisle, the window seat was taken by an anxious looking young woman. Norman, my new young friend, was seated in the middle seat. And I had just sat down as he started his conversation with the young woman at the window. She was a freshman, planning to become a teacher for students who were deaf. They chatted about their colleges and their campus life. Norman told us both that he was a six-year senior who still was not going to graduate that spring because he'd changed his major so many times. Philosophy was his chosen area of study at that particular time. He shared that his plan was to go to seminary, not to preach, but to teach. And he added so that he could debate religion with his mother, who by the way didn't know that his hair was pink.

And then, Norman turned his attention to me. I silenced him for just a moment when upon his asking where I worked, I described my role with Pinnacle Living and Aging Services. And when he did finally speak again, his question was, "Did you always want to grow up to work with older adults?" And he laughed when I responded, "No, but I always wanted to grow up to be one."

Well, three weeks ago, I retired from my professional work. And I've thought a lot about that conversation with Norman in that time, especially that response I gave, since now I especially feel like I have reached one of those milestones of growing up to be an older adult. I've wondered where Norman is. He would be 30ish, in his early thirties, somewhere in that age range right now. I've wondered what color his hair is or if he has any at this point. And I've wondered how the debate has gone between him and his mother.

There've been just a few debates about religion, including in our own United Methodist family since I met Norman that day. And I've also found myself reflecting on my faith journey, the questions and experiences that have been a part of my path of discipleship, how I've chosen to live out my faith, the people who've been a part of that story with me, and what God might have in store for the next third of my life.

Those times of reflection have come in expected and in very unexpected places. At General Conference, for example, I sat in the laity dinner questioning the example I want to leave for future generations. I stood in the observer section after one of the historic votes, remembering why I have been at this work in the church, especially as I looked at each one of the younger faces in the crowd around me. And it became more clear than ever that I have a choice in the legacy of faith that I live out and that I leave for those who come behind me, especially as we move forward in our new United Methodist Church.

I also remembered my own experiences as a young person in the church; those who took seriously the promises they made at my baptism to help me to come to know Jesus, those who explored gifts and graces with me and supported me as I tried those, and those who did not. A part of my journey is being told when I was in my early twenties that the church would not support the call I felt I was feeling to ordained ministry. That no is the main reason I stand here before you today offering this laity address. The discernment that followed brought me to the realization that I'm really called to be the best lay person I can be.

There are so many others who've experienced the no from the church and moved in different directions. One of the unexpected places that has brought me to a time of reflection recently was in another very important chair, but not the Lay Leader chair. It actually was the hairstylist chair. And some of you all are nodding. You know the importance of that chair, and you know the very personal and intimate conversations that can occur if you know the person that you're working with well.

Now, my hairstylist and I have talked about such a wide of things over the years we've known each other. We know each other's politics. We know and discuss connections that we have in the community. We've talked about travels, we've talked about music. But it dawned on me that we had never talked about faith. And I began to think, "Huh, what a horrible witness I am, that we've never done that."

But the last time I was there was just a short time after General Conference was over, and I shared with her that I had just been to this global conference for a church for the last two weeks. She stopped and she came around to my side and looked at me and said, "Were you at that conference where they just changed the rules about who can be preachers?" I said, "Yes." "The conference where they changed the rules about who can officiate same gender weddings?" I said, "Yes." Then she moved back behind me, looked at me straight in the mirror, put her hands on my shoulders and said, "I love you." And then, without a moment's hesitation went on to say, "Now tell me what the church says about alcoholism."

And I was totally caught off guard by that. I thought the conversation would keep going about those questions she asked, but no. And I shared with her how we have our social principles and our understanding about use of alcohol and mental health supports, and how we want to help people through those times of addiction with support and care and love.

My friend went on to tell me that when her father was dying from liver disease caused by alcoholism, their family's pastor refused to come and pray with them and with her dad. He didn't come to be with them because of his understandings about alcohol use. And then, she told me that that was a pastor serving a Virginia United Methodist Church that she had been a part of growing up. And she added, "I haven't set foot in a church since." I had to ask how old she was when her father died. Twelve. At the age of 12, she experienced a no that impacts her life to this day.

We've got work to do, church, for the Normans, for our youth like Amelia, for the now middle-aged adult who at 12 felt the rejection of the church. And if you were at the observation for Juneteenth yesterday, I'll say for Ronnie. There are voices we need to hear and space we need to make.

So let me end where I started with this message by making some introductions. Members of the Youth Cohort stand up for me for a moment.

Lay and clergy members of the Virginia Conference, here are the ones calling us to honor our promises that we made upon their baptisms and their confirmation in the church to nurture them in Christ's Holy Church by our teaching and our examples. Okay, now youth keep standing. Can I ask all of our young people to stand up? Now I know before you say anything, there are many, many definitions of what young people can make. But for this moment, those of you who are 35 and younger, join the youth in standing for a moment if you can. Look around. Here are the ones calling us to remember our commitment to walk alongside them as guides and coaches, but also to make more space at the table for them and allow their voices to lead us as we focus on the beauty and joy and life-changing power of the church that's ahead of us.

All right, I'm going to ask you all to sit down. And I don't want anybody to panic right now because I'm not going to ask everybody else to stand up, but I'm not leaving the rest of us out. Let me get really personal with the rest of us and speak to those like me who fall into the Boomer and older generations. I think there are a few of us here born before 1964.

Do you realize that more than 40% of our generations are estimated to be unchurched? We will continue to be the fastest growing, non-ethnic demographic in this country for the next 25 years. And almost half of this group has little or no connection to a faith community.

And many of us haven't invited someone to church for years. Many of us haven't talked with those closest to us about our faith. Oh, church, we've got work to do for Norman, for the youth and Amelia, for the 20-something who feels called to ministry, for the now middle-aged adult who at 12 felt the rejection of the church and hasn't returned, for the retired Boomer who's thinking about the legacy they will leave, and the search for meaning and purpose in life.

Let us all remember the covenant that we make with each baptism to surround one another with a community of love and forgiveness, that we may all grow and trust in God and be found faithful in our service to others, that we may be true disciples who walk in the way that leads to life. Virginia Conference, we've got a lot of work to do. Amen.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

I now want to recognize Rachel Zahradka, who is going to bring us a recommendation from the Conference Board of Laity regarding the Conference Lay Leader for the 2024-28 quadrennium.

Rachel Zahradka:

Hi everybody. I am Rachel Zahradka. I'm a member from the Living Waters District, as well as a member of the Board of Laity Nominations Committee for conference lay leader. On February 12th, 2024, the Nominations Committee met to discuss a recommendation for Lay Leader of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church for the 2024 2028 term. Current Lay Leader, Martha Stokes is eligible and willing to serve another term, Martha's skills of tactful diplomacy, organization and strength, alongside her patience, kindness, and experience throughout the connection are invaluable. Her gifts as a mentor and advisor to our Conference Laity coupled with her dedication as a ministry partner with our bishop makes her the obvious choice. The Nominations Committee unanimously proposed that Martha continue as conference Lay Leader to the Board of Laity, which unanimously approved the selection on March 2nd, 2024. Therefore, Bishop and members of conference, we now wholeheartedly and earnestly recommend Martha Stokes return as conference Lay Leader for a second term. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, if I could get a second to the motion. I now invite all of you in favor of Martha Stokes being the next Quadrennial Lay Leader to stand up if you're willing.

I'm glad you did that because I really can't imagine a better partner. We are here to just report briefly on some work of the conference leadership over the past, since January. We realized, and you saw in our video that it's necessary that we all row in the same direction, in the same boat. And my observation when I got here was there was a lot of great work being done in the annual conference, but it was going in many directions without a lot of clarity and without a lot of guidance.

And so this year your cabinet, your extended cabinet, the common table of the annual conference and representatives of the Board of Ordained Ministry have all met together so that we are on the same page. And we have prayed together at length. We have discerned from month to month. We have had deep discussions about what at this point in the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church we should be focused on.

So our report, we got down to two pages. I'm pretty impressed with that. But the first thing that we really thought was important was that we need to return to the church as a spiritual enterprise, that it is not an organization of doing good. At its heart, it's the body of Christ and the members of the body of Christ need to behave and live out their lives in a Christ-like manner. And so we agreed that we need first of all to really focus on our spiritual practices together to make that a high priority in the annual conference life and to expect that we will manifest the fruits of the spirit and that we will dedicate our lives to prayer. I spoke with the clergy session this morning asking them to highlight the prayer of individuals, the spiritual cultivation in the individual life, and I invite your churches to really be in a season of prayer.

A lot of times I think we do a lot of activity, but God's not quite sure what we're doing, so I hope that you will take time this year with the leadership of your church to really pray and discern where God is leading you. The other thing we concluded was that the annual conference exists to serve the local church. Let's be real clear on that. That we are here to serve you and not vice versa. And so we are dedicated to building connection, connection between the annual conference and churches, connection between churches, connection between communities and church. We are all about connection. That is our Wesleyan heritage and that's where we're going to put our efforts in the next quadrennium. Martha.

Martha Stokes:

In addition to the discussion about spiritual gifts and our own growth as disciples so that we can work with the Holy Spirit to make more disciples, we also focused a little bit on that next step of moving not from our personal piety, but in step with our personal piety to social holiness. And so how do we work together in areas of mission and justice and advocacy for an inclusive church, for a church that truly meets the needs of our communities and in our context in the different areas where we are at. I think I need to take one step backwards if that's okay, because a part of the work that we did together was in truth telling. And I would invite you all in your local churches to take that opportunity for true telling, for confession, for sharing of the realities of where we find ourselves.

Those were not the easiest of conversations for this group to have, and it caused us to focus on both our real values and our perceived values and how we have been or have not been living them out over the last few years. When we think about the understanding of who we are as United Methodist, all of us still have a lot to learn, and so we invite you and your local churches into a time of looking at this document, share the video that was done before conference as part of our preparation and to enter into those conversations in your local churches so that we are truly in this work together across every level of the church in the Virginia Annual Conference.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Church, we got a lot of work to do. I think I just heard that.

Martha Stokes:

We do.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And we look forward to building connection together.

And now the much awaited rules committee report, Mr. Scott Diamond is going to come and give us our rules report.

Scott Diamond:

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes and members of the 2024 Annual Conference, good afternoon.. Thank you. As chair of the rules committee, I offer this brief report on our work over the past year. The full written report of the rules committee is contained in the book reports beginning on page 34 as well as this year, a short addendum addressing two additional proposals that were in the final packet emailed to you. As in past years with the written report before you, I'll not review each proposal in detail. Regarding those that we consider technical in nature, some are due to past inadvertent and oversight and not revising cross-references to the book of discipline, or due to other typographical errors. Speaking of this, ironically, there's a typographical error in our proposed recommendation regarding typographical errors.

Hopefully if you look on page 34, if you look at it, there's a proposal to amend 68th to 68th. I hope you have faith in your rules committee that we will not ask that of you. What occurred in the official version of the rules was the sixth was a super script. It looked like a footnote. And then people eligible under this rule would've been ruled ineligible at their eighth birthday, not their 68th birthday. So we changed that. There are two other proposed rules changes that warrant brief reference. First, the site selection committee is seeking more flexibility in its ability to negotiate and plan our gatherings and ask for reduction to one year instead of three for recommending a location for our annual meetings. Second, given that our annual conference gatherings are now recorded, the conference secretary is seeking a new rule to allow for the transcript of the video recording of the annual conference session to serve as the official minutes of the annual conference.

Next, we have a proposal to revise rule 5C8 and to create a new rule, C23. The Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy was formed as the combination of the conference commission on religion and race and the conference committee on ethnic local church concerns in an effort to provide a more focused support for ethnic local churches and to allow more concentrated efforts on systemic issues within the conference, these proposed changes to the standing rules will allow the annual conference to reinstate the two separate teams as they are distinctly outlined in the Book of Discipline. After further discussion on this issue, there has been a revision to the proposal in the book reports. Again, that would be in the addendum. As that addendum reflects for this proposed rule change the name of the commission on ethnic minority concerns and advocacy will remain the same.

Now for the main proposal this year, re-implementing resolutions. As you know for various reasons, our body in the past voted to remove resolutions from our standing rules and instead rely upon petitions that members could sign if they so desired. Last year, a motion was adopted to restore resolutions as part of our proceedings. As a result, the rules committee met numerous times to consider the best manner in which to propose such amendments to our standing rules. Members of the committee reviewed our past version of the rules that included resolutions and had discussions with both clergy and laity who had previously served on the resolutions committee. We also reviewed and considered texts from other conferences standing rules concerning the membership of a resolutions committee as well as various processes and procedures for submitting proposed resolutions and their consideration. The result of this in-depth analysis is the proposed amendment that is before you.

In our proposal, we have established a timeline, guidelines and procedures for allowing for conference boards, agencies, committees, or groups of clergy and laity to submit proposed resolutions. Such proposals would be timely considered by a newly reestablished resolution committee that would accept resolutions as necessary, seek clarification, and if needed, do the topic refer the proposed resolution to another appropriate conference body for consideration and input.

Next, the resolution committee will prepare report of these resolutions for the annual conference and determine their order of consideration. The proposed rules also address the manner of debate and the method for voting. Now in offering this amendment on resolutions, the rules committee realized that drafting such rules is one of two important steps, with the other step being successful implementation. Should the annual conference adopt these proposed amendments, that will be our recommendation that following the 2025 annual conference proceedings where resolutions would again be considered the leadership of the rules and the resolutions committee confer on the process and determine if further adjustments are needed. Members of the Virginia Annual Conference, I formally present these proposals for changes to our standing rules and procedures for your consideration.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If there's a second. And I'll move it to a vote, if you would approve, please lift a hand. And it is so approved. Thank you. Appreciate it. Scott, we really do appreciate, and I really think it will serve the annual conference well to have the resolutions process that they have proposed and I'm excited by it. I now invite Mr. Neal Wise the chair of our site selection committee to come forward. And boy, we owe him a huge debt of gratitude. Talk about somebody who's constantly working.

Neal Wise:

Thank you. It's so hard to follow the excitement of the rules committee. Bishop Sue, Lay Leader Stokes, Bishop Berlin, Bishop Chamberlain, Bishop Hughes, members of the Virginia Annual Conference and guests, the report of the Site Selection Committee can be found on page 40 of the book of reports. The Site Selection Committee continues to search for and evaluate a broad array of locations throughout the Commonwealth for the annual conference to meet. A wide range of locations regionally in particular have been considered including meeting virtually.

The list of requirements for meeting as an annual conference is included for your reference in the committee's written report. By our conference standing rules, the Site Selection Committee is tasked with recommending the location of annual conference for the next three years. By the new conference rules that were just approved, the committee will be tasked in the future with recommending that location for an annual conference one year in advance. The new rule is effective at our next annual conference. By previous action of the annual conference, locations have been set to meet next year in Roanoke and in Hampton in 2026. The Site Selection Committee is proposing to modify the 2026 location of annual conference as previously approved. In order to receive this recommendation, the Site Selection Committee moves for a suspension of the standing rules in order to entertain the committee's recommendation. Bishop, I move for the suspension of the rules.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, is there a second? If you would approve suspending the rules to consider this site selection suggestion, please lift your hands. And it's overwhelmingly approved.

Neal Wise:

Thank you, Bishop. The committee along with the director of Connectional Ministries, the annual conference event planner, continued to consider locations for holding annual conference. After careful evaluation of venues throughout Virginia, we are pleased to recommend the Atlantic Union Bank Center at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Let me share a short video.

On Video--Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Hello, Virginia Annual Conference. This is Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson and I am here to have you think about how important it is to have a great location for annual conference. I know that you look forward to going to Roanoke and to Hampton and those facilities, but I want you to know this morning I've toured the fantastic new facilities here in Harrisonburg, Virginia at James Madison University and we are excited by the possibilities these new facilities offer. I hope that you will seriously think about and pray about adding Harrisonburg to Roanoke and Hampton as part of our rotation for annual conference.

On Video--Rev. Jonathan Page:

So another reason that we hope you'll consider Harrisonburg as a site for annual conference is this room that I'm standing in. This is called the Atlantic Union Bank Center. It's an arena that hosts basketball and graduations, but it could also be a host for our annual conference session. It's very new. It's state-of-the-art, the seats are comfortable, and there's an exhibit hall right over my shoulder that would allow you to participate in walking through the exhibits and still be participating in annual conference at the same time. We think it's a great space for us to be able to convene and meet together. And here's the thing, this facility that I'm standing in right now is directly connected to a lot of other things that make this a great site. We're right next to the parking garage where most annual conference members would be parking their vehicles. Directly across the street is a dining hall where there is the opportunity to have food access for members of annual conference.

There are meeting facilities right close by and we think that this close proximity of so many different things is part of what makes this site a really great option for the Virginia Annual Conference. Another great reason to support Harrisonburg as a site for annual conference is that it has the appropriate number of residential facilities and dining facilities needed to accommodate the Virginia Annual Conference. Harrisonburg has over 2,500 hotel rooms along with a number of Airbnbs and camping facilities. Additionally, there are a lot of great local and chain restaurants and the infrastructure is present in Harrisonburg to host the large number of people that would be in attendance for the Virginia Annual Conference session and it would be a great host city for annual conference beginning in 2026.

On Video--Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

I hope you've enjoyed this video and I hope when it comes time to vote on site selection at Annual Conference, you will seriously consider and support Harrisonburg.

Neal Wise:

Thank you, Bishop. We are excited about the prospect of a new location for Annual Conference to meet. We had previously met in Harrisonburg, as I'm sure all of you will remember, in 1956. A Sheldon Cooper fun fact, Bishop Hughes was ordained at that conference. The conference met again in Harrisonburg in 1970 at the Virginia Conference Uniting Session that brought together the Methodist Church, the Evangelical United Brethren Church and the central jurisdiction to form the United Methodist Church. The Site Selection Committee recommends the location for the 2026 Annual Conference be modified to reflect Harrisonburg, Virginia, and we further recommend that the 2027 annual conference also be held in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Bishop, the committee moves for the approval of this recommendation.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, we have a question. Go to microphone two. I appreciate the hustle. That was good.

Neal Wise:

Yeah, no worries.

Chris Becek

Chris Becek, Laity, Leesburg on the Shenandoah River District. I have a request for information. Is there a cost impact associated with switching 2026 from Hampton to Harrisonburg?

Neal Wise:

No. No, there's not. We are not under contract in Hampton for the convention center or for hotels.

Chris Becek:

Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Other questions? Microphone four.

Danielle Cloud:

Danielle Cloud, Lay member, Three Notch'd District, Wesley, UVA. I'd like a point of inquiry. Could the Site Selection Committee ensure that all members of the Annual Conference are able to secure housing at conference approved hotels? So for example, when I tried to check in at a conference approved hotel as a collegiate member as someone under 21, I was denied housing due to a Hampton citywide ordinance. It's important to note that I'm four months away from 21 and I have stayed in that same hotel in past years as a youth delegate. My campus minister organized housing for me as part of the conference block and this hotel threatened to call the police and escort me off the premises if I did not have someone over 21 staying in the room with me. Luckily, my parents are here as clergy and I'm staying with them.

Neal Wise:

Lucky you.

Danielle Cloud:

But I'm worried that without that where I would be now. Thank you.

Neal Wise:

The Site Selection Committee certainly takes those comments and would like to embrace them and consider them. Thank you for raising them.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

That's disturbing, isn't it?

Neal Wise:

Yeah.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

If that happens to anybody else, I'll find room for you somewhere. Okay. Just call me directly. That's appalling. Okay, other questions? Let's get a second and then we'll have any discussion.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

There's a second. Any discussion? Okay. Seeing none, I'm going to move this to a vote. If you're in favor of going to Harrisonburg in 2026, would you please lift your hand?

Neal Wise:

2026 and 2027.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

2026 and 2027. So leave them up if you're good with 2027. Okay. I think we have a new place to visit. I'm very excited. Thank you.

Neal Wise:

Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you going to do, oh, you did 2027 too. Okay. Okay. Here's a fun technical detail. I'm going to have Rev. King move to suspend the rules. We want to have, remember the rules were just modified so that the transcription of Annual Conference will be the minutes and we'd like to do that this year, but that requires a suspension of the rules to allow us to do it. So Rev. King, make your motion.

Rev. Joshua King:

I move to suspend the rules to allow the minutes for this Annual Conference session to be taken virtually through transcription of the proceedings. The transcription of the proceedings will be reviewed by the Minutes Committee within 60 days of the adjournment of this session, and their revisions of the transcript will serve as the minutes of this annual conference session.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Thank you for the second. If you had approve the change in those rules, would you raise your hand? We need two thirds. I think we have it. So yay. You just saved yourself a lot of work. That's excellent.

Rev. Joshua King:

And if I may make a quick announcement, Minutes Committee, this means you will not meet in the mornings for this session.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. Now we're going to move right into our pensions report with Mr. John Fuller. John, come on. Yay.

John Fuller:

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, members and guests of the Virginia Annual Conference, as the Director of Virginia United Methodist Pensions Incorporated, I am pleased to present our annual report and recommendations. Virginia United Methodist Pensions Incorporated, which is commonly known by the acronym. VUMPI, is the Virginia Conference Agency that administers the conference health plans for active and retired clergy along with the denominational pension and welfare plans. At each year's annual conference, VUMPI presents several reports. And recommendations in this year's book of reports, VUMPI's reports begin on page 48. These reports are intended to be informational, providing details about the various benefit programs that we administer. VUMPI's recommendations begin on page 52 of your book of reports. And for this year's annual conference, we have five recommendations. Our first recommendation pertains to the apportionments that are used to fund the majority of the cost for the conference sponsored active and retired clergy health plans.

For 2025, VUMPI is recommending a $9 million active clergy health plan apportionment and a $5.4 million retired clergy health plan apportionment. I will note that both of these reflect a 10% reduction from the corresponding 2024 apportionments. For a little bit of historical context, in the 10-year period from 2005 through 2014, the average annual rate of growth in total clergy benefits apportionments was 7.3%. And that's not 7.3% over 10 years, that's 7.3% on average each year for 10 years. In some years this translated to an actual increase exceeding $1 million. So we recognized that this was an unsustainable growth rate. So in 2015, VUMPI developed and implemented several strategies that were designed to mitigate the financial burden of clergy benefits apportionments on our conference churches. In the 10-year period from 2015 through 2024, the annual rate of change in total clergy benefits apportionments was negative 0.9%.

So we went from a 10-year period in which there was a rapidly growing and unsustainable rate of growth in the conference apportionments for clergy benefits to a subsequent 10-year period in which clergy benefits apportionments were relatively flat. So I'm pleased to report that the recommendation for 2025's apportionments reflects not only the ongoing benefit from those strategies implemented in 2015, but also a couple of other factors that were observed in the past year. Number one, there has been a reduction in total enrollment in the conference sponsored health plans. Between 2023 and 2024 there was an 8.2% reduction in total enrollment in the health plans. There was also a corresponding reduction in total paid medical claims in our plans. In that same time period, there was a 5.2% reduction in total paid medical claims. So with all of those factors taking together, VUMPI is able to recommend a total of $14.4 million of clergy benefits apportionments reflecting a $1.6 million reduction or a 10% reduction from the corresponding 2024 apportionments.

VUMPI's second recommendation pertains to the participant contributions that are paid by clergy who enroll in the conference sponsored health plans. For 2025, VUMPI is recommending no changes across any of the plans. So this applies to medical, dental, and vision plans, and for all plans for active and retired clergy. VUMPI's third recommendation pertains to the past service rate or the PSR, which is a factor in the benefit formula for the pre 82 pension plan. At each year's annual conference, VUMPI is able to recommend an increase in the PSR to help ensure that the benefits paid under the pre 82 pension plan are keeping pace with increases in the general cost of living. The current PSR is $611 and VUMPI is recommending a 2025 PSR of $626. And this reflects an increase of about 2.5%. VUMPI's fourth recommendation involves the billing methodology that the VUMPI office uses to bill our conference churches for the clergy retirement security program contributions, that's the current denominational pension plan, along with the comprehensive protection plan premiums. And that is the denominational life and disability insurance program.

VUMPI is not recommending any changes to that methodology, so we are simply recommending that the annual conference approve the continued use, with no changes, of the billing methodology that has been in place since 2014. Finally, VUMPI's fifth recommendation involves the clergy housing tax exclusion that is allowed under IRS code 107, and that requires that the annual conference approve an annual resolution for our conferences active and retired clergy to be able to take advantage of that tax exclusion. So the fifth recommendation is simply that resolution that if approved by the Virginia Conference, will allow our conferences active and retired clergy to take advantage of that IRS housing tax exclusion.

All of these recommendations pertain to internal conference controlled policy and if approved by the Virginia Conference, will be implemented effective January 1st of 2025. Bishop, before I conclude my report, I would like to express my gratitude to the VUMPI board of directors for all of their leadership, their guidance, their support throughout the year. I would also like to thank my VUMPI staff colleagues for all of the work that they do day in and day out to help ensure that we are maintaining these benefit programs that are important to our conferences, active and retired clergy. And with that, Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, I will conclude my report and I now present VUMPI's recommendations one through five for conference consideration.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. We need a second.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Any discussion in the house? Microphone eight. I see a card.

Brian Lamb :

Brian Lamb Laity, Mission Rivers District. I'm here to speak on behalf of the Campus Christian Center at the University of Mary Washington. It is a United Methodist ministry that is served full time by a pastor here on appointment. The conference, we finally, after about a year of searching, discovered that we'll provide our campus minister insurance at the cost of almost a thousand dollars a month. With the changing dynamics in campus ministry, our ministry has had to make the difficult decision to not provide her health insurance. I bring that since our conference offering was to eliminate healthcare debt in Virginia, and I'm sure she's one of many pastors in this conference who aren't able to get health insurance through our plan because of technicalities. And so I would empower VUMPI to take this case study and see if there are ways that the annual conference can provide a basic need of health insurance for our full-time appointed clergy. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I think that's certainly something.

John Fuller:

Absolutely. That's something certainly that we will take into consideration and evaluate. Campus ministries in many situations are considered extension ministries beyond the local church. We have separate rules for how those clergy appointed in that context have access to the health plan, but we can certainly take that as something that we can look into.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Great. Thank you. Any other discussion? Microphone four. Thank you, Steve.

Rev. Seok-Chan Seo:

Seok-Chan Seo, currently serving in Northern Virginia District. This is a question. Is there a plan in a Virginia annual conference to provide healthcare benefit to less than full-time appointment?

John Fuller:

Sure. So the question is there a plan to provide healthcare benefits to pastors serving less than full-time appointment? There currently is not a plan for that. So the Virginia Conference-sponsored health plan, like the majority of employer-sponsored health plans in the United States is designed to provide benefits only to clergy serving full time.

Rev. Seok-Chan Seo: Can I then make a motion about that? I would like to make a motion to a formal study group that will study about different scenarios and implications for local churches and pastors when we provide and extend our healthcare benefits to less than full-time appointments so that the next year when we have information that we can actually make an informed decision about that.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. The motion is before us. Is there a second to it? Okay. Discussion on this or is this something that we continue to study and look at and have you report back next year?

John Fuller:

I think VUMPI would certainly be happy to participate in a study group if one was formed. One thing that I will note just as an immediate response to the suggestion is that any extension of health benefits eligibility beyond the current guidelines would certainly have a financial impact and would very likely lead to an increase in apportionments. There would be no other way to fund that sufficiently without having an increase in apportionments. But I would be happy to participate in a discussion if that was the will of the conference.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I hear your motion. We have a clergy compensation task force that's working hard and I think it could move into this arena. So your motion is to have a task force look at this. Would you be averse to asking the clergy compensation task force to be that group? Does that work?

Rev. Seok-Chan Seo: Yes, and actually I researched about it and there are different annual conferences in the United States that provides healthcare benefit to less than full-time appointments. For example, Baltimore Washington provides for 75%, and CalPAC Conference provides even for 25% appointment. So there are conferences that provide healthcare benefits to less than full-time appointments. And I believe in our book of discipline and social principle affirms our belief that healthcare is actually a basic human rights. So I believe it is very important and I agree that if we have a task force that can actually look into these possibilities, I think that it will be great. Thank you.

Rev. Joshua King:

I'm being instructed by many people to currently put a motion on the floor that is the report.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay.

Rev. Joshua King:

And then we need to deal with that and come back to this motion.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. That's why I have you sitting next to me. Why don't we deal with the report of the pension benefit since it's on the floor? Right now, the concern is we have two motions on the floor at the same time. So let's move back to discussion. We will come right back to the motion to have that go to the clergy compensation task force, but right now we need to hear discussion regarding the report of the pension committee and we will address that. Microphone four. You want to say something?

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

Sure. Bishop, Rev. Jessie Colwell, chair of the Clergy Compensation Task Force. And John and fellow wonderful Methodist. We already have a task force also in addition to this task force looking at our healthcare plans and coverages. And I would move that that task force is the one that considers that. I'm also on that task force-

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

But we're going to.

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

... I think there's a solution, Bishop-

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Now we have three motions on the floor, so it's quite a dance, but I think it's confusing unless we have one at a time.

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

Okay.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

So would anybody like to speak to the recommendations of the pension board? Okay, well, I don't think we need to call the question. I think we're ready to vote.

Conference Secretary Rev. Joshua King:

One more down there by number four.

Rev. Carrie Moffitt:

Carrie Moffitt, clergy, Living Waters District. I do have a question with regards to what's in the report. You say that the health care cost trends and the decline in the health plan enrollment has decreased. Can you speak as to why? Because I think that would relate also to the study group as well. Do you know why they have decreased?

John Fuller:

I don't know exactly why, but I do know that historically the reasons that have driven contraction in the enrollment in the health plans generally, number one, if full-time appointments are replaced incrementally by part-time appointments, they become ineligible for the health plans. So that could drive part of the decrease. As we are all aware, we went through the era with Par. 2553 disaffiliations and so there were some clergy that simply left our United Methodist denomination and therefore are no longer eligible. There can be other reasons for contraction. For example, if there is an economic recovery, spouses get jobs that offer benefits and clergy leave our program to go on their spouse's coverage. I would say that it's probably multifactorial. We don't ask everyone who leaves our health plan the reason why they're leaving. So I don't know exactly why, but I think that it's probably multifactorial.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Any other questions or discussion on the report? Number five.

Dr. Lester Kurtz:

Hi, I'm Lester Kurtz from Northern Virginia St. Matthews, and I was just wondering if there's any effort to look at any inequities in terms of minority and ethnic groups in the pension benefits?

John Fuller:

Not that I'm aware of. I would say that our benefit programs, to my knowledge, are not. I know of no factors which would drive any sort of racial or other demographic inequities in our programs.

Dr. Lester Kurtz:

Are they based on salaries that the clergy received during their career?

John Fuller:

In part. We have a hybrid denominational pension plan that has a defined benefit component that is not based on compensation and there is a smaller defined contribution component that is. So in part, there is correlation with that. So I suppose if someone were to make an assumption about salary levels and demographic factors, there could be some correlation there. But I am not aware of any specific study group that is looking at that. I'll also note that general conference has adopted a new denominational pension plan that will take effect in 2026. And I recall that a question about this was raised at the general conference when the Compass pension plan was passed, and I think the response to that question was that issues around compensation should be addressed via discussions around compensation rather than discussed around second-order effects like pension programs. So I don't know of any efforts that are underway to look at the pension programs themselves that are really intended to be agnostic to those factors.

Dr. Lester Kurtz:

Okay. Thank you. I'm just hoping that is taken into account in some way. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you Dr. Kurtz. Any other discussion or questions? Seeing none, I'm going to move this to a vote. If you would approve the report of the Board of Pensions, would you lift a hand? Those opposed, same sign. Okay. And the report is adopted. Stay where you are. We've got some stuff to talk about, but I do want to go back to the other motion about having a consideration of the part-time folks and healthcare for the part-time folks. And Rev. Colwell, what was the name of the group that does that?

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

Fuller started the task force so he can share the name.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Oh, okay.

John Fuller:

So we have a clergy benefits task force that was designed to look at other aspects of clergy benefit programs. We can certainly expand the scope of that task force somewhat to include the issue of looking at potential eligibility of part-time clergy in the conference. And I think that if that is considered to be an acceptable resolution to the concern, I would be happy to commit to doing that.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If you would affirm that action, would you just raise your hand please? Great, thank you. Now the fun part, John Fuller's not just... We got number five. Okay. Microphone five.

Brian Lamb:

I'm sorry. Did not seem appropriate to respond in the middle of that, but I want to point out I was no longer employed by the Methodist Church because I was gay. The Episcopalians hired me part-time, but gave me full-time benefits, which made me be able to live until I could get a job full-time in another Episcopal institution. So it is important to remember it makes a big difference in a lot of families lives. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Sometimes there's a big discrepancy between legal requirements and grace and I think that's always our discussion. Now the fun part, John Fuller is a world-class director of our pension board. But he's also a world-class excited dad and you'll not see him again this week because we are sending him away. His daughter, Josephine Fuller, is a world-class swimmer.

I have been watching her all week race. She is a rising senior at the University of Tennessee. She won the gold medal in the hundred-meter backstroke at the 2023 Pan Am Games. Josephine Fuller is a fourteen-time NCAA All-American with 13 Southeastern conference medals. And she is qualified for five events at this year's Olympic trials. The hundred backstroke, the 200 backstroke, the hundred butterfly, the hundred breaststroke, and the 200 individual medley. And John Fuller is headed to Indianapolis and I think we all need to just stand up and yell, "Go Josephine."

John Fuller:

Thank you Bishop. And thanks to all of you. It's obviously a very exciting time for my entire family, but I'd also like to thank multiple people in the Virginia Conference that made it possible for me to be here today and be able to get on a plane to go back to Indianapolis tomorrow and be with Josephine and my family. So thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

One more recognition I want to make before we hear from our youth. Scott Diamond, we joke around about the Rules Committee, but it's a vital, vital part of our ministry and he has served as chair of our Rules for the quadrennium, including multiple called virtual annual conferences and he is rolling off this year. And we would love to recognize Scott Diamond for his chair of the Rules Committee. Scott.

And now I extend a moment of personal privilege to the youth delegation.

Go ahead.

Youth Delegate:

Bishop Sue and the members of the Annual Conference, when we were discussing what our moment of privilege and your gift would be, we decided to share a memory instead of a gift with you. And so in order to foster a spirit of joy within the Conference, we have decided to share a song with you. We have a musical instrument to facilitate you joining in this memory. It is a kazoo engraved with your name and we invite you to join us as we play, Jesus Loves Me, on the kazoo.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

I got it. Otherwise, like this. Okay, let's do it. Ready? Somebody set a pitch.

Thank you guys. That was fun.

Youth Delegate

Bishop, can I get a selfie.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Okay. I haven't played a... I know it's obvious I haven't played a kazoo in decades. Now we're to our delegation report and you don't find two better or more hardworking people than Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman and Mr. Warren Harper. And so come forward dear friends and give us your report.

Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman:

And for our next song on the kazoo.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Here, it's all yours. It's all yours.

Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman:

Good afternoon, Bishop Sue, laity and clergy of the Virginia Annual Conference. My name is Lindsey Baynham Freeman and it is my joy and honor to serve as the head of the delegation for Virginia. I'm joined this afternoon by Mr. Warren Harper, who is the first elected layperson and we are offering the delegation's report. We're also joined on the stage by our general conference delegates, if they would please stand.

And before we get too far into a report, I just want to thank and give honor and gratefulness for this group of people for holding one another up for the endurance that is General Conference, for passing the snacks, for sharing an encouraging word and for doing the important work of holy conferencing. I'm so grateful for each and every one of them. And I also want to thank the many reserves and people from Virginia who came to bear witness to the important work that happened in Charlotte this spring. We're grateful for you. And so after much anticipation, the postponed 2020 General Conference in 2024 was held in Charlotte, North Carolina from April 23rd to May 3rd. Lay and clergy from all over the world gathered to conduct the business of the church in the spirit of holy conferencing. While all of our delegates from outside the U.S. were not able to attend, we still had 87% participation totaling 749 out of 862 delegates for our time together. We acknowledged the impact of not having full participation and we covenanted to do better moving forward as we become an even greater worldwide church. And so we want to share some highlights and key moments as the people called United Methodists gathered this spring.

Warren Harper:

Without a doubt, there was a spirit at our gathering. In a commentary by Amanda Kim, who was the second lay delegate from the New England Conference. Listen to what she says.

"From the very beginning, I was blown away with how there was such a spirit of cooperation and compassion moving through everyone at the General Conference. There were times where tensions got high and times where it was obvious people did not agree. But it was clear that everyone was motivated to do the hard work that needed to be done. There were different voices and diversity in all of our delegates."

In Bishop Bickerton's opening address to the General Conference, he said, and I quote, "I think it's okay that we have had a delay. We are a completely different church than we were just a few years prior. A bit of dust has settled and we can see that there is a future with hope and possibility."

And he asked the question, "Are you willing to move forward in a spirit of hope and embrace a season a reformation, and revitalization of the United Methodist Church and work for a culture marked by compassion, courage, and companionship?"

And he said, "If you are not here for a good reason, then maybe you're in the wrong place."

We began our work with 14 legislative committees sorting through hundreds of petitions to bring to the plenary floor by consent calendar or through presentation of the committee. We had three of our delegation members serving in leadership of the committees, and that's over 20% of the legislative committees. And the remainder of our delegation acted in such a way that they offered assistance in every committee that went through over a thousand pieces of legislation.

Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman:

Some other key actions that occurred during the conference included granting sacramental authority to Deacons within their ministry context, approving a new pension plan, Compass, which moves to a more contribution-based system for the clergy person while being realistic about financial implications for the denomination moving forward, and approving our budget with a 52% cut to our boards and agencies,

Warren Harper:

We passed several confessional actions, among them of the apology to victims and survivors of sexual abuse and mistreatment. We had adopted a new book of resolutions and resolutions of reparations. There were many acts of wonderful, joyful, spiritual worship. We celebrated the impact of Africa University, 200 years of mission and ministry at the General Board of Global Ministries commissioning missionaries, home missionaries and deacons. Bishop Sue participated in this work and she has served on the General Board of Global Ministries.

Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman:

There is also a lot of energy around three major groupings of legislation. The first being the approval of the revised social principles. The General Board of Church and Society has worked for many years now to revise this document and to seek the input and feedback from our siblings around the world. While there are still points of contention, the document serves as a guide to our engagement in the social work of our faith. It has a strong theological foundation and a clarity of purpose for our church. The revised social principles were approved with some edits to recognize the big tent we inhabit as we represent a worldwide church. The second grouping of legislation being the movement to remove harmful language from our book of discipline. Since 1972, there have been restrictive and harmful language for certain persons within the body of Christ. At this General Conference, language was removed stating that homosexuality is incompatible with Christian teaching. Language around the restriction of performing wedding ceremonies was removed and provisions for clergy to be reinstated was approved as well.

This action allowed for an expansion of the table. And in the midst of our theological diversity, we were able to achieve this good work together with grace, with connection, with compassion, with curiosity, and with understanding. The third grouping of legislation being worldwide regionalization. And as you have heard through Conference communication and webinars leading up to this Annual Conference, we will take a vote on worldwide regionalization next year at our Annual Conference. Each annual conference in our worldwide connection will take a vote and the threshold for approval is a two-thirds aggregate vote of all the Annual Conferences. And we will not know the results of the voting until 2026. There's information on the Conference website about worldwide regionalization, and we're taking this opportunity of time to do more education, to have more conversations, and to hear from our connection here in Virginia. There will be a Q&A following this business session from 5:30 to 6:15 in Ballroom B. There will also be people at the doors as you exit with FAQs around regionalization. There will be another Q&A tomorrow morning from 7:30 to 8:15 in Ballroom B. And these Q&As, they're of the same format, so pick the one that best suits your schedule and we look forward to the conversation together.

Warren Harper:

And our work continues. Thank you for your continued prayers. We heard them, we felt them. They were part of our being while we studied the legislation, listened and passed important pieces of the church future. So we thank you and we are grateful to serve in this way and to have a diverse delegation of expertise, experience, opinion, and skill. Thank you.

Rev. Lindsey Baynham Freeman:

Thank you, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you both. Appreciate it. And thanks to the entire delegation.

In all of the discussion of disaffiliation, we've lost sight that a great part of our church's work is ecumenicism and inter-religious concerns. There are many people who give their life's work to bridging the division between the church. And that has led to our full communion with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America. And we are working toward full connection with, not the Roman Catholic Church, but the Episcopal Church. And so we are delighted to move into an era when we emphasize... We will get there... Where we emphasize the unity of the church and how we're working together to move toward more partnership, more cooperation, more love for each other, to focus on what unites us rather than divides us. And so I am delighted that one of our clergy has really taken this to heart and has studied and taken a whole coursework on ecumenical relations. And I'm going to call upon Rev. Ryan Ware to come forward.

Ryan, on behalf of the United Methodist Church and the Council of Bishops, I give you the certificate of completion and celebrate your commitment and your representation of our annual conference in the ecumenical work of not only Virginia, but of the entire United Methodist Church and the world. Congratulations.

Rev. Ryan Ware:

Thanks Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I see somebody wanting to speak. Microphone four. Let's get the spotlight on. Yay. There it is.

Rev. Drew Enszt:

Beautiful. My name is Drew Enszt, I'm clergy, Northern Virginia, ARISE Campus Ministry. And I'd like to ask to move to suspend the rules in order to pass a resolution for apology for harm done to LGBTQ plus persons.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, the motion is before us to suspend the rules. If you are willing to suspend, is there a second?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If you're willing to suspend the rules, this requires a two thirds vote. Lift your hand. And they are suspended for this continue.

Rev. Drew Enszt:

Bishop, I move in adoption of a resolution for the Virginia Annual Conference for apology for harm done to LGBTQ plus persons. Whereas the Constitution of the United Methodist Church declares that all persons are of sacred worth, our social principles have long affirmed the human and civil rights of all people regardless of race, ethnicity, ability, age, gender, marital status, or sexual orientation. Whereas the postponed 2020 general conference removed the harmful language that LGBTQ plus persons were incompatible with Christian teaching, and removed the harmful bans on LGBTQ plus person serving as clergy, clergy officiating same sex weddings, and same sex weddings occurring in local United Methodist churches. Whereas Jesus says in the gospel according to John in the 13th chapter, "A new command I give you, love one another as I have loved you. So you must love one another. By this, everyone will know that you are my disciples if you love one another."

Whereas one of their general rules is to do no harm, whereas our denomination calls us to accountability and to repent when we fall short of God's kingdom. Whereas members of our annual conference have used photos and social media posts of couples to bring complaints against pastors, couples such as Brittany and Lindsey Caine-Conley, Delin and Sarah Selik, Emily and Elsa Showcomb, other couples who have asked not to be named, and even others who had to temper their sharing of photos and celebrations so that their pastors could participate in their weddings without being brought under complaint. Whereas churches and communities such as Rise have not received care and support when their pastor was under complaint or been suspended as is required in the Book of Discipline. Whereas clergy have had to live in fear of being who God has created them to be and have had to hide part of themselves in fear of retaliation. Whereas based on the harmful language, some people who experience a calling from God to become United Methodist clergy, have had others in our annual conference question the validity of that causing and thus cause great harm.

Therefore, let it be resolved that the Virginia Annual Conference apologizes and earnestly seeks forgiveness for its roles in harm cause to LGBTQ plus persons.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, the resolutions properly before us. Rev. Enszt, would you like to speak on behalf of it? You get the first speech.

Rev. Drew Enszt:

I think again, one of the major things, we are one of the largest annual conferences in the United States. And it's important that we acknowledge the harm that has happened whether by current members or former members. We have heard speech after speech at different annual conferences of the pain, and it's just so important that we acknowledge it and ask for forgiveness. In my college ministry, one of the things that consistently blocks people from wanting to be United Methodist or from wanting to be a part of the clergy of the United Methodist Church is the harmful language that we have just removed at general conference. And I think it would go a long way to specifically name the harm that was done and to apologize to the LGBTQ plus persons on behalf of the whole conference. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Would you shoot us a copy of that in writing so we have it? The secretary's on my case.

Rev. Drew Ens:

It is already been submitted according to the form.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. Now a speech against, do I see any? Is the body ready to move this to a vote? There's microphone eight. I see you in the back.

Robert Horn:

A little too much light. Bishop, I'm Robert Horn, laity member from the Crew Cooperative Parish in the Living Waters District. I oppose this motion or resolution. This seems we've gone a little too far with this. Just as I have seen many requests or recommendations or demands for reparations to the African-American community, and I have spoken with some in that community who have said to me, "I wasn't in bondage. My ancestors were. You weren't a slave owner, so why should you pay reparations to me?" I have gay friends. I don't owe them an apology. I don't think this conference owes them an apology, so I am opposed to this resolution.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. That was a speech against. Speech for? I see the card there. Microphone four.

Rev. Tim Barth: Bishop, Rev. Tim Barth from Mountain View District, disabled. I think we need to add another, whereas I was just talking with Drew, and I remember the first time I encountered somebody who had been removed-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Well then you're doing a motion to amend. State your amendment.

Rev. Tim Barth:

My motion would be to amend to add a whereas that includes persons who have been removed under complaint, or persons who have been removed because of their sexual orientation from local license passed and also complaints.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, we'll move to the... I think it is in order because it's just adding another whereas clause.

Rev. Joshua King:

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Right. But I think they can amend it. So okay, we have the amendment before us to add that clause. Any speeches against that amendment? Okay, the amendment is before us. If you would add that to the resolution, please lift your hands. Okay, that prevails. We just had a speech against. Speech for. How about over, I see you right there in the, I can't even tell what color shirt you have, here in front of the post. Yes. Why don't you go to microphone, what's the nearest microphone? There's not really a close... Nine maybe behind you.

Kaylin Young:

Hi, my name is Kaylin Young. I am from the Living Waters District, and I am a member of the LBGTQ. And I do appreciate people trying to heal wounds. And I'm actually grateful for people realizing that. Because my mother had to comfort me, I felt a calling and I had basically in my mind I had to choose hiding myself or being the person I feel God made me to be. Thank you.

Rev. ReNe'e Teague:

I'm her pastor, not her mama.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Sometimes the two come awfully close. Okay. That was a speech for. Any other speeches against? Okay. Seeing none. Is this a speech against? Okay, microphone two.

George King:

How are you doing? My name is George King, Coastal Virginia St. John United Methodist Church. I'm in agreement with you. I think we get a little bit off track. I believe as you, we should be concerned about making disciples and following Jesus Christ. And I believe should get back to basics, and one of the basics that I'm thinking is we should be about saving souls. And the knowledge is that I look at is that if you love someone you would tell them the good and the bad. And I look at how we tell a child, if the stove is hot and we love them, do we go ahead and let them touch the stove? We'd tell them it's bad. So I use the same analogies with Jesus told us in Revelations 21:8, He tells us those that's going to see the lake of fire. And I think we all can understand the words that's used there. So I invite us to just take that seriously, and each person got to decide what they're going to do with their soul. So I would take look at that seriously and then go from there. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. That was a speech against. Speech for? I'm looking, trying to vary the room. Right here in the front. Microphone three.

Katie Fruman:

Hello, my name is Katie Fruman. I'm laity. I'm from the Three Notch'd District. I think that this is an important step forward to make an apology. We have a lot to apologize for. I have experienced harm as a cis head person for having LGBTQ family members in the Methodist Church. As a child in the Virginia Conference, I have watched my sister who is transgender, be pushed out of the church and away from multiple faith communities. She will not even let somebody wish her Merry Christmas because she has been so harmed by this conference. She is in her thirties and will not step foot near a church and will not let me speak to her about Jesus or anything. I am 37 years old. I'm younger than most of you. And when I tell you that this is how we save souls is by telling LGBTQ people that God loves them and that they are made the way God made them. God loves you whether you're LGBTQ or not. And I do not believe that there is a lake of fire for LGBTQ people or for any of us. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, let's withhold our applause. Is there another speech against? Okay, seeing none, are you going to speak against? Okay, two.

Rev. James Lewis:

James Lewis, Christ Church, Northern Virginia. Is the harm that we are addressing the simple language or is the harm that we're addressing everything that people believe may have radiated from that language? I think to me that's important to distinguish.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. I'm going to ask Rev. Ensz to clarify that for us.

Rev. Drew Ensz:

Could you repeat the question one more time for me? I want to make sure I answer it correctly.

Rev. James Lewis:

I wish to clarify whether the harm for which we're being asked to render apology is for the language that was just excised from the Book Of Discipline. Or is the harm that we are being asked to apologize for other actions such as the ones that my sister referenced that occurred to her and others have referenced?

Rev. Drew Ensz:

I think that for me and the stories that I've heard are the actions and inaction, whether they're intentional or unintentional, that have arisen out of the language that was just changed. And I think as we're hearing right now, there is a multitude of stories of personal harm done to persons or harm done to others that we should apologize for.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay. A speech against, I don't think that was a speech against. That was a question. I'm looking for a speech against. I see one card there. Microphone three. Microphone three or six. Pick your pick.

Rob Getty:

Rob Getty, lay leader, Dahlgren United Methodist Church Mission Rivers. I have no problem with the motion, but my objection is the manner in which we're doing this. I am willing to wager 95% of the people in this room could not clearly explain the motion and all of the subtleties of it to their home church if they were to sit there and be put on the spotlight right now. We've already had people trying to amend it. We've had people still trying and clarify. This is the most important thing we've had happen in our conference and our denomination in a long time. Let's get it right. Don't vote on it today. Farm it out, get it polished properly and when it's ready bring it back.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I do think you raise a good point. I think what I would like to do is to receive it in writing, to distribute it. How can we distribute it to everybody? We did this last year, if you'll recall when there was request to study the regionalization stuff more the night of. So why don't we get this posted and available to you tonight and we will bring it to the floor in the morning for a vote.

Rev. Joshua King:

Should I offer a proper motion for that?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Certainly I would invite a proper motion for that.

Rev. Joshua King:

I move that we table this motion for the communications team to be able to properly put this before all of us and have it in our hands and that it would be before us tomorrow morning.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Any discussion? Let's just move it all in favor of that? Opposed? Okay. I think that is a reasonable request. I think we want to honor everybody's, and I think this is an important thing to consider and weigh and to look at the language of. So we will do that. I thank you for your holy conferencing. I thank you for your attention. I thank you for a good first day. I want to note, we're about 15 minutes ahead. And just noting, oh, somebody's waving from microphone eight. Hope it doesn't take 15 minutes, but it might.

Frank Esposito:

I'm properly advised Bishop. I am Frank Esposito. I worship at Burke Methodist in the Northern Virginia District. And I believe I must ask for a waiver of the rules in order to discuss the petition for a net-zero greenhouse gas emission by 2050.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Right. I'm going to bring that to the floor tomorrow. So I think we will handle both of these tomorrow.

Frank Esposito:

Excellent.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, good. Thank you. I haven't forgotten that. We know that's coming. Yes. Microphone one.

Carol Ann Kay:

This is a question.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay.

Carol Ann Kay:

My name is Carol Ann Kay. My name is Carol Ann Kay. I am 72 years old, as far as the age category is concerned. I'm a Celtic white woman. I am straight. I'm the lay leader of Pender United Methodist Church. And my question following your comments about ecumenism and reaching out is to how are we as a conference addressing the people who have heard the words, "If you feel uncomfortable, go to the Baptist church down the street. Perhaps you're in the wrong room." And the multitude of very, very heartbroken, heartfelt pain and agony of those people who are leaving in one way or another.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you for that question. I want to clarify that. I will say I received an email from a former leader of the church and she wondered why in our webinar I had asked people to leave. I watched that webinar again. The first thing I said was, "I don't want anybody to leave the United Methodist Church. I want everybody to stay. I want everybody to stay who was willing to be in a place where not everybody agrees." And so what I said was, and if you look at the webinar, what I said was, "If you are uncomfortable and choose to stay to foment discontent, to foment disunity, to foment division and are not willing to move forward, enjoy with," we disagree on many different things. Human sexuality is one. How we should address war is another. I'm sure tithing is another. There are a lot of things that we do not disagree on. But what we do agree on is that Jesus Christ is the hope of the world and we are united in our efforts to tell others about him and his redeeming love.

So hear me, and this is what I think Tom Bickerton was saying as well. If you are staying just to create division, divisiveness and disunity, there are other places where you will be comfortable and you'll be free to express your faith. If you can live in a place, and the United Methodist Church has always been one of those arenas where we agree to disagree, but we agree on the major doctrines of the church and we go forth together, then please stay and I welcome you to stay. But the time of the ugliness is over. And if you just are going to sit in a congregation...

And I will add that for 20 years I came to a church where I disagreed and I stayed and I didn't stay to convince anybody I was right or my attitude was the only way. But I stayed because I value multiple opinions. I value different interpretation of scripture. I value bearing with each other in love and having discussion about deep matters of the faith and loving each other through that. And that's the church I want to be a part of. So I only, please hear me and hear me well, I mourn. I have cried so many tears over every lost person in the United Methodist Church. It is a heartbreaking time and I am deeply grieved by it. But I'm also really tired of constant friction, ugliness, division in our churches. I am sick and tired of misrepresentation. I am sick and tired of underhanded efforts. And I'm sick and tired of folks who don't realize that there are 70% of our culture who have no church, that they could be out recruiting rather than recruiting in our United Methodist churches.

So that is where I stand. I will always be honest with you and lay it on the line, but I hope that we can move forward. And if your stomach is twisted and your gritting your teeth and you hate every moment you're part of this, there are places where you will feel more comfortable. And I think as an act of pastoral care, I would like you to go there. So that is the final word for the day. I'm going to call Rev. Chenda Lee to come forward and give us our closing prayer for the day.

Rev. Chenda Lee:

Let us pray. God of our weary ears, God of our silent tears, Thou who has brought us thus far on the way, Thou who has by Thy might let us into Your light, keep us forever in Your path we pray. We give you thanks for the gift of gathering of holy conferencing. We give you thanks for the work that has been done by all gathered on this day. And we pray, oh God, that as we are led out of this place, and as we bring this time of conferencing to an end, that You will lead our spirits to find the courage to say all will be well because we are Yours. That You will lead our spirits to find the ability to live one moment and one day at a time. That You will lead our spirits to serenity and a peace which the world cannot give. That You will lead our spirits to know that with Your power, we can cope with whatever comes our way. You'll lead our spirits to know that we are destined, not for division, but for unity by the power of Your spirit that goes before us. And as we leave this place this day, grant us Your grace, grant us your mercy. Grant us patience and grant us, oh God, the ability to continue to proclaim the goodness of Your love for all of us. We pray this in the name of Christ. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you Rev. Lee. We stand in recess until 8:30 tomorrow morning. Thank you.

Friday Morning, June 21, 2024

Rev. Woo Kang, VAUMC AC Teacher 2024, Associate Pastor of The Nett Church and the Lead Pastor of At The Table in the North Georgia Conference

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck, VAUMC AC Teacher 2024, pastor, professor, and author

{June 21 began with Singing our Faith, Rev. Drew Willson and the AC 2024 Band led the body in singing several songs.}

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And a big thank you to Drew Willson. He has spent hours leading our worship. Thank you, Drew. Fantastic. Well, I call back into order the 242nd session of the Virginia Annual Conference and we always open with prayer. And our prayer this morning will be led by Blair Ellis of the Mission Rivers District.

Blair Ellis:

Let us pray. Almighty God, we thank you for this day that you have made. Another day that gives us freedom of choice and the opportunity to do your will as we move forward in supporting our United Methodist mission, of making disciples for you, our triune God for the transformation of the world. We are so blessed by you and covet your grace and wisdom as we continue your work. We remember from our conferencing yesterday that our church has a lot of work to do, that we need to consciously look for joy and spread love as Jesus told his disciples, and that we must remember in our lonely and dark moments that there is a grid and we are on it.

You are always with us. Infuse us with the Holy Spirit. Help us listen, understand and discern as we hear reports, recognitions, just compensation, pensions, and other important matters. We ask that you be with us this afternoon as we remember our friends, colleagues, loved ones and family members who left us during the past year and have joined with you in heaven for eternal life. We miss our friends and family but know that they're with you and that helps us bring comfort with our grief. As we continue to connect with those around us as part of this holy conferencing, we praise your name and ask that you help us down the path that you want us to follow. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you. Thank you very much. One thing that we truly believe as followers of Christ is that God gives everybody a voice and that God wants everyone's gifts to be shared and voice to be heard. And as part of that, we have a monitoring report this morning, so I invite Rev. Lauren Wright and Rev. Jenny Day forward to give their report.

Rev. Lauren Wright:

Good morning. Thank you, Bishop. Friends, my name is Lauren Wright. I'm a young adult clergy person serving on the Coastal Virginia District at Messiah United Methodist Church. I am a white female and I use the pronouns she and her.

Rev. Jenny Day:

I'm Jenny Day and I am no longer a young adult clergy woman, but that's okay. Happens to all of us. The best of us. I serve on the Shenandoah River District and I am a white female who uses the pronouns she and her.

Lauren Wright:

And as a friendly reminder, COSROW is monitoring all of our sessions and it is really uncomfortable to make assumptions about all of these things. So if you are comfortable sharing as much of your demographic information as possible when you speak, whether it's from the platform or the floor, COSROW would appreciate that in our best monitoring efforts. But I want to tell you about a small group gathering that happened at my local church a few weeks ago. I was sitting with a group of adults talking around a table. Several of our church kids were playing in the sanctuary within ear and eye sight of this adult group. We noticed that our kids were playing church. As they were sitting in our sanctuary, a four-year-old little girl stood behind the Holy Communion table. She had her arms raised practicing the motions of what it looked like to play church together, that she has seen time and time again from being formed in our faith community.

And when they were done playing churches, I had crept in the sanctuary and was watching. A kindergarten boy came up to me and he said, "Pastor Lauren, are boys allowed to be pastors too?" Moments like that, they really touched my heart because as a denomination, as a society, as a church, we have come a long way. We have come a long way thanks to the hard and faithful work of so many women, clergy and lay for generations making it possible for this five-year-old boy to not have a second thought about what it means for a female to be his pastor. But at the same time, we still have a lot of work to do. For as many stories as I've got about cute children playing church and the chancel of little boys wondering if men are in fact allowed to be pastors, there are more women, clergy and lay, from preschool age through adulthood who have had their calls to ministry invalidated either explicitly by those who are in authority or implicitly by the ways that they are treated, by opportunities for which they are passed over.

And even in the very language that is used in worship, we are teaching our theology and doctrine through the words that we use, but also through our actions. My friends, this is where each and every one of us comes in because the little ones, they are watching. They're watching as they listen to the words that we say and they're listening to the postures that we hold. They're watching us when we preside at table and they're watching us when we respond to them as they come to us with questions and share their hopes and dreams. Our job as people of faith who want to continue to nurture the faith is to continue to make space for all in the church right now and in the church for generations to come.

Jenny Day:

This is why the work on the Commission On the Status and Role Of Women, or COSROW, is so important. This is why the work of our siblings on the Commission of Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy and the Commission on Disabilities is so important to show that all people are welcome in the church and more importantly, to let all people know that God's grace is for them. And keeping this in mind, one of the main focuses of Virginia's COSROW this past year has been on language we use and especially when speaking about God. The United Methodist book of Resolutions affirms the use of language that reflects the longstanding commitment to the inclusiveness and diversity of United Methodist members and communities. The church as an institution acknowledges that God has no gender, yet we still heavily include gender-specific language and symbolism in our worship practices and communications.

Now this doesn't mean that we let go of God as father or God as he. It just means that we open and broaden the language that we use to be more inclusive of the other ways we can use to describe God. Because when we limit our language about God, it can create barriers for women and girls and others to see themselves the way that God does: in God's very image. COSROW has been partnering with Allison Hickey who is the president and CEO of All In Solutions, which works with Veteran Affairs. She is a retired Brigadier General in the United States Air Force and has her Master of Theological Studies from Wesley Seminary. Currently, Allison is working on her Doctorate of Ministry, which is focusing building an online source for gender-neutral or affirming resources that can be used among the Virginia Annual Conference, other United Methodist Conferences, and even other denominations.

This site will include gender-neutral or affirming prayers, songs, biblical readings and scripture from Bible versions noted for reducing gender language for God. It will also include sermon templates and slides. The theological focus of this effort is described in relation to John Wesley's theology of equal worth, believing as we adjust our language and symbology about God, we will broaden our vision and understanding of God, which will then have the power to change the way we see all of God's children. Friends, we need your help in this endeavor. Allison has put together a survey focusing on the use of inclusive languages and resources in our local churches. So we encourage and invite you to stop by the COSROW booth in the display center and fill out a paper survey or scan the QR code to fill it out online. As Allison's site becomes available, we hope that you will use it as a resource to broaden the language used in church. Let us be intentional in our speaking and in our living, that we would show others that they too have a place in the kingdom of God. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you Rev. Wright and Rev. Day. And now it's my great honor and privilege to introduce Dr. Scott Miller. He is the president of Virginia Wesleyan University and he is bringing our report from United Methodist College Presidents. And if you haven't been to Virginia Wesleyan, you need to go over and see what a beautiful and vibrant place it is. And I thank Dr. Miller for a lot of that.

Scott D. Miller:

Thank you. Thank you, Bishop. Good morning friends. On behalf of my presidential colleagues, Mirta Martin of Ferrum College, David Wesley of Randolph-Macon Academy, Robert Lindgren of Randolph-Macon College and Tracy Fitzsimmons of Shenandoah University, I'm delighted to be here with you today. I am Scott Miller, president of Virginia Wesleyan University and I speak on behalf of your five United Methodist Church affiliated schools, colleges, and universities in Virginia. There is a sixth United Methodist institution in Virginia, Emory and Henry College, who regularly interacts with our membership, but they're a part of the Holston conference unfortunately. And a seventh institution, Randolph College, who claims a historic relationship but sadly disaffiliated during the of church controversy and the pandemic. Together, we enrolled 13,000 students in the 2023/24 academic year at your United Methodist Church affiliated colleges in Virginia. That is impactful. Earlier this week I attended the meeting of the 84 United Methodist College and University presidents from across the country. I was there not only as a lifelong United Methodist and a career United Methodist higher education administrator, but also as the president of Virginia Wesleyan University. And I might add that I was also there as the former president of the North American Association of Methodist Schools, Colleges and Universities, a group that I led during the pandemic and the critical period of change within the church. So my comments today will focus on your Virginia institutions and also in the context of United Methodist higher education nationwide.

I'd like to open by expressing the joy and relief from my colleagues at the colleges and universities in Virginia regarding the monumental decision and the bold commitment of the United Methodist Church to serve the spiritual needs of all people rather than extending grace to a select few. Many of our institutions pride themselves on their inclusive and diverse communities. This decision aligns our campuses and churches in a way that has not been felt for many decades. This momentous decision marks a new era of inclusivity where every individual, regardless of their background, is embraced with open arms. It's a testament to our shared belief in the dignity and worth of every person. Our campuses have always been microcosms of society, reflecting a broad spectrum of cultures, beliefs, and perspectives. By fostering an environment where every student feels valued and accepted, we're preparing the next generation to lead with empathy and understanding.

Secondly, I'd like to compliment Bishop Haupt-Johnson for restoring confidence in the church in Virginia during a challenging period. Her steadfast leadership and commitment to transparency have been instrumental in guiding us through uncertain times. Under her guidance, we've seen a renewed spirit of unity and purpose across our united Methodist institutions, reinforcing our shared values of inclusivity and compassion. Thirdly, the Book of Reports contains crucial details about each of our campuses' significant events. Please, it's a lot of information [inaudible 00:38:41].

... Dedicated to ensuring that all students and staff feel supported on their personal spiritual journeys, regardless of which faith or which gender they choose to embrace. Our commitment to inclusivity is reflected in our efforts to provide equitable access to education and resources. We're investing in programs that address the unique needs of our students, from mental health support to career development opportunities. By fostering an environment where every individual feels seen and heard, we're nurturing a community of learners who are empowered to make a positive impact in the world. I close with a reminder and a bold statement on behalf of my presidential colleagues. Our public college colleagues in Virginia, many of whom have Wesley Foundations, have been funded at record levels by the Commonwealth of Virginia, but they're also receiving much more money from the church than your United Methodist affiliated institutions in the name of protecting physical assets. A reality, should those physical assets go away on those state college campuses, those institutions would still find a way to support ministries there.

Your United Methodist related institution institutions are much more than your physical assets and depend on private donations from you as individuals and from the church for critical support. We don't have the state to rely on during challenging times in our higher education economy, yet of the last 10 years, our financial support has severely declined despite significant investments at Public College Ministries. I urge you, we urge you to get to know these five institutions well and make their health and well-being your highest educational priority. I mentioned the meeting earlier this week of the Methodist presidents. A bishop who's been a friend for a long time shared some thoughts. He offered these words on the church's role in supporting United Methodist higher education, and I'll quote him.

"In the tumultuous times in higher education in the church, the most important thing I can do as Bishop, that clergy can do, that annual conference delegates can do, is to make our institutions a priority and not a second option. We should openly be making United Methodist higher education the top priority." I challenge all of us to do the same thing. It's a great and historic time to be a united Methodist and to lead a united Methodist institution, and we applaud the courage of many in this room to get to where we are today. Together, we're not just building institutions of higher learning, we're creating communities of faith, compassion, and innovation. Let us continue to work together, inspired by our shared values and driven by our collective vision for a brighter future. I thank you very much.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Thank you, Dr. Miller. Oh, I see a card. Six, please.

Rev. Devon Maust Earle:

I would like to make a response to the speech, if that's appropriate.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. I think that's appropriate, in order.

Rev. Devon Maust Earle:

My name is Devon Maust Earle. I am the campus minister and director at Wesley at UVA, and I would like to thank our Virginia Conference for the support that you give to our United Methodist colleges and universities as well as to our campus ministries. We could not do what we do without you and we do need your support. I want to talk about abundance. Rather than sharing a pie, we get to share the pie together. And so as we think about funding our United Methodist universities, I also ask that that be shared with us in United Methodist Campus Ministries. Yes, you do fund us, but as we continue to need support to bring up the next generation of United Methodists and United Methodist leaders, we need continued support. So I ask that our support not be reduced, but that we just continue to share out of abundance with just the United Methodist Schools and our United Methodist Campus Ministries. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay. I now recognize Rev. Jessie Colwell, who is our director of Clergy Excellence and does a tremendous job. Rev. Colwell, come on and let's have your report. Thank you.

Rev. Tammy Estep:

The licensing class of 2024: Martha Arullia Allen, Pamela Becker-Bentley, Dinah Bondzia, Stephen Wayne Carr, Jason Michael Corron, Michael Anthony Cuffee Jr, Sean Michael Gray, Richie Keith Jordan, Benjamin C. Kent, Chanmi Lee, Sangjung Lee, Yoonsik Lee, Leah Michelle McGlynn, Joseph Lennox Mazure, Annette Northan Austin, Kwame Owusu Ansah, Stephen Blake Poore, Justin Bradley Robbins, Katie Ann Rolka, Michael Frank Russell, Andrew Jeremiah Ryu, J.R. Serrano, Timothy J. Stark, Jacob Edward Thomason, Donna R. Tucker, and Meredith Dean Webb, Meredith has a presentation from the licensed local pastor class of 2024.

Rev. Meredith Webb:

Good morning. My name is Meredith Webb. I'm a white young adult clergywoman from the Valley Ridge District and I speak on behalf of this year's licensing school class. For eight days in May, we gather to fellowship, worship and learn from some of the most gifted minds and talented pastors in our conference. To each of our instructors, the design team, our beloved Crystal Sygeel and Dean Brian Johnson, I offer my deepest gratitude on behalf of this year's class. Bishop Sue joined us one evening of licensing school for an insightful Q&A, inspiring worship and joyful fellowship. Bishop Sue's presence with us made us feel valued, known, and really, really cool. We would like to return the favor by offering you, Bishop Sue, a gift from all of us.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Oh, wow.

Rev. Meredith Webb:

The evening Bishop Sue has spent with us, she shared her joy and her love for the local church. She talked about her beginnings in local church ministry, her longing for the work of loving a congregation and delighting in the joy of the ordinary of local church. Words and stories that were sweet music to the anxious and ambitious ears and weary souls of first-time pastors that have been working towards this moment for years. Bishop Sue, your words will not soon be forgotten. To celebrate our time together and to commemorate this historic time in the UMC, we, the Licensing School class of 2024, would like to present you with this stole.

We selected this stole for a few reasons. One, it's color. Green for ordinary times. Not only the liturgical season, but to celebrate the ordinary work of the local church that witnesses to the extraordinary work of God. The bold display of the word joy to show there is joy in the ordinary. There is joy in the UMC and there is joy in Christ. The rainbow colors that make up the inside of the word joy to commemorate the historic, and yes, joyful full inclusion of LGBTQIA+persons into the life of the UMC. Embroidered on the inside are the words, "For the joy of the local church, Licensing School class of 2024." So again, thank you Bishop Sue and to all involved in Licensing School who make us the licensed locals and provisional members possible.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you all. I'm glad it doesn't have a chicken wing on it.

Rev. Tammy Estep:

And now the commissioning class of 2024. As provisional deacons: Bradley Dean Duty, Laura Rose Vinnitsa, Joseph Henry Clemens, As provisional elders: Madison Long Ailingier, Donovan Hector Archie, Timothy Matthew Blake, Lauren Leigh Geraghty, Betsy Taylor Hudson, H.K. Kim, Eric D. Kleppinger, Jeong Seung Lee, Ashley Nicole Oliver-Thomas, Blaine Hunter Oliver-Thomas, Yosvany Pereira Proenza.

And finally, the ordination class of 2024. For full membership as a deacon: Renee Kiger Delgado and Andrew Christian Labar-Dietz. For full membership as an elder: MiRahng Bae,. Chad Thomas Beck, Robin Garman BeMiller, Brian Thomas Boettcher, Daniel Harrison Burch, Jonathan Steven Greer, Patrick Stevens Pillow, Keith Lee Vernon, and Han Yee.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

It's my honor and privilege before the whole annual conference, the Book of Discipline says that the Bishop as the chief pastor of the annual conference shall work and meet and pray over and discuss the historic questions with those being ordained into full connection in the United Methodist Church. These questions have been asked of every ordinand since the beginning of the Wesleyan movement and this is a high and holy moment as they have prayed over these questions, we have discussed these questions and now I ask them publicly before you. First, have you faith in Christ?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you going on to perfection?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Do you expect to be made perfect in love in this life?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you earnestly striving after it?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you resolved to devote yourself wholly to God and God's work?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Do you know the general rules of our church?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Will you keep them?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Have you studied the doctrines of the United Methodist Church?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

After full examination, do you believe that our doctrines are in harmony with the holy Scriptures?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And this traditional question is for the elders, but deacons do this as well. Will you preach and maintain them?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Have you studied our form of church discipline and polity?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Do you approve our church government and polity?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Will you support and maintain them?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

We pondered this in the clergy session. This question is traditional for the deacon, but I think you see it applies to elders as well. Will you exercise the ministry of compassion?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Will you diligently instruct the children in every place?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Will you visit from house to house, and I add, not just the houses of members?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Will you recommend fasting or abstinence, both by precept and example?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you determined to employ all your time in the work of God?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Are you in debt so as to embarrass you in your work?

Ordinands in unison:

No.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Good answer. It's harder and harder. Will you observe the following directions? Be diligent. Never be unemployed. Never be triflingly employed. Never trifle away time, neither spend any more time at any one place than is strictly necessary. Be punctual. Do everything exactly at the time and do not mend our rules but keep them not for wrath, but for conscience's sake. And now I ask those being ordained as elders in full connection. These are my additions, but you'll see why they're important. Will you go where you are sent?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And the last one, will you stay away from where you have been?

Ordinands in unison:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Good. I want to say that if you have any doubt about the future of the United Methodist Church, spend some time with any of our folks who are licensed local pastors, provisional elders or deacons and these folks in full connection. Their calls are amazing. God is mightily at work and I am overjoyed to see where God is leading the United Methodist Church and the Virginia Annual Conference under the leadership of these folks. And I invite you to greet them. I also ask, you'll be tempted to leave tomorrow. I know lots of stuff happening at home, but if you want to really savor the joy of the church, stay for the ordering of ministry service tomorrow, as we welcome and celebrate God at work in these lives. We welcome you all.

Rev. Tammy Estep:

That concludes our report, but again, I too want to invite you to the celebration where these candidates will be recognized fully and welcomed into their ministry. So we will see you tomorrow.

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

We continue on this morning with the Just Compensation Task Force reports. And you'll see the committee is behind me and they have done a lot of hot, hard and holy work for you all as you have asked them to do last annual conference and we are excited to bring to you the work we have done led by the Holy Spirit. Again, I'm Rev Jessie Caldwell, director of Clergy Excellence. White, middle-aged female. There's a couple of us here. Yes, me. And she, her and hers are my pronouns. I'm the chair of the Just Compensation Task Force. Last year, a lay member named Ms. Terri Chaplin of the Mountain View District expressed genuine concern about the financial well-being of our clergy. This led the conference to adopt the amended motion to increase the minimum salary by $1000 for full-time clergy in each category for 2024.

Out of that same concern regarding the compensation of clergy across our conference, another motion was made by the Rev Dr. Janine Howard of the Northern Virginia District. She said a work group should be created by the annual conference to study housing allowances for clergy and make recommendations to create consistent and equitable practices for setting the allowances. This work group would include representation from various boards and agencies of the Virginia Conference that would pertain to clergy housing. Our committee met seven times for very long hours and additional times in smaller work groups. We made an informational video that included our full reports and the pre-work videos and you can also find our reports on the book of reports on page 43 through 47. And we also have a web link for you to go to view additional materials. Our task force studied our own clergy housing statistics and the practices of various United Methodist conferences in the Southeastern jurisdiction and beyond. We are pleased to share the results of our work.

Our foremost achievement has been the development of the Virginia Conference Annual Housing Review Worksheet. This facilitates a comparison of five suitable homes within the same zip code, factoring in utility costs for heating and air conditioning. This tool is designed for use by staff parish relations committees in collaboration with the district superintendent to accurately calculate just in equitable clergy housing allowances. Our second finding was the need to provide education to clergy and churches through a collaborative effort with key stakeholders such as the Office of Clergy Excellence, the Board of Ordained Ministry, and the Office of Pensions and Benefits. We developed a pamphlet entitled "Pastor Leontine Wesley", which shows you what it looks like financially for a clergy person in their first year of ministry. This will be used as a tool for educational training this coming year. We plan to provide educational trainings around unique clergy tax regulations and maximizing clergy tax benefits and clergy debt reduction and financial wellness.

In summary, a lot of the work that we did as a committee has already been implemented in the updated cabinet housing policy and through the equitable compensation reports, which you are about to hear. In our research, we found that clergy housing allowances were affected by salaries. Bishop, I would like to make a motion that the Just Compensation Task Force continue its work for another year to study clergy compensation in the Virginia Conference in its totality and present its findings and recommendations pertaining to this topic to the 2025 Virginia Annual Conference. This study will include but will not be limited to examining salary statistics, identifying documented inequities and exploring minimum parsonage standards.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, the motion's before us. There's a second on the front row. Thank you for being on top of that. Any discussion on proposal? I see no cards, so I am going to move it to a vote. Oh, there's a hand waving. Four. Microphone four. All I saw was the card over the four. I didn't see the person.

Rev. Michael Nelson:

Michael Nelson, clergy, white male. Cis-het. Middle-aged, I suppose. I serve St. James on the Mission Rivers District. I submitted what I labeled as a motion through the form. Perhaps it works as an amendment to the report. Not sure which since the report includes minimum personage standards.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Right. Go ahead and state your... Well, if it's an amendment, go ahead and state your amendment. We'll talk about it like that. I think that's the easiest thing.

Rev. Michael Nelson:

So the text that I submitted is I move that the Virginia Annual Conference create a task force or refer to the appropriate existing body to study and consider adding to the minimum standards for personage and annual parsonage review, regular standardized professional inspection of health hazards, including but not limited to mold, mildew, lead paint, asbestos and radon.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Any discussion on this or is this something that we should just vote on? Okay. If you'd be willing to approve this amendment to the report, lift your hand. Thank you. That will be added to more stuff for you to do. Isn't that fun? No, I think that's entirely appropriate and I think that's a good idea. Now we're back to the main motion, the report of the Just Compensation Task Force. Any other discussion? Okay, seeing none. I'm going to move this to a vote. If you would approve their report, please raise your hand. If you don't approve, same sign. And I think we all need to thank them for tremendous work and they've moved us ahead.

Rev. Jessie Colwell:

Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you all. It seemed like every time I turned around they were at the office meeting, so I appreciate their work so much. And now I introduce Rev. Tom Durrance to bring us our equitable compensation report. Rev. Durrance?

Rev. Tom Durrance:

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, members of the annual conference and guests, you can find the updated Equitable Compensation Commission Report on page 36 of the official packet. The purpose of the commission is to ensure that the clergy dedication to the itinerant process is supported by the local churches. The Equitable Compensation Commission provides salary support, ensuring adequate compensation for our clergy. In 2023 through the work of the commission, the Virginia Conference supported 27 charges across the conference, totaling $168,545. These funds ensured that our clergy received minimal compensation or the appropriate salary supplementation. The commission in consultation with the cabinet recommends an increase of 3% for 2025 minimum compensation schedule. The minimum compensation would be $47,400 for full connection pastors, $42,700 for provisional and associate members and $40,200 for local pastors. The commission also reviews the floor schedule, which is the amount the church must contribute to be eligible for equitable compensation salary support grant. For 2024, the commission recommends that the 2024 schedule remain the same for 2025, be the same as 2024. Bishop Johnson and I move that the recommended minimum compensation schedule and the floor schedule be approved as presented.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. The equitable compensation report is before us. Thank you. I've got a reliable second here. We'll get you your special name badge for that. Any discussion on the equitable compensation report? The floor is open for that now. I see, go to microphone nine.

Rev. Brett Isernhagen:

Thank you, Bishop. Brett Isernhagen, clergy, Shenandoah River District. White male, young by age, but not by lower back. The financial well-being of our clergy is a very important matter, especially as someone who serves a small church for the minimum compensation. And I think we all deserve and need some help, but I would encourage the conference to find a more nuanced solution because simply raising the minimum and asking our small churches who make up the majority of the conference to find the money as they're already struggling to meet their current overhead as they revitalize and restart and reform, I'm fearful of us raising compensation to the level that they can't afford the pastors that they need. I've moved from two or three churches purely because they couldn't afford me anymore, not because we couldn't do good work together. And that breaks my heart, it breaks their hearts and I think it can get in the way of the work of the Kingdom of God.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Other discussion? There's one. Another one on microphone nine.

Rev. ReNe'e Richie Teague:

I'm Pastor ReNe'e Richie Teague. I serve the Living Waters District at Wesley in Hopewell. I'm 63 years old. My pronouns are she and her and I've had a husband for 40 something years. I need a good wife, but that's a position that's been open for some time. I'm entertaining. But I stand here to say that I've served small churches and I understand the issues with them being able to support our younger clergy and people that are called to serve in rural areas. But I'm also here to say that at $47,400, when you pay your full social security, you take another 8% off of that. That is not enough for these young people and for people that still carry student debt to be able to survive. I have two daughters that have served as school teachers and social workers for 10 years and they make more than that.

They still can't own homes, they can't get married, they can't have children. They can barely make payments, they can't afford cars, they can't afford all of these things. I don't know what the answer is, but I do know that we have a serious, serious problem in paying clergy. I have been a successful pastor for over 20 years and I make 50 grand a year. The problem is massive. It is not a problem for my beautiful staff parish chair to be back here worried about her pastor's inadequate salary. But we do have a problem. We have some that are very well paid and then we have the rest of us. It's something for us to very prayerfully consider and work toward. I see these beautiful young pastors that are willing to commit themselves to this ministry and we need to make certain that they can afford to continue that beautiful work. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. Teague. Microphone eight. Let's hold our applause. Microphone eight.

Brian Lamb:

Brian Lamb, Mission Rivers District. I am a, I guess now middle-aged, adult male. He/him pronouns. Looking at the schedule, I think we're missing a conversation based off of our pay scales. And generally speaking, when someone is offered a salary, it's based off their experience and their education. And we have quite a large licensed local pastor class and I wonder how many of them are coming into ministry with an advanced degree of an MDiv making, I can't see with the light, $40,200. And so I would urge this committee to start factoring in education in the payment. I don't want to force a motion on the floor today to raise a licensed local pastor with an MDiv to a provisional pay.

But to me, the education is equal. It's just one person hasn't been able to go through all the hoops that are required to become a provisional member in that moment. And so I would commend looking at that. But for laity who aren't aware, my seminary payments are equal to my car payment. So I'm going into ministry with a car payment, a seminary payment making, when I was in it was $36,000 a year. And so I would commend us looking at how are we making sure that we are not in debt to be embarrassed by paying us for the debt that we're required to take on to do this work. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay. Microphone nine.

Rev. Diana Johnson:

I'm Diana Johnson with Knotts Island United Methodist Church and I'm a she. I have been with the church for 12 years. It was my first church and I am retiring this year. My concern is the same as the first gentleman. I am three-quarters time because the church couldn't afford any more than that. It is hard for the small churches, the rural churches to be able to afford more. I hate to see more churches going to half-time or three-quarter time pastors because they can't afford any more than that. I wish there was a way for the denomination to help the small churches to be able to afford those salaries that you're asking for. I do think we need better pay, but I don't think that the churches right now can afford to pay more for pastors. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Others? Right here. Microphone three.

Lisa Yates:

Hi, my name is Lisa Yates. I am an older adult, young at heart, cisgendered white female and I use the pronouns she and her. I have a question. There have been some very serious concerns. I don't know whether part of the solution is to reduce the floor schedule, but if we choose not to approve this because we have concerns about meeting the salaries, what happens?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, good question. I think we have the Just Compensation Task Force. I think we all are aware of these issues on a daily basis. I know the cabinet struggles with this constantly and I think we do need some creative solution. Obviously we need alternative funding sources and we need folks to tithe. There's a lot of issues here that we need to address as a church. It's not an easy fix. The burdens fall unevenly, but they're either going to fall on the church or on the clergy and we shouldn't have to make that divide. So I think what we can do is ask the clergy Just Compensation Task Force to look into this and to really, I know I've worked since I've gotten here to look for alternative funding sources. And I think that's a really important thing.

It is just difficult in a situation where churches are in flux. We have an aging demographic. There's a lot of issues involved here that we're not going to resolve in an hour on the conference floor, but I think it helps to know that we have people who are working on this and if you feel passionate about this, send us your name and we will add you to this discussion. But these are the daily conversations that I and the cabinet have with churches and clergy every day. And we are more than aware of the issues involved. So I'm going to take one more. I realize, I think we've highlighted the problems. I think we agree on the problems. I don't think we're unaware of the problems, but they are thorny issues and very difficult to come to some conclusions with. So go ahead. Number one.

Rev. Mike Nelson:

Good morning everyone. My name is Mike Nelson. I'm a member at large in the Three Notch'd District and I identify as a sheep in the Church of Christ. So I'm grateful to be here today. Something that's been on my heart for a long time and I'd like to make a suggestion, if that would be in order.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Certainly.

Rev. Mike Nelson:

We are a connectional system. We are a connectional church and we need to really honor that. And the churches that are very small and the churches that are very large, if we worked together on this, I think there's some opportunity by centralizing clergy pay. If we were to make clergy pay an apportionment that's paid to the conference and then clergy are paid from the conference, there'd be an equitable move forward for everyone. There would not be these massive jumps in salaries that we see from people. There would be a way for people to serve where their gifts are needed versus where they need to make funds. I think that would be a real benefit to the community, to the community of clergy and to the community of churches. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. We'll certainly turn that over to the Just Compensation group. Okay, microphone two. Just looking at the clock, just saying.

Chris Reffett:

Morning, Bishop. Chris Reffett, layperson, Three Notch'd District, Wesley Memorial UMC. I have a request for information actually. We've heard several people mention during this there are concerns about student loans and that has the committee looked at that at all as a specific problem that they're trying to address?

Rev. Tom Durrance:

The Just Compensation, we're factoring that in.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

The Board of Pensions is looking at that as well. There's many groups looking at that.

Rev. Tom Durrance:

We're looking at a couple of things.

Chris Reffett:

Thank you. That's all.

Rev. Tom Durrance:

Yes, we're looking.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Microphone two.

Rev. Wayne Snead:

Bishop, Wayne Snead. Three Notch'd District. Retired, so that can tell you about my age. I call for the question.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. The question has been called. This requires the two-thirds vote. It'll move us immediately to a vote on the pending motion. If you would approve the question being called, please lift your hand. Opposed. Same sign. Okay. We're going to move directly to the vote on the report of the Equitable Compensation Committee. If you would approve this report, lift your hand. If you're opposed, same sign. And I think all of us realize that as we pass this report, all of us have kind of sick feelings in our stomachs and we have got to figure out a way forward in a time of... We've come through a lot. Unrest, disaffiliation, COVID.

I know a lot of folks struggle with folks not coming back after COVID, but let's claim a future with hope and say we're in this together. And God willing, we'll figure out the God of abundance, the God who holds all things. We'll figure this out. And I don't think God will desert the church. So let's move forward. Hopefully we have really good minds working on this and we are well aware of the issues involved. So thank you for your report. Thank you to the Equitable Compensation Group for their work, and we'll move forward with a lot to think about. So thank you.

Rev. Tom Durrance:

Amen, thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. I am going to give you a five-minute stand break because I've got to figure out something while you do that.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. I know you want to sit down and be ready for the election of your new leadership for the next quadrennium. And when the lay leader gets back, we'll...

Okay, I am going to turn this over to Rev. Joshua King for the election of our leadership for the next quadrennium.

Rev. Joshua King:

Thank you, Bishop. I move that for the next quadrennium, Mrs. Heather Lockerman be our Conference Chancellor, Mr. Dwayne Stinson be our Director of Connectional Ministries for Discipleship and Congregational Vitality, Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page be our Director of Connectional Ministries for Creativity and Innovation, and Mrs. Martha Stokes to be our Conference Lay Leader, and that Mr. David Dommissie be our Conference Treasurer.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. We have these gifted leaders before us for election for the next quadrennium. If you will elect them, I ask you to raise your hand. Okay, thank you. Opposed, same. And they are duly elected. Yay. Okay, Rev. King, part two.

Rev. Joshua King:

I move that the election of the Annual Conference Committee as found in the nominations addendum on page 12, and the Board of Ordained Ministry addendum on page 38 of the digital official packet.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. We are looking at all of the nominations found in your nominations addendum, and the Board of Ordained Ministry members as well. If you would approve these elections for the next quadrennium, please raise your hand. Thank you. Opposed, same sign. And they are duly elected. One more. Okay.

Rev. Joshua King:

In addition to the nominations from the Conference Nominations Team, the Virginia Conference Historical Society has a list of nominations for election to their Board of Trustees. Their nominations team has worked to identify persons to serve and those trustees will require Conference election. And so I move to elect those nominations that have been submitted to the Conference Secretary.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Y'all are good. If you would approve these elections to the historical board, please lift a hand. Opposed, same sign. And they're duly elected. And so now Martha Stokes, please join me at the... Rev. Estep?

Rev. Tammy Estep:

Bishop, on page 78 is a list of those that have been nominated by you and me to serve on the Board of Ordained Ministry and they were selected by us and not the nominating committee. I just want to make sure that they are elected too.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Got you. Okay, let's make sure that the Board of Ordained Ministry is elected. You have been given the reference number. If you'll elect these folks, please just raise your hands. And I think they're duly elected. Thank you for that correction, Rev. Estep.

Now I would like all who have just been elected to stand. And I would like, just our first part of this consecration moment, I would like us all to say the Apostle's Creed together because I'm tired of us being told we don't believe in the Apostle's Creed and I want our Conference leadership to affirm this together. So let us do this.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, Creator of Heaven and Earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only son, our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried. The third day he rose from the dead. He ascended into heaven and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty. From thence, he shall come to judge the quick and the dead. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Holy Catholic Church, the communion of saints, the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting. Amen.

May it also be duly noted that most people in here knew that by heart. But I ask all of the leaders of the Annual Conference for the next quadrennium to stand and I want to offer a prayer over you and then I'll ask Martha Stokes to have a prayer over you. So I invite you to stand.

Oh Lord, pour out your Holy Spirit on a fresh anointing of these gifted leaders who will lead the Virginia Annual Conference over the next four years. I thank you for their gifts. I thank you for your call on their lives. I pray that you will give them wisdom and courage, that you will give them creativity and joy, that you will give them energy and a new outpouring of your Holy Spirit to lead us in bold and new ways. May their compassion overflow, may their commitment to Christ increase, may their spiritual disciplines be strong and in force, and may you shape them into the leaders you need them to be for such a time as this.

Martha Stokes:

Come, Spirit, come. Fill not just the leaders who are standing who've agreed to serve in Conference leadership roles for the next quadrennium, but fill us all, equip us for the work that's ahead because we do have a lot of work to do. By God we're filled with new energy and new excitement and a sense of renewal and revitalization that I pray, on behalf of each one of us gathered here, just continues to guide our work. Help us to find those 30 minutes, at least, a day to sit and listen, listen for your voice, listen for your call and your vision in our individual lives, our churches, and across our Virginia Conference. Help us continue to serve as the hands and the feet and the heart and the eyes and the mind of Christ in the world today so that all will come to know that the United Methodists of the Virginia Conference are on fire for you and do all that we offer in service to the world in your name to glorify you and your son all under the guidance of your Holy Spirit. All this we ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

We are to the point of the consent agenda, but I'm happy to report there's nothing that requires a vote on the consent agenda, so we'll keep going, okay? Now we have before us the report of the Cabinet and the Dean of the Cabinet, Rev. Denise Bates, who I want to publicly thank for her service on the Cabinet through difficult times and the hard work she put in.

Rev. Denise Bates:

Thank you, Bishop. Thank you. I'm Denise Bates and I am a female clergy. I am a proud senior person, and my pronouns are she and her. And it has been my honor to serve on the Cabinet and to serve as their dean for these last three years of my five year of service on the Cabinet. Bishop Sue, Lay Leader Stokes, members of the Annual Conference, the report of the Cabinet is found on pages 39 and 40 of your Book of Reports. Please also open your official packets and turn to the sheet containing minute questions 10, 11, and 12. The sheet containing the listings of the district committees on ordained ministry and the sheet containing the listing of the district boards of church location and building. These are on pages 17 through 34 of the document. First, I move the approval of the district committees of ordained ministry on page 33 and the district boards of church location and building on page 34.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, there's no second required, but I thank you for coming through with that. The nominees for the district committees on ordained ministry and the district boards of church location are before you. If you would approve their service, please lift a hand. Thank you. No, by the same sign. And they are duly elected.

Rev. Denise Bates:

Thank you. Second, I present minute questions 10, 11, and 12 on the sheet. Bishop, I move approval of minute questions 10, 11, and 12.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, if you would approve these, please lift a hand. Opposed, same sign. And they are approved. Thank you.

Rev. Denise Bates:

Now please turn to the closure resolutions that can be found on pages 30 through 32 of the official packet. Listed are the 13 detailed church closure resolutions before the body for vote. After we vote to recognize the discontinuance of these churches as a group, the bishop will offer a prayer of recognition for the ministries of these churches that have touched the lives of people in their communities. Before we proceed with the vote, you are invited to watch the video on the screens as we remember and celebrate the ministry of these churches.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, I'll refer you back to the official packet from pages 30 to 32 of the workbook of the official packet. That's where you have the detailed resolutions that are listed. The actual text is there. You've heard the report on the closure resolutions. I would again direct you to pages 30 to 32. We will now vote upon these resolutions as a whole. I do see a card. Microphone 2.

Rev. Drew Colby:

My name is Drew Colby. I'm a white adult male. I'm clergy from the Northern Virginia District and my pronouns are he, him, and his. I have a request for information. I noticed that the language of this motion has changed from previous years in that now the property and assets of discontinued churches are being returned to the Conference and not the district in which that church resides. In years past, those assets, including the proceeds from sold church real estate, have stayed on the district. But with the wording of this motion, it sounds like those assets and funds will now go to the Conference. Can you help us understand the reason for that change and the Conference office's vision for how these assets and funds will be stewarded differently by the Conference instead of the districts?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

The trustees... Well, I could hold this out of order because the Discipline does provide that all sold churches, all closed church funds, will go to the Annual Conference trustees.

I think that what we're looking to do is... Well, first of all, every district has significant resources from closure of churches. And the Conference trustees now are looking at how do we pull these resources and how do we have some sort of grant, or how do they approve requests from districts to use these properties. So I still think very little will change. The districts will receive a lot of the benefit of these, but the Annual Conference, much like the Board of Church Location and Building oversees how churches use their funds, the Annual Conference will just make sure that the districts that everything is in order. But I don't foresee that they will deny districts and we will have a clear process for that developed, the trustees know that, over the next year.

So I think this is teamwork. This is the Conference in partnership with the districts and the realization that a lot of the development in the Annual Conference might be in lesser funded districts and that might need to be acknowledged in the future. But I welcome you, Rev. Colby, to serve on that task force as we look into the appropriate oversight. But I think that there is a potential we have to use this money in ways that will foster growth all over the Annual Conference. And so the trustees are going to live into that vision. It will all be transparent, it will all be above board, and if you don't like it, then we can re-examine the process. How's that?

Rev. Drew Colby:

That's great. It would be great to get a briefing on that plan. Just because it's--

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yeah, no, it's being developed and I would love for you to help write that.

Rev. Drew Colby:

It's a significant change that I wanted to just have more information about, so thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Certainly. Certainly. Okay, any other discussion? The closing of these churches... Well, let's do the vote and then we will move into the Time of Lament and Hope. So if you would approve the closure of the churches listed on pages 30 to 32 of the official packet, please lift your hand. Those opposed, same sign. And those churches are closed.

I now invite all of you whose lives have been impacted by the churches on this list to stand. I really see our whole gospel is about death and resurrection. And the sad truth is a lot of times churches close because populations shift, folks die. There's a lot of reasons and we all know that. But what we celebrate is, in God's economy these churches become a legacy for new expressions of the faith. And that's why it's important to look at these resources and use them in ways that help the United Methodist Church move forward to new generations.

But I acknowledge and lament how hard this is. I have overseen charge and church conferences for church closure, and it is never easy. It is always gut-wrenching. So I want to acknowledge with great appreciation and joy the years of ministry that these churches have had and the lives they've touched and the disciples they've made. So let's pray together.

Oh God, we pray that your Holy Spirit, the Comforter, will comfort the hearts that are breaking, will fill the sense of loss with the reminders of the joy's past, the ministries that these churches have provided to their communities, how they've been Christ for decades. We celebrate the weddings performed, the children baptized, the somber funerals held. We celebrate that they were centers of gathering and rejoicing in these communities. They were centers of potluck dinners and covered dishes and all sorts of fun times.

We ask, oh Lord, that you help us celebrate their legacy as we mourn their loss. Encourage us and empower us to build the church for the days to come and to help us to understand that in your economy nothing is ever wasted, we just move into new ways, churches morph into new ways of being, but the gospel continues. May that be so here. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Rev. Denise Bates:

Bishop, this concludes the report of the cabinet.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Dean Bates. Why don't we talk about resurrection now? And Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page is going to talk to us about recognition of new faith communities.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Good morning. Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, lay and clergy members of the Virginia Annual Conference and guests, my name is Jonathan Page. I am the Director of Connectional Ministries for Innovation and Creativity. I'm white, male, cishet. I use he/him pronouns. And while I'm a middle-aged adult, I'd like to think I can still rock a graphic tee. Oh, and flip-flops. Yeah.

It is my honor to stand before you to offer a report from the Church Development Team, known as CDT for short. Chaired by Rev. Stephanie Parker, CDT works to imagine new expressions of church in and around the Virginia Annual Conference. In the last year, CDT has been fortunate to fund a number of leadership grants, hear exciting proposals for ministries that are edging toward new frontiers, and imagine together some of what the Holy Spirit might be doing to invigorate a fresh movement in the United Methodist Church.

As we work in this space of holy imagination, I'd like to share three important elements of the work CDT has engaged since we last gathered in Roanoke. First, CDT has compiled a lessons learned report. Led by the Rev. Michelle Matthews, a sub-team from CDT worked to complete interviews with key stakeholders such as planters, parent church pastors, district superintendents, and leadership from 28 different faith communities in the Virginia Annual Conference that have been planted since 2008.

Within that report, there are a few findings that I'd like to highlight for your shared consideration. When asked about what has contributed to the success of a church plant, stakeholders named the top three factors as these: having a risk-taking "pivoting" culture, a prioritization of community partnership, and a clarity of mission and vision.

Now, in a similar vein, stakeholders were asked about factors that have contributed to the decline or failure in church planting. The top two responses to this: an unhealthy level of unresolved conflict amongst stakeholders and leadership, and unclear expectations or involvement from external investors in a church plant. In other words, people who might have oversight over a church plant.

So I know we're talking about new church starts in a big way, but I hope something you can see in these two elements of this report, whether your concept of church is emerging as we speak, thousands of years old, or something in between, I hope something you can see is that what churches need is a complete dependence on the Holy Spirit, a complete investment in the community they wish to serve, and a complete commitment to God's lead. What churches do not need is to become institutional, to have too many cooks in the kitchen, or to be monotone, monocultural, or monolithic.

In the outcomes of this report, CDT has received wisdom about the importance of prioritizing equitable opportunities as well as the equitable funding and pastor compensation for African, African-American,

Asian, Hispanic, Latino, and multi-ethnic churches. Furthermore, there is a call to prioritize equitable opportunity as well as the equitable funding and pastor compensation of female church planters.

Finally, there's a recommendation to participate in the ongoing evaluation of culture and power dynamics within the Virginia Annual Conference, evaluating the health of churches that feel a call to anchor church plants, and the readiness and personality of anchor church pastors and planters. All of this done in service to determine why an unusual number of multi-sites and anchor church tethered church plants have not been successful.

I think I speak for this entire team when I say we look forward to working toward this wisdom and continuing to see the fruits of church planting in Virginia in the coming year and years.

Next, I'd like to share just a little bit about an exciting new initiative that CDT is piloting. And to do this, I need to ask you just a quick question. I wonder if you could raise your hand if you or your church has ever tried to apply for a grant from the Virginia Annual Conference? Okay, so there are a few of us. So keep your hands up. Now, let me ask, have you ever tried to apply for a grant from anyone, anywhere, ever? Okay. So we have a few grant seekers in the room.

Now, since we're all these people, is applying for grants an easy process? I don't want to speak for everyone, but my sense from you all is that it isn't. Not at all. And in the Virginia Annual Conference, we have a multitude of granting sources. Many of these have their own grant applications and processes for awarding grants, which often are in amounts of less than $10,000 per year. There's a challenge with grants, and that challenge is summarized in this that granting is often over complicated inside the Annual Conference, and it's hard to find grants outside the Annual Conference.

So CDT with generous support from the Common Table for Church Vitality and the Virginia United Methodist Foundation has entered into a partnership with Ministry Incubators, known as MINC for short, and an organization called Grantscape to work on what I might call the grants hairball. Yes, it's ironic for someone as bald as me to be concerned with something so hairy.

But over the last several months, MINC has been working alongside Conference leaders to think through the challenges related to grants. And there are a few things I'd like to share with you about their findings. First, we're anticipating some shifts in grantmaking priorities within the Virginia Annual Conference centered on collaboration, accessibility, and clarity. MINC and Grantscape are recommending the creation of an internal grantmaking collaborative. This would allow multiple grantmaking bodies within the Virginia Annual Conference space to consider applications and funding and proposals in unison, making bigger impacts and funding larger projects than what individual bodies could do on their own.

In addition to this, there's a recommendation that we develop a grants portal through our Conference digital spaces that allow ready-made access for Conference members to see what grants are available, ensure a clear and centralized application process, and educate around any necessary protocols for all grants. If implemented appropriately, these shifts would allow Conference members to have more clarity around availability and access of grant funds and would allow grantmakers the opportunity to make more collaborative impact with the funds they steward.

In addition to what we are being asked to do within the Annual Conference in grantmaking, we're pleased that MINC is helping with the grant seeking work of the Virginia Annual Conference. In recent weeks, MINC has helped to write a $1.25 million grant proposal to the Lilly Foundation around the integration of children and worship around the Annual Conference. We should be praying that that proposal is successful. Amen?

Additionally, there are some 19 other grants that have been identified for Conference-level consideration of which MINC will be helping to write proposals for several. Over time, the hope is that the Virginia Annual Conference can begin to develop relationships with trusted granting partners that might help fund mission and ministry throughout the Virginia Annual Conference.

So where do we go from here? Before I tell you about this, let me share that this initial report from MINC and Grantscape that I'm summarizing for you today is all of four weeks old. It's going to take some time to consider and implement what they are inviting us to work on, but there are a couple of strategic steps I think we can anticipate as an Annual Conference body.

First, the development of a strategic Grantmaking Task Force will begin in the next few weeks with the hope that such a task force will be able to assist with the consideration of grants beginning with the fall funding cycle of 2024. Additionally, we'll be working to ensure information regarding grant funding is readily available through our Conference digital resources such as the Conference website, and social media platforms.

Over time, MINC and Grantscape have recommended that we consider what it might look like to staff the Annual Conference with a grant writer, a director of fundraising or development, or similar positions that could help with the important work of creating funding streams for essential mission and ministry happening in local churches, districts, and the Annual Conference.

Ultimately, all of this is important to talk about because we have the capacity to make grants less scary and much, much more impactful. There is a desire to create accessibility and opportunity for funding, and all of this is being done in service to create pathways for mission and ministry that apportionments alone cannot create. I'm excited for the potential that this granting work can have in our Annual Conference, and I'll look forward to sharing more with you as this develops in the coming year.

Now, in conclusion, while I think these first two things I've shared with you are pretty important and great, I'm especially excited to tell you about two new faith communities that are taking shape in the Virginia Annual Conference, and I'd like to invite my friends to come forward at this time.

First, I want to introduce you to the Rev. David Drinkard, Warren Drinkard, and DS Jay Carey. The Drinkard Brothers are a part of Appomattox United Methodist Church on the Living Waters District where DS Carey is the superintendent. In the wake of numerous disaffiliations in their surrounding area, a group of saints came together and named their desire to remain United Methodist. This collective, now known as Appomattox UMC, began meeting in March of 2023.

And while there's a lot to highlight about them, let me tell you all, they might be the only church plant or plant or church, for that matter, I've ever heard of that has asked when they can start paying apportionments. But way more importantly than that, this is a community of faith that desires to shine God's light through their teaching of the scriptures, their formation of disciples in a Wesleyan identity, and their missional connection to their community. We are blessed as an Annual Conference to have the witness of Appomattox UMC. Amen? Amen.

And then I want to introduce you to the leaders connected with the King William campus of New Song United Methodist Church. With us today, we have Jeremy Vest, who is the planting pastor of this campus. Rev. Chad Herndon is the parent church pastor. DS Hyo Lee is the--

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Pastor. Rev. or excuse me DS Hyo Lee is the Three Notch'd District, Superintendent and DS Charles Ledlum-Bates is the Mission Rivers District Superintendent. New Song UMC is located in the Mechanicsville neighborhood of the Metro Richmond area within the Three Notch district. And there was something they noticed, which is that they had a number of folks who were commuting from King William County to be in worship at New Song. Continued assessment of the King William County population brought a realization that there is not a current United Methodist presence in the county, and there are very few churches that are able to offer a modern worship engagement like the one New Song is built to offer. Now here's the thing, if you look at a map of the state of Virginia, excuse me, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and you see the county breakdown of it, you'll notice that King William County doesn't fit neatly into our annual conference because it is in both the Three Notch'd District and the Mission Rivers District.

I have to tell you what I love about this satellite opportunity is that it has the backing of both an incredible parent church and two districts collaborating together to resource the work of the Holy Spirit in King William County. This model of faith community development prioritizes the witness of the United Methodist Church in an underserved community and allows the Holy Spirit to be at work in a multitude of capacities rather than being governed by institutional formalities. And I think we could all say that is some good news. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Amen. Thank you all.

I wonder if you might join your hearts with mine as we offer a prayer for these new faith communities and their leaders. God of all grace, we ask Your blessing upon these, Your endeavors in Appomattox and King William County throughout the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church and in all of Your creation, might You be raising up generations of people who desire to follow You and to share Your love in every way possible. Would You create inroads to community transformation and personal sanctification that these might be havens of Your Holy Spirit bearing the fruits of the Spirit in their every word in action. Pour out Your grace upon them that it may overflow into the totality of their work and their rest, their being and their doing, their tilling and their thriving. May it all be Yours. We ask this in your most holy and precious name, and all God's people said Amen. Bishop, this concludes the CDT Report.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you Dr. Page. I want to thank him for his tremendous work in creativity and innovation, and he is certainly leading us in creativity and innovation. And I ask you to pray with your church leadership and discern where the Holy Spirit might be calling your church to move out into areas that maybe need a United Methodist presence. Microphone four. I see a card.

Rev. Gina Anderson-Cloud:

Thank you Bishop. Gina Anderson-Cloud, Northern Virginia District Floris Church. My pronouns are she and her. And I want to just speak before Rev. Page gets too far off the floor. I want to commend the work of his office and the collaboration across the conference for this grant making initiative. But as I listen to what I know is something in development, I feel like there's a missing partner in this work and that is our districts. This probably loosely relates to Rev. Colby's comment about how the allocation of resources with the closer of our churches are being now placed in the annual conference trustee hands. I think many of us know that there are a lot of resources in our districts and we so appreciate our districts, but in a time, and I speak as someone who has been under this stress of finances and church planting as a former church planter, I'm someone who currently is trying to lead from Floris Church in the fresh expression movement. I think we all need to join hands together, so I would love to see Rev. Page's report amended to include all of our districts as a partner to this grant making work and that we work together as an annual conference to support vital ministry, whether it is church planting, fresh expressions, or just the revitalization of our churches.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Rev. Anderson-Cloud. I think you would... That's called rowing in the same boat, right? We're all trying to row together. So-

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I'll just say I think that's a super friendly amendment and yes, I think we say amen to that.

Rev. Gina Anderson-Cloud:

Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. It works so much better when we support each other and see each other as teammates, partners, and companions on the journey than competitors for limited resources. I don't think that's God's economy, and I don't really want to work in an annual conference like that, and I don't think you do either. So let's all work toward being together, thinking the best of each other and working together well. Okay. Okay. I'm going to make a couple of awards. We have a 10:45 hard closure and I want to give you some time to stretch before we do that. So I'm going to invite Rev. Matt Sergent and Rev. Tim Hazlett to come forward for the One Matters Award.

Rev. Tim Hazlett:

Good morning. Good morning, Bishop. I am Tim Hazlett, and Matt and I have the privilege today of standing with us, and I'll have Kevin come forth. "Rev Kev," who is also known as Kevin Johnson from the Discipleship Ministries in Nashville, and he's here to make the presentation for the One Matters Award, but I get to speak, he just gets to hand out the award. The One Matters Award recognizes one church at annual conference that has struggled in baptisms and professions of faith by turning zeros into positive numbers with a renewed focus on discipleship.

Rev. Matt Sergent :

And this award, which includes a plaque and $1,000 goes to Emmanuel United Methodist Church on the Mountain View District. Yes. In 2023, they had four baptisms and three professions of faith. So let us give them a great round of applause.

Rev. Tim Hazlett :

And David Hughes is the lay leader and Nancy C. Johnson is the pastor. I feel particularly proud because I served Emmanuel a thousand years ago. She only gave us permission to do the One Matters Award. Can we go ahead and do the Denman?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yeah, yeah. Do the Denman too.

Rev. Tim Hazlett :

Okay. The Harry Denman Evangelism Awards honor United Methodist clergy, lay persons and youth who have exhibited outstanding efforts in Wesleyan evangelism by faithfully carrying out the mission of making disciples of Jesus Christ. The award is named for the late Dr. Harry Denman, a distinguished lay evangelist whom Dr. Billy Graham called, "My mentor in evangelism."

Rev. Matt Sergent :

The selection process is directed by the Board of Discipleship of the Virginia Conference, and all nominees are collected through the nomination process are set by the board. The recipients of this year's Harry Denman Evangelism Awards are Robert and Tina Hendricks the laity, Jesse Burdette our youth, yes, and Rev. Donald Jamison.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Excellent. Let's get our picture first. He's right there. You all come in too. Thank you.

Rev. Tim Hazlett:

I would like to talk a little bit about each of the recipients, and I would have Tina and Robert Hendrix just step forward at this point. They are laity who serve the Wesleyan Chapel Floral Springs Chapel charge on the Mountain View District. Their passion is providing ministry not only to their home church, but fulfilling the needs of the other two churches connected to their charge and meeting the needs of the community in which they live. Robert and Tina organized mission trips throughout the year to deliver donated items to needy areas in Kentucky. They help with Wesley Chapel's free community meals Satisfy Your Hunger by purchasing, preparing, and serving the food. This program not only feeds the community, but this ministry also provides for those who need spiritual guidance, prayer and other needs.

Rev. Matt Sergent :

That's wonderful. And Bishop, we are so happy to have a youth this year. Jesse Burdette, stand forward. Jesse Burdette is a member of Craddockville United Methodist Church on the Coastal Virginia District. At just 15 years old, Jesse is a vital member of his congregation. Jesse is a charter member and leader of the newly formed youth group at Craddockville. Jesse created a youth committee to address the concerns of why many youth and children are no longer attending church. Jesse is also an active participant at Camp Occohannock and has raised more than $2,000 for camp efforts there., Jesse, congratulations.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Excellent.

Rev. Tim Hazlett :

And for our clergy, Pastor Don Jamison serves as senior pastor of Sydenstricker UMC in the great Northern Virginia district. Pastor Don has a desire to share God's inclusivity and the Christian faith to all who want to have a relationship with God. He makes certain to share with this congregation that they are the hands and feet of Christ, calling them into active evangelism in their community. Pastor Don's witness is visible in the community, in the operation of the church's food corner that serves food for over 200 families every week. For Pastor Don, evangelism is much more than knocking on doors. It's about building relationships. And that which he wants to be remembered for his legacy the most is the mentoring he has given to many, many, many persons in the ministry. So we honor Don this morning with this prestigious award.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you guys. Appreciate it. And now I recognize Mr. Brian Christoffersen for the presentation of the Green Church Award.

Mr. Brian Christoffersen:

Good morning Bishop Sue, cabinet and conference. I'm Brian Christoffersen. I'm from Christ Crossman United Methodist Church in the great Northern Virginia District. And I am the chair of the Creation Justice team of our conference board of Church and Society. Today we are here to celebrate God's sustaining and redeeming work and all of creation and the collective efforts of the conference, green church teams and all those who are dedicated to creation justice across our Virginia connection. These awards honor individual churches and our entire connection's commitment to caring for creation and advocating for creation justice. Today we are awarding eight congregations, which are part of nearly 100 green churches that are leading this mission across our connection by recycling thousands of pounds of plastics, holding creation care days, planting pollinator and vegetable gardens, and joining in the Power of Faith energy stewardship program, and also joining and collaborating with our global ministries Earth Keepers in their work with organizations like Virginia Interfaith Power and Light, the Elizabeth River Project and the Highland Support Project, just to name a few. And as I present the awards, can the awardees please stand.

As members of the United Methodist Creation Justice Movement and the Conference Board of Churches Society Creation Justice team, we would like to present the following Green Church Awards to St. Andrew's UMC Living Waters District, Cranford UMC, and Farlington UMC in the Northern Virginia District, Wesley Memorial UMC, and Three Notch'd Wakefield in Mission Rivers. And for our Sustaining Green Church Award to Bethlehem UMC in Mountain View, Burke UMC and St. Stephen's UMC.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Excellent.

Mr. Brian Christoffersen:

Thank you so much. Thank you for your unwavering support and commitment to your congregation's ongoing dedication to Creation Justice.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. And thank you to Brian Christoffersen for his efforts on Creation Care.

Mr. Brian Christoffersen:

Thank you, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

All the time. Thank you. Okay. Let me give you the roadmap I think we're going to take. We have a 10:45 order of the day with teaching from Michael Beck. We have lunch, which I think we probably want to acknowledge. We will gather right at 2:00. Please, please be in your seats and ready to go at two o'clock as we have our memorial service. And well-

Rev. Joshua King:

It can be done tomorrow.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yeah. Then two o'clock is memorial service. Three o'clock is our third teaching session, and 4:15 we will begin business. But I would like to, I know we said this morning for the resolution that Rev. Ensz provided, we will start with that at our business session at 4:15. And also we will hear a petition on Creation Care at the same time and then go into the rest of the business of the day. I think Rev. King, that should probably come as a motion to modify the agenda. If you would make that motion.

Rev. Joshua King:

I move to modify the agenda to include the motion that Drew Ensz included yesterday that was tabled to this morning, to this afternoon's session.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If you would approve this agenda change, please raise your hand. Opposed? Same sign. Okay. I'm going to give you a five minute stretch break-

Rev. Joshua King:

Can I make an announcement?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And wait. Wait, it's four minutes, 58 seconds because Rev. King has an announcement, so do that.

Rev. Joshua King:

Sorry you all.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Do it quickly. Don't apologize.

Rev. Joshua King:

The office of missional engagement has two announcements. First, we want to draw your attention to the dry erase boards placed throughout this space in the display hall and in the prayer room. We encourage you to pause and respond to the prompt each day. This offers a way for us to practice Holy listening. We also want to sincerely thank everyone who attended our first round of lunch labs yesterday. All four labs will be held again this afternoon, starting at 12:30 ish on the first floor conference rooms A, B, C, and D. Everyone is welcome. Registration is encouraged, but not required. We will have enthusiastic greeters in the hallway pointing the way to the labs. You're encouraged to bring your lunch with you. Thank you for your participation and patience as we joyfully experiment together.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Go to a lunch lab. I think that's what that announcement was.

Rev. Joshua King:

Yes.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I invite you now to have a five minute stand break and let's be seated and ready to hear eagerly for Dr. Michael Beck at 10:45 AM.

Friday Morning, June 21, 2024

TEACHING SESSION

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Everybody move to your seats. I know you don't want to miss a minute of these folks. Okay. It's my distinct pleasure to invite Rev. Dr. Michael Beck to come and lead us this morning. I have known him for many years. If you want parenting stories, find him because he has eight children. And he and Jill are great parents, but boy, they got stories. And he is a breath of fresh air. He has seen a lot, done a lot, and now is really changing the face of the church and asking us to think about church in a new way. So Michael, I'm delighted you're here.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Thank you, Bishop. Thank you. Hey, welcome back, everybody from the break. So can I take you all to church?

Body:

Yes. Please.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Slap your neighbor a high five and say, "Neighbor, let's go to church." But I'm going to take you to a church that maybe you've never been to one quite like this before. Join me in Bark Park in Wildwood, Florida, where we're going to have church in a dog park. And Larry Gabriel, the gentleman you see there in the Miami Hurricanes attire, who's a lay person who has served on every committee that the United Methodist Church has to offer, some of them many times. Is that anybody else in the house this afternoon? But became a church planter at 70 years old as he started a church in a dog park called Paws of Praise. Two things you need to know about Larry. First, Larry has a terrible taste in football teams.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen, brother.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Can I get Amen, Bishop?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen, brother.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Can we-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

We're Gators. We're Gators.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Amen. Yes. All right. Lots of Gators. You got a Seminole in the front.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I know, but I like him.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Security. Security. The other thing you need to know about Larry is that he's a priest. Would you raise your hand if you're a priest? Would you raise your hand if you're a priest? Would you raise your hand if you're a priest? I'm going to keep going until every hand's up. So just say... You are a priest in the priesthood of all believers. You are ordained in the waters of your baptism to be bearers of the gospel of Jesus Christ, to create healing communities where people can come to know the love of Jesus in every space and nook and cranny of life. Can I get amen on that?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Larry's a priest. He started a church in a dog park, and this is how it goes. So the humans come in and we have a passing of the piece. The dogs come in, have a sniffing of the butts. We try to never get that crossed up, although it has happened. And right there, Larry leads a little spiritual conversation. Larry has no seminary education, hasn't been to any of that stuff, no degree in preaching. So Larry asks a simple question, if God was a dog, what kind of dog would God be?

Body:

Golden retriever.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Golden retriever?

Body:

Yes.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

Is that a golden retriever in the front? Oh, you're biased. What would you say to that question?

Body:

A border collie.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

A border collie. A shepherd. Okay.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

I'm sure you have deep-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

A Rottweiler.

Rev. Dr. Michael Beck :

A Rottweiler. Wow. Okay. I'm sure you have deep theological reasons for your choice, but Larry makes a compelling case that God would clearly be a Labradoodle because Labradoodles are big and majestic, and you can ride around on them like a horse. Gina makes the case that no, God would be a chihuahua, because they're feisty and bossy, they try to tell you what to do. Jill and I who have two little pugs, Vader and Ferguson, we make a case that God would clearly be a pug because pugs have to be carried around and worshiped, and adored at all times. Any pug people in the house?

But we have church right there, a spiritual conversation, and Christian and not Christian and I'll never be a Christian, get in this conversation. We're orienting our thinking towards God and the beauty of God's creation, and we pray out in a circle, the Lord's prayer. Sometimes we have communion. We just went to Church right in a dog park.

Now, if you haven't noticed, folks, we have built it and they have not come. There's about 20% of people who attend church regularly. That's lower in some places. They're about 20% of people who don't attend church, but say that they do. Can you believe people lie about their church attendance? You don't have those people in your churches, do you? And then there's about 40% of people, they're never going to come. They're Nones, they're spiritual, but not religious. They're Dones. They're when bad Christians happen to good people. They're just not going to show up on our Sunday morning worship experiences no matter how good we do it, no matter how great our coffee is, no matter who our preacher is or our youth program, they're not going to show up.

In fact, the situation where we find ourselves is like this. We've got this beautiful icon representing the Church here. Communal life in Jesus. I know the Church is not a building. I know the Church is not a steeple, the Church is a people, but just go with me on this image here. Here's this big chasm, this gulf. Here's all these people on the other side that Jesus loves, and there's this space between us, Virginia playlist. You all think about it. So, what do we do? How do we solve this quandary? How do we solve this problem?

Body:

Build a bridge.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Build a bridge? Okay. Say it loud, it's a big room.

Body:

Build a bridge.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Build a bridge.

Body:

Go to the other side.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Go to the other side?

Body:

Go to where they are.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Go to where they are? So, we just leave over here and just go over there where they are?

Body:

Yup.

Rev. Michael Beck:

What else? Have church in the water?

Hey, now we're talking Fresh Expressions, swimming church. There is a skinny-dipping church in the Bible. Peter, for some reason, you all know the story I'm talking about.

So, we don't have to do skinny-dip church, but swimming church. I like that. In the middle together. All right, cool. So, let's walk through these together. I think option number one is, we pray and we wait. We just keep doing the same thing expecting a different result, and I'm not diminishing the power of prayer. Everything we do should be undergirded with ongoing communication with God and God's guidance by the power of the Holy Spirit. But by just keep doing the same old stuff and hoping those people are going to come across and make the swim and get over to where we are. Then there's that building a bridge option that several of you named, so we can make it easier and we're accessible to get to church. We can kill the Christianese and the secret handshakes. We can do Church in more organic relational ways that people connect with God. You all can keep taking pictures of these slides, but I am going to give a QR code at the end, and I'll just send you the slides. But keep taking pics, post it on Twitter, whatever.

The bridge is also a two-way bridge. So, we go to the people and be Church with them. The people come and be Church with us. It's vice versa. But then somebody said right up front, what if we just go and stay, and do life with them where they are?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Can I get an amen?

Body:

Amen.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah. Now, what Larry is doing is he's standing in a Church tradition that stretches back for 2000 years to a person named Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus who preached the greatest sermon ever preached, not in a synagogue, not in a temple, but it's called the sermon on the-

Body:

Mountain.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Jesus went to the synagogue and went to the temple. He wasn't always received there real well. Remember when he came to Nazareth and he said, "The Spirit of Sovereign Lord's upon me. He's anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor and to set the captives free." And they tried to throw him off a cliff.

Bishop. Then he has the temple tantrum in Jerusalem. Wasn't received real well there either. Where did most of Jesus' ministry take place? Out in the normal rhythms and spaces of life where the people were. And what Larry's doing is standing in a historic movement of the Holy Spirit, this incarnational impulse that doesn't wait back for people to come and receive the gospel, but goes out and embodies it in new and creative ways. And what Larry's doing is standing in the Wesleyan Methodist tradition when he's cultivating that Church in a Dog Park. In fact, that incarnational way of putting on flesh and moving into the fields, and embodying the good news where the people do life, is maybe one of the most Methodist ideas of all. And I want to do a little quiz with you today. Somebody will get an A for the day. Who cultivated the very first Methodist Fresh Expression?

Body:

John Wesley.

Rev. Michael Beck:

John Wesley. Jesus? I like that. Jesus was definitely a Methodist. He was not a Baptist, he wasn't hanging out with John the Baptist [inaudible 01:14:07]. So, we got John Wesley, Susanna Wesley. "A" for the day, Susanna Wesley. So, let's do a little Methodist history. The first Methodist Fresh Expression was started by Susanna Wesley in the Epworth Rectory in her kitchen.

Now, at the time, this was very subversive. Women were not allowed to preach and lead Churches. They were not allowed to have Church outside of the normal ecclesial space. And in Epworth, you had a Rev. Inman who was filling in for Samuel when he was on the road, and it seems he was not very effective. Some of the reports talk about they'd have 20 or 30 people at the Epworth Church, but Susanna started a Church in her kitchen that she reports had up to about 200 people that would come and have Church right there in her kitchen. People that were not connected with the Church at all, who are connecting in this.

And Samuel gets aggravated by this, and he writes some letters telling Susanna, "Hey, you need to stop this. You're not allowed to be doing this, and it's inappropriate, and you're causing a little bit of chaos." And Susanna writes back to him, I'm going to paraphrase this beautiful quote that you see on the screen, but she basically says, "You want to stop me, come and stop me, Susanna Wesley, ecclesial gangster." Can I get an amen?

Body:

Amen.

Rev. Michael Beck:

So, the first Methodist Fresh Expression, and I know we talk a lot about John and Charles, but I want to push back on that a little bit. I want to talk about the mother of Methodism. I want to talk about her family growing up in that space and little John and Charles who are under 10 years old at this time, watching their mom start a Church in the kitchen. And imagine growing up in that space of ecclesial innovation, and how that would impact you. And then, John Wesley starts to do things like go to the field. Noticing that people are not coming to church anymore, they're probably not going to come. And he doesn't want to do this. His buddy, George Whitfield, keeps pestering him about going out and doing this field preaching thing. And John Wesley says, "I love the commodious room and the handsome pulpit. I don't want to go out there and preach in a field."

And by the way, these are two guys that disagree theologically entirely. But as Lacey Warner reminds us, the Methodist movement was not born from a doctrinal dispute, but a missional imperative. And so, even though they disagreed theologically, they found a way to work together and do life together. So, Wesley goes out to that field on April 2nd, of 1739, just outside of Bristol, and he preaches, a couple thousand people show up. The numbers are sketchy, and it seems like there's a George Whitfield, John Wesley preacher number thing going on, but probably thousands of people show up. Maybe it was a couple hundred if you're preachers and your numbers, we like to inflate a little bit.

But he writes in his journal later that day, "Today, I have submitted to become more vile, preaching in the highways and the byways, the glad tidings of salvation." Maybe if Methodism would get vile again, we might get vital again. And John Wesley finds a way to invite people into this movement of grace through societies and classes and bands with... We talked about yesterday in depth. But this is a movement that brought Church to where the people were. This is an incarnational impulse. And the Holy Spirit sweeps through the Church historically, and leads us out of the confines of our building, out into the normal spaces and rhythms of where people do life. If you haven't noticed, there's this rise in spirituality. People very open to spirituality. The nones are saying, "I'm not closed to Jesus. I'm not closed to spirituality. I'm closed off to the Church." And there's this disconnect or this pushing against the new Protestant, protesting against institutional Church.

And part of the reasons for that is that there are one in three people who have experienced religious trauma at the hands of the Church. So, if you think about yourself and two people that you know, chances are one of you or you have experienced religious trauma. And so, if we're going to be the Church in the 21st Century, we have to be a compassion centered, trauma-informed church. That we're not starting with a clean slate, we're starting with people who've been bruised and broken in some ways by religion. And we have to create pockets of healing where people can come to know Jesus, the healer.

And when we put a sign out in front of our building and we say, "All are welcome," this is what people outside the church actually see, a maze of secret customs and handshakes that they don't know really anything about. And when we say all are welcome, what we're really saying is, some are welcome at this time at this day, and we're going to worship in a way that we have chosen before you get here, we're going to speak a language that we have chosen. We're going to sing songs that you may or may not know. All are welcome to come at this time, at that place in that way. But for all those that are going to be welcome, who can come at that time in that place, in that way, a lot of other people are not going to be able to come in that time, in that place, in that way.

And so, this movement of Fresh Expressions, which is a recapitulation of primitive methodism, but discarding some of that harmful DNA of our movement. It's about going out to where people are. The only way the church will become more accessible is if it springs up in every practice, in every space, in every relationship where we do life together. Some spring research has come out about engaging young people, and it tells us that the hallmarks of engaging young people are going to be curiosity, wholeness, connection, and flexibility. Four things that United Methodists are not necessarily known for. We're not known as the curiosity people, you all, we're known as the answer having people, or as Woo said yesterday, "It's okay to say, I don't know. It's okay to actually turn to wonder and ask questions rather than have the answers."

Our gospel has been more about postmortem destiny, going to heaven when you die, rather than what Jesus actually said, which was about bringing shalom and wholeness and healing to people's lives. People are longing for that connection. I know we're connectional, polity people, but doesn't it seem like we're all just trying to build our own little thing rather than working together as a connection, rather than collaborating resources. Rather than saying, "Hey, your Church does this really well. Our Church is okay at this. Why don't we actually work together as a connection." And then, flexibility. Our hierarchal pyramidal clergy, caste system. Not necessarily very flexible, but Jesus had this forgotten beatitude, "Blessed that are the flexible for they shall not get bent out of shape." Amen? He said this, just Matthew didn't write it down. I don't know what he was thinking.

So, none of what I just shared is the right motivation to go out and to create incarnation communities with people. This is not the save the denomination plan. It's not the pack butts back in pews plan. The only right motivation for this is because there are people of sacred words and great value that are beloved of God and made in the image of God. And if we don't go and find creative ways to share the gospel and build community with people that are never going to come to our inherited churches, they're never going to know the precious life that is communal life in Jesus. The eucharistic nature of the body of Christ is to be taken, blessed, broken and given to the world. And our denominational impulse is often self-preservation where the impulse of Jesus is about self-donation.

But when we break pieces of the body of Christ off and give them to a hungry world, we see the movement of the Holy Spirit in a thing that we call resurrection. When we become willing to die, and a seed goes into the ground that it can experience a harvest of resurrection. And that's what this movement called Fresh Expressions is about, creating that communal life with Jesus, breaking pieces of the body of Christ off, sharing them together in our daily practices of life.

I want to share a couple little stories, and then I'll invite my friends to come up and we're going to have a dialogue. I shared yesterday in the Laity session, that I was born addicted. My mother was not able to care for me. My biological father was unknown, and I was adopted by my grandparents. And my grandparents dragged me to this little church called St. Mark's UMC in Ocala, Florida. Those folks rallied around me of my infant baptism, and committed to raise me in a community of love and forgiveness. They fed me through their never ending potlucks. They nurtured me, they loved me. I was a little hellion, I liked to break stuff and run around and do things church kids shouldn't do. But in the middle of the pandemic, Jill and I, my wife, were co-pastors. We were able to come back to the little church that saved my life. I took a detour in my life and ended up jails, institutions, death, lots of orange jumpsuits, and I encountered Jesus in a solitary confinement cell.

And so, when we sing the great hymn of Charles Wesley, "Long my imprisoned spirit lay, fast bound in sin and nature's night, thine I diffused a quick'ning ray. I woke, the dungeon flamed with light. My chains fell off. My heart was free. I rose, went forth and followed thee." And that's not just a hymn to me. That's not just words that we sing. That's my experience of the risen Jesus. And now I'm back in the church in the place where I was baptized as a baby, and in the rooms where I got sober and Alcoholics Anonymous, and I preached to people that were present at my infant baptism. And when I dragged my butt out of jail for the last time, I went and connected with the pastor at St. Mark's, Pastor Dan Jones. And he said, "Well, Michael, I'm glad that Jesus has saved your soul, but AA will save your ass."

Body:

He's right. He knew.

Rev. Michael Beck:

So, that was 16 years ago, and AA has still been saving my ass, and Jesus still saved my soul. But I want to share what St. Mark's looks like today, just really briefly. We came to the church, there were about eight people in worship. So as Bishop Sue said, my wife and I have a blended family of eight children. So, we doubled the congregation our first Sunday.

Body:

Now you got grandkids.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Now the grandkids, now I have a whole church just in my family. So, highest percentage annual increase in attendance right there at St. Mark's UMC, double first Sunday. But now we have a dinner church on Wednesday nights, we have a 5:30 AA meeting and an NA meeting at eight o'clock. And so, people have a community dinner in between that. It's called Family Table. Out of that, we have a lot of parents, young families who have kids, and they can't get coverage for it to go to their meetings. And so, we do a thing called Eat, Pray, Play, where we have arts and crafts, a Jesus story. We have a thing called Recovery Church, where we look at the 12 step principles, where those come from in scripture. And we talk about how Bill and Bob were both Christians and took principles from the Oxford Group and developed the 12 steps, and people in recovery explore that maybe Jesus is their higher power, maybe not.

We also have a thing called burritos and Bibles. Sorry, burritos and Bibles at Tijuana Flats, we get in and have burritos, all you can eat chips and salsa, and we take the tortilla after the meal and we break it and we bless it, and we have the Lord's Supper right there in Tijuana Flats. Because of the United Methodist Church, we believe in what kind of a table?

Body:

Open table.

Rev. Michael Beck:

An open table. And we invite people to know God's grace right there in Tijuana Flats. By the way, burritos and chips in a hot bar make any church better. Can I get an amen?

Body:

Amen.

Rev. Michael Beck:

And then we have Church, also a yoga church. My bishop, Bishop Berlin, has come in and joined us for some of these things. We had Bishop Berlin in a tattoo parlor you all. Give it up for him. He didn't get any ink, but we're still working on him. We have a church called Tesla Church, where we meet at an EV supercharger, and we have creation care conversations and eco theology conversations. This is a tattoo parlor church where we gather up, circle up, some people get tattoos. We have the Lord's Supper tattoo, we have a tattoo talk. We do that. This is called Higher Power Hour. We go into the Chemical Dependency Unit in Ocala, Florida, of the local rehab. It's called SMA. And we circle up and we go into there.

I think every United Methodist church in the country should start something for people in recovery. We're in the largest overdose epidemic in the history of the country. A 100,000 people die every year. People like my little brother, McKinley, who overdosed at 34 years old. And we can have a little expression of church in every rehab all over the country. We see people's lives get transformed and healed and changed. We go and have a Jesus story, sing some songs and have a spiritual conversation, where people explore their different higher powers. This is a group called Hands Healing After Narcotic Death Support. For those of us that have lost loved ones to overdose, it's a little bit different kind of a grief process. And so, we create community around healing from that together.

This is called Shenanigans. This is another one that I think every United Methodist Church should have in your local assisted living facility. We think it's pretty jacked up that our senior saints give their prayers, presents gifts, service witness to the Church. And we live in a culture that's about a cult of youthfulness. And so, we discard the wise sage wisdom of our culture, of our elderly saints. And we see people get left in isolation. Their families abandon them, their churches abandon them. That's pretty jacked up. Can I get an amen.

So, we go into Brookdale and Ocala, and we have a thing called Shenanigans. Our ladies named it that because they like to make holy mischief there in Brookdale. And then, we have a fresh worship service. We have fresh worship at nine o'clock and vintage worship at 11 o'clock. And my people at St. Mark's were praying, "Pastor, we just want to see the church full again. We just want to see people in the church." And I would say, "Well, do you really want to see it full again, or do you want to see it full of the people you used to know back in the 1950s? Or do you want to see it full of the people who actually live in this community?"

And so at Fresh Worship we have, Jordan leads us in a time of rap or poetry, or poetry slam. We do dance breaks, coffee toasts, and we have food around tables together doing fresh worship. But we also have vintage worship at 11 o'clock. And that lady there playing the organ is Ms. Shirley Harvo. And she was playing the organ in my infant baptism, and she's still playing the organ today. And when I was a little boy, I'd run over and mess with her while she was playing with the keys. And now, I do that as her pastor still today.

And people are actually showing up to vintage worship, because what they're doing is, they're connecting in those Fresh Expressions of Church and they're saying, "If you're a Christian, maybe I'm okay. I do want to come and check out what's happening on Sunday morning." And we're creating this ecology of Church. Now, our church is not sustainable through plate donations. When Bishop Sue was my District Superintendent there in the North Central District, she helped lead the charge to actually turn St. Mark's into a recovery housing for men called Open Arms Village. So, our church is actually also a shelter. It's a holistic program where we can house up to 32 men who live there on site. Now, we get state grants and federal funding because in our community, if someone puts a dollar in the plate, that's a big commitment. That's a big step in their faith. So, we're not going to ever probably barring a miracle, the Holy Spirit, fund through just plate donations. So now, through these creative space usage ways our ministry's sustainable financially.

And the last thing that I'll say here is all this creates an ecology of Church, where we see the world as our parish. Remember somebody said something like that, but have we the people called Methodist made the parish our world. And what Fresh Expressions, as we reimagine our community that every first, second and third place can be places where communal life in Jesus can form. Our inherited Church is still a vital part of this ecosystem. People are formed there and shaped there. We worship the living God there. This is not dismissing and saying, we don't need to do traditional inherited Church anymore. It's saying all of them live together in an ecology. We're really reclaiming this idea that the world is our parish.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Well, thank you so much, Michael, for sharing about the historical movement of the Holy Spirit, and doing that in a lot of fresh ways. One of the things I was thinking of as, I was especially moved by the slide that you gave about the engagement with young people and that curiosity, wholeness, connection and flexibility are the features of that. I wonder, as you think about the history of the Methodist movement, how would you say that folks could observe, especially that idea of curiosity? How has that influenced over our history, the development of the Methodist movement from your perspective?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah, I think the idea of the how goes it with your soul piece, asking good questions that get at spiritual formation, they give honest space for people to share their joys, their struggles, their grief. That's part of what I feel is so much sometimes missing in inherited Church. We come in, we dress up nice, we smile, "Hi, I'm highly blessed, in favor of the Lord". There's real no space for community and conversation. Sadly, I was more disciplined by Alcoholics Anonymous than I ever was in a Methodist Church, because Alcoholics Anonymous has a very clear process of, we're powerless, we're coming to believe, we make a decision, we do community together, we continue to share our stuff. So turning to curiosity, what we can do in a Fresh Expression, and what I think historically the Methodist movement did was ask questions and really give people space to articulate, this is what I'm struggling with, these are the questions that I have.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I love that. And it seems so much like you mentioned AA, one of the great things about it is that's a space where judgment is not welcome. And so curiosity, oftentimes it blocks out judgment from being able to be present. The other piece of that flexibility, I think about... Obviously, I'm not a gym rat like you. So, think about stretching exercises. So, if somebody out there says, "Hey, it feels like our church or the community that I'm in, is relatively rigid," what's a good first stretching exercise to develop that flexibility muscle or that flexibility mindset?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah, that's a great question. I think we get stuck in long range planning. So, let me tell a story. Edwin Friedman has this great book and these ideas around failure of nerve. And when we get stuck in imaginative gridlock, so the system's gridlocked and you're doing the same stuff, the counterintuitive wisdom is to play. So, what I try to do with Fresh Expression, can we get a small team of people? You don't have to have a church committee meeting and approve Fresh Expressions. That'll be a death by committee for sure. You just get a small team of people and you start to experiment, and get a little experiment.

So at St. Mark's for instance, we got eight people. They're old. They're like, "We've done everything we can to do this..." Chronologically mature, not old. So, our first idea was a dinner church, so can we get a little experiment up and running and see some fruit from it, and then help that little side experience, that's more flexible and intuitive, feed back into the system? So they said, "Well, we can't do that forever, because our thinking is we got to do this until Jesus returns or whatever." So I said, "Can we do a three-month experiment? Jill and I will cook one week. George and Carol cook one week. Everybody take a rotation. Let's see for three months," and then we start inviting people from the community, "Hey, this thing we're going to do tonight, we're going to have a spiritual conversation. Anybody want to lead this next week? Hey, does anybody have the spiritual gift of cooking? Because we need people to cook. Hey, service work keeps us sober. Anybody want to stay up and help clean up."

So, we're not doing something to or for the community. We're co-creating with. And so, three months later, my church folks are like, "We really don't have to do anything." And we had to do some training with them, because our idea is let's serve people and then sit back and congratulate ourselves. So, we had to sit at the table and train them, ask questions, figure out who the people are at the tables with you. You don't just serve them and then... And so, we had to do some training around that thinking.

Rev. Jonathan Page

And I think so much of what you've just shared is that continual importance of incarnation. That's the model. That's where we have to lean into. So, I'm thinking about people who are listening to this who may say, "Michael, I'm not a people person." Is that anybody? We're all people-people here, I'm sure. But what does it look like to do incarnation well, if you say like, "Hey, sometimes I'm just not comfortable being around other people"?

Rev. Michael Beck:

I think if you're not a people person, you should not be in ministry.

But I do want to say something about introverts and extroversion scale. So, not everybody wants to start something like this or... This is the beauty of Fresh Expression. So, I know some really introverted people, and the focus and our evangelistic history has been very individualistic. You go and you get somebody to pray the Romans Road prayer, and then you knock that off your belt. We haven't really brought in this communitarian, like Ubuntu, Afrocentric thinking where we're communally formed people. And Fresh Expression, we're recovering some of that where everybody has a part to play and it's not anybody... We're not there trying to convert anyone, we're trying to just create community as circle of equals and Jesus in the middle of that. And we trust Jesus to be Lord, and we just get out of Jesus' way.

So, you could be super introverted and still participate in that community. You could be very extroverted... And then, I've seen people start like gaming churches and nerd church. We have examples of this in United Methodist Church. People who are very introverted, you would think that person could never be a church planner, but you put them in a gaming community with their people around their thing, their passion. Larry who started Church in Dog Park is not super extroverted, but around his dog that he loves and the community of people that love dogs, he comes alive in his calling.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

So, that's a good segue to think about the concept of digital evangelism. So, I would imagine most folks in here have some form of social media account, and we see some interesting things on social media as it relates to the Church. And I'm thinking yesterday in... I think it was yesterday in Louisiana, there's this new bill about the 10 commandments have to be posted in every public school classroom. Interesting dialogue about that. What does it look like to practice our faith well in social media spaces as a form of evangelism?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah. I think we need to a serious overhaul there. Streaming worship services and more those attractional inherited things, that could be considered form of digital colonialism. We're going in digital space, we're speaking a language we only understand, we're streaming things or whatever. There is an incarnational way to do digital ministry. So, we've had a thing called Living Room Church VR, we go in headsets. And your avatars can have communion and everything. You can do the full Church. Don't tell my bishop that, but we'll circle up, hold hands. You can do all that. So, what if there's a way to...

And I think what we missed the mark with the whole pandemic thrusting us into this space. The disabilities community has been living an online life for decades, and their significant relationships and work. So, we tried to learn from them and how you can incarnationally... So, spending time together in digital space, actually using some of those media as the, think of a digitally built environment rather than a brick and mortar built environment. And we're real people having real conversation and real spiritual growth in those spaces. But I think it takes not just posting stuff or... I think all that's great, but actually spending time together in digitality.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Sure. I want to pivot just briefly. You talk about being in community, and then we're thinking about the idea of a historical movement. And communities come with history and so does the role of the Church in the development of that history of community. And sometimes that's something to be celebrated, and sometimes it's not. What do you think the role of the Church is in claiming repentance where there's been communal sin in a space?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah, I think it's the only way that our movement's going to heal and find flourishing, if we figure out reparations and repentance. That really, one of the most exciting things about me with Fresh Expressions is, we're not trying to blow the system up. But I believe if you create these little experiments on the side of the system where people can have conversations about the racism that's marked our movement. Like the Wildwood Congregation, Bishop Sue literally had to come and have my back because I'm just going to put it out there, were super racist. 1881 Methodist Episcopal South, Isabel Wilkerson writes about Wildwood and The Warmth of Other Suns. So that was my congregation. So, to try to work in that ecosystem. But we started these little Fresh Expressions in the MLK, and then we ended up having a black, brown and art Church all come together in this collaboration. So, it gave us a way to have honest conversations, get people around tables, healing conversations, where it's...

Rev. Michael Beck:

Conversations, get people around tables, healing conversations where it's really hard to do that in then here at Church of... I'm just like, preach a sermon series on anti-racism or in those spaces, LGBTQ persons can share, "This is the way I was harmed." And trauma studies show us that creating a safe community is the essence of being able to have that kind of healing. So that can be really threatening for people to enter into an inherited church space, but these little incarnation communities create a space where people can have those convos.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I think that's so, so helpful. And thinking about that idea of personal history, you touched a lot on the idea of trauma informed spaces. I wonder how do we ensure the safety of individuals in our communities of faith as it relates to their personal histories? Is there a methodology or a way that we can cultivate that safe space for trauma-informed healing?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah, I think it's going back to our general rules and doing a lot more listening. In these communities, wild things happen, right? People have really crazy ideas. We try to honor the contribution of every person. And then I will say things or people on my team, that's a really interesting way to think about that. Here's how people in the Wesleyan stream of Christianity have thought about this. But the one place as a leader where you have to step in is where there's harm. So people are spouting some harmful, and my experience with this is it's usually not the people that we're forming community with that are totally outside the church. It's usually Christians with fundamentalist toxic theology who show up and say really harmful things. And then we have to deal with that in the community, the people who are actually growing alongside. That's not so much a challenge.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

For sure. Well, I want to invite Rodrigo and Woo to come up and join our panel conversation. And really, I think this is an important point for all of us to hear, especially as we are here representing a number of different churches and spaces. How do we deal with the idea of perceived safety versus actual safety in church? In other words, I've never been to a church that says, "You know what? We're not a welcoming church." We all think that we're wildly welcoming and good like that. And yeah, sometimes we're not. So how do you deal with that idea of making sure that you're addressing what's actually present instead of what you perceive to be present in life of the church? It's on.

Rev. Woo Kang:

I mean it's going to sound cliché, but I think you have to practice what you preach. And that's something that we have been trying to do at The Net is making sure that before we can even be open and welcoming to others with those that have been present with us in the past nine years or prior to our mergers, are they welcoming each other? And I think that's challenging, but if you are not welcoming and being inviting and creating a space that is safe, that is present in the current moment, how the heck do you think other people are going to perceive that coming in? So I think the biggest thing is relationship building and making those spaces internally. I always say you have to work on ourselves before we can even try to work on anyone else. So I think for churches, that's probably the most important thing. How can we do it within ourselves as well?

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Thanks.

Rodrigo:

Absolutely agree with Woo. I say this before people go where they're welcome, people stay where they're valued. And there's a huge difference between welcoming somebody and value in somebody. Yes, most churches can claim to be welcoming and all it takes is to opening the door and have some sort of coffee and that's it, right? That's welcoming. Valuing somebody is giving them a voice at the table, making sure that they feel that they belong to that place. And that's when sometimes it's the disconnect in local churches because in order to give somebody else's a voice, you have to shut up. You have to scooch over so somebody else can be there. And I think that's when sometimes in churches, we have a hard time doing that.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I think that's helpful. And so when you think about that idea of making space and being in that space, how does that relate to the blended ecology approach and how has that maybe as you've seen that unfold in your own ministries, how has that helped with really that idea of becoming incarnational as bearers of the faith?

Rev. Woo Kang:

I mean, I think a blended ecology is a fancy word, but I also feel like it is our mandate and call as the church we are to be a church for all people in all ways and to be doing it in different ways. And I really have seen it through, especially with Michael, everything that you're doing. And also what we've been experiencing at The Net is that we need to meet people where they are. And one of the things that you said earlier that really stood out to me is the reality is I don't think all of us are going to go out and create all these fresh expressions, but all of us here belong to a church and many of us belong to a church that has maybe a fewer emptier seats than usual. And what you said is, do we want those people?

I couldn't hear you back there if you said from 1985 or 1885, I don't know. But do we want those folks to be in our seats or do we want the people in our community to be in our churches, but to do that, what are we offering that meets them where they are? If they're going to come in and all we have is a Sunday school or a Bible study when people want to play soccer or when people meet God in the woods or something like that, that to me also plays a role in that blended ecology is we need to be out in the world, but also how can we create those spaces inside of our churches as well, which I think will be a little bit more approachable for some folks.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

That's helpful.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

I think one of the great things that Michael was speaking and doing as we have seen the pictures, it really flips the simplicity of church. When you go back and you look at the church in the Book of Acts, doing church, the way we define church with worship, that was easy. It happened in homes, it happened in the marketplace, and even in the synagogue, it wasn't complicated. Following Jesus was hard. It cost you your life. It cost you persecution. It cost you your family often to do it. And sometime in this past 2000 years, we have flipped both things.

All of a sudden church, it's complicated. Look at your budget, how much of your budget it's focused in worship? How much of your staff are working on worship? How much of the energy of the church, it's focused on the complication of one hour activity and then all of a sudden following Jesus is easy, right? I mean, because it's more about your happiness than about your holiness. It's more about, "Well, if this is convenient for me, I'll follow Jesus. If not, I just want..." Right? So what Michael is talking about is the simplicity. Doing church, worshiping Christ. I mean, that shouldn't be complicated. Following Jesus, it's not complicated, but it should be hard.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

That's great. What about you, Michael? Any thoughts?

Michael:

I think piggybacking off that thought, for me, the most explosive thing about the historic Methodist movement was lay empowerment. And again, Susanna Wesley Ecclesial gangster was guiding John Wesley who even pulled back on this because lay people were doing stuff preaching, and she writes him this, "That man's just as called by God to preach as you are." And so there's mama chiding him, but if it's too complicated for any Christian to share their faith and create communal life in Jesus, we're just doing something that's not faithful to what Jesus actually did. And there are beautiful valid ways that laypeople can serve in the inherited church. I'm a recipient of that. But there's also generations who are saying, "I'm not sure that just serving on the committee or just reading liturgy or those things see my faith blossoming in my daily life."

And so one of the questions we ask, we try to get away from extrinsic motivation, which is, "You should do this because the Bible says it," or whatever. And we try to help people find their intrinsic motivation. Our lives are already full and crazy. No, we don't need to add any more stuff to our life from the 21st century. So we don't ask, "Hey, add something to your life." We ask Larry, "What do you do every week? Who do you do that with? You hang out in a dog park with people. Could you maybe introduce a spiritual combo to that?"

Denise started 3.1 Church, we'd run a 5K together. She runs 5Ks and she has this network of people who do that. And we bring a spiritual element into that. And she's been a Christian when she started it for like six months. And she's leading reading the little Jesus story, super simple. And Jesus gives us this ecclesiology, minimal ecclesiology where two or more are gathered in my name. There I am in the midst.

And church can happen when Jesus, the risen one is in a community of two or more people. So I just agree that we really have made it complicated and there's got to be a way for the two forms to live together.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

And it sounds like a lot of that comes back to that idea of engagement, of that curiosity and flexibility are aided by simplicity often, and that if we can strip down to the essentials, sometimes that allows us to find that space that we need. So I can't leave behind the ecclesial gangster, Susanna Wesley, shout out to her. I need each of you to give us a top five of your ecclesial gangsters of all time. We don't need that. But I do wonder when you think about some of the historical figures of Methodism, of Christianity, that if you say, "Hey, if you really want to take a deeper dive on how to do that idea of curiosity or simplicity or flexibility or any of that wholeness," are there any historical figures that you might point to be like, "Hey, this is worth checking out what this person was up to."

Rev. Woo Kang:

Forgive me, it's not Methodist.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Yeah, that's okay.

Rev. Woo Kang:

But for me, especially someone in his writing that has inspired me greatly is Howard Thurman. I think Howard Thurman brings much light to understanding how to walk with others, walk with siblings, walk with people, to see people from much greater than how the world usually sees them to be. And I think when we have that lens like Jesus in the Disinherited, my favorite book, so when you look through that lens in the world and then take that lens into your church or into your ministries, I think how you approach and do ministry changes, and it has to change after reading something like that. So Howard Thurman is one of my gangsters.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

I have to throw one too, not Methodist, Oscar Romero, Bishop Oscar Romero. I mean, he goes and say, "It is not good enough just not to do evil." Not killing, guys that's not good enough. Not stealing. That's not good enough. And you can go through the whole 10 Commandments and just doing those things. That's not good enough. We are called to go and find broken and do good actually.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Amen.

Rev. Jonathan Page

Amen.

Rev. Michael Beck:

I'm tempted to not go with Methodism either, but since I'm going to go OG Methodism and say Harry Hoosier, who was essentially illiterate but could memorize large portions of the gospel that he heard and could preach probably the most compelling preacher the Methodism ever produced. Like people tell Asbury, "Can you sit down? Because we want Harry to preach." And the thing about that, so empowering laity, sorry, I'm back on this again. But the early Christians carried the charisma, right? The treasury of Jesus stories. They didn't walk around with manuscripts and read a sermon. They were sharing the stories of Jesus, his life, his healing, how he fulfilled Old Testament, all that, and people responded to that. So we're seeing a new version of that with what we call sermonic conversations or Jesus stories where you just share simply the story of Jesus and God's grace in your life and how that's transfigured your life. And then people respond to that. It's super simple. You don't have to have a preaching class.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I love that. And I think that's something we didn't kick to everyone to have conversation at your chairs in this session, but I hope when we leave, think about who you might say I want to share with somebody else is somebody like, "Hey, you really ought to pick up on this person's work." There are so many, and what's beautiful about this, some of those have a united Methodist background, some of them don't. I think we have an amazing tapestry of womanist theologians.

We have amazing folks from a number of different backgrounds to be able to think through and be able to really educate, especially as we think about this idea of what incarnation ministry looks like. Because like you said, Michael, so much of this is about learning how to move from the monologue to the dialogue. And as communities are forming their expression, that's a lot of the history of the Methodist movement is that it begins in a dialogical approach. And over time, we've made it into a monologue in a lot of ways. I wonder how, as each of you are practitioners in your own spaces, how have you seen that dialogical approach that's rooted in our history, have an impact on your communities?

Rev. Woo Kang:

I feel like I keep repeating myself since yesterday, but it's breaking bread. I mean, when you eat together, and Susanna Wesley, a great example of it. When you break bread together and intentionally do so, you're not going to eat in silence, hopefully not. And through that, you get to talk life, talk story and talk about Jesus. And when we have seen it not just happen at the table, but just at The Net when we've created those intentional spaces of breaking bread together and you're able to look at someone in their eyes and pass them something and receive something on your plate and create that space of relationship, that is where I see dialogue happening.

And that's why I'm a big supporter and practitioner of a meal centered worship because then it doesn't become you eat and go to the fellowship hall and do your thing, but in service, whatever that may be,

it's sermonic discussion that what you are doing at your tables as you're breaking bread together, that you are continuing the preaching, that you're continuing the sermon because your insight is probably a lot of times greater than mine. And when you're able to have that together, it creates that dialogue rather than monologue. And I would hope to see more of that inside of the inherited church as well.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Beautiful.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

When you look at we thinking what the role of the church is, it's not just being able to impact and influence individuals on communities spiritually, but also emotionally and socially and financially. So you engage people in their stories and that just draws you to be engaged in their lives more on a Sunday morning. But when you hear of the mom that is trying to figure out how to handle the public school system with a kid with special needs, it just draw you to go and see with her in those PTA meetings. When you're hearing that in your neighborhood or in your city, the county, the government is trying to relocate a group of people so they can bring some businesses.

It just draws you to be on those city council meetings raising your hands. It's like, "What do we do with this?" When you look at the sports association and all of a sudden just the kids that can't afford certain equipment and certain trips can't be part of that, and you have demographics of kids that can't play those sports, it just draws you to be part of that. So I think when we look at the pastoral, but the lately role of us as Christians, which has come alongside of people more than just spiritually, it just biblically force us to be part of their lives more than just one hour a week.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

I love it.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Just piggybacking on a little bit, we've followed in the church historically, this sequence of believing, belonging, behaving, the sociological understanding of this where people believe like we did. You come down, you do the creed, you do the membership class, you renounce the spiritual forces of wickedness. Now you're in, right? You can belong and then you need to behave. But what we're talking about here is actually just creating communities of belonging and letting believing happen at the pace of grace, and maybe never at all. I have a self-proclaimed atheist named Wayne at my church. He shows up to do everything. He's very helpful. Everything we got going on, we call him the coffee Nazi.

He counts people's cups of coffee, how many cups of coffee they had. We're like, "Wayne, the coffee's free. Jesus can turn water into wine." But he's very committed and he's all in, and we're just giving because he belongs and he knows that he's cared for. And so we genuinely care about people. That's why I'm sorry if I offended anybody about the people person comment, but if we genuinely care and genuinely ask questions with real concern, the gospel will show up in that conversation that people are longing to share their stories, and we find healing in sharing our stories. So we find a space to let people do that really powerful healing takes place.

Rev. Jonathan Page

Absolutely. Rodrigo, Woo, anything that Michael said where you picked up and you're like, "Hey, this is a huge takeaway for me, something I really want to carry out with me."

Rev. Woo Kang:

When you talked about the Eucharist communion, how a lot of times we have used it as an internal way to survive, and it's more for our sustenance or whatever it may be, but actually the call is to break and give to the world. That's my takeaway that I'm going to keep, and I hope that we can all learn from that. What does it mean that the body broken in the bloodshed is not just for me every week or the first Sunday of the month or whatever you take it, but to live that out and be the body broken in, the bloodshed out in the world. So thank you for that.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

What I love was that image cartoonish of the people in one side and then the church in the other one. My first thought into that one is like, "Well, maybe God just can meet the people, and the church has no role into this." Maybe that just that's it.

But the local church is the hope for the gospel. I mean, by God's grace, he's inviting us to be part of that. And I love also how you put church to everything. A yoga church, dog church, whatever, burritos church, all those stuff. That's the hope for the gospel. I mean, the denomination, the beautiful and lovely United Methodist Church, but it is a system behind you. But at the end of the day, transformation is going to take place in your local communities. What you do, what you don't do will impact people's lives. So I just hope you take that permissive invitation to be that hope for the gospel.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Amen. Michael, you did a great job teaching us and leading us today. Do you have a last word for folks before we break?

Rev. Michael Beck:

Yeah. My final word right now, we are in an epidemic of loneliness and isolation. I'll know if you all saw the Surgeon General's report in 2023, people die every day from loneliness. And we are the most hyperconnected generation ever in human history. We've never been more connected through flows and digital technology. We've never been more alone. And my little brother died of overdose, but what he really died from was a broken heart and loneliness. And this stuff that we're talking about up here, the stuff that we do as Methodist, it saves people's lives. It heals people's lives. And we have one unique gift that we can give to the world, and it's communal life in Jesus.

It's a community where people can be known and loved and can disagree and vote for different people and sometimes suck and do dumb things, but we're bounded together in Christ. And that precious gift can literally save people's lives. And if all we do is wait back and just do church on Sundays, we are literally watching people right outside our stained-glass cathedrals die of loneliness. So my call is, take your passion, your purpose, the thing that gives you life, the people you like to do that with, and start a little pocket of healing. Start a little expression of communal life in Jesus and your normal daily walk.

Rev. Jonathan Page:

Amen. Amen. Well, hey, I want to let you know if you've been listening, especially to Michael today and say, "Hey, I want get a little bit more on what he's been hitting on." We have an area in our displays where Michael is a prolific author, and so he's written a number of different things. We've got, I think, is it four or five different titles that are available for sale? They're all 10 bucks. And so if you want to go over and check that out, that's there for you. And right after this, Michael's going to be there to sign those books and to do a little meet and greet kind of thing. So feel free to check that out. I know I speak for Rodrigo and Woo. They'd love to say hey to you too. Hopefully you're on your way to a lunch lab this afternoon and doing some great stuff like that. But feel free to engage with them. Can we give Michael and our panel a hand for teaching us today?

Bishop Sue Hauptert Johnson:

Hey, I don't want them to leave because I've got an idea for a book, Michael, and I know you'll be interested in that.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Let's do it.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And I know you can speak to this, but having done my fair share of church conferences for church closure, I've always had long conversations with the faithful remnant who are still in those churches, and all of them can tell you of a day, go back to your churches and do history. Because there was a day in your church's history when they did this. And I remember the angriest church I had, I asked them, "Tell me the history of your church in this community." And they're like, "Oh." I said, what did your parents and grandparents say? "Oh, every day they were out in our community. Every day they were out talking to people about Jesus. Every day they were doing that." And I said, "And how much of that do you do?"

And they said, "None." And I realized a lot of it was guilt that they had quit working, right? So if you buy in that I just show up and write a check equal to my cable bill, maybe to the church every month and show up and worship twice a month, then I check off that list. That's how churches die, right? So I'm just thinking of this and all of you, I'm grateful because you get the juices flowing, but all of your churches have this in their history. We're not writing new chapters. So there's the challenge. Go do some history.

I also want to say a word of thanks to Carl Bergeson, which you will never know. Carl was the lay leader in my church in Ocala, Florida. And he dragged me in. He conned me. He said, "I need somebody to come serve communion to the certified lay speakers." So he said, "We'll do it first thing on Saturday afternoon." Well, if you know me, I hate Saturday events. We got to communion at 5:30, and I had to listen to every certified lay speaker preach. And one of them was a guy with the worst haircut in the worst suit I'd ever seen, but man, he could preach. And his name was Michael Beck.

And that started our long relationship and had no college education, no formal education to speak of, and was a convicted felon. And they said, "Okay, make him a pastor in the United Methodist Church." That's Grace at work, folks. Now, if you had told me he would have like 17 degrees and be a prolific author and work alongside Leonard Sweet, one of the legends of our day, I wouldn't have believed it then. But thanks to Carl Bergeson for dragging my butt to Ocala first to serve communion and to meet Michael Beck, you never know. But like all of these guys say it's just about showing up. It's just about showing up. So with that note, I know there are announcements. There're not? Oh, okay. Wow. I'm looking for Jesus to walk in. I think that's a... Okay. Well, one of our very excellent fresh expressions, folks in the Virginia Annual Conference is bringing our closing prayer. Rev. Isaiah Park, come and pray us out.

Rev. Isaiah Park:

United Methodist theologian, an author Leonard Sweet. Ask this question, will someone mistake you for Jesus today? Can you look at someone next to you and say that to them? Ask them, "Will someone mistake you for Jesus today?" You and I, we have an opportunity to show the world who Jesus Christ is. That is our calling. Amen. And we can do that because we have the living Holy Spirit in us. Will you join me in prayer?

Lord, thank you for your Holy Spirit that lives in us and gives us the resurrection power to go into the world. Because if it were up to us, we would never go. It's only in the power of the Holy Spirit that we can go. And Jesus, you tell us you can't do this alone. You need to go in the power of the Holy Spirit to reach the world with my love. And if we don't go in the power of the Holy Spirit, our eyes are veiled, our minds are judgmental, and our hearts are hardened. But through the power of the Holy Spirit, we will see people with the mind, the eyes, the heart, and the compassion of God.

So Lord, our United Methodist Church, our Virginia Annual Conference, we need the power of the Holy Spirit to move in and through us, revive our souls and resurrect all of our senses so that we are moved into action to live as Christ lived, to love, as Christ love, and to die and resurrect as Christ did. Jesus, you are the fresh expression of God's presence, compassion and love to us. And therefore, we too can be a fresh expression of your hope, compassion, and love to this world. We are wholly surrendered to you. We are on our knees and we are available to you so that we may continue in the movement that you began, you who began a good work in and through us will bring the completion in Christ Jesus through the power of the Holy Spirit and Jesus. Holy and beautiful name we pray. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you, Rev. Park. Appreciate it. I hope you'll go to a lunch lab and continue this conversation. We are adjourned until two o'clock when we'll have our memorial service.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Memorial Service began with Bishop Sue leading the procession of families of those being remembered during the service. The names of the honored dead: bishops, clergy members, clergy spouses, and lay members were read as candles were lit. The Gospel Lesson was Mark 4:35-41.

Rev. Kyungsuk Cho began his sermon “Over to the Other Side” with prayer. He shared several stories where people thought he was younger than he actually is. We appreciate being perceived as younger because it makes death seem further away. We avoid thinking about death because it is “the great unknown and uncharted territory”. Rev. Cho shared about the bravery of the first wave of missionaries to Korea, most facing certain death from either disease, accidents, or persecutions. In this faith, we have to keep moving forward to the otherside. When things stop moving, it's death. Most of the problems in the Bible occurred when people stopped moving. We are not remembering a dead story, we are remembering a story of God's movement. “One's person's movement is not just one person's movement. When the dots are collected, it forms a line. And every line has a direction. All we can do is to keep moving in the right direction.”

Sixty-one conference clergy and laity who died since the last Annual Conference were remembered.

TEACHING AND BUSINESS SESSION

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

As you find your seats, Rev. Sam Nesmith has asked for a moment of personal privilege and when he asks for personal privilege, I grant it so.

Rev. Sam Nesmith:

I'm delighted to speak to you for a few moments about a historical person, a friend over the years and a tremendous Methodist, Judge Willard H Douglas Jr. At the present time, he is in a state of dementia. He doesn't know he's in the world, but I visit him every month. I take communion to him, but I know who I am and I think I want you to know there'll never be another person like Judge Willard H Douglas. In the early... Well, before I say that, my wife and I are the two remaining clergy persons from the central jurisdiction. The only clergy left from the central jurisdiction. Now, if you remember, the central jurisdiction was one of the five jurisdictions, but the central jurisdiction was totally the segregated one, and it encompassed the total United States where the other four were based on geography and Willis Douglas, his ministry and leadership started around 1970, a pivotal period during the period of segregation when there was a special emphasis and interest in trying to be inclusive here in Virginia. His devoted discipleships span four decades, the scope of serving in the highest level of methodism.

At the conference level, Willard Douglas served in four conference agencies where he was a Trotter member, Goodson Foundation for Homiletics, Leadership Development Institute, Heart Havens and the Virginia United Methodist Housing Development Corporation. Other committees of the Virginia Conference on which Willard served included Black Methodists; he served in that position for many years. He served many terms as the president of the Ethnic Minority Concerns Committee, the Clergy Development Committee, and the Retired Clergy Housing Development Corporation. He was the lawyer for that committee. He was an excellent lawyer. He was what you would call the lawyer's lawyer, smart, articulate and knowledgeable. Willard served as trustee of the board of two United Methodist related educational institutions, Virginia Wesleyan College, and he served there for 20 years and Ferrum College for 10 years.

Beyond the annual conference, Willard rendered service in the greater area of Virginia. He served as a delegate to General and Jurisdictional Conference, 1972, 1976, 1980, 1984, 1996, 2000, 2004, 2012, and 2016. A great Methodist, a great leader. From 1984 to 1982, Willard served on the judicial council and it's my understanding that he served magnificently in that position. I just had to ask the bishop to let me say a word about this outstanding black Methodist in Virginia. Willard also was involved in the World Methodist Community. He served from 2001 to 2016 in the highest level of World Methodism. I hope other Black Methodists will see Willard as an example and a model for Methodism here in America and in Virginia. Thank you, Bishop. I'd like to ask you if you could give a prayer because I think my prayer is so local, yours is international and widespread, so if you would, I'd appreciate it.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Lord, we thank you for this pillar of history. We thank you for his years of service. We thank you for his legacy and we thank you for his example. May we all be guided by his years of service, by his commitment to you and by his never hesitating to respond to your call. We thank you for living legends and we thank you for Rev. Sam Nesmith who brings him to our memory and we thank you for him as well. May we all follow in their illustrious footsteps, the Lord comfort him in these last days, give him glimpses of memory, but we look forward to his restoration and his resurrection. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen. Thank you, sir.

Okay, now we have Rev. Woo Kang who's going to come and lead us so well in the teaching sessions and I know that you want to welcome him and express your appreciation for his time with us.

Rev. Woo Kang:

Thank you, Bishop. Thank you Virginia Annual Conference. I'm not as cool as Michael or Rodrigo. I need my notes, so I'm going to stand right here. It's so good to be with you all this afternoon and thank you so much for your hospitality thus far throughout the conference. When Jonathan reached out, he asked me to talk about the missional movement, and when he shared that topic, I was like, "Okay, that one I can do. Let me think about it." And I wrestled with it for a while because I thought to myself, I can talk to you about all the outreach that we do. I can talk to you about the mission Sundays of the Net Church where we shut down all of our campuses on the last Sunday of the month to go serve the community. I can talk to you about our foster closet where we serve foster parents with clothing.

I can talk to you about what we can do as missional, but then as I wrestled with it, I thought to myself, a lot of people can figure out the what. They can figure out a service project, they can figure out a mission trip. They can figure out a plan to go do something. So instead of talking about the what today I wanted us to focus on the why. Why does the Spirit call us to be missional? Why does the Spirit seek to move not just within the church, but through the church and out of the church? Why is it that we seek to be a part of a missional movement? The why is critical in everything that we do. I think of the why as the engine. The why is the reason of why we do what we do.

So I want you to think about why, why do we seek to be missional? I'm going to be blunt and I'm going to be honest. Is the why, because now we're in a privileged space where we have enough money and enough resources, and now I can go do something? Is the why, because if we go do something in the community, they will then come to church? Is the why, so we can, what we say is put warm butts in seats? Why is it that God is calling us to be missional? This word, why, is a word that I've been thinking about a lot recently. I've been very thankful for the North Georgia Annual Conference and especially for Pastor Rodrigo's leadership and allowing me February of last year to begin a ministry in our newest campus of the Nett Church, our fourth campus in historic Norcross, Georgia, and that we created, and we call it... I'm sorry. At The Table.

At The Table is what we call a curated dinner worship experience. It's a fancy way to say dinner church, but we created this service and created this church expression and experience as a way to reach the young and younger folks and young at heart folks in our community that have been hurt by the church or that have left the church. The why behind that was the statistics that we found that broke my heart. One fourth and a one mile radius of this campus are ages 18 to 34. Over 50% of them have said that they no longer go to church. If you hear that correctly, I didn't say, do not go to church. I said, they no longer go to church. What does that tell you? Something happened. Someone was hurt and we as the church has done something wrong. So we thought of this idea of creating a space where we break bread together, where we are able to worship God in a very dialogical way, where we talk together, where we have community together. It's been a great experience, a lot of challenges and struggles, but a lot of joy and a lot of blessings.

One of the biggest blessings and also one of the biggest challenges is that 99.999%, except one person in our whole congregation are not Methodist. They come from denominations I've never even heard of. We have probably every denomination you can think of represented within our community, but with that comes the challenge of the why. If we talk about outreach or missions or evangelism, what it means to us and why we do it may be very different from the other person, brother, sister, sibling that comes into the space. So I've been spending a lot of time taking 10 steps back and thinking about this word, of why do we do pretty much everything and anything that we do.

What I love about this community and that I have faced through this community is that diversity comes in many different ways. Diversity also comes with theology. It comes with beliefs, it comes with culture, it comes with ethnicity, it comes with race. It comes in many different ways, but the beauty of diversity is that we're able to learn through it. So today I'm going to probably give you a little different way of talking about a missional church than you expected, but I want you to ask yourself this question, why do I want to be a missional church? Why do I want to be a part of a missional church?

If you look at the Nett Church and if you know anything about the Nett Church, one of the words that people say in the community when we ask them, "Hey, what do you know about the net?" They say diversity. That's usually the key word that comes up when we talk about the Nett Church is diversity. While I was preparing this talk, I was doing a Google search and I looked up diversity, and I didn't mean to find this, but it surprised me, right under diversity as an antonym, the word that pops up is unity. So I want you to think about that for a second. I literally had to take a step back and I was like, "Hold on. So does that mean diversity and unity are opposite?" When we as the church are seeking to be unified and do things on a united front, but also seeking for diversity, and I was wrestling with that, and I want you to wrestle with that as well.

Diversity is opposite of unity? And as you have that simmer, I'm going to take you down a journey. Something that we do at At The Table every week is we believe in being interactive and we use a program where I ask you a question, you answer it, it comes up on the screen. That will not support thousands of you. So I made my own, and we're going to do this old school. I'm going to ask you some questions. It's multiple choice, A, B, and C. If you believe the answer to the question is, A, you're going to lift up your right hand. If you think it's B, you're going to lift up your left hand. If you think it's C, you're going to say hallelujah and put up both. Okay? So the first question that I want to ask you is you're going to see this picture. What is this? So the majority is telling me it is the Tower of Babel. Amen. Good job, you pass. Next one, what did the Lord do? So the answers are caught the tower on fire, two, turned everyone to dust, three, confuse their languages and scattered them all over the world. What's the answer? Hallelujah. Hallelujah. If you catch on, hallelujah is the answer.

We are going to go a little bit further into the Bible, but I want to ask you what biblical moment is this? Hallelujah. It's the story of Pentecost.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Jewish acapella group.

Rev. Woo Kang:

The day of Pentecost, I was trying to be funny and creative, put in the other ones. The last question is what was the first thing that happened when the Holy Spirit came down? Everyone fell out in the spirit. Everyone caught on fire. Everyone spoke in different languages. Hallelujah. And church, I want you to hear yourself saying, hallelujah when we say people spoke in different languages.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Hallelujah.

Rev. Woo Kang:

That we are able to say hallelujah when we hear different languages, not, oh, I can't understand you. Can you speak a little louder? Do you speak English? But when someone speaks a different language, are we able to say, praise God. Praise God for the differences. Praise God for the tongue that you have that I do not have. And the story of Tower of Babel, the people were spread and the way that they were divided was through language. Then you fast forward to the day of Pentecost and the way that people came united was through language. If you look at the Pentecost story in Acts chapter two, you see that there were dwelling in Jerusalem. Jews devout men from every nation under heaven, and at this sound, the multitude came together and they were bewildered because each one was hearing them speak in his own language.

The Holy Spirit could have done anything. Think about this with me. The Holy Spirit entering into the world could have done anything, could have given us photographic memory to memorize the Torah. It could have made us the best people to love people. The Holy Spirit could have done anything in that moment, but what did the Holy Spirit seek to do? The first thing when entering into this world was language. God could have done anything in that moment, but what God chose to do was allow people to speak other people's languages, experience one another's differences. What I love about this story was it wasn't that the Holy Spirit came and everyone started speaking the same language, AKA not everyone came and did church the same way. Not everyone walked in the same way. Not everyone was taught in the same way. But what happened in this moment was I was able to experience the way that you experience life and you were able to experience the way I experience life. Church, that is what the Holy Spirit is seeking to do in this very moment in our lives.

Remember that phrase that I said, diversity is opposite of unity? How many of y'all have heard these phrases? Let's agree to disagree. At least we agree on this. Let's just focus on what we can agree upon. The thing is unity and diversity, a lot of times we want them to exist and coexist, but it is hard. We even say let's agree to disagree, is hey, what we disagree on, put it away. The differences, let's put them to the side, but just focus on the thing that brings us together. I'm going to flip the script on that and I believe that is what we are called to do is how can we be diversely unified? We can still be together, but with our differences, where our differences are valued and experienced, just like this Pentecost moment where we value, celebrate, honor and experience these differences together, where we even leave room for differences, actually encourage differences, but common unity in the shared value and principles for of our call and of our love of Christ.

In the world and in society unity and diversity may not always come together, but in the church, I believe it is called to do so, but also out in the world. At the net, we intentionally sing songs in different languages, and I'm going to show you some words on the screen, and this is a song that we love to sing and it says... You don't want me to. I'm not going to sing it, but I'll just read it.

For everything you give me. Thank you Lord, for people who surround us. Thank you Lord for everlasting kindness. Thank you Lord. And for your faithful presence, thank you Lord. And then we say shukran, gam-sa-hae, gracias, asante, four languages, but these languages are all represented within our congregation. But I want you to think about why is it that we sing in different languages in our services?

Honestly, I thought, oh, at first it's so that people who speak different languages can feel comfortable in that service because their language is being sung. But when I really take a look at why we sing in different languages, it's not just for those to feel comfortable hearing their own language, but it's for us to be uncomfortable to speak different languages, for us to be able to partake in something that meets someone where they are, even though it may be discomforting for us, even if it calls us to embarrass ourselves. I can't tell you how many times when Spanish comes up on the screen, people sing along. As soon as Korean comes up on the screen, Romanized with all the dashes and all these words, people... I don't blame them because it's really hard to follow along, but we don't want to embarrass ourselves.

Sometimes we don't want to step out of our comfort zone. We want to be comfortable, but what does it look like to experience other cultures, other ways of doing things, even if that costs us our comfort?

What I love about this song and us seeing our folks sing this song almost every week is that we're able to see people walking with people and being able to walk in different ways. This is my why, of why we are called to be missional. It's not just so we can go save people, but it's so we can be a good neighbor. So we are able to experience life with people that look different than us, that speak different than us. So if you want to be a missional church and you are not ready to be uncomfortable, you need to work on yourselves before you go anywhere, in my opinion. And I talk to myself personally, am I ready to be uncomfortable? Am I ready to try to experience something different? Am I willing to walk with someone even when I don't fully understand? To be missional is not just going somewhere and doing something good and coming back to your warm bed and calling it a night and checking off a box. Being missional is a lifestyle. Being missional is a calling. What I love about the United Methodist Church is that many things that we do are missional, even things that you may not really think are technically missional.

I chose to become a United Methodist Church pastor really because of many things, but one main thing, which is the open table. To know that all are welcome to this table, no matter how broken we are, no matter how sinful we may be, that we are able to come to this table. I wanted to be a part of that kind of church. I want to be a part of a church where anyone and everyone can come sit and experience the amazing love of God. But do you know what we say when we start the table, we open up communion? We say the table is open and we usually say, "You may come." What does it look like if we take that same table and instead of people coming to the table, we take that table everywhere we go? Where the love of Christ is not just experienced when you come up, but the love of Christ is experienced when we take it out. Are you following me? That is our calling to be a missional church.

But when your why is understanding what it means to serve those that are different than you, that to me is when you are able to walk into that home where it smells a little different than yours, where you're able to eat that food that tastes very different than yours and live out that open table, where all are welcome and where not all come, but where we all go.

I'm going to end with a story, and At The Table is one of our first services, and I did not want to do communion, if I'm honest with you, because I didn't want to be too churchy. My wife, who's always smarter than I am, said, "Hey, we are a church." I was like, "You're right, you're right." She was like, "Let's just do it." I'm like, "I don't want to turn people off, or if this is the first time in a long time coming to church." She was like, "Just do it." Okay. So I stood up there after sermon was over, and I always say a similar liturgy that I made up, but I just say, let's be reminded of that table where the man that betrayed Jesus was able to sit, where the one that turned away and denied Jesus three times was able to sit and experience the love of God. And because of that, Church, you are all welcome to this table. And in the United Methodist Church, we believe in an open table. As I was talking about this, this gentleman was sitting right in front of me, big guy, big beard, definitely looks like he's from Georgia, and he's sitting there and he just starts crying. He did not look like someone that just cries that easily. And he's sitting there looking at me dead in the eyes, just crying. I was like, "What in the world did I do?"

I was like, "Babe, that's why I said let's not do communion." But after it was over, he comes up, takes the bread, dips it in the cup, and he comes up to me, he says, "Can I talk to you?" I said yeah. He was like, "This is my first time in church in about 5, 6, 7 years, and I grew up Catholic and I was never able to take communion. I never felt like I could come to that table. I never felt like I could partake. I never felt good enough. I never felt worthy enough, and this is one of the first times I was able to take communion."

That is the church that we are a part of where we can meet people where they are, the same people that a lot of folks will turn away from. We as a United Methodist Church, you as the Virginia Annual Conference, we are called to be that open table for all. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Thank you, Woo.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

All right, so Woo, you pastor at the table and I feel like we just got fed, so just as we're digesting this now, that's probably enough of that analogy.

You talked about the why as the engine. Folks out there are hearing that and really wanting to think about a compelling why. Not just like you said, it's not about getting more butts on seats or anything like that. What are some steps that pastors or laypeople can really take to begin to discern their why?

Rev. Woo Kang:

That's good. I think everything has to come out of relationship and if you are trying to do something new in your church, if you're trying to do an outreach project, if you're trying to be mission or whatever it may be, instead of first figuring out a good idea, what would it look like to actually talk with the community? What would it look like to sit down for a cup of coffee with that neighbor that you want to help? Instead of you coming up with an idea of "What can I do for you," that I can hear from you, "What I can do for you?" And I feel like a lot of times that's what becomes our why through our conversations, through relationship, and that's what drives us to do what I believe we are called to do. So my encouragement would be talk to people and don't come up with things on your own, but speak to those that you're seeking to walk with.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

It's kind of that, I think some of what we've heard throughout our time together, is that community-informed practice model and how do we ensure that we're rooted in that. One thing that I think I've heard from other colleagues and diversity is a value of, "Hey, how can we become a more diverse congregation, better reflect our community?" Do you have any wisdom for folks who may find themselves and say, "Hey, I'm in a really monoracial or monocultural community." How do you practice diversity in places where it feels like diversity isn't present?

Rev. Woo Kang:

100%. I think Rodrigo shared yesterday, diversity is not always racial. It's not always ethnic. I grew up in the Korean church all my life and even in an homogenous immigrant church, do I believe there's diversity? 100%.

That diversity comes in socioeconomic ways. It comes with family structure. It comes in many different ways where diversity is present. So I think in the same way, what my challenge is, what I always try to challenge my home church but they never listen, is what we need to really be better at is not trying to just say, "Hey, we all are, I'll just use my context. We're all Korean, so we are a Korean church. We all agree on this, we get together and everything's good," but what would it look like if you have opportunities in your church where you actually ask about what are your differences? How can we value your stories? When you hear people's stories and you start to see that there are different stories represented within your congregation, those different stories make your congregation diverse, in my opinion.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Yeah, for sure. And it sounds like that would even contribute to some of what you've talked about with that idea of finding unity in diversity and that sort of thing. I wonder if you might share a little bit with us about... A distinction I've heard before is there's a difference between unity and uniformity as an example. What does it look like? Maybe you've talked about the Net church, outside of church space and just in life, pursuing that space of how you can practice that true diversity that leads you into a space where you don't have to be the same but you're together.

Rev. Woo Kang:

Yeah, I think one example is if you're a sports fan, unity is great, but we want uniformity when it comes to what team we like. You get me? So it's not like, oh yeah, we all agree, but I need you to exactly who I like and you need to know everything about the team. You need to be the fan that I am and we try to be uniform as sports fans. Unity in my opinion, he uses this a lot. It's like the World Cup. I have my team, which is and will always forever will be Korea, but we have unity in the World Cup with all the different teams and the different ways and the different fan bases, we're able to still come together and celebrate the World Cup, the love of soccer, the love of football, the love of what it means to come together. So I think that's unity, being able to still have what it is that I have but come together in a common way.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Yeah, that's really helpful. So I think one of the things that I'm curious about when we start talking about cultural diversity, let me ask this question, just recognizing my own identity as a white male. A lot of times I think, and just specifically for white folk who are pursuing diversity, sometimes there's a challenge with cultural appropriation, with colonialism. Do you have any wisdom about, for folks who might be in the dominant culture, how do you pursue cultural diversity in a way that avoids cultural appropriation and colonialism?

Rev. Woo Kang:

This one, I'll just say it's simply, let others tell their story. You don't have to be the one to tell their story. I think that's a little bit of a difference is giving the opportunities for my Black sister or my Indian brother to give them the space to share what it is they want to share instead of me being the one saying, "I need to take your story and share it." And I think that's a big thing that we try to do in our church settings is instead of me trying to sing a song in Spanish, we'll make sure that we have someone that can speak Spanish that will sing the song in Spanish. I think that comes with our relationships and the way in which we do ministry, which also means you need to open your doors, create more spaces, more leadership opportunities for people to be able to live out their calling so I don't have to do it.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

That's beautiful and really speaks to the importance of the centering of voices and the centering of positionalities. At the Net, you speak often about the table is the center and this idea that the table is at the center of what it means to be in mission. I know Bishop Sue will often talk about teaching liturgy as a means through which we tell story, that she's spoken just at this conference about if every pastor knows the communion liturgy, they probably can pass the Board of Ordained Ministry and that sort of thing. So I wonder what does it mean to see liturgy through a missional lens?

Rev. Woo Kang:

I think seeing liturgy through a missional lens is understanding that you already are equipped for mission. The liturgy that we are able to be blessed with, the liturgies that we have and that we have grown up with or that you preach every Sunday, these have equipped us. And if you really look into liturgy, liturgy is not just internal, liturgy a lot of times is a call to action. If you really think about liturgy, most of the times, it's a congregational communal thing and that equips us. And if we can use that correctly, I think it gives us something to be able to walk out into the community with.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Yeah, that's helpful. So I'm going to invite Rodrigo and Michael to come up and as they're coming, I do have a question for you Woo, and it's related to Nett. So I think you and Rodrigo have been pretty open that y'all are getting ready to go through a transition with Rodrigo moving into the conference office, and that's going to be a big change. One of the things that you've really taught us today is that part of effective mission and really, that all of y'all have taught us, is that effective mission is nimble and it's flexible.

I wonder if, in a time of transition, would you have a word of wisdom, especially my guess is there are a few folks that are out here who are about to experience transition whether they be pastors, laypeople who are receiving new clergy, maybe folks who are moving and things like that. What wisdom would you have about engaging transition from a missional perspective?

Rev. Woo Kang:

Yeah. It has been hard and it is going to be hard. He's a founding pastor and they love him. We all love him. Someone said, "We need to saint Rodrigo." I was like, "Oh my gosh." But I think in the midst of transition, what I'm constantly reminded of is the moment that we forget in the mission of the church and the mission of whatever context you're in and that the value becomes the person, it's bound to have issues. But I know that we had a meeting with some of our more seasoned folks, a little more stubborn folks, and we were shocked that the outcome was not "What can you do now? What can we do now?" But they said, "Are we going to stay on the mission?" So I think when you have a strong enough mission and your church is focused on the mission and vision and values, even in the midst of transition, and those difficult times will come, I do feel like that will be what carries you forward, not a person. Amen.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Rodrigo, Michael, any thoughts on this?

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah, I'll go a little bit deeper in that conversation because it has been one of the most holiest moments that I have experienced. For the Net, we started as a church plant and part of our growth has been through mergers to taking on existing congregations. As a multi-ethnic church, we have taken on some homogeneous congregations and things went as south as you may expect it. Right from the beginning, people from saying, "Can you take classes where you can get rid of your accent?" And I was like, "No. Having an accent is one of the most popular things to have in this country." From "Can you go back to the country where you came from?" All kind of nasty things in the beginning.

And then five years later, as we're sharing that transition and almost people were like, "Well, we don't really care about you and you can go, that's fine. We're going to keep the vision of the church." And that's where you said, "Jesus, thank you for what you're doing. Thank you for you being the center of what we are doing." One of the things that we share that I love about what he was talking about is John:17, Jesus said, "The way they'll know that You send me is for our ability to become one." Jesus banked the whole future of the church, not in the way we feed people, not in the way we do charity work, not in the way we do worship or how awesome our carpet is or how loud we play the organ, it is in our ability to become one. So when we find a way to gather a group of people, no matter if they all look alike or if they don't look alike, because can we tell them, "Can you become one with one another, with one with Christ?" And that will do it.

Rev. Michael Beck:

I'll just throw in, from a clergy perspective, involved in lay empowerment movement. Our approach is starting from the beginning with the dream of the person who wants to create something. In the beginning, I failed a lot through, "Let me start some stuff," and then, "Hey, let me hand it off to you." It just doesn't work. So it gets back to that intrinsic motivation of what is your God dream? What is God calling you? What community are you part of? And then nurturing that. And then the transitionary piece that's often hard, is not as hard because you've cultivated a movement of people that are empowered, they're living in their gifts, they're doing that. And so you're more like a circuit rider in that system where you're moving around. And the biggest shift in my ministry was where I stopped trying to grow fruit on my own tree and started trying to grow fruit on other people's trees.

And the thing I didn't hit real hard earlier, but when we do this blended ecology movement thing, it's not just the fresh expressions that are lay-empowered and stuff, that also has to happen in the inherited church. So we have a lay preaching team where we all preach equally. We come together for our sermon planning retreat and we all throw ideas at the wall. Everybody brings two or three ideas and then we vote democratically. And sometimes my sermon series that I've cooked up don't get voted on even though they're clearly superior. So next week we're starting a Disney Princess sermon series.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Praise the Lord, now.

Rev. Michael Beck:

I'm glad y'all are excited about it because it wasn't my first go-to, but I'm sure I'll learn a lot. But when you've created that kind of culture, I think the other thing too, it's relational and sometimes itineracy can work against this where it is moving a lot, but can we rethink itineracy as being in the same place for a long period of time, but the itineracy is moving around in a parish cultivating all kind of things all over the place that are self-sustaining and people living out their calling and their God dream.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

That's great. Well, and thank you all for your vulnerability, especially in the midst of transition, just helping to think through that. All of you to a degree have talked in the last couple of days about religious harm and the impacts that that has on movement in general. As United Methodists, we tend to ascribe to Wesley's three general rules, "Do no harm. Do good. Stay in love with God." I know that's not the last one, but close enough. How do we commit to doing no harm? The idea that religious harm could have been fostered in our congregations and our settings. What does it mean for a church or a community to really commit to doing no harm?

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

[inaudible 00:47:07]

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

It's softball, so feel free. Anybody can take it.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

Yeah, I'll say three words and I'll expand a little bit into each one of them. Know, own and change. Let me start with the know. And by that means, k-n-o-w, yeah, right. I want to make sure your English is right, k-n-o-w. But you have to know the story. You have to know the context where you are. We live in the United States of America where there is weight. There is sin, there is heaviness, there is racism. Feel into it. And you have to know what you know, you have to own your power into that. Even as a male Hispanic first generation, there's privilege that I bring to the table. There's conversations where I can walk as a Hispanic that I know my sisters, mis hermanas, they don't have a voice in that table. There's conversations what I can walk into because of perhaps my legal status where other people may not.

So you have to own the level of privilege that you have and you have to change the story. I told this a couple of days ago to the lay session, if you change nothing, nothing's going to change. We can't just keep complaining about the brokenness of the church, about the brokenness of the world and not be willing to do what we can in it. So you got to know the story where you're living into. You have to do the owning of your brokenness and you have to be willing to change it or at least die trying to.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Thank you.

Rev. Michael Beck:

If I could suggest there's a lot to learn from the recovery community here, which Father Richard Rohr's 12 Steps to Spirituality, the Great American Contribution to the Global Spiritual Landscape. And there's some principles there. It's a leaderless organization, there's no president or board. It's polycentric, it's movemental and creates little pockets of safety and healing where people can bring their deepest trauma and struggle and find healing. And there's some key things about it. So apprenticeship, one-on-one relationships, we call it sponsorship, the ability to get real and not have to hold things back. That doesn't mean you go into every meeting and bleed all over everybody, but you can really bring those honest things that you're struggling with.

And leaders modeling that behavior, modeling that vulnerability and having those principles, traditions, create safety for people to do that. And I think it's basically early Methodism that's been recapitulated in 12 Steps. That's my theory. It's like societies, classes and bands, but that's what I say begin to be a trauma-informed church means we need to be an inclusive church. It means we need to repent of the ways we've caused harm and be open about that and then create space where conversations can happen and we co-create whatever the next Methodism is going to be together.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Thanks.

Rev. Woo Kang:

Yeah, I think for me, if we're trying to not do harm, when I think about the opposite of harm, I think of love and are we able to commit to love? And I think one of the things is we got to acknowledge is a lot of churches, and I've been a part of them as well, have we really committed to loving those that are coming through our doors? Are we committed to attendance? Are we committed to our building? Are we committed to how great whatever it is? But when you really commit to love someone that love needs to come unconditionally, it comes with grace, it comes with mercy, it comes with understanding, it comes with repentance. And I really think that's the shift that I always try to make, is I hope that it's not just, "I hope I don't hurt you, but I hope you can really feel loved by me."

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

I think that's so helpful. And just that framework of what I hear in all of you, it is a true commitment. It's not something that you can just say, "Yeah, sure, we'll do that." But it's really evaluating that on a consistent basis and making sure that that's something that you're being able to ensure is a part of your community. And that leads to a question about in all of these movements, what does assessment look like? So we've talked a lot about fluidity and the fluidity of grace, the fluidity of how community develops, even how mission unfolds. How do you assess at any given moment where you are in the stream, so to speak, and allow that to guide where you're going to go from there?

Rev. Michael Beck:

All right. I'll try not to be not helpful with what I want to share, but so it is a relational following of the Holy Spirit. It requires deep listening. It requires adaptability. It requires like we're just following the relational prompts.

Luke:10 "Find the person at peace, do life with them at their table." So following the stream of the spirit through those relationships, it's a very intuitive thing. I don't think it's anything you could put in a report and turn into... But I will say that currently not only do our metrics not measure it, but they almost program our behaviors away from this kind of movemental missional way of being church.

So what I always encourage people I'm working with in a coaching context, whatever say, "Create your own metrics for what vitality actually looks like in your community, and then feed that back to the system. Help them understand what that looks like." Because the prevailing metrics may or may not measure that, but assessing that requires team conversations. It requires prayerful where do we feel the Holy Spirit is the next thing? And then doing that together as a community.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

That's great. One of the things that we talk a lot in the church at the Nett or moving forward, they will keep talking about it, is there is a difference between failing and sucking at it. And we talk about it's okay to fail because it is okay to fail because not everything that we try is going to work. But one more time, there's external factors that may create a program and express expression, a ministry to fail.

Sucking at it? It comes from the heart, it comes from laziness, it comes from not doing right biblically, what we are called to do. And I think laity and clergy can tell those things apart. So in the life of the church, which I believe every church should have a risk-taking culture, because we know what is at stake. It's people's lives. The credibility of the gospel, that's what is at stake. We constantly are going to have to try to do new things. That just has to be our MO. And we just have to differentiate. "It's okay, we try something that we fail. It ain't okay if we suck at it."

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

I love it.

Rev. Woo Kang:

I want to answer this with a story. Mission Sunday is the last Sunday of the month, where we shut down everything and we say "The church has left the building." We go serve the community. No longer am I in that role, but almost three years. I was a pastor of outreach for the Net, and I remember a lot of folks used to come up to me and say, "We're doing all this in the community, but they're not coming to church." Or "How do you measure what we're doing?" We're putting, and we have a good budget for it, we believe in it, but they're like, "We're putting this much money into it, but what are we doing?"

I don't know. I mean if you come to one, you might find out. But anyways, last couple months ago, we went to an extended stay and this was our second time there. And it's extended stay hotel where that's how homelessness really looks like in Gwinett County where we're at, an extended stay hotel. That was our second time there. We were there exactly a year before and we offered haircuts. We had a barber come out and he did haircuts. And I remember one guy, his name's Dave, and he looked rough that first time we saw him. His beard was down to here. He looked really rough. And our barber, Alex, he made him look real good.

And then a year later, a couple months ago, same extended stay, Dave walks up to me first I was like, "Man, you're still here?" And he said, "Yeah." And he said, "Ever since you guys came and cut my hair, I can tell you my life has changed." So you ask, "How do we assess?" I don't know. There's no metrics to that. There's no measurement to that. But when you get to talk to people, when you listen to their stories, then I think you can assess what God and the Spirit is doing in people's lives.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Well, and I think that gives us a good leading question for everybody out there when we're going to take a stretch break in a minute, and maybe the question we could ask one another or be able to tell one another is, when was the last time you or your church took a risk big enough that it would've required a move of the spirit to see it through? That's so much of what I hear in each of these stories that you've shared today is that the three movements that the Bishop's leading us through in this annual conference session and what will be leading over the next quadrennium is that it requires risk of our comfort, risk of ourselves, risk of who we are, and trusting that the Holy Spirit's up to something. And that when we're willing to surrender ourselves, when we pour ourselves out, that's where there's room for God to do something big.

And so I'm really grateful for what you all have shared. I wonder, Michael and Rodrigo any prevailing thought out of what Wu said, that you'd want folks to take home with them and say, "I remember this."

Rev. Michael Beck:

I loved what Wu said. Can I just say a quick story?

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Yeah, yeah.

Rev. Michael Beck:

So we're in Tattoo Parlor Church. Some people just show up, they bring their friends, "Cheap tattoos. They're going to talk about Jesus, probably, whatever." So this guy comes in for the first time ever in Tattoo Parlor church. He walks in, he is like, we're all sitting there, cross-legged on the floor and the couches and doing our thing. And he says, "This is church? This is effing cool." Can I get an F-bomb in, Bishop? Are you cool?

Bishop Sue:

Yeah, I've never said it before myself.

Rev. Michael Beck:

Okay, all right. So here's the thing. Inside my little pastor heart is going, "Dang, that's awesome." I wish people would walk into my Sunday morning vintage worship service and walk in and go, "This is church? This is effing cool." Wouldn't you get excited about that? Can I get an "Amen" anybody? Hasn't happened yet. So he comes, joins the circle. He comes, starts becoming a regular, slowly, he's like, "I'm the only one dropping the F-bomb like every sentence. I'm the only one that had to smoke a jay before I came in to be part of this."

Slowly over time, maybe now it's like there's three F-bombs in his share, and he stopped smoking weed and gentle spirit transformations happen in his life. All we're doing is creating that ecosystem for that to happen. So yeah, how do you measure a guy moving from 20 F-bombs to two? If that was on my report, I would be killing it. I would have great missional vital signs.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

I just have to interject real quick. The next thing on our agenda is the statistician's report.

Rev. Michael Beck:

All right, add some "How many F-bombs did you hear this week?" if you're truly being missional. Sorry, that was a rabbit trail.

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz::

You see, we live in times where it doesn't take rocket science to acknowledge that, I'll say it, the government, religious institutions, society is constantly giving hell to people. And there is a church, where our ability to give heaven to people. You talk about control, surrender. At the end of the day, what the Lord is asking from you is to be obedient. The outcome is up to God. What happens? It's up to God. What God can do to you, through you, in you, despite of you, by simply being obedient, it can change the course of history to somebody. So just go and give people heaven.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Awesome. So good. Woo, you've shared so much wisdom with us. You get the last word. What do you have for us?

Rev. Woo Kang:

I feel like we've been here for a week. I was talking about ago, a long couple of days. Blessings to you. But I think it's simple. What would it look like for us to be a church where we can better love people and love people where they are?

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

I love it. I love it. Well, hey. Yeah, we can clap for that. That's a good thing.

Friends, I just want to share with you real quickly that 10 years ago today I was ordained in this room. I feel like, in the last decade, I can't remember a time at annual conference where I've felt more fulfilled and more enriched by just the presence of folks who are willing to pour wisdom out onto us as we gather together for holy conferencing. And I think we all just owe an incredible debt of gratitude to Michael Beck, Rodrigo Cruz and Wu Kang for sharing some time with us. Would you join me as we thank them?

Rev. Rodrigo Cruz:

Thank you.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page:

Appreciate you, man.

Rev. Joshua King:

Before we take a stretch break, I just want to make up, not make up, but give an announcement. There is a car, a deep blue Volvo SUV with their flashers that is parked in the parking lot with the lights flashing. That is a North Carolina plate, RGP 7333.

Bishop Sue:

Okay, thank you. Okay. A stretch break. A real short stretch break. We're going to put up the minute clock in about a minute. Okay? So act accordingly.

Ms. Perez:

... that we lean into the challenge that Rev. King gave us to lean into discomfort and do what is asked of us and maybe take this moment to develop some empathy for those of us who have to think about and disclose and fight for our identities every day. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Ms. Perez. Well said. Appreciate it. Okay, I invite Elijah Gilliam, one of our youth delegates from the Northern Virginia District to come for our opening prayer.

Elijah Gilliam:

Let us pray. God of love, today, we pause to give you thanks, for an inclusive church, for hearts open to your spirit, for the transformation that happens when our hearts and minds are renewed. We ask that as the leader of our church, father, let your will be done. Jesus give us direction. Holy Spirit, give us the boldness to speak up and submit our thoughts and our speech to you so your kingdom can continue to be a present reality in us. Bless us as we move forward. In your name we pray, amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you very much. Okay, I'm going to turn to our conference secretary and he's going to talk to us about the resolution process and what his group has learned and how we're going to approach the resolutions today. So Rev. King, if you would lead us in that.

Joshua King:

Thank you, Bishop. I know it has been some time since we have had resolutions on the floor of the Virginia Conference. Some of you may remember from the time back when we dealt with resolutions the whereas statements were not the subject matter to be debated nor the subject matter to be amended. So as we move forward into this time of resolutions, the whereas statements are there for information, but the only bit of language that is going to be discussed is anything that is after therefore, let it be resolved. And so if you have an amendment, it will be to that language and when we vote it will be that language that will be ratified and put into the official minutes that is the legal language for this session.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

So the whereas clauses will not appear in the official record. And this does not bind the next annual conference. The resolution is only binding for the annual conference year that it's passed. So we will have much more education on resolutions next year because we have the rules that we have gotten before us and we will be working on a clear process. But, sometimes, timing is everything and the two resolutions that we're going to approach right now are timely to be before us. And so, I'm going to ask Rev. Drew Ensz to speak to his first that we posted overnight. There he is. Microphone one.

Rev. Drew Ensz:

Thank you, Bishop. With that new information and thank you, Rev. King, I move to rescind my first resolution and seek to introduce the following resolution. The resolution for the Virginia Annual Conference, Apology for Harm Done to LGBTQ+ Persons. Whereas the Constitution of the United Methodist Church declares that all persons are of sacred worth, our social principles have long affirmed the human and civil rights of all people regardless of race, ethnicity, ability, age, gender, marital status, or sexual orientation. Whereas the postponed 2020 general conference removed the harmful language that LGBTQ+ persons were incompatible with Christian teaching and removed the harmful bans on LGBTQ+ persons serving as clergy, clergy officiating same-sex weddings and same-sex weddings occurring in local United Methodist churches.

Whereas Jesus says in the gospel, according to John in the 13th chapter, "A new command I give you, love one another as I have loved you so you must love one another. By this, everyone will know that you are my disciples if you love one another." Whereas one of our general rules is to do no harm, whereas our denomination calls us to accountability and to repent when we fall short of God's kingdom. Whereas members of our annual conference have used photos and social media posts of couples to bring complaints against pastors and thus devalued the couple's wedding and have caused harm. Whereas clergy have had to live in fear of being who God has created them and have had to hide part of themselves in fear of retaliation.

Whereas based on the harmful language, some people who experience a calling from God to become United Meths clergy, have had others in our annual conference question the validity of that calling, have been threatened or removed under complaint or removed from the candidacy process due to their sexual orientation. All of this has caused great harm, therefore, let it be resolved that the Virginia Annual Conference apologizes and earnestly seeks forgiveness for its roles in harm cause to LGBTQ+ persons.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, that is before us for discussion. I see a card microphone two. In the middle here. No, she's right back here in the... Right here.

Suzanne Gibson:

I'm Suzanne Gibson, a white, older adult and retired elder on the Missions River District, who uses she/her pronouns. I stand in support of Drew Ensz's' resolution. My observation is that many people think the changes made at the recent general conference simply capitulated to the surrounding culture.

Being gay, lesbian, trans, bi, queer or a person anywhere else on the spectrum of sexual orientation is not and never has been a sin. At least in God's eyes.

Sin is not about being. Sin is about behavior that opposes, enacts laws against, maligns, hates, undermines, refuses to recognize, refuses to value an individual or a group and sanctions or causes emotional or physical harm of others. Before his conversion, Saul did not throw stones at the Christians he persecuted. No. He simply stood by and held the cloaks of those who did. And by doing nothing to stop the stoning of Stephen, Saul was just as guilty of Stephen's death as those who threw the stones. Sin is an especially egregious thing when it causes harm in the name of Christ or the church. It's high time we get this right. Being gay is not a sin. People are not sinners because they aren't straight. Straight people like myself might not understand everything about our LGBTQIA+ brothers and sisters, but guess what? They don't understand us either and not understanding our thinking the same way does not constitute sin.

But our response to what we don't understand might very well be sin if it causes harm. And church, we have caused great harm and failed to love as God loves. A genuine apology by the United Methodist Church and every person is necessary because we have done so much harm over the years. The pain and rejection, the isolation, the denial of God's call to ministry, the willingness to take their tithes and offering while denying them a place of ministry in leadership is a great sin that must be confessed, repented of, and redressed. In the very least we can do, Virginia Annual Conference, is to publicly acknowledge our collective sin of the harms we have perpetuated and say that we repent and will intentionally remedy the sins with love and grace going forward. I urge you all to support this motion this afternoon.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. That was a speech for. Speech against?

Speaker 5:

[inaudible 01:21:40] Number four and number three.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Number four? Microphone four?

Rev. Eugene Kim:

Good afternoon, Bishop. I'm Eugene Kim, clergy member from Northern Virginia District. I'm here to respectfully oppose the solution that was presented at the end of yesterday session. I believe that issuing formal apology to LGBTQ+ individuals at the conference level might not align with the general conference commitment to honoring diversity. The general conference aim to recognize and embrace diverse perspectives on homosexualities rather than favoring one viewpoint. There are groups of people in our conference who are still grappling with and finding it challenging to reconcile with the outcomes of general conference while they have decided to stay in our denomination. For those who share this struggle, it's important to remember that the general conference decision was about respecting individual choices, not about imposing a singular perspective to everyone.

If we decide to issue an apology to LGBTQ+ individuals, I worry it may not fully respect the diverse viewpoint within our conference and could potentially contradict the speed of general conference decision. LGBTQ+ individuals have been harmed by exclusive language and policies and they deserve healing through any means. However, if we decide to issue an apology at the conference level, it might be another way to alienate those who hold different views on this matter. For the reconciliation of all our conference and moving forward for the mission of God together, I kindly urge you, carefully reflect on this consideration. I believe that we really need to navigate this important discussions with compassion and understanding for one another. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Thank you Rev. Kim. That was a speech against; a speech for, microphone three.

Speaker 6:

[inaudible 01:23:54] white female coastal district and district member at large for this conference. I support this but I have concerns about a couple of things in the way the therefore is stated. The Bible doesn't speak about apology. Jesus didn't teach apology. Jesus taught what comes after the and. Earnestly seeks forgiveness. That's what we're about. That's what we've said every day in the Lord's prayer here. Forgiving our transgressions as we forgive others.

I think without the apology statement in there and that we consider all those related to LGBTQ+ persons, not just those persons but the family members, the pastors, the communities, the churches that, those groups that have been affected. I have two nieces that are both gay. One is in the second marriage, wife to wife. I love them. I don't feel I've been harmed, but I know that they maybe feel harmed. But my brother's, two children, two confirmed. The youngest one who's the one that's been married did not confirm and she was hesitant to tell me. Her sister had to ask me, was it okay to invite her friend? So I know, beyond my family, people in the church where I've pastored in the six months this year have been hurt. And I would suggest we add and that we take out apologizing. Earnestly repenting and asking for forgiveness is what I think answers what's being asked.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. Speech against? Number eight in the back.

Nadeem:

Thank you, Bishop. Nadeem Khokar from the Living Waters District, clergy. During the general conference when all these resolutions and these votes were approved, I called a couple of colleagues and I said to them, "Thank you for your hard work. Thank you for what you have been doing to help us lead in the future." And our hope as I am a conservative pastor, I'm a traditional pastor and our hope is and was, and I hope will be, that we can be together in the Virginia Conference. And I'm grateful to you when you came last year, we met with you and we appreciate your desire and your willingness that you said that you want traditional pastors, you want traditional churches to be a part of Virginia Conference and that is our desire. We don't want to leave. And I have been talking to my other clergy friends who are traditionalists. We want to stay.

We want to stay and we want to enter into the new future with the United Methodist Church, I understand the resolution that is demanding apology. When we talk about entering into new future, with reconciliation, forgetting what has happened in the past and withholding to our differences, holding to our disagreements, we do the ministry together in a unity, and this demand of apology, Bishop will create another episode of dissension and maybe anger as well. I feel because of this apology demand, maybe Virginia Conference no longer wants to be a place for all, which I know it is not true, but it gives me an impression.

So what we are hoping is that we leave everything behind and start a new ministry. Our focus should be shifted from all that hatred and anger and bigotry and naming and blaming and just focus on the ministry. Whoever we are, we just hold each other with love and just move forward. I don't think that demanding apology will do any good to the Virginia Conference. So I am against that.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. Khokar. Speech for, right here in front of me too.

Rev. Dale White:

Bishop, Dale White, Valley Ridge District staff, white male, he/him/his. For the last 30 of my 40 years in ministry, I've been in an extension ministry in a large organization called the United States Navy and Marine Corps. In those institutions, I ended up being the senior chaplain and I learned two things that I think apply here, which is why I support this resolution so beautifully designed by Pastor Drew. The first thing I learned was cooperation without compromise. On my last team, a United Methodist, a female rabbi, an imam, a Mormon, a priest, and a Baptist. That's not the beginning of a joke. That was my team. How did we get anything done? We cooperated without compromise. It can be done. It's been done in extension ministry for centuries and the general conference, when it voted, it voted to remove divisive language, but it also allowed for cooperation without compromise, which is a beautiful thing and new to us in the United Methodist Church.

The second thing I learned was that leaders, lead. Naval officers are expected to speak to authority and to leadership. And the Virginia Annual Conference is a leader of annual conferences, one of the largest. And so it has a role to follow what the general conference voted on and to take the next step in affirming a resolution that continues to those who have been marginalized doing these two things, cooperating without compromise and leading as leaders, promotes healing and it doesn't require anyone to compromise their position because it's not about us individually, it's about us in totality as an annual conference moving forward in the healing process as leaders let us lead.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay, microphone six. Speech against.

Rev. Sarah Locke:

Yes. I'm Sarah Locke. I serve on the coastal Virginia District at Hickory United Methodist Church. And I am a female. I'm a mom of five kids, ages five to 13. And there are moments in our life when our children accidentally or intentionally hurt their siblings, whether it be a harsh word or a push or a shove or even questioning their worth in our family. It doesn't matter whether it's accidental or intentional. I understand it is the same pain. I often, with my mother's heart, wish to have the offending child apologize to their sibling. And what I have learned as a disciple of Jesus is that true reconciliation and repentance only happens within the heart of the person who has sinned. It is rare that me telling my children to ask for forgiveness does anything but cause shame and resentment.

And so I stand before you today as one who has both witnessed colleagues and children of God deeply hurt and harmed by the institutional church, by individuals, and probably by me and any of us, and is one who carries my own story. And I do not wish to marginalize any one person, but I do believe that any public statement of apology that forces some to say something that they are not yet ready to say accomplishes not very much at all. Maybe more shame and resentment.

The work of repentance comes from an experience of life and relationship and the promptings of the Holy Spirit. Something we call as Wesleyan's, prevenient grace. And what to some may seem to be a moment of healing and reconciliation seems to others like it will only deepen the divide between us. I desire for us to be the kind of church we claim to be where all have room to be and believe and serve Christ. So I do not support this motion. A mandated apology is meaningless unless it comes with true work of the Holy Spirit. And I feel like we need more time.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. Locke. Speech for right here, microphone two.

Rev. Scott Duncan Hopkins:

Bishop, I'm Scott Duncan Hopkins, the pastor of Peace Church in Fredericksburg on the Mission Rivers District. I am an older male and I identify as he/him and his. On this topic, I believe we are standing before what Reinhold Niebuhr called a moral imperative. And this demand is not coming to us by a vote from the floor. It is coming to us by God. And when we find ourselves standing face-to-face with a moral imperative, we are looking for God. And God doesn't live at the top and God doesn't live at the bottom. God doesn't live on the left or the right and God certainly isn't straddling the middle somewhere in between. God lives on the other side of the moral imperative. And if we are going to see God, we have, as the United Methodist Church in Virginia, to walk through that moral imperative to the face of God. We are the largest connection in world Methodism.

I pray, God, we do not become a sleeping giant and we make this clear witness today as Virginia United Methodist that we bear the cross of what we have been part of either vehemently in our ugly words or even more by our silence. It is time not to be silent. It is time to wake up the giant. It is time to walk through that moral imperative. I clearly support Drew Enszt's resolution. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. Speech against. Microphone five.

Alton Keel:

Thank you, Madam Chairperson. I'm not really standing up-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Tell us who you are first, sir.

Alton Keel:

Excuse me. I'm Alton Keel. I'm from Three Notch'd District. I'm an older male and my sciatica attests to the fact that I'm older. My heart and mind are in denial. I use the pronouns he and him and his.

I'm actually for the sentiment, but I'm against the timing. I think now is not the time to assign blame, now's the time to show love. What we need to do is not reach out and blame those who differ with us, but hug them on both sides. Feelings are very strong on both sides, and sometimes they're very shrill on both sides. So let's give us some time to think about this and discuss it and hug one another, hug one another. Let's not put the finger in their chest and say, "Apologize." Let's give some time for this. That's my fervent prayer.

I think we want a victory here by having the language removed. Thanks be to God, thanks be to God. But we don't have to spike the football right now in the end zone. There's no need for that. Let's give it some time.

The final reason and the more substantive reason for delay, despite the fact that only the resolution, after the where-all is the resolution, all the where-all's cause are discoverable. They're discoverable. They're quite broad, they're quite condemning. We live in a litigious society. There is in all likelihood going to be some soul out there who thinks they are owed punitive damages and emotional damages, and will see this as a basis for proving their case. I'm on a lot of corporate boards. I can tell you, if a resolution like this came up on a corporate board, the lawyers, the corporate lawyers would be pulling their hair out saying, "Whoa, let's subject this to legal review." So my hope is we can delay, and then get not just internal counsel but outside counsel to look at a resolution that'll express the sentiment the way we want to express it. Give ourselves some time.

So in that sentiment, Madam Chairperson, I move to table the motion.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. We have a motion to table. That does require a second. Is there a second?

Body:

Second.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay.

Audience:

Point of order.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yes. Point of order, please come state it. Microphone six.

Rev. Andrew LaBar-Dietz:

Thank you, Bishop. Andrew LaBar-Dietz, ordained Deacon, Mountain View District. If I'm correct, a speech cannot end with a motion.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I think a motion to table must be able to come in at this point. Otherwise you'd never have an appropriate time for a motion to table.

Rev. Joshua King:

[inaudible 01:39:19] that he rose for a speech before [inaudible 01:39:23].

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Oh, I see. Okay, okay. Okay, yes, you did not start off stating your motion, so we're going to count that as a speech against and now we'll move on for a speech four. His point of order is well taken.

Microphone six.

Gretchen Ward:

Hi, yes, thank you. I am Gretchen Ward, I am lay from the Northern Virginia District. My pronouns are she/her and I am a white, middle-age-ish woman. I have a hearing deficit.

And I would like to speak for this motion, based on everything we've heard the past three days about diversity and unity and how that starts with building connection and recognizing the harm that was done to a group of people. I returned to the Methodist Church because I wanted to support the churches that were welcoming and affirming to our LGBTQIA+ people.

I am cisgendered, I am straight and I am an ally, and I feel that I am compelled and called by the Spirit to speak up for those people who were harmed and to help build a trauma-informed church. If we are talking about doing no harm, the first thing that we learn as Methodists, we have to start here by offering an apology for all the harm that was done and recognizing that and saying, "Yes, you were hurt." And we can still embrace those with differing views, that's the diversity in unity, listening and having those conversations. But if we don't first start by recognizing the harm and taking a stand and apologizing to those people that were so deeply hurt and removed from the church, I think it's going to be really hard to move forward. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay, I'm going to go way to the back for a speech against, microphone nine.

Jim Chappell:

Good afternoon. My name is Jim Chappell, I am a lay member from Mission Rivers District. I am an older white male who uses he/him/his pronouns.

This is neither a statement for or against, but rather a request for information. Is this an appropriate time to ask?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yes.

Jim Chappell:

Thank you. Should the conference have the motion reviewed by General Counsel for any potential civil liability impact? And did a similar motion for an apology come up or be discussed at General Conference? And what are the results of that conversation? I ask those requests not to be the only factors that drive how this conference votes, but rather to inform this conference before it does vote. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I have consulted with our Chancellor and she has indicated to us that the legal liability is not that great, and that we are a church and that we are in the business of repentance. So I think that that should be the focus of the body and not so much legal exposure. The second question I do not know the answer to, so... Oh, good, okay. Microphone three, we have an answer.

Unidentified Delegate:

General Conference on the last day issued an apology. It said, "On the final day of General Conference, Rev. Gary Graves, Secretary of the General Conference, apologized on behalf of the church of the way the denomination has prevented people from being held accountable for sexual misconduct, thus perpetuating harm within local churches and other ministry settings and damaging the Methodist connection."

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

That's a different issue, though. That's not LGBTQ+.

Unidentified Delegate:

It wasn't?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

No, that was sexual misconduct.

Unidentified Delegate:

Oh, okay. I thought they did. Okay.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, no. Okay, thank you though.

Unidentified Delegate:

Sorry.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

We just had a speech, remind me where we were.

Rev. Joshua King:

We had just had a speech against.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

We just had a speech against, we're having a speech for, microphone two.

Rev. Ryan LaRock:

Thank you, Bishop. Rev. Ryan LaRock, ordained elder, soon to be on the Mission Rivers District at the College of William and Mary, beloved child of God who has been faithfully closeted for eight years in my ministry. And it's hard hearing this because I feel like I'm the first voice speaking that this directly affects, but I appreciate everybody's... what they've put forth.

I'm for the heart and aspiration of this resolution. An apology is a step, a simple step. It doesn't solve anything. The removal of the language doesn't mean harm doesn't continue. We have people in our churches who are coming back to church who have been harmed for 52 years from the church. And we need to focus on welcoming those people into our churches, 'cause they are coming back, they feel they can come back.

So I'm for this resolution, but I would challenge us as a conference to embody our incarnational theology. An apology is important, but we also have to be church in our relationships with each and every person who walks through our churches and extension ministries. That is our call. This is relationship work, it's hard work, but this is a step. So I'm for this resolution, with the challenge that we all commit to living into our incarnational theology, to be the church to everybody.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. LaRock. A speech against, right here, this young woman, three.

Jill Ryan:

Bishop and conference, I'm Jill Ryan from the Shenandoah River District, Leesburg Church. I actually stand to make a motion to table, per the gentleman's argument earlier, and we'll speak to it if it is seconded.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Is there a second?

Audience:

Second.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, go ahead please.

Jill Ryan:

Reiterating the graceful speech of the other gentleman, I also wanted to just say that while we are a church that would like to be in the post-conflict period, we are still a church in disagreement, we are still a church that is healing. We are still a church that is grieving and we are still a church that is hurting. In Wesley's way, we want to do no harm from all sides and we want to learn to love one another. And for that reason I think it is appropriate to table this for now.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. A motion to table is not debatable, so we will move to a vote if you would approve tabling this motion.

Rev. Joshua King:

Tabling is out of order. Postponing it indefinitely would... If we table it would mean we have to deal with it-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Hit it tomorrow?

Rev. Joshua King:

Tomorrow.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Let's clarify. If we table it will come up tomorrow. The other thing we could do is to postpone it, suspend further consideration until next year, or... I think that would be in line?

Rev. Joshua King:

Or to postpone it

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Or to postpone it indefinitely, which would in effect end the discussion. So I would ask, since you're the maker of the motion, what your preference would be.

Jill Ryan:

To postpone to next year.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, so that would be a motion. This is to suspend further consideration of this until next year.

Rev. Joshua King:

It's debatable.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

And that is debatable, so...

Rev. Joshua King:

Sorry, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

No, it's not debatable. I beg to differ. I have the little sheet right here. No, it is debatable, you're right. I read the chart wrong. Go ahead, microphone two.

Rev. David Hindman:

David Hindman, Mission Rivers District. Just a quick question, if we take this in its present form is the action of this Annual Conference binding on next year's?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I think the postponing of it would.

David Hindman:

Okay.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

It's the resolution itself that is not binding.

David Hindman:

Okay.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

So I think this is in order. Okay. Speech... I think she spoke for it, so a speech against tabling?
Microphone-

Rev. Joshua King:

Not tabling, postponing.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

On postpone, yes. I used the wrong word. Okay, microphone one.

Rev. Bill Davidson:

I'm Bill Davidson, a retired elder clergy member of the Annual Conference, the Three Notch'd District. I use the pronouns he and him, and I want to speak against this motion.

I've been a member of this Annual Conference at this session for 50 years, and I love this Annual Conference. And it grieves my heart that our conference has done great harm to so many. I think it's time that we face that at this Annual Conference and not postpone this discussion. With all due respect in terms of our individual relationships with one another and our personal opportunities to share the meaning of our forgiveness and grace, that's something we should and ought to do. But this resolution names our corporate responsibility for the harm that's been done by this institution, this body under our stewardship. We've done great harm to so many, and we need to humbly confess our failure to support and affirm our brothers and sisters in Christ, to apologize to them and earnestly seek their forgiveness in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. And so I speak against this motion to table.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Microphone two, speech against tabling

Nina Cortada Winkler:

In favor of postponing.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Of postponing, yeah.

Nina Cortada Winkler:

[inaudible 01:50:54]. My name is Nina Cortada Winkler. I am an older white Hispanic member of the Three Notch'd District.

I would like to speak in favor of postponing for another year because I don't think this motion is rich enough for the current time. I mean, it's been many, many years that we have been fighting over this issue and I think simply saying, "I'm sorry," is not enough, but if we try to do more everyone will say, "Well we already said I'm sorry." I think if we really do repent, I thought repentance means turning around. And I think to truly repent what has happened in our communities and in our churches we need to have a plan for what does it mean to turn around. Simply apologizing and repeating what the wrongs were doesn't take us anywhere.

So I favor putting off for the year and I would ask you, Bishop Sue, to confer with the appropriate people about how... including Pastor Ensz, what would be the best way to go forward in terms of true repentance. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay, microphone six. This is a speech against.

Bryan Buckles:

Bishop, Bryan Buckles, Valley Ridge District. Male, he/him. I call the question at all that is before us.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Okay. We will...

Rev. Joshua King:

Two-thirds vote.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Two-thirds vote. So if you would approve calling the previous question, lift your hand. Okay. This means that if you vote yes here on the previous question, we will move into a rapid succession of votes. So the first... If it passes. So the first vote will be on the previous question. If you would like to vote on everything, you vote yes, if you don't, you vote no. If this motion passes, the next motion would be the motion to postpone. And if that prevails that will happen, if it doesn't then we will move on to the vote on the resolution itself. Is that clear? Microphone five, let me hear what... Please, sir, what do you rise to?

Speaker 7:

Point of order.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. State the rule.

Speaker 7:

I'd like to challenge that a motion to table requires a two-thirds vote.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

No. It's the previous question that requires the two-thirds vote, sir.

Speaker 7:

I apologize.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

That's okay. Okay, we're going now to vote on the previous question. If you would like to bring all matters before us for the vote you vote yes on this motion, so if you would like to do that raise your hand. Okay, thank you. Those opposed, same sign. Okay. There was a two-thirds vote.

Now the motion before us is the motion to postpone this resolution until next year. All those in favor, raise your hand. All those opposed, raise your hand. I'm going to ask you to stand. If you are in favor of postponing, please stand. Okay, thank you. If you are against postponing, please stand. And I think it fails.

Okay, now we're moving on...

Rev. Joshua King:

To Drew's.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

To the resolution, Drew Ensiz's resolution before us. If you would approve this resolution I invite you to stand. Okay. If you are opposed, same sign.

It is close. Sit down.

I think the best thing to do would be have a paper ballot in the morning. But I'm going to ask you to pray about this because I see... Let's just say whenever a vote is this close, instead of winners and losers there are a lot of losers, often. And so I invite you to pray about this tonight, to think about the Annual Conference as a whole, to really discern what you think is the best way forward. And then tomorrow morning we'll have paper ballots and we'll vote on this. And I think we can see that sometimes voting might not be the best way to deal relationally with each other. And so we will ponder and pray and sleep on this tonight, and then have the paper ballot in the morning. Yes, microphone three.

Brian McLean:

Brian McLean, Three Notch'd District, senior male, unfortunately. And he/him are my pronouns. I'm not standing here to tell people how to vote or whatever, anything like that. But I do think we need to consider what the Gospel teaches us. If we are the Church then we are to practice humility, whatever that means to you. And in humility we need to think about what it is we need to say to others to have them know that they are loved by Christ, no matter what. What is the harm in saying three simple words, "I am sorry."

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, let's move on now. I think we have talked about this as long as we're going to talk about it today and we're going to move now to... I'm going to recognize Larry Dickenson. Is he here? Yay. Okay, give us some good news, Larry.

Larry Dickenson:

Bishop Sue and Conference Lay Leader Martha, and everyone, all members of the Virginia Annual Conference, my name is Larry Dickenson. I am a longtime member of Raleigh Court, United Methodist Church in Roanoke, and currently serving as District Lay Leader of the Valley Ridge District. However, today I am here in my role as president of the Virginia United Methodist Housing Development Corporation. If you were an Annual Conference last year you may remember that I promised a significant announcement of good news for this year. I'm here to deliver that good news, and I hope you receive it with the same joy that I have in bringing it to you.

50 years ago, 1974, the Virginia Annual Conference received a special report documenting a growing need for affordable housing in Virginia and called for action. From that report, two new arms of action were created and set in motion. Later that same year in 1974, Wesley Housing Development Corporation of Northern Virginia was formed, and a year later in 1975 Virginia United Methodist Housing was also formed. Both were dedicated to the proposition of serving low-income Virginians by providing affordable housing.

I want to just make one aside and that is to thank Sam NeSmith and call him out. Call me when you get a chance, Sam.

Willard Douglas was a charter board member in 1975 when the corporation was formed. He served continuously as a board member until the dementia that he has began to affect his ability to be there. That was 2018. He was the longest serving board member in the history of the company.

Back to the Methodist Housing and Wesley Housing. So 50 years later here's what I can share with you. The companies will merge effective December 31 of this year. At that point in time the combined portfolios will have almost 6,000 apartment units across the State of Virginia that are being managed, all considered affordable housing. And in addition to that there is nearly another 1000 units in the development pipeline. The...

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Great.

Larry Dickenson:

Thank you.

These apartments and apartment communities serve individuals, families and seniors at between 10 and 15,000 people every week, every month, every year. However, I will share with you also that the merger respects that the business of operating and developing and maintaining affordable housing is ever more complex, it's exponentially more difficult now than it was 50 years ago. We are having to compete with national-level companies whose focus is on the money and the deal, while our focus is on the people.

Facing this reality we began discussions early in 2023. Those discussions have yielded agreements. The agreements are in the process of being perfected and will go into effect January 1 of 2025. The new company will retain the name of Virginia United Methodist Housing for purposes of operating and developing properties across Virginia, and Wesley Housing Development will be the sole member and sole owner. A new board will be elected with members from both existing boards at that time.

The new company will have the scale, financial strength and business savvy to continue competing successfully to build on our previous success and continue to expand the supply of affordable housing in Virginia for the foreseeable future. This is social holiness on a scale unequaled to any other effort of the Virginia Annual Conference.

I'll close with a single story to let you know what it means at a granular level. Virginia United Methodist Housing is currently in the midst of a comprehensive modernization of our property in Lynchburg, Virginia. On a recent site visit in May I met a senior female resident who had just moved back into her apartment, after being out for about six months while it was being renovated. As I introduced myself I asked her if she was satisfied with the new unit. She said, "Didn't they tell you? When they gave me the keys and took me to my newly renovated home I opened the door and looked in, walked into the kitchen, put my head down on the counter and cried for 15 minutes. I'd never seen anything so beautiful."

This is the outcome that the merger is intended to continue into the future, and it is the power of the Virginia Conference that we can take, in the Wesleyan tradition, to do big things, dream large, pray hard and act with purpose and unity. Thank you very much.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Larry. Appreciate it. Now it's my pleasure to introduce David Dommissie. We're going to get through these reports, sir, so sit down. We will come back to this later, y'all. We got stuff we got to get done. David Dommissie, come and give your reports, please.

David Dommissie:

Thank you. I can give an abbreviated report and a video of the full report to catch up on time, if that's what you would desire.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay.

David Dommissie:

Okay. Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, members and guests of the Annual Conference. The report of the Conference Statistician can be found on page 39 in the...

David Dommissie:

The report of the Conference Statistician can be found on page 39 in the official packet. Bishop, that concludes the statistician's report.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, good. You have a grateful people. Thank you.

David Dommissie:

I don't want the effing statisticians report to come between dinner.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Oh, Lord.

David Dommissie:

Sorry people. And I will say getting laughter is the best thing on a mic. Oh, I apologize. I should say this. I am a white male, age 56, and I'll identify a straight male.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you.

David:

I will now move on to the Treasurer's Report, which can be found on pages 93 through 98 in your Book of Reports. Bishop, this concludes the Treasurer's Report.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Thank you, thank you. Appreciate it.

David:

If I could add one thing for the body, being short, the books have been audited and there've been no adjustments, but I want you to know that we take the audit very seriously and work very hard on internal controls. I believe in transparency, so if you have any questions, just call our office and we'll go through any questions you might have.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, and in the interest of time, why don't we pay homage to Bill Talley right now?

David Dommissie:

Okay. Well, Bill Talley has served as the president of CFA for a number of years. I had big shoes to fill. I've filled Betty Forbes' shoes, has served through some tumultuous times. The Boy Scouts of America served through disaffiliation, has been my friend and companion through this, and he has done a wonderful job, and so I would like to just honor him and recognize his service to the Virginia Annual Conference. And I look forward to the next president in a long line of talented people. Angie Williams is going to be the next president of CFA.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

She's got the closing prayer, so we'll see.

Bill Talley:

David, you're very kind. I do need a moment of personal privilege and I won't delay the events this afternoon. Usually there are two groups of people sitting behind me. One is the Treasurer's Office staff, and of course, the CFA Board. I do not have the Treasurer Office staff behind me. I know they're in the audience, but I want to recognize those people in David's office. They work for you. They are certainly there for you, and I'd ask my board, CFA, to please rise. These are individuals that has a servant heart and they truly have the yeoman's task, what we do every day for CFA, so I want to thank them.

With that being said, Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, members and guests of the 2024 Virginia Annual Conference. As President of the Council on Financing Administration, it's my pleasure to present our annual report. The CFA 2025 budget overview can be found on pages 99 to 101 in your books of reports. The 2025 proposed budget is $24,620,000. Our goal was to reduce the budget in line with the number of churches that disaffiliated and do the work collaboratively with the ministries of the annual conference. This result in a proposed budget that reflects a decrease of $2,742,000 or 10% of the total budget.

The Virginia Annual Conference Ministry Apportionments numbers 401 through 405 were reduced by $537,000 or 7.63%. The conference mission and ministry apportionment were reduced by $337,000 or 10.4%. Board administrative costs will reduce over $68,000 and common table grants by $40,000. Ministries with educational institutions will also reduce $150,000 in part because the annual conference invested a hundred thousand dollars in 2024 to train each Wesley Foundation in fundraising and capital campaigns. In the conference service apportionment, the line item for the annual conference session increased $120,000. To reflect the expected costs of the session, these costs have increased substantially over the past several years, and the budget more accurately reflects the expected costs for 2025 Annual Conference session. We were able to offset that increase with decreases to several line items including the Board of Ordained Ministry, legal and audit expenses and computer services. The apportionment of cabinet fund remains the same as there were no change in a number of districts, nor were there any proposed changes to the salaries of district superintendents.

The Equitable Compensation Fund is proposed to be $50,000, which on its surface looks like a significant decrease. However, this is a realignment of grants between the equitable compensation and the church extension and development apportionment. Grants related to church revitalization or given for missional purposes will be supported through the church development team, which is the conference board that oversee funds for the church extensions and development apportionment. This has been done strategically to align these grant decisions with each board's core responsibility and to work with the cabinet to most effectively deploy our clergy. Even after this shift, the church extension and development fund apportionment was decreased by $50,000, bringing the total decrease between these apportionments to $180,000. The reason we were able to reduce these apportionment is because churches that disaffiliated repaid $925,000 of grants to the church extension and development fund.

The current balance in the church extension fund is currently over $2.5 million. The work of the Church Development team will not be impacted by this reduction and apportionment.

One of the biggest contributors to the overall budget decrease is the 10% decrease at the Active Entire Clergy Health Plan costs. VUMPI was able to accomplish this by favorable loss experience coupled with fewer planned participants. Additionally, CFA utilized $340,000 received from its disaffiliated churches to all retirement clergy health costs. The total of these changes resulted in a $1,940,000 decrease, which equates to a 12.18% in the clergy benefits apportionments. The general church budget has proved at this general conference reflects a significant decrease over prior budgets, offsetting this decrease is at the Virginia Annual is now the largest apportionment annual conference in the denomination. Our share of the general church budget, is 4.4% for 2025.

The net of these two factors resulted in a decrease of $340,000 or 7.73% of the general and your additional apportionments. Section two through six of the CFA report are found on pages 102 to 108. This covers the policy of the Council on Finance and Administration. We are only recommending one sustainable change in our policy. As we did our annual valuation on the average cost per clergy person for health insurance, CFA recommends the active clergy health tier one amount to be increased $500 to a total of $6,000 per eligible clergy. Bishop Sue, on behalf of CFA, I move the adoption of the 2024 Council on Finance Administrative report.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Okay, thank you, Bill Talley. The report of CFA is in front of us. The floor is open. Let me get a second just to have it. Thank you. The floor is open now for discussion, questions on the report. Seeing none, if you would approve the CF&A report, please raise your hand. If you're opposed, same sign. Thank you so much, sir. Appreciate it.

Bill Talley:

Thank you.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Great. Now, I invite Rev. Ryan LaRock to come forward to present the Francis Asbury Award. Ryan.

Rev. Ryan LaRock:

I think I'm the last thing standing between you and dinner.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

No, there's a prayer.

Rev. Ryan LaRock:

There's a prayer, so stay for the prayer. Well, good morning, afternoon, friends in Christ. I'm the Rev. Ryan LaRock and I have enjoyed serving these last three years as the Chair of the Conference Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministry. As I prepare to go into Campus Ministry, I've been grateful to serve these last three years. The Francis Asbury Award actually originated with one of our own clergy in Virginia, the Rev. Dr. Jim Newsworthy, in 1991. Sorry, I'm winded from running to the stage. But Jim Newsworthy is one of our own Virginia Conference Clergy who worked for the general board and he inaugurated this award that we give to campus ministers, laypersons and clergy who exemplify and demonstrate the values of campus and collegiate ministry. The Francis Asbury Award goes to a United Methodist clergy or layperson who embodies the leadership, advocacy and gifts necessary in the development of the next generation of leaders in our churches.

After receiving several nominations from the Annual Conference, our board decided that we would pick two this year. Our first award goes to the Rev. Bret Gresham. Brett has served as the director and campus minister at the Virginia Tech Wesley Foundation since 2009. One of the distinguishing characteristics of his ministry is his commitment to developing student leaders, and many clergy and laity in this conference have been shaped by Brett in their call to ministry. He has implemented solid leadership development programs, and his students take ownership of every facet of the ministry, organizing events, focusing on our conference youth, reminding all of us of our obligation that we in the local church have the obligation to tell who our students are when they go off to college so that they know there is a place for them.

Brett's district superintendent, the Rev. Doug Forrester says that, "Brett embodies the Virginia Tech motto that I may serve, and he does so in an infectious way that draws others not only to service and not only to VT Wesley, but to Christ." And a student of Brett says that they can attest to his love and determination for this place and the people who fill it to succeed and grow in their spiritual journey. Brett is unable to be here with us, so I will accept the award on his behalf. The second award, if she is present, she is behind me, goes to the Rev. Amanda Miller Garber.

So the Rev. Amanda Miller Garber previously served as RISE's campus minister and pastor from 2007 until this year when she became the director of Missional Engagement for the annual conference. This faith community began when Amanda and a group of leaders recognized that God was birthing something new out of what once was the Wesley Foundation at James Madison University. They described their new beginnings as such. We saw a need for honesty, grace, and love and passion in our community and in our world. We saw a need for the unconditional love of Jesus, and that's why RISE exists so that our friends in the community and around the world will share in the love that binds us as children of God no matter what. If you know Amanda, her commitment to innovation, creativity and nimbleness when faced with a challenge are gifts among many that have allowed RISE to become more than campus ministry and more than a new church start. She has blazed trails from movie theater worship to community partnerships, to fresh out of the box expressions of church.

Needless to say, holy risks have been an inaugural component of this faith community's DNA. Common to both Brett and Amanda has been their unrelenting advocacy for the inclusion of all people. These two leaders have fought tirelessly to ensure that their ministries embrace radical hospitality, empowering their students to resist evil injustice and oppression in any forms they present themselves, even taking significant sacrifices and risks in their own ministry. I'm reminded that through people like Brett and Amanda, much of this holy and hard work, as we've heard time and time again this week, has been taking place and much is ahead of us. Today, may we celebrate Amanda and Brett and their faithful ministries as we continue to build toward the church that God is calling and dreaming us to be. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. We're turning to Joshua King for our announcements.

Rev. Joshua King:

Please stay with us as I have quite a few announcements and that are very important. I'm going to get the first one, which is the easy one. Game Night is tonight at 7:00 PM in Ballroom B. All are welcomed. As to the voting for tomorrow's on the resolution, the paper ballot, I would like to ask the tellers to come to the front stage right, that is over here after the session this evening for some words of instruction. We'd like to give the body an understanding of how we will handle this tomorrow.

Tomorrow we are going to set a temporary bar for those who have voting rights on this, and would ask that those who do not have voting rights to please leave the bar of the conference so that we can only have ballots being handed out to those who have proper voting. In order to receive a ballot, you will need your voting ID card. There are some badges that have been turned into the lost and found table, so please, you will need those if you wish to vote tomorrow. Also, I would like to ask our Rules Chair to come and just briefly share with us so that everybody in the body knows who will have vote and who will not have vote for this tomorrow.

Rev. Scott Diamond:

Thank you, Joshua. And could I just reiterate that it is important that you please bring your name badge with you tomorrow? If you look at the standing rules of order and procedure, particularly Appendix A, that will provide you guidance and we're happy to answer any questions afterwards if need be. A lady wearing the green badges, if you have your green badge with you, you have the right to vote. Clergy, most of you'll have the right to vote for this issue. It's not a constitutional amendment or anything like that, but there are clergy with voice but no vote, and this is set forth not only in our standing rules, but in the Book of Discipline.

Affiliate member, retired local pastor, elder member of another annual conference, deacon member of another annual conference, associate member of another annual conference, provisional member of another annual conference, retired affiliate member, you have voice again, but you have no vote. If you have a red name badge, you also have voice, but no vote tomorrow morning. That would be lay supply, certified lay minister, honorable location, retired honorable location, minister of another denomination serving a parish in Virginia, official guest, retired full member of another annual conference. If you have a brown name badge, which I believe there are not many, you have no vote. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Okay, thank you for that clarification.

Rev. Joshua King:

The temporary bar, just so you know, that we will be seeking to make will be anything behind the baptismal font, and so that's what we're going to-

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

So all eligible to vote sit in front of the font. That seems like a weird dividing line, Joshua, but okay. But it is a big one so it makes sense, okay? But if he would leave the seats in front of the font for those who are going to be voting tomorrow, and then we can, after the vote, all move around, so that will be fine. Others? Is that it?

Joshua King:

That's it.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Okay. It's been a long day. Yes? I see a hand, but I don't see a card or microphone four.

Rev. Michelle Matthews:

Oh yeah, it's here.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Go ahead.

Rev. Michelle Matthews:

Hi. Michelle Matthews, Northern Virginia District Kingstowne Communion.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

You have a check over your head.

Rev. Michelle Matthews:

Yeah, we have a check. So now you want to listen. It's a point of general privilege if I may.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Sure.

Rev. Michelle Matthews:

Thank you. So earlier today the Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page asked a really important question. He said, "When was the last time your church did something so risky it would take a move of the Holy Spirit to make it happen?" The Kingstowne Communion, we are very much committed to collaborating for the common good. And when we heard that this conference would be collaborating to relieve medical debt across the state of Virginia, we were really excited about it.

And the way we set our budget is we say it's possible that God might do something this year that we can't anticipate, so we put a challenge out to our congregation about two weeks ago and said, "Hey, if you donate towards this, if you are passionate about this, we will match it dollar for dollar with the goal of, perhaps, funding 1% of the conference's goal this year," which the conference's goal was 390,000, and so we wanted to raise 3,900, and today we bring a check. It is a big check. It's a big check with a small amount of money on it. It's not huge, but it actually is above and beyond what our goal was. It's $4,375.

Bishop Sue Haupt-Johnson:

Wow, that's great.

Rev. Michelle Matthews:

That was raised by our church. And I commend this to you as a church that has a very small budget facing a 40% increase in rent at the school we worship this year and still wanting to say yes to what God is doing. I wonder if there are other churches or districts, or small groups or cabinet, or I wonder if there are other collaborators in the room who might be willing to match this or exceed this. When was the last time you did something that would take a move of the Holy Spirit? Oh, and this is a dry erase board, so somebody got a picture, I think, send that to me. We're going to erase it, give it to Amanda Miller Garber, and tomorrow morning, lots of things to pray about, you all, right? We've given you lots of things to pray about, but tomorrow, if you would like to write your own amount on this check, it's now hers. Come see her.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, we have one more announcement and we are going to adhere to our closing time. I think everybody's pretty wiped, just observing the room. And tomorrow morning I want you to pray all night. I want you to think about, we all have our strong convictions, but I want you to pray and to discern at this juncture in the history of the Virginia Annual Conference, what do you think is the way forward? And I also would like you to come all ready to go. We have a lot to cover in the morning. We will reconvene at 8:30. We'll have one more announcement by Joshua in our closing prayer, but we've got a lot going on, and so I hope you have a restful night, a prayerful night, and that you come renewed and revived in the morning to close out the business before us, and then to have the final joyous celebration of the new thing that God is doing with our licensed commission and ordained folks. Joshua, our final announcement is?

Rev. Joshua King:

If you are being recognized in the Service of Recognition and Call tomorrow morning, we invite you to attend the rehearsal following the conclusion of the session. This group includes retirees of the Class of 2024, licensed local pastors of Class of 2024, commission members, Class of 2024, full members, Class of 2024, new other fellowship and other Methodist transfers, new lay supply and certified lay ministers and are deaconess. Those who do not need to attend the rehearsal include representatives standing with those being recognized clergy in the processional. We invite the retirees to come to the front and the rest of those being recognized to go to the back to be lined up for practice. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Great, thank you. And now I am delighted to introduce to you somebody you probably already know, Angie Williams, who is our new CFA Chair, is going to have our closing prayer.

Angie Williams:

Thank you, Bishop. Incarnational people who have growling stomachs, will you please pray with me? Gracious God in whom we live and move and have our being. You are the God of all movement that inspires, empowers, emboldens and mobilizes all things good in humanity. God that is the movement of the Holy Spirit within us. God that is the movement sweeping our church into a new season of transformation. God that is the movement pushing us out of our comfort zones and into all the world.

As we depart our session together this afternoon and prepare our hearts for Closing Session tomorrow, may the Holy Spirit truly burn like a fire within us that we cannot ignore, a fire that inspires and empowers and emboldens and mobilizes each and every one of us to consider our deepest passions anew, how those passions intersect with the needs of the world and how you are calling each of us uniquely to live out in mutual and reciprocal relationships with our neighbors and our community. Come Holy Spirit, come. Move within us. Move us to embrace our neighbors, but with the understanding that it is we who need the embrace the most, for it is in that embrace that we find you. It is in that embrace that we live fully and have our being in you in Jesus' name. Let all God's people say, amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you, Angie Williams. The Annual Conference is now in recess until we reconvene tomorrow morning, promptly at 8:30. See you then.

Saturday Morning, June 22, 2024

BUSINESS SESSION

Major Speakers of this session include:

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson, resident Bishop of the Virginia Annual Conference

Rev. Jessie Colwell, VAUMC Director of Clergy Excellence

Rev. Tammy Estep, VAUMC Chair of the Board of Ordained Ministry

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

It's my honor and privilege to call to order the 242nd annual conference of the Virginia Annual Conference on this Saturday morning. We'll begin with the resolution we left off with last night. I see a card, microphone one.

Rev. Nadeem Khokhar:

Good morning Bishop. Good morning, Virginia Annual Conference. Bishop, we rise to request a suspension of the rules in order to consider a plan of action in lieu of taking a vote on the resolution before us and to do so by having more than one speaker standing here make offer and speak to the shared motion.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. If the body will suspend the rules to hear this, please lift your hand. Those opposed and the rules are suspended. Go ahead and please state your name.

Rev. Nadeem Khokhar:

Nadeem Khokhar, clergy in the Living Waters District. Paul says, "Let me show you a still more excellent way." We need to move forward in a way more excellent than majority vote. A period of listening and holding harms will make any future action more meaningful and more authentically healing. We move the formation of a group similar to historic truth and reconciliation commissions that will create a process and a sacred space to hear, hold and begin to heal the harms experienced by individuals and groups within the Virginia Conference during the long season of denominational discord. The group would be identified by the and asked to begin their work by this fall and report the progress to next year's annual conference. If there is a second we will speak to it.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

There's a second. Go ahead.

Rev. Ryan LaRock:

Ryan LaRock, clergy, Mission Rivers District. Yesterday we were so close to a very 50/50 looking vote indicating this is not an action this body was ready to take. Those of us making this motion represent both sides in yesterday's discussion and we would like to avoid taking this vote because any result will create an atmosphere of winners and losers and potentially cause further harm than there needs to be.

There was a desire voiced yesterday to move forward and move beyond contentious voting. This model of a truth and reconciliation committee or commission fits our annual conference's need to move forward to heal and to tell the truth in love. Typically, this would be focused on the past rather than on ongoing events, investigating patterns of events that took place over a period of time, engaging directly and broadly with the affected groups, gathering information on experiences.

This would be a temporary body with the aim of concluding with a final report and then officially authorized or empowered by the body under review. All stories within this conference family can be heard, held and cared for by this group. Healing can happen as we bear witness to the stories of harm and our stories of resistance and resilience. The recent general conference did not propose an apology but did say, quote, "We lament the ways LGBTQ persons have been ostracized from and wounded by the church and how often Christians have been silent in the face of injustice and discrimination against them." United Methodists have been voting on these matters for years and we humbly submit that the way of wholly listening and bearing witness to one another's stories is a more excellent way forward than voting as our goal toward healing.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, I would think this is a motion to refer to a new commission to fully hear, to fully consider, and to recommend in a more informed way. Discussion is open. The floor is open. Microphone six.

Rev. ReNe'e Ritchie Teague:

I'm Pastor ReNe'e Ritchie Teague, senior adult woman. Don't laugh, please don't. Cisgender, hetero he/she/hers. I want to apologize publicly to the trans woman and to anyone that my flip sense of humor may have brought harm to. I am flip at my very soul, but my intention was never to bring harm and I want to apologize. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Rev. Teague. Other discussion on the motion on the floor. Microphone one.

Rev. Drew Ensz:

Bishop, I have a speech for if that's an order.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I think it is.

Rev. Drew Ensz:

Rev. Drew Ensz, white, cis straight man, Northern Virginia District Arise Campus Ministry. I have to be honest with everyone this morning, I am really struggling, yet I believe that this is the right decision. Coming together and forming a commission to be able to truly hear the hurts and the heart of our conference would be a beautiful outcome. I also find it necessary though to acknowledge that over the last two days in my opinion more harm has been done because of bringing this resolution, and so I want to personally apologize for my harm this week.

I apologize for the way that this resolution has caused harm to those from different theological camps. I want to apologize to the couples who I called in advance to ask permission to use their names as a part of this resolution and will call later today to let them know that it has been postponed. I apologize to the youth and reconciling Methodists, especially our LGBTQ plus members who were hoping to leave here with an apology and yet experienced a lot of harm. Harm is like a wave in an ocean and I know that it's hard to acknowledge and to name all of it, so I sincerely apologize and seek forgiveness for my part.

But again, I believe this commission will be helpful in allowing us to share stories in our sacred spaces. I know that this group will take this work seriously because it is important. As a campus minister, I hear these stories all the time and we saw yesterday that one in three people have experienced religious trauma and so I look forward to supporting the work and receiving their report. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you Rev. Ensz. Let's hold our applause. Other discussion? I see a card microphone five.

Carol Ann Kay:

My name is Carol Ann Kay. I am a Celtic white woman identifying with the female pronouns. I'm in I guess the elder group. I'm the lay leader at Pender and I would fully support what Pastor Drew has just said. I fully support the motion because I think by moving together with conversations and with both sides being heard, it works to a much more effective way of healing hurt feelings and it takes away the win-lose possibility that a vote would take.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. We've had several speeches for. Is there a speech against? Microphone six.

David Greer:

David Greer, male, Living Waters District, young adult. I call the question.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, I'll move us to a vote. I think we can, since we have no against speeches, we move to a vote. If you would support this motion to create a commission of truth and truth-telling and reconciliation with reconciliation being the heart of it, would you lift your hand? Those opposed, let's pray together.

Gracious God, this is a momentous time in the history of the Virginia Annual Conference as we seek a more excellent way, a way in which we hear everyone's voices, in a way where we approach every person where they are, where we honor theological difference, where we truly strive to be a place where we serve you first and foremost, where we focus on serving Christ and being him in the world and where we seek to be as we are told, ambassadors for him and agents of reconciliation.

This morning we have discussed what, well, throughout the day yesterday we saw that maybe reconciliation might be what we're commanded to do as followers of Christ and so we ask that we live into this door that has opened, that all of us seek to see the best in each other, to see Christ in each other, that we seek to really listen to one another and not discount, not to humiliate, not to negate anyone.

Oh Christ, may we truly be like you exhibiting your fruits and may our churches also be places of reconciliation for folks from all backgrounds who all need to know you. In Jesus' we pray. Amen. I think we can all applaud now. Microphone one.

Rev. Gennie Bowles:

Bishop, if I might, I'd like to ask a moment of personal privilege.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Certainly. Go ahead, Rev. Bowles.

Rev. Gennie Bowles:

Gennie Bowles, clergy, queer Northern Virginia District, cisgender woman. Friends, I believe that our conversations at this conference have made it clear that we have a lot of work to do. Archbishop Desmond Tutu wrote a book called The Book of Forgiving in which he describes a fourfold path to tell the story, name the hurt, grant forgiveness, and then to renew or release the relationship. The nature of being closeted has kept the stories of LGBTQ united Methodists from being told and our pain from being named. Though the weight of the institution is no longer on our shoulders, there are many queer clergy who serve in contexts which they don't feel safe to be their whole selves. I believe that it would be beneficial for us to have a queer clergy caucus to provide a safe space for healing and to give a voice to those who for far too long have been talked about and not with.

I've been blessed with the congregation at Prince of Peace who have been willing to accept my whole self. Because of this privilege, I would like to offer to be the organizer of this group a space with a high level of confidentiality so those whose contexts aren't as affirming might be able to participate. I would also like to extend an invitation to those of you who are struggling with the changes made at general conference. The thing about change is that big or small, good or bad, it always involves grief. I know that you are hurting as you grieve the church that was. I know that these changes can be difficult and uncomfortable.

To that end, if in your grief and wrestling it would be helpful to have a conversation with a queer clergy person who loves Jesus and the United Methodist Church, I would like to offer myself to you. If you'd like to get a coffee or have a phone call, I would be glad to take the time for us to get to know each other. The Desert Father Dorotheus reminds us that as we grow closer to each other, we grow closer to God. I believe that fostering this love of God and each other through genuine relationship is the only way for us to find reconciliation and peace. I would invite you all to join me in doing this work together. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you, Rev. Bowles.

I had the privilege of being part of a celebration of Desmond Tutu's life in Atlanta and met his assistant and his daughters and one of his favorite stories, I'm just going to tell because I think it's so telling. One of his favorite movies was The Defiant Ones. I hope you'll watch that movie, but in that movie, Sidney Poitier, a black man, and Tony Curtis, a white man, are both prisoners and they're handcuffed together and when they're being transported from one prison to another, the truck crashes and they escape, but they're still handcuffed together.

And there's a great scene that Desmond Tutu loved where they fall into a pit, a deep pit and Tony Curtis starts climbing and is almost out and the handcuffs pull him back down and he realizes that he won't be free until he takes the black man with him. I think all of us need to realize that none of us will be saved until all of us are saved.

Okay, I see this card to the right. Number three.

Juliana Rosas:

Hello, Juliana Rosas. I'm a lay person from Mission Rivers District. I'm on COSROW. Just a reminder, we are only asking for your name, your district, your gender, your trans status is not being asked for, but that's up to you and your lay and clergy status, that's the part a lot of lay folks are forgetting. We got to put if you're lay or clergy, that's also diversity and if you have any specific racial or ethnic place you want me to mark, just let me know. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Thank you. Microphone, do you want to go to six or nine? Doesn't matter. Six. Six works.

Mike Nelson:

Bishop Sue, conference. Thank you for [inaudible 00:17:09]. I wanted to humbly ask for a moment of personal privilege.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

It's yours. Go ahead.

Mike Nelson:

My name is Mike Nelson. I'm a member at large in the Three Notch'd District and use the he/him pronouns. Anyone in this space who knows me well knows that I'm a very emotional and passionate person. In the spirit of this, I'm grateful for my wife to share my words.

Rev. Gretchen Nelson :

Gretchen Nelson, Three Notch'd District serving as clergy. Michael wrote this last night. Having been a person who has struggled with body image all my life, I believe I've experienced more than my share of hurtful words even when the person saying them thought they meant well. Words. Words are important and vital to our ability to function in this world and yet I do not consider myself a master of words. We all know that person that inevitably is able to be the best version of themselves they can be and always have carefully considered words. I admit that is not my gift. Words can be like the game darts. You always intend to hit the board, but there are many holes in the wall around the board. Whether we intend words to be taken in a certain way does not change how they land.

On Thursday, I got up to speak to my church. Yes, I consider you all my church. I playfully and genuinely said I identify as a sheep in the flock of Christ. I was about to speak on our connectional nature. I hoped it would express that we are all in this together, but I missed the board. My words inadvertently diminished something that is very important to all of us, whether we realize it or not, our identity in this world. Then yesterday a sister in Christ helped me to see the hurt I might cause in the cavalier approach that I had to this very personal expression of self.

I want to own that and apologize and commit to do better. I'm sorry for any hurt that I may have caused and I want to step into this uncomfortable place and sit with my siblings in Christ. We are a family and I cherish all of you here, even as I'm aware, we are a full range of beliefs that exist in this space. We are not of one mind, but we are of one spirit and that is a beautiful thing. I'm grateful for our diversity and believe God celebrates our uniqueness in our unity. I strive to be open to anyone calling me out for my mistakes, especially in the spirit of love and unity as I experienced yesterday. I covenant to do better.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay, another one at microphone six. Go ahead sir.

Brian Christoffersen:

Good morning. I'm Brian Christoffersen, Christ Crossman, Northern Virginia District. White male, cisgender. Today I'm coming to call for a motion for the 2024 Virginia Annual Conference to support a commitment to net-zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050. Can I have a second?

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Oh, my second persons in the front are gone.

Brian Christoffersen:

Oh no.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Thank you. The clergy to be who are being commissioned today and such are filling in. Go ahead.

Brian Christoffersen:

Thank you. Whereas God created the earth and charged humankind with its stewardship, as written in Genesis, as we seek to protect God's creation and improve our environment and in response to the Council of Bishops and their 2009 pastoral letter acknowledged that our neglect, selfishness, and pride have fostered environmental degradation and that we cannot help the world until we change our way of being in it, as we've learned in so many ways today.

The motion is considering that the 2024 General Conference, along with our bishops, general boards, and agencies have affirmed multiple resolutions and support of climate security including the net-zero commitment, we as the Virginia Annual Conference have a significant role to play by committing to a net-zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050. In doing so, we align ourselves with the Council of Bishops, 2009, God's Renewed Creation Letter, the 2021 Climate Crisis Response Letter, and the Virginia Annual Conference 2009 Green Church Initiative.

So I move that people of Virginia Annual Conference, United Methodist Church, confess our failure to be stewards of God's church properly, ask for God's help in restoring creation and join in our general conference, bishops' board, and agencies in pledging to adjust an equitable reduction of greenhouse gas emissions by 2050 and the establishment of a working group to study this motion and develop an implementation plan which will be composed of a minimum of the Common Table Creation Justice Team, Conference Committee on Finance and Administration, Missional Ministries Trustees, Commissions on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy, Campus Ministries and Chaplains, and United Women in Faith.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you, Mr. Christoffersen. The motion is on the floor for debate or discussion. Anybody like to speak? And we need a copy of that. We had a copy of that. Where'd it go? We need another copy of that. Microphone three. Go ahead sir.

Rob Getty:

Rob Getty, 52-year-old lay leader from Dahlgren UMC Mission Rivers District. Bishop, I would respectfully suggest to the gentleman who just spoke that action without funding is meaningless. So if we're going to sit there and say we want to be net-zero, is the gentleman going to fund the replacement of my fuel oil heating system at my church? We should strive for looking for future construction to be fuel-efficient, earth friendly, but we got a lot of old churches here and saying that we're going to go zero is ridiculous without funding. So if everyone wants to double their apportionments, we can do this. Otherwise, let's make this a realistic motion to say that we strive for as we move forward to be environmentally friendly but don't slap a mandate on me to go through and update stuff that I don't have the funds to update. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. That was a speech against, a speech for? Microphone three.

Rev. Denise Honeycutt:

My name is Denise Honeycutt. I'm clergy. I go by the pronouns she/her. As I understand this, it is a resolution. Is it a resolution? It's a resolution for a work group. We are not making decisions. It's for a work group to come together to talk about the crisis, which we all know is very real of climate change and how we as a Virginia Conference want to address that. And so I would encourage us to support this so that a group can be formed and can work on that. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Okay. That was a speech for, speech against? Microphone three.

Lisa Yates:

My name is Lisa Yates from the Northern Virginia District. I'm a lay member, cisgender female, senior adult. I'm not against this. I would just ask that we consider maybe reducing the timeframe to 2045 and the reason I say this is that our children and our grandchildren are facing a crisis that is immediate and I'd like to even do it earlier. I know things take time, but 25 years is going to be too late, so I'd like to see the person who brought this resolution forward consider shortening that timeframe. That's all.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, thank you. That really wasn't a speech against, it was a suggestion. I think the commission can take that up. Another a speech against, I think we're looking for a speech against. I don't see any cards. There's one way in the back. Microphone eight.

Robert Horn:

Good morning Bishop and friends. My name is Robert Horn, Crewe Cooperative Parish, the Living Waters District and I am XY DNAed. I have a couple of questions and then also a comment. My first question is involving the committee that we just discussed about gender and that is-

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I think that's out of order. Your speech needs to be about the motion on the floor.

Robert Horn:

Yes ma'am. Thank you. I am not opposed to the motion that has been made. However, I think we need to face some realities. The carbon emissions of the United States are a drop in the bucket compared to the carbon emissions from China, from India and what we will do or could do if we could get the entire United States involved, as my dad would've said, would be spitting in the wind. I believe that we would best be served if we could also find a way to involve the other countries that are emitting much more carbon and hydrocarbons than we. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Thank you. Any other speeches? That was against, there's one for in the back. I see you. Microphone ... I can't tell which is closest. Go to the one closest and then I'll ... I see you in the back. I think it's eight. If you'll move over to microphone eight. Oh, you're at seven. I see. Man, got it. Go.

Rev. Carl Perez :

Thank you. Carl Perez. Mission Rivers District, male. I'm calling so we can call the question, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Is anybody opposed to moving this to a vote? I don't think we are. Okay. If you would approve this ... Well, let me have Rev. King read it for you.

Rev. Joshua King:

The motion states I move that the people of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church confess our failure to steward God's earth properly, ask for God's help in restoring creation, and join our general conference Bishops, boards and agencies in pledging to adjust an equitable reduction of greenhouse gas emissions to net-zero by 2050 and establish a working group to study this motion and develop an implementation plan. At a minimum, the working group will include representatives from the common table, the Creation Justice Team, the Conference Committee on Finance and Administration, Missional Ministries, trustees, Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy, Campus Ministries and Chaplains, and United Women in Faith.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, it's properly before us. If you would approve this motion, please lift your hand. Those opposed, same sign. Thank you. I hope you'll all read, on my recommended reading list is a book called The Heat will Kill You First and I'd highly recommend that. It really brings to bear the dire circumstances we face and I feel like it's not getting enough attention and I'd like to ask the Creation Care team to have a summit this year before the next annual conference where we really focus on what we as the people of God called United Methodist can do with regard to creation. I realize we might be spitting in the wind but we might not have any wind left if we don't spit. Okay, now we have an opening prayer. How's that? With Jenelle Watson, I want her to pray for us. Jenelle, feel free to pray however you think we need to be prayed for.

Rev. Jenelle Watson:

Good morning brothers and sisters, siblings in Christ. It is good to be in the house of God today. Is it not? Do you feel strangely warmed?

It is good to be here. Let us pray. Creator God who goes before to make the way you have called this day good and us beloved. You have come into this place, filled it with your presence, and called us to join you, to be embraced by you, encouraged, equipped, and filled with your spirit. As we gather this morning with you, to worship you, to work alongside you. Give us ears to hear and eyes to see you. You in the face of the person to our left and to our right, you in the voice of each person at their microphone, in the silence of those who do not step forward, and in the beating of our own hearts. Forgive us for the times we've not seen or heard and the times we have and chose to ignore. Move us this day, Holy Spirit. Tune our hearts to sing your praise, to speak your truth and intently listen for your voice.

In our anxious moments, Lord, still us. Hold us close so that we may hear your heart and fill its beat and then precious Lord, fill us to overflowing with your spirit so that our worship, our words and our work are a mighty and unmistakable outpouring of your, your mercy, and your grace on all those around us in this place and in the places you will call us to. Grant us your wisdom and courage so that all we do may be a pleasing offering to you this day and in all the days to come as we follow you where you lead and walk unashamed and unafraid as Jesus did in whose holy and precious name we pray. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Thank you Rev. Watson. Now we have a monitoring report. I invite Rev. Lauren Wright, Rev. Jenny Day forward and also Rev. Timothy Barth and Rev. Eduardo Carrillo.

Rev. Lauren Wright:

Thank you Bishop. Good morning annual conference. My name is Lauren Wright. I'm one of the co-chairs of COSROW. I'm a young adult clergywoman serving on the Coastal Virginia District and I use the she/her pronouns. Maybe you resonate, but I spent a lot of my life believing that only one thing could be true in a given moment. For example, I was a person of faith or I struggled with anxiety, I was joyful or I was disappointed, and so on and so forth. But what I have found personally and professionally is that there is much freedom in allowing more than one thing to be true in a given space.

This has given me a lot of compassion both for myself and for others in and outside the church. So to apply this same idea to our annual conference session, one thing that COSROW would like to highlight in particular is that together we spent about a collective four hours of our time in our teaching sessions and in the panel discussion, and of that four hours of our time both of these things are true. The teaching was valuable and the speakers brought diverse perspectives and COSROW and many of the annual conference that have shared with me or have shared with other of our COSROW folks are deeply disappointed that the teaching and panel discussion didn't include any women in any of those four hours.

We implore our annual conference planning team to hear our feedback and request that we continue to this commitment to excellent teaching and to inclusion moving forward together. As we continue our monitoring report time, COSROW yields the rest of our time to our partner monitoring and inclusion groups with the Commission on Disabilities and CEMCA. So I'd like to turn it over to Tim and CEMCA.

Rev. Eduardo Carrillo:

Buenos dias, Bishop.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Buenos dias.

Rev. Eduardo Carrillo:

Buenos dias Virginia Conference.

Body:

Buenos dias.

Rev. Eduardo Carrillo:

I am Eduardo Carrillo, a proud Latino clergy, multicultural, pronouns he/him. I serve Mountain Valley Church, a cross-cultural appointment in the Shenandoah River District. I also serve as a co-chair of the Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy. Our mission at CEMCA is to be a prophetic voice, ensuring the full and equal participation of ethnic and racial constituents in all aspects of the Virginia Conference. We strive to educate, advocate, and hold the church accountable to God's design of inclusivity in all the structures and processes. Our goal is to make disciples of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen.

Body:

Amen.

Rev. Eduardo Carrillo:

Transforming the world through both word and deed. Our goal is to make visible God's gift of unity among all people in Jesus Christ, and the quality of community that God wills for the whole human family. Church diversity is one platform to change the way we think, live, learn, and work together for the kingdom of God. We want to thank the conference organizers and our bishop for highlighting ethnic minorities' participation in the sessions throughout the conference. It was greatly improved and we see the effort to live into the kingdom.

We have improved a lot yet there is much more work to do. We are indeed working towards perfection. We are eager to continue our journey together in the perfect love of God, working hand in hand, shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart as we grow closer with God and with one another. I pray that we seek together to enhance minority participation in all areas of the conference. Included but not limited to leadership, boards, agencies, committees, and wherever else we might find the least, the last, and the left behind. Bishop, Virginia Annual Conference, [Spanish 00:40:06]. Yes we can.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

[Spanish 00:40:08]

Rev. Eduardo Carrillo:

Gracias.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I also would like to take a moment to thank Lester Kurtz who's up here. Lester is rolling off this Quadrennium as one of the co-chairs of CEMCA and I want to thank him. He is a wise voice, a helpful voice, and I greatly appreciate our leadership and our friendship together, so thank you.

Lester Kurtz :

Oh, thank you Bishop. I have a footnote. I'm a co-conspirator with Eduardo at CEMCA. I'm Lester Kurtz, an elder lay member, elder not in the clerical sense but the chronological, at St. Matthew's in the Northern Virginia district and I was showing my African wife, who's also a delegate from the Northern Virginia District, my monitoring sheet, and I said, "notice if we include the band, we do pretty well." And she said, "Well, that's what women are expected to do. They're to cook and serve the food, pray and sing, and the men are supposed to do everything else."

She's also very wise, however, and goes much beyond that. She in fact has written a great article. I'll get it posted on our CEMCA website on the conference, an article on Ubuntu which was made popular by Archbishop Tutu. The idea, the African Proverb, I am because you are, which I think is good for us all to think about today and I think it's in the spirit of Jesus. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Before you leave the stage, I need to also acknowledge Eduardo Carrillo who was also rolling off of CEMCA and so thank you Eduardo. That frees you up to do other things.

Rev. Timothy Barth:

Members of the annual conference, Bishop, COSROW, thank you for the opportunity to stand before you. My name is Timothy Barth. I am a young adult white male living with a disability and it is my honor to serve at the chair of the Commission on Disabilities for the Virginia Annual Conference. I want to take a moment to thank you and Neil and Jonathan Page for the caption devices that were here this morning, for the fact that there was no wires going across the floor in the exhibit hall. Those were all recommendations that came from our commission as we strive to be a more inclusive church.

COD or the Commission on Disability affirmed that all people, regardless of ability or disability, are of sacred worth, and through advocacy, education and empowerment, we strive to include differently-abled persons fully into the life of the church. Part of our work is to monitor who is in leadership and to make sure that some persons with disabilities are able to lead in Christ Holy Church. This past year, COD has focused on the charge conference required Accessibility Audit. We on the Commission on Disability want to encourage your church to fill out an accessibility audit.

This audit is designed to show how you as a church can improve access to your building and help persons with disabilities feel welcomed. It is the first step to inclusion. It is certainly not the last. While it might seem impossible to fulfill a full audit, I encourage you to pick one or two things on the audit that your church can improve on. Maybe it's having greeters who open the door and help someone to their pew or cutting a pew to create wheelchair accessible spaces throughout the church. Or my personal favorite, make sure every single person uses a microphone. No, we cannot hear you if you don't use one.

Any fostering of accessibility leads to a more inclusive church. One way that you could foster inclusion is to listen to perspectives of differently abled persons. I want to lift up a book called The Disabled God: Toward a Liberatory Theology of Disability as a starting place, it will challenge your view and understanding of God as she offers a view of God in a wheelchair that you have to puff into to move it. Bishop Peggy Johnson always said to me as I was coming up in the Peninsula-Delaware Annual Conference, "You aren't disabled unless the world makes you disabled." Church, let us work to bring down the barriers that make people disabled. May we work to build a more inclusive, diverse and holy church reflective of all God's people. Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yeah. They're coming up next. I invite you to take a brief, don't leave your seats, standing break. And I'm going to invite the cabinet now as we fix the appointments and celebrate some transitions. And so just stand, stay in your spot and I invite the cabinet up and the first thing I'll do is give Dean Denise Bates a moment of personal privilege.

Dean Denise Bates:

Good morning, annual conference.

Body:

Good morning.

Dean Denise Bates:

I'll give you a second to scurry to your seats. I'm Denise Bates, Dean of the Cabinet and District Superintendent of the Mountain View District. I'm a senior adult and my pronouns are she and her. As a moment of personal privilege, I was inspired by our annual conference dedication to helping relieve medical debt and further challenged and inspired by Kingstown community's wonderful gift yesterday. I'd like to share that the appointed cabinet and Bishop are pledging $2,000 for relief of medical debt and the Mountain View District is pledging $1,000. And I encourage or challenge my fellow district superintendents who might also feel their heart strangely tugged by this as well. And of course, in due time, anyone on the floor.

Bishop Hauptert-Johnson, Lay Leader Stokes, members and friends of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church, the time has come to fix the appointments of the 2024, 2025 conference year. As the dean of the cabinet, I can affirm that all the appointments in each district are correct. The appointment listing can be found at the conference website at www.vaumc.org/2024 appointments. As I call out each district in alphabetical order, I invite the district superintendent and lay leader of that district to come forward. If there is a change in the leadership of a district superintendent in a district, the newly appointed district superintendent will come forth as well. Our bishop will introduce the new superintendents and the passing of the leadership mantle represented by the transfer of a stole from the outgoing to the incoming district superintendent will be made. First, the Coastal Virginia District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

This is Rev. Beth Givens, Dr. Cecilia Brooks and Mrs. Barbara Mason, the lay leader of the Coastal Virginia District. It's my honor and privilege to introduce to the annual conference the Rev. Beth Givens who has served at Haygood United Methodist Church in the Coastal Virginia District. She is a long-standing and valued member of the Board of Ordained Ministry, a gifted leader, a wise person, and I welcome her leadership in the Coastal Virginia District.

I also want to give a word of thanks to Dr. Cecilia Brooks who has served well and who has really served in a difficult time. I think all superintendents in the connection would not have chosen the past several years to serve, but I thank her for her service and I wish her well as she enters another chapter in the local church. Thank you Dr. Brooks.

Wait, wait, wait. Stay, stay, stay. We got to get this pattern going right now. I invite those who are moving into the Coastal Virginia District to stand. We're going to put them, they're up on the screen and now we're going to invite everybody in that district to stand. And the announcements, the appointments listed on our conference website are correct and are now fixed. And I am delighted to have new leadership coming to the Coastal Virginia District and I wish you well. We'll have a prayer for you all at the end. Thank you. Thank you.

Dean Denise Bates:

Living Waters District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

I'm grateful to Rev. Jay Carey and Mr. Tommy Johnson for their leadership in the Living Waters District. And I invite those who are moving into the Living Waters District to stand. Their names are up now. And now I invite all of you to stand from that district. We're grateful for your service in that region and we'll have a prayer for all at the end. Thank you. Thank you guys. Appreciate it.

Dean Denise Bates:

The Mission Rivers District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates, and Mrs. Judy Cron. If you're moving into the Mission Rivers district, I invite you to stand as your names are broadcast. We're delighted for your service there over the next year or years or multiple years. We rejoice at your new leadership and we rejoice, I'll have you all stand now and thank you for your service to the Mission Rivers District. Thank you.

Dean Denise Bates:

The Mountain View District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Rev. Denise Bates, who we owe a huge debt of gratitude for her work in the Mountain View District, but also the work she did in the disaffiliation processes. She really shepherded churches through that. And the annual conference needs to be forever grateful. That is some detailed and not very fulfilling work I think, so thank you, Rev. Bates. Rev. Bates is entering into a new chapter called retirement, and I must say I'm a little envious, but I think that it's just another area of ministry, I guess, where you don't have to show up every day, which is a good thing.

And then Rev. Dr. Sarah Calvert. I'm very excited, will be taking over the Mountain View District. She has served well in the Northern Virginia District. Sarah's known for her deep relationship with the clergy and laity of the district, and I am excited that she will go to Mountain View and use those gifts there. So if you are moving into the Mountain View District, I invite you to stand as your names are put up on the screens. We celebrate your entry into the Mountain View District. Now invite the whole district to stand as we recognize you and thank you for your service there. Sarah, you're going to stay, right?

Dean Denise Bates:

And Bishop, DS Calvert would like a moment of privilege.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

You got it.

Rev. Dr. Sarah Calvert:

Bishop, before I leave Northern Virginia, I would like to challenge all of the cabinet and the districts and those who serve on those districts and those who lay lead in those districts and match the fund that we are raising money for the conference offering to the tune of $5,000 from the Northern Virginia District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Wow. Thank you.

Rev. Dr. Sarah Calvert:

So it's up to you guys.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay. Rev. Dr. Sarah Calvert, Rev. Kirk Nave, and Dr. Karen McElfish. Lots of names.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yeah, I am delighted to Rev. Kirk Nave. Kirk is coming from a long and storied past in the church. He has served in multiple churches with distinction throughout the annual conference. He's currently serving Braddock Street in Winchester. Yay from the Braddock Street folks. And Sarah's going to hand off the stole to Kirk as he comes to lead the Northern Virginia District. I invite those moving into the Northern Virginia district to stand as your names are displayed. And now I invite everybody from the Northern Virginia district to stand. We celebrate your ministry there and we thank you for your service and for your leadership in the annual conference.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

It's good to see you.

Dean Denise Bates:

Shenandoah River District. Always remember your alphabet even if the script doesn't have it that way.
Note to self.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

The Shenandoah River District is led by Rev. Dr. Victor Gomez and Wilma Jennings who always is a bright spot in any day where you meet her. So I'm grateful for you Wilma. We are delighted that Dr. Victor Gomez will be leading this Shenandoah River District for one more year. I made it clear that district superintendents on my cabinet serve for six years, so they don't have to guess when they're going to roll off, but I invite all clergy moving into the Shenandoah River District to stand as your names are put up and now invite all the members of the Shenandoah River District to stand. All of the lay and clergy members, I thank you for your leadership and for being Christ in the Shenandoah River District and I'm so sorry you have to serve in such an ugly place. It's just tragic. So thank you both.

Wilma Jennings:

Thank you.

Dean Denise Bates:

Now the Three Notch'd District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Rev. Dr. Hyo Lee and Ms. Elizabeth Farrell. And I am delighted, this is my home district where my residence is and where my husband serves. He is at Powhatan United Methodist Church and is enjoying his service there. And I am grateful to the Three Notch'd District. If you are new, moving into the Three Notch'd District, I invite you to stand. And now if you are a member of the Three Notch'd District, please stand as we celebrate your ministry and thank you for your leadership.

Dean Denise Bates:

The Valley Ridge District.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Last but not least, another very ugly district. This is Rev. Doug Forrester and Larry Dickinson. And thank you Larry again for the great news about Wesley development and all that is happening with that merger. This is the king of affordable housing. And any of you who are approaching retirement or looking for stuff to do, Larry did construction for years and years and now he's building affordable housing so God can use us at any time and we celebrate those gifts. If you're moving into the Valley Ridge District, I invite you to stand as your names are put up on the screen.

Those appointments are now fixed, as are all the others. I forgot to say that every time, but I think you figured that out. And now I invite all members of the Valley Ridge District to stand up. Thank you for your service in the Valley Ridge area and your leadership there and now I invite you all to stand as I commission you, as you go forth now that these appointments are fixed to serve in your various areas of the Virginia Annual Conference.

Oh Lord, pour out your Holy Spirit as we stand on the threshold of a new quadrennium. I thank you for these clergy and lay servants of yours who serve in so many capacities, who work hard and are your hands and feet in every corner of this annual conference. We rejoice that your work is equally important all over our annual conference, we rejoice that you have equipped us with gifted individuals throughout the annual conference and we stand ready to pray, to hear your call and to go where the Holy Spirit is leading.

I pray a special prayer for those clergy in transition this year. My heart aches for them because moving is never fun, but I pray for the transition of these clergy into their new churches. I know that you're already at work in the churches preparing them to receive them. I pray that these will be good fits and great matches and that there will be the wonderful relationship between clergy and parish that is so productive and so joyous. Oh Lord, we pray that where we are weak and where we are limited, you will empower us. That you will give us hearts to know, ears to hear, and eyes to see those areas that need your care, your touch, your compassion.

Show us, oh Lord, those who in every district need to be cherished, need to be gathered in need to receive your love. May we be courageous, innovative, bold, and fearless. In Jesus' name we pray, the one who goes before us into every corner of this annual conference in the world, in His name we pray. Amen.

Body:

Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Yay for everybody. Okay, Joshua will make the final announcements.

Rev. Joshua King:

In just a moment, we're going to be concluding this business session after which we will then take a 20-minute break as we reset for the service of recognition and call. Please be mindful of the seating and if there is a seat tag where you are seated, please move to another location. If you are here to stand with those being recognized as commissioned and ordained members, please come and be seated on the right side of the room. The Board of Ordained ministry Marshals will guide you.

For clergy who are participating in the processional, please now go to the conference room A where you can get robed and lined up in the processional. For retirees of the class of 2024 and clergy and laity being recognized in the service, go to room 103. We will be back to start this service shortly and we'll hope that you'll stay as we recognize and celebrate God's call upon the lives of all of these people. We'll even have a moment at the end where the Bishop will issue a call to mission and ministry and we hope that you will consider responding to God's call in your life. Thank you.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Okay, before we adjourn, I've had somebody ask, Jason has asked for a moment of personal privilege. Jason Stanley, come forward please.

Jason Stanley:

Good morning, annual conference.

Crowd:

Good morning.

Jason Stanley:

I want to ask us to be in prayer for people who have been wounded in Oakland, California at a mass shooting on Wednesday at a Juneteenth celebration and for two people killed and eight wounded in Arkansas at another mass shooting today at a grocery store. I want to invite you to sit in a posture of prayer as we take a time of silence to honor those who have been wounded or killed, as well as for violence in our country and the world. Let us pray.

Amen.

Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson:

Amen. Okay. It is my privilege to call to a close the 242nd Business Session of the Virginia Annual Conference and we will stand in recess for 20 minutes and then we will have a wonderful celebration of worship.

Saturday Morning, June 22, 2024

WORSHIP SERVICE

The Service of Recognition and Call began with processional hymns. Monica Chafinhofer led the Call to Worship. Rev. Jessie Colwell recognized the 31 individuals of the Class of 2024 retirees. Thirty-one persons were part of the 2024 Retirement Class. These individuals have a combined total of 763.50 years of service. After a worship song and a youth reenactment of Luke 24:13-35, Bishop Tom Berlin, Florida Conference, preached the sermon.

Bishop Berlin shared that his mother died this week, and he shared some of the tender moments surrounding this time. There are moments when the Holy Spirit prays for you, when you look around and realize you are not alone. “What is the nature of the hope that you carry in this moment and in the days ahead? Our hope is that a relationship with Jesus Christ transforms life.” Bishop Berlin spoke directly to the ordinands that their job is “Hope Leadership”, even though there will be many failures – you have to “fail quickly and move on”. The new United Methodist Church will rise or fall on our Spiritual Roots – we must continue to focus on spiritual disciplines so that our roots will go deeper.

Rev. Crystal Sygeel recognized the call of the 14 individuals of Lay Supply Class of 2024 and the 10 individuals of Certified Lay Ministers Class of 2024. Bishop Sue offered a prayer of blessing. Bishop Sue commissioned Deaconess Amy Purdom to the ministry at Staunton High School as a Special Education teacher. Bishop Sue examined the persons being recognized/ordained: 26 Local Licensed Pastors, three Provisional Deacons, 11 Provisional Elders, two Ordained Deacons, and nine Ordained Elders.

We, the undersigned members of the Minutes Committee and Conference Secretaries, have read, corrected, and approved these Daily Proceedings on August 20, 2024.

PART II PERTAINING TO ORDAINED AND LICENSED CLERGY

Note: A (v) notation following a question in this section signifies that the action or election requires a majority vote of the clergy session of the annual conference. If an action requires more than a simple majority, the notation (v 2/3) or (v 3/4) signifies that a two-thirds or three-fourths majority vote is required. Indicate credential of persons in Part II: FD, FE, PD, PE, and AM when requested.

13. Are all the clergy members of the conference blameless in their life and official administration (§§604.4, 605.7)?

District Superintendent Denise Bates, Dean of the Cabinet: Recognizing that “all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God” (Romans 3:23), and that throughout the year areas of concern have been identified and complaints or charges filed, we the appointive cabinet do believe that the licensed, commissioned, and ordained clergy are earnestly striving after perfection and are blameless in their life and in their official administration.

COMMITTEE ON RULES

The Rules Committee met numerous times over the past year to discuss several proposed amendments, as well as to study and draft the necessary rules to once again provide under the Virginia Conference Standing Rules of Order and Procedure a process for the submission and consideration of resolutions during annual conference. This year's proposed amendments and the rationale for each amendment follow:

A. RECOMMENDATIONS

Proposed amendments to the Standing Rules of Order and Procedure as recommended by the Rules Committee:

- Technical Changes –

Rule IV – First paragraph, change “68th” to “68th”

Rule IV – Second paragraph, change “con-ference” to “conference”

Rule V.A – Correct the citation to the Book of Discipline from “Paragraph 208” to “Paragraph 608”

Rationale: The Standing Rules referenced above require these minor technical changes due to past inadvertent oversight in not revising cross-references to the BOD or due to other typographical errors.

- Rule V.C.8 – alter the subheading to “Ethnic Local Church Concerns, Committee on” from “Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy, Commission on.” Thereafter, revise the committee name accordingly in the remainder of Rule V.C.8. In the sentence citing the Book of Discipline, insert (§ 632) for the appropriate citation to the BOD. Remove the five members elected at-large, so that membership on the committee consists of only 10 clergy and 10 laypersons. Strike the sentence beginning, “The district coordinators for Religion and Race shall be ...”

As a result, the proposed new text for Rule V.C.8 is:

Ethnic Local Church Concerns, Committee on. There shall be a Virginia Conference Committee on Ethnic Local Church Concerns amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality. The committee will provide for the functions as outlined in the current Book of Discipline for the Committee on Ethnic Local Church Concerns (§ 632).

The membership of the committee shall consist of 10 clergy and 10 laypersons elected upon nomination of the Conference Nominations Team. A minimum of two members shall be youth and young adults between the ages of 12 - 35. The committee will be constituted so that two-thirds of the membership be representative of people from diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds. The presidents or chairs of conference caucuses, fellowships, or associations for racial and ethnic constituencies shall be ex-officio members of the committee with voice but not vote. The bishop may appoint to the committee a district superintendent to serve as Cabinet representative with voice but not vote.

Rule V.C.23 – add the following new rule for the Commission on Religion and Race:

- Religion and Race, Commission on. There shall be a Virginia Conference Commission on Religion and Race as outlined in the Book of Discipline (§ 643). The membership of the Commission shall comprise 5 laity and 5 clergy nominated by the Nominations Team. The commission will be constituted so that two-thirds of the membership be representative of people from diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds. The bishop may appoint to the commission a district superintendent to serve as Cabinet representative with voice but not vote.

Rationale: CEMCA formed as the combination of the Conference Commission on Religion and Race and the Conference Committee on Ethnic Local Church Concerns. In an effort to provide more focused support for ethnic local churches, and to allow more concentrated efforts on systemic issues within the conference, these proposed changes to the Standing Rules for Rule V.C.8 and Rule V.C.23 will allow the annual conference to reinstate the two separate teams, as they are distinctly outlined in The Book of Discipline.

- Rule V.C.19 – modify the final sentence to strike “three years” and insert “one year” for the Site Selection Committee. Thus, the sentence would read: This committee shall make arrangements for the meeting of the annual conference and shall recommend a location for the meeting of the annual conference a minimum of one year in advance.

Rationale: The Site Selection Committee has indicated that it is constrained in terms of negotiating contracts for facilities, and the desire to find more cost-effective locations that might provide better support. This proposed amendment would provide more flexibility.

Proposed amendments to the Standing Rules of Order and Procedure as recommended by the Rules Committee for the reimplementation of resolutions:

- Rule I.B.3.v – add the chairperson of the Resolutions Committee to this list of Lay Membership.
- Rule I.B.5.b – add the chairperson of the Resolutions Committee to this list for payment of expenses at annual conference.
- Rule II – amend the title to read, “REPORTS, RESOLUTIONS, PRESENTATIONS, PETITIONS, PROPOSALS AND CONSENT AGENDA.”
- Rule II.A.2 – add to the first sentence “... or resolutions, ...” so that this sentence reads, “For reports printed in the Book of Reports, verbal introductions shall not exceed five minutes, and there shall be no further reading of reports or resolutions, unless requested for clarification or requested by a majority vote of the annual conference.”
- Rule II.B – insert the below text to reinsert into the Standing Rules procedures for the submission and consideration of resolutions.

B. RESOLUTIONS

1. Resolutions. Resolutions proposed for presentation to the annual conference shall be submitted to the Resolutions Committee no later than January 31 each year for consideration at that year’s annual conference. The Resolutions Committee shall meet as necessary throughout the year in order to review and process submitted resolutions in a timely manner. All properly submitted resolutions shall be organized by the Resolutions Committee for submission to the Conference Secretary, or the Conference Secretary’s designee, along with a Resolution Committee report, for publication in the Book of Reports.
 - a. The Resolutions Committee will determine if the below requirements under Rule II.B.2 and 3 have been met for any and all submitted resolutions. If a resolution is deemed to have been properly submitted, it will be further reviewed and prepared for presentation and consideration by the annual conference. If a resolution is deemed to not have been properly submitted under the below requirements, the Resolutions Committee shall timely return it to the person(s) who submitted it for revision; however, all revisions must be resubmitted by the January 31 deadline to be properly considered for presentation to the annual conference. Upon the January 31 final deadline for submission, the Resolutions Committee shall meet within two weeks in order to review, process and, if necessary, refer a resolution to an appropriate board, agency or committee for consideration and input.
 - b. A resolution may be submitted for consideration after January 31 only if the resolution concerns an issue that has clearly arisen after the January 31 deadline. Such resolutions must be submitted to the Resolutions Committee as soon as possible after the triggering event regarding the issue and no later than 14 days prior to the opening session of the annual conference.
 - c. The Resolutions Committee shall be the final arbiter to determine if the subject of the proposed resolution arose after the formal submission deadline. Such resolutions, if considered by the Committee, will be distributed via all conference e-mail groups, and the submitter of any such resolutions shall provide sufficient copies for all members attending annual conference, with the costs of such copies borne by the submitter, and submit such copies to the Conference Secretary for inclusion in the member packets prior to the opening session of the annual conference.

2. Who May Submit a Resolution. The following persons and entities may submit a resolution before the annual conference:
 - a. Any conference board, agency or committee;
 - b. Any group of at least ten (10) conference clergy members (full connection, provisional, or local pastor, including retired pastors) and/or conference lay members; or,
 - c. Any layperson who is a member of a local church within the conference and whose church council, or equivalent governing body, has endorsed the resolution.
3. Submission of Resolutions. To submit a resolution for consideration by the annual conference, the document must be properly formatted and submitted to the Resolutions Committee at an email address provided by the conference. The following process must be followed:
 - a. All resolutions shall be limited to one issue. If the Book of Discipline is affected, each resolution must address only one paragraph of the Discipline; except that, if two or more paragraphs in the Discipline are so closely related that a change in one affects the others, the resolution may call for the amendment of those paragraphs to make them consistent with one another (§507.2. The Book of Discipline);
 - b. All resolutions must be accompanied by a statement of: (i) any estimated financial impact; (ii) an estimate of any conference staff resources and time required; and (iii) the source(s) of funding required to implement its provisions, if any;
 - c. All resolutions are to be written in the following format: “Whereas, ... Whereas, ... Whereas, ... Therefore, be it resolved, ... Be it further resolved ...” structure;
 - d. All resolutions must be submitted electronically in Microsoft Word format, in 12 point, Times New Roman font, single spaced, with the following margins: top 1.25”; bottom 1”; left 1”; right 1.25”. Handwritten or submissions in .pdf format will not be accepted;
 - e. All resolutions shall be limited to no more than 1,000 words; and
 - f. Each resolution must be signed by the person(s) submitting it, and accompanied by appropriate identifying information, including the name(s), title(s), phone number(s), and email address(s) and conference district of the person(s) must be included with the resolution. Electronic signatures will be accepted in accordance with common business practices.
4. Committee Actions. The Resolutions Committee shall meet as necessary throughout the year to timely take the following actions upon properly receiving and considering resolutions:
 - a. Accept the resolutions as presented with no changes and recommend it for consideration at annual conference;
 - b. Accept the resolutions after working with the submitter regarding formatting and to comply with the Standing Rules and the Book of Discipline, and recommend it for consideration at annual conference;
 - c. Refer a resolution to another annual conference board, agency or committee for consideration and possible inclusion in that body’s report if the subject of the resolution involves the work of that conference body. Should the board, agency or committee to which a resolution is referred choose not to include the resolution in its report, then the Resolutions Committee shall be timely informed of this decision so that resolution may be included in the Resolution Committee’s report.
 - d. Refer a resolution to the Council on Finance and Administration (CFA) for review and to obtain an opinion or comment when such a resolution has a potential financial impact on the conference; or,
 - e. Refer a resolution to the conference Chancellor for review and to obtain an opinion or comment when such a resolution has a potential legal impact on the conference.

5. Scheduling and Debate of Resolutions.

- a. The Resolutions Committee shall determine the order for debate of all properly submitted resolutions included in the Resolutions Committee report for consideration by the annual conference.
- b. For resolutions that have come from or been referred to a conference board, agency or committee, the chairperson of that body will be entitled to speak once before the annual conference (prior to floor debate) to share any comments of the board, agency or committee concerning the resolution. This speech will not count against any time limitations.
- c. For resolutions that have been referred to the CFA or the conference Chancellor, the chairperson of the CFA or the Chancellor will be entitled to speak once before the annual conference (prior to floor debate) to share comments germane to the financial or legal impact concerning the resolution. This speech will not count against any time limitations.
- d. Debate on each resolution will begin with the submitter, or a representative of the submitter if submitted by a group of individuals speaking for a maximum of two (2) minutes. The resolution shall then be subject to floor debate and the speaking limits set forth under Standing Rule VII.H. Two speeches for concurrence and two speeches for non-concurrence shall be permitted.
- e. After debate has concluded, and prior to voting, the submitter of the resolution may offer to modify the resolution as referenced in Rule 6.b, below, or may withdraw the resolution from consideration.

6. Voting on Resolutions.

- a. Voting on resolutions shall be on each individual resolution, not on a recommendation of any conference board, agency, committee, the CFA or the Chancellor to which a resolution may have been referred to for review. Submitters proposing resolutions may submit supporting documentation or rationale with the resolution, and appropriate conference boards, agencies, and committees, as well as the CFA and Chancellor may provide opinions or comments regarding the resolution.
- b. The annual conference shall vote on the resolution, including the “whereas” language. The “whereas” language is not amendable during debate, although the submitter of the resolution may modify or strike the language of any “whereas” statements at any time prior to a vote on the resolution or during the debate. Any such modifications will not be subject to further debate.
- c. As deemed necessary by the presiding chairperson during consideration of resolutions, if the outcome of any voice or standing vote on a resolution is deemed inconclusive, a recorded vote may be taken with the assistance of the Chief Teller. Every resolution upon which a recorded vote has been taken shall have the vote count attached to it in all distributions of that resolution.

7. Time Limit of Resolutions. Every resolution passed by the annual conference shall be valid for the lesser of one year, or until the resolution is specifically rescinded, amended, or superseded by action of subsequent session of the annual conference. If the intent of a resolution is to be binding upon the annual conference for more than one year, the resolution must provide the appropriate language to amend the Standing Rules to allow for the indefinite implementation of the resolution. Such indefinite implementation must pass by a separate 2/3 vote majority of the annual conference; failing such a vote the resolution shall be valid under the one year time limit.

8. Conference Secretary Recordkeeping. The Conference Secretary shall maintain a list of resolutions passed by the annual conference and the list shall be published in each year’s Journal and such other places as may be helpful.

NOTE: All other rules under Rule II would be adjusted with the insertion of the above text on resolutions. Thus, Rule II.C – Presentations, Rule II.D – Petitions, Rule II.E – Proposals, and Rule II.F – Consent Agenda.

- Rule III.B.5.b – add the text “... or resolutions ...” in two instances so that these sentences read, “fully participating in activities of the Conference including the debate over budgets, proposals or resolutions pending before the Conference. This shall include the right to bring petitions, amendments, or resolutions to the Conference and encourage votes for or against the same.”
- Rule V.C.22 – add the following new rule for the Committee on Resolutions:
 - o Resolutions, Committee on. There shall be a Resolutions Committee consisting of up to eleven (11) members, with no less than six (6) at-large members elected by the annual conference on nomination of the Conference Nominations Team or from the floor, with three being lay members and three being clergy. Other appointed members shall be (i) the Director of Connectional Ministries; (ii) a member of the Rules Committee; (iii) a member of the Board of Church and Society; (iv) the Conference Secretary or the Conference Secretary’s designee; and, (v) upon appointment by the Bishop, a representative of the Cabinet. The Resolutions Committee shall review and process each proposed resolution to determine if it can properly come before the annual conference; make revisions as needed in consultation with the submitter of the resolution; ensure consistency and adherence with The Book of Discipline and the Annual Conference’s Standing Rules of Order and Procedure; and present approved resolutions to the annual conference. Proposed resolutions for consideration by the annual conference shall be referred to the Resolutions Committee and handled pursuant to the procedures set forth under Standing Rule II.B.

Rationale: At the 2024 annual conference, a motion was adopted to restore resolutions as part of annual conference proceedings. As a result, the Rules Committee met numerous times in the past year to consider the best manner in which to amend the Standing Rules in order to do so. Members of the Committee reviewed our Virginia Conference’s past rules on resolutions and had discussions with both clergy and laity who were previously involved on past Resolution Committees. The Rules Committee also reviewed and considered text from other United Methodist Church conferences’ Standing Rules concerning the membership of a Resolutions Committee, various processes and procedures for submitting proposed resolutions, and for their consideration before the annual conference. The result of this in-depth analysis and discussion by the Rules Committee is the above proposed amendment.

In offering this amendment, the Rules Committee realizes that drafting such rules is one of two important steps, with the other step being successful implementation. Should the annual conference adopt these proposed amendments to restore resolutions to our Standing Rules and as part of annual conference proceedings, it is the Rules Committee’s recommendation that, following the 2025 annual conference proceedings where resolutions would again be considered, the leadership of the Rules and Resolutions Committees meet to confer on the process and determine if further adjustments to these rules are needed.

CABINET REPORT

This conference year has been a fruitful one for the 8 districts of the Virginia Annual Conference. We completed our transitions into new leadership structures to maximize our support of local church mission and ministry, while also exploring innovative avenues of reaching into communities with the love of Christ.

Coastal Virginia District – Rev. Dr. C.R. Brooks, District Superintendent

The Coastal VA District made disciples! Under Dr. C. R. Brooks', (PhD) leadership, CVD has one of the largest groups of young adult clergy breathing new life into our District, including Jessie, a 16-year-old evangelist. In 2023, over 170 youth and young adults were baptized by profession of faith in our churches and camps and over 500 new adult members joined Coastal VA churches. Praise God! The DCOM became a diverse group practicing our theological tasks. Congratulations to Dr. Jason Stanley, our new Doctor of Ministry (DMIN), who revised NLI for small churches and spread the gospel of Simplified Accountable Structure (SAS) across the District. We welcome our new Administrative Manager, Jeri Burtchell.

Living Waters District – Rev. Jay Carey, District Superintendent

The Living Waters District Churches are now operating in 7 “regions” geographically to be nimbler in ministry together. Five of our monthly district “REFRESH” revival meetings were held, with strong attendance and support from local churches. Safer Sanctuaries classes have been offered by our four trained leaders. District Developer Tim Beck meets regularly with local churches to help develop community ministry and outreach strategies. District Youth ministry continues to grow with 100+ attending retreats and 10-15 youth delegates attending Annual Conference. The repurpose Ettrick church work team continues to develop plans for a ministry hub in that community.

Mission Rivers District – Rev. Dr. Charles Ledlum-Bates, District Superintendent

Our primary focus is to offer a vision of hope, healing, and reconciliation for our churches. Our strategy includes a commitment to improving communications that allow our laity and clergy to provide feedback and participate in all the district initiatives. Through SAS training, we have guided our churches in discerning whether this model fits their ministry contexts. We continue to support our churches in their efforts to improve their online presence and help them engage in collaborative missions and ministry. We have a system that supports, equips, and guides our churches through the work of our District Directors of Connectional Ministry. We invite each laity to utilize their expertise by joining their clergy in a shared ministry endeavor to fulfill our goal.

Mountain View District – Rev. Denise Bates, District Superintendent

The Mountain View District continues to develop contextual community ministries that connect people and share the love of Christ in real, authentic and tangible ways. Realizing that even within the district, there are many different contexts, we have organized into 3 regions, and within in those regions into 11 community groups of laity and clergy. Community groups of churches are sharing ministry, such as Worship in the Park, PubTheology, Food Pantries, Community Meals, Home Repair and Mission Trips. The clergy of Peaks View Region (Lynchburg area) are sharing the book “The Art of Neighboring” in their clergy peer groups, who then will share it in their churches. We continue to support Kaleidoscope -A Gathering Place, Henry Fork Service Center and Park View Community Mission as a district. We are excited to deploy the learning of 27 laity and clergy who have participated in Fresh Expressions training, as we discover God’s new thing among us! We are excited for the future!

Northern Virginia District – Rev. Dr. Sarah Calvert, District Superintendent

The Northern Virginia District is living into the new SAS model along with our four regions and regional connectors. We are living out our vision to inspire fruitful disciple-making in local communities by returning to in-person training and intentionally focusing on lay evangelism. We returned in-person for Training Day and included a hybrid training day. We continue to see partnerships and cohorts developing between churches in youth ministry, worship, community outreach and communications as the transition to regions continues. We were excited to welcome Bishop Sue and share some of the exciting ministry in NoVa!

Shenandoah River District – Rev. Dr. Victor Gomez, District Superintendent

The Discipleship Board of the Shenandoah River District had a retreat this year at Camp Overlook, and it is working diligently to engage the district in mission and ministries for the sake of the kingdom of God. We are committed to engage our churches to making disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the Shenandoah River District, and consequently for the transformation of the world. We recognize that it is time to get back to our Wesleyan roots and share God's love to all God's children.

Three Notch'd District - Rev. Dr. Hyo Lee, District Superintendent

Despite the many challenges we have faced, the laity and clergy of the Three Notch'D District have been bold and faithful to the mission of Christ. To do so, we applied three strategies. First, we sought to support local churches by providing Vitality resources such as SAS, Shift, NLI, Faithful Discernment, and others. Secondly, we enabled local churches to be innovative in reaching out to new people by providing resources for new ministries like Fresh Expressions, Dinner Church, Messy Church, and by starting new congregations. Thirdly, we offered support through Cluster ministries where mutual learning, encouragement, and collaboration like youth ministry and serving ministry happen. With these strategies, we aim faithfully make disciples in the coming years.

Valley Ridge District – Rev. Doug Forrester, District Superintendent

It has been another exciting year on the Valley Ridge District! The year 2023 saw great signs of hope, including a bold church merger and a nascent public-private partnership as we have prepared to launch our second Embrace Center for Community to serve Allegheny and Bath Counties as well as the city of Covington. In 2024, we launched nine geographic “guilds” to assist clergy and laity in community mission, programming, and fellowship. We continue to strive to equip the laity of our district as we pursue our goal of having a lay servant in each of our congregations.

On behalf of your District Superintendents, we give God thanks for the faithfulness of the laity and clergy in each of our districts, and their commitment to being the hands and feet of Christ, sharing God's love in transforming ways. This is our witness to the abundant love graciously given to each of us and all of us together. We are blessed to be a blessing to all!

On a personal note, it has been a deep blessing in my life to serve as a District Superintendent for these last 5 years. As I embrace this next chapter in my ministry, I am deeply thankful for the friendship of my Cabinet colleagues, and am blessed by all of the laity and clergy of the Mountain View District, as well as the former Farmville District. The work of ministry continues with God's help, and your faithfulness!

—Denise P. Bates, Dean

SITE SELECTION COMMITTEE

The Site Selection Committee is responsible for making the arrangements for the meeting of the Virginia Annual Conference. By Annual Conference rules, the Committee recommends the location for the Annual Conference three (3) years in advance. The Annual Conference Session date is set by Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson.

By previous Annual Conference action, the following locations have been approved for the site of the Annual Conference:

Roanoke

June 12-14, 2025

Hampton

June 18-20, 2026

The Site Selection Committee recommends the 2027 Virginia Annual Conference be held in:

Harrisonburg

June 17-19, 2027

The Committee, along with the Director of Connectional Ministries and the Annual Conference Event Planner, continues to consider locations for holding Annual Conference across the Commonwealth. After careful evaluation of venues around Virginia, we are pleased to recommend holding the 2027 Annual Conference at the Atlantic Union Bank Center at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

For your reference, the following criteria is used in evaluating potential Annual Conference sites:

- ❖ Venue to accommodate 3,000 people
- ❖ 1,300 to 1,500 hotel rooms in the area
- ❖ Headquarters hotel in close proximity to Conference site
- ❖ Parking for 2,000 cars
- ❖ Meeting space for the Clergy Session of 1,500 people
- ❖ Meeting space for the Laity Session of 1,500 people
- ❖ Additional meeting spaces adjacent to the Conference floor
- ❖ Two (2) banquet areas to accommodate 500 people each
- ❖ Additional banquet locations accessible to Conference
- ❖ Restaurants to accommodate 2,500 patrons within 1½ - 2 hour timeframe
- ❖ 10,000 sq. ft. of special events space

–Neal E. Wise, Chair

EQUITABLE COMPENSATION COMMISSION

The Equitable Compensation Commission continues to provide financial aid to those churches requiring supplementation to strengthen their ministries in the communities in which they are located and to provide minimum salary or salary supplementation for the pastors. Equitable Compensation support in the amount of $168,545 was provided to 27 charges in 2023.

There were 4 charges receiving salary support in 2022 that did not require salary support in 2023. These are Bethel Belle Haven (Coastal Virginia), New Mission (Coastal Virginia), Toms Brook (Shenandoah River), and Pembroke (Valley Ridge). These charges and their superintendents are commended for their success in providing a ministry in the communities they serve that has enabled them to grow spiritually in their stewardship.

District Superintendents and charges setting salaries for 2025 that may require supplementation are advised that the “floor” must come from sources other than the Commission on Equitable Compensation.

The Conference Average Compensation (CAC) for 2025 is $69,518, which is an increase of 2.5% percent from 2024. The Commission recommends the Minimum Compensation and the Floor Schedule for 2025 be approved as outlined below:

RECOMMENDATIONS:

	2025 Proposed	2024 Approved
1. The Minimum Compensation Schedule:
a. Full Connection Pastors	$47,000	$46,000
b. Provisional and Associate Members	$42,700	$41,500
c. Local Pastors	$40,200	$39,000
2. The Floor Schedule:
a. Full Connection Pastors	$30,000	$30,000
b. Provisional and Associate Members	$27,000	$27,000
c. Local Pastors	$25,000	$25,000

The Equitable Compensation Financial Report for 2022-2023 is provided below:

Equitable Compensation Financial Report

	Year Ending 2022	Year Ending 2023
Apportioned	200,000	210,000
Uncollected Apportionment	(33,250)	(45,586)
Apportionment Income	166,750	164,414
Percent Collected	83.38%	78.29%
Grants	160,437	168,545
Total Expenses	160,437	168,545
Receipts Over (Under) Expenses	6,313	(4,131)

REPORT FROM THE JUST COMPENSATION TASK FORCE 2024

Why this Task Force was Created?

At the 2023 Virginia Annual Conference session, a lay member named Ms. Terrie Chaplin (MV) expressed genuine concern about the financial well-being of our clergy, which led the Conference to adopt the amended motion to:

“Amend the report from the Equitable Compensation Committee to increase the minimum salary by $1,000 for full-time clergy in each category for 2024.”

Out of that same concern, a motion by Rev. Dr. Janine Howard (NV) followed and was passed by the 2023 Conference to create our Task Force when she moved that: “A work group be created by the Annual Conference to study housing allowances for clergy and make recommendations to create consistent and equitable practices for setting the allowances, further suggest that conference commissions related to advocacy, Clergy Excellence/Board of Ordained Ministry, Equitable Compensation, CFA (and other as deemed necessary) be included in the study.”

The Challenge

Clergy housing allowances range greatly due to the following factors:

- Geographic location/cost of living
- Years of service
- Salary range
- Finances available within each local church
- Lack of standardization across the Conference and across districts

Our Goal

To review our current housing allowance practices and recommend a new way forward which is equitable to both local churches and clergy.

Our Work

We met seven times this past year to study all the factors that go into creating a housing allowance. Our research included housing allowances as well as the totality of clergy compensation in the Virginia Conference, focusing on years of service, age, gender, and race/ethnicity. For the purpose of statistical clarity, we primarily reviewed Full Time Elders, knowing that we also need to make sure we are not ignoring other clergy statuses in our discussions and recommendations. We also studied the policies and procedures around clergy compensation in other UMC conferences.

We also are keenly aware that our Conference has called upon us to study these concerns during a season of significant shortfall in income due to disaffiliations. Local churches are struggling financially, and creative solutions need to be well researched. On March 2, 2024, we presented our initial findings to the Board of Laity, whose input has been added to this report.

At the Board of Laity meeting, Rev. Bill Davidson (TN) (a task force member) shared the handout “Pastor Leontine” (see attachment pages 8-11) which describes the finances of a clergy person who is at the minimum salary. The Board of Laity responded that they had no idea that many pastors at minimum salaries (due to their other fiscal responsibilities as laid out within the handout) are barely getting by financially. This was an eye-opening exercise on both sides of the conversation, which speaks to why more education on clergy housing and salaries is needed for both clergy and laity.

Our Research (Outside of our Conference Comparisons):

The task force reached out to other Annual Conferences to see how they created their housing allowance policies and included the following Conferences: Baltimore-Washington Conference UMC (BWCUMC), California-Pacific Conference UMC (CALPACUMC), Western North Carolina Conference UMC (WNCCUMC), North Carolina Conference UMC (NCCUMC), and the Florida Annual Conference UMC (FLUMC).

Our Findings:

Each Annual Conference does this process differently. The Baltimore-Washington Conference and California-Pacific Conference have a set minimum number for housing. The Florida Annual Conference minimum housing allowance varies by geographic location (i.e. urban, oceanfront, and rural). In the North Carolina Conference, the following equation is followed: “Churches/charges providing a housing allowance in lieu of a parsonage should follow the Conference requirement, paying no less than 20% and not more than 40% of the Conference Average Compensation (CAC)” (“2023 Compensation and Personnel Policies for Pastors of The NC Conference of the United Methodist Church”). The Western North Carolina Conference does not set a minimum amount for housing allowances and states that “the local church shall determine how best to provide adequate housing for their pastors...in consultation with the District Superintendent” (Clergy Housing: Parsonages & Housing Allowances Guidelines & Policies Western North Carolina Conference The United Methodist Church revised 2020).

Some of these Annual Conferences include utilities (on top of housing allowances) within their equitable compensation report that local churches are required to pay, including: - Heat, water/sewer, trash pick-up, local telephone, cable and internet access (NCCUMC, CALPACUMC)

- Climate control, both heating and cooling (FLUMC)
- Travel allowance & auto expense (CALPACUMC)

Our Current Practice

In the Virginia Conference, our practice is much like the Western North Carolina Conference. As stated in The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy: “housing allowances shall be based on the fair rental value for a 3-bedroom, 1.5 bath home in the community (zip code) in which the church is located.”

Our Research (Inside the Virginia Conference UMC):

The task force looked at the data from the Virginia Conference UMC Unity database for the 2024 conference year (July 1, 2023-present) which includes the housing allowance information for clergy utilizing a housing allowance. For the purpose of these statistics we used ordained elders. Those in extension ministry, deacons, and lay supply were taken out.

Below you will find the housing allowance district statistics based off of ordained elders.

District	Elders	Reside in Parsonage	Collect Housing Allowance	Min Housing Allowance	Max Housing Allowance	Average Housing Allowance
Coastal Virginia	40	22	16	$15,000.00	$30,000.00	$22,696.91
Living Waters	18	12	5	$12,000.00	$18,000.00	$14,800.00
Mission Rivers	40	25	14	$10,800.00	$33,620.00	$20,202.14
Mountain View	14	8	5	$11,400.00	$22,200.00	$17,720.00
Northern Virginia	74	39	33	$15,000.00	$42,600.00	$30,182.30
Shenandoah River	32	11	16	$15,000.00	$36,270.00	$21,579.38
Three Notch'd	53	15	36	$12,000.00	$36,000.00	$19,799.53
Valley Ridge	28	9	15	$14,000.00	$23,000.00	$17,888.00
Total	299	141	140	$13,150.00	$30,211.25	$20,608.53

The statistics above show that there is a great range both within each district and between districts.

The task force spent a lot of time talking about whether a minimum housing allowance and maximum housing allowance would be helpful and possible to use on every district. After looking at the cost of living within and between districts, the task force did not think it was possible to find an equitable number that would work across all the districts.

A Study on Clergy Salaries

While the Just Compensation Task Force was tasked to look at clergy housing, we noticed a wide gap in housing allowances and wanted to study the effects of housing on total compensation. The housing allowance could be lowered or raised as a means of lowering or raising the overall compensation package. Our study of the salaries also showed a gap in pay between male and female clergy. The pay gap became wider between genders as we looked at racial factors. This is an area of concern that we would like to explore further.

The task force also examined housing allowances by district and found that the allowances varied widely across distracts with the varied cost of living across our large districts. Because of this, the task force decided not to recommend setting housing allowances by districts and instead moved to a contextual housing allowance model adopted by the cabinet in their “Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy” updated 2/2024, see pages 14-15).

Findings on Virginia Conference 2024 Salaries

Just as the housing allowances varied within and between districts, the task force found that salaries varied as well, due to race, ethnicity, gender, and years of service. For a full report view the “Data Analysis of Virginia Conference Clergy Compensation Trends” on pages 12-13.

Summary of Results of 2024 VAUMC Salary Study

The data reveal that the highest salaries for full elders are going to male elders, who are compensated at an average of $64,757 compared to $60,251 for female elders when we look in aggregate at all elders across ethnic groups and years of experience. As stated above, it is important to note that these data also include, in some places, very small subgroups which can create outliers.

It is clear that our Conference has significant work to do in terms of recruiting and sustaining full elders who are in the subgroups of Hispanic/Latino Male, Hispanic/Latino Female, as well as Multi-Racial Male and Female elders and African-American/Black Female elders. In the report, the cells marked #N/A are subgroups where, at various levels of experience, we are lacking full elders (see the following link: <https://vaumc.org/jctfreport2024/>).

Within the provisional status, the data are particularly telling, as they reveal subgroups where diversity is lacking amongst those in the ordination process in the Virginia Conference. These data also show disparities between men and women at various points in the provisional process in each ethnic group.

When comparing the data for full-time local pastors across years of experience, the average salary for men outpaces women $43,855 to $42,970. It is also noteworthy that the data indicate that even with 25+ years of experience, the average salary for a licensed local pastor across all ethnic groups ($45,291) falls just below the average salary for all clergy in the Conference at 5-9 years of experience ($47,792). There is a dearth of African-American/Black Female local pastors with experience above 9 years. The same is the case for Asian Female local pastors, as Asian Females who are licensed local pastors only fall into the range of 5-9 years of service. It is also important to note that the data reveal that our Conference lacks full-time local pastors who are Hispanic/Latino Females, as well as lacks Hispanic/Latino Male local pastors with service in the Conference other than those who have served in the 5-9-year range.

It is crucial to note that while these figures tell a very important story about where we are as a Conference in regard to clergy compensation, they cannot tell the complete story, as they do not reflect elements of the work of our clergy, such as effectiveness in ministry, variations in costs of living across the geographic regions of the Conference, and clergy who are limited in their ability to itinerate at various stages of their life and ministry.

In order to better understand this condensed summary, it must be accompanied by the full report which is available in the spreadsheet linked below. It is our hope that these two resources can spark holy conversations around clergy compensation in the Virginia Conference at all levels of our life together: Conference, District, and local church, and that these holy conversations will serve as touchpoints that will lead the people called United Methodists in the Virginia Conference to compensation for all of our clergy shepherds that is fair, equitable, and just.

Collaboration between the Cabinet and the Task Force

The Cabinet will annually review “The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy” and has worked in collaboration with the Just Compensation Task Force to make the following updates and additions (see pages 14-15 highlighted items). The main changes and additions include the following:

- Clergy couples: when it comes to housing allowances, clergy couples are now treated individually. For instance, our current policy now states that even if a parsonage is provided by one church, “the other church will provide a full allowance” to the other member of the clergy couple (“The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy”). It also states: “If both appointments provide a housing allowance, each church provides a full housing allowance to both appointed pastors.”

- Accessibility needs: in order to support pastors and their family who may have accessibility needs, the following statement was added to the policy: “If a parsonage is not accessible for persons with disabilities and the pastor or pastoral family requires accessible housing, either the parsonage shall be made appropriately accessible or a housing allowance shall be paid” (“The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy”).

- “The Virginia Conference Annual Housing Review Worksheet” was created by the Task Force and passed by the Cabinet for churches to use as they calculate housing allowances (see pages 16-17) and what is highlighted in “The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy” bullet number three). This fillable worksheet helps churches calculate just and equitable housing for their pastors and includes calculating the fair rental value of five homes in the same zip code where the church is located. It then eliminates the highest and lowest outliers. Finally, it adds the annual cost of heat and air conditioning.

Collaboration with the Equitable Compensation Commission

In conjunction with our work, the Equitable Compensation Commission also established long term goals for the setting of the minimum salary (see their report within The Book of Reports), which includes projecting minimum salaries for the next five years. This projection will be helpful to both pastors and local churches as they plan for the future.

Our Recommendations:

1. Most notably our task force created a new “Virginia Conference Annual Housing Review Worksheet” (see pages 16-17) to be used by Staff Parish Relations Committees in consultation with their District Superintendent to calculate clergy housing allowance. This worksheet is now being phased in to be used as part of “The Virginia Annual Conference Clergy Housing Policy.”

As the Cabinet Clergy Housing Policy states: housing “shall be based on the fair rental value of 3- bedroom, 1.5 bath home in the community in which the church is located.” In setting the housing allowance, there should be a comparison of five homes that meet the above defined criteria identified by a realtor (or other appropriate professional) within the same zip code in which the church is located. This worksheet also adds in the utility cost of heat and air conditioning.

2. Our task force is dedicated to increasing education around clergy compensation issues. To that end, we are working with the Office of Clergy Excellence, the Board of Ordained Ministry, the Office of Pensions and Benefits, and other willing partners to prepare and offer resources for clergy and laity on the following topics:
 - a) Unique clergy tax regulations and maximizing clergy tax benefits
 - b) Clergy debt reduction and financial wellness
3. Given the scope of the perceived needs and injustices around clergy compensation in the Virginia Conference, it is essential that this work continue to determine what additional variables might contribute to just, equitable, and adequate clergy compensation for all.

We recommend that:

The Just Compensation Task Force continue its work for another year to study clergy compensation in the Virginia Conference in its totality and present its findings and recommendations pertaining to this topic to the 2025 Virginia Annual Conference.

Topics that the task force would study include, but will not be limited to, the following: - Salary statistics including documented inequities with regard to clergy status, district, gender, race, ethnicity, years of service.

- Minimum parsonage standards.

In conclusion, our data confirm that the Conference’s concern regarding these issues is well-founded. The 2023 Annual Conference decision to increase the minimum salary recommendation and the recent actions of the Cabinet and the Equitable Compensation Committee are significant first steps in addressing these issues of justice, adequacy, and equity. We are confident that further research will reveal additional strategies.

We seek your assistance in identifying meaningful and creative solutions. If you or someone you know has a story to tell, suggestions to offer, comments to make, or resources to share that address these concerns of the Conference, please email the chair, Rev. Jessie Colwell at jessiecolwell@vaumc.org or use this QR code.

VIRGINIA UNITED METHODIST PENSIONS, INC.

Section I: Reports

■ Report 1: Role & Responsibilities of Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc.

The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church directs each annual conference to establish a conference board of pension, auxiliary to Wespeth Benefits and Investments (Wespeth), to have charge of the interests and work of providing for and contributing to the support, relief, assistance, and pensioning of clergy and their families, other church workers, and lay employees of the United Methodist Church, its institutions, organizations, and agencies within each annual conference except as otherwise provided for by Wespeth.

On June 22, 1965, the Virginia Annual Conference (VAUMC) established and incorporated the Virginia Methodist Pensions, Incorporation, (subsequently renamed on February 2, 1971 to Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc., or “VUMPI,”) as its conference board of pension.

VUMPI, in conjunction with Wespeth, develops and administers the numerous employee pension and benefit plans sponsored by the Virginia Conference. Some plans are employer-paid, while others are voluntary and 100 percent participant-paid:

VUMPI Plans

■ Report 2: Virginia Conference-Sponsored Health Plans

VUMPI administers health plans for full time clergy of the Virginia Conference, as well as retired clergy who meet eligibility requirements based on years of ministry in the Virginia Conference. Details of the Conference-sponsored health plans follow:

Active Clergy Health Plans

Health plans recommended to be made available in 2025 are unchanged from the plans offered in 2024. Health plans available to clergy serving in full time appointments in the Virginia Conference include the following:

- PPO Core: $1,000 individual deductible, $2,500 family deductible, 20% coinsurance
- PPO Buy-Up: $750 individual deductible, $1,875 family deductible, and 20% coinsurance
- HSA plan: a plan with a higher deductible ($2,250 individual, $4,500 family) as required by Internal Revenue Service rules for HSAs, a Conference contribution to the Health Savings Account ($750 for individual tier enrollees, $1,500 for all other tier enrollees), 20% coinsurance

A fourth PPO health plan with a $500 deductible, which is made available only to clergy on medical leave with CPP disability benefits and surviving spouses and children of clergy, will continue to be offered in 2025 with no plan design changes.

The vision plan will continue to be offered in 2025, with no changes in the plan design.

The two dental plan options currently administered by VUMPI will also continue to be offered in 2025 with no plan design changes.

The majority of the cost of the health plans made available to Virginia Conference clergy is funded through a Conference apportionment, as described in Recommendation 1. The remainder of the cost of the plans is funded by participant contributions, as described in Recommendation 2.

Retired Clergy Health Plans

VUMPI administers health plans for eligible retired clergy of the Virginia Conference. The eligibility requirements include a minimum of ten years of full time ministry in either Virginia Conference church appointments or Extension Ministry appointments with enrollment in the Conference-sponsored health plans.

Plans made available to eligible retirees are coordinated with Medicare eligibility. Specific plans for retirees who are not yet eligible for Medicare and the program for Medicare-eligible clergy are described below:

Conference-sponsored health plan for pre-Medicare-eligible retirees: retirees who are eligible to enroll in the Conference-sponsored retired clergy health plan but who are not yet eligible to enroll in Medicare may enroll in the self funded PPO Core or PPO Buy-Up plans administered by VUMPI. Pre-Medicare-eligible retirees may also enroll in the self funded dental insurance program and the fully insured vision program made available to active clergy. The majority of the cost of the health plans made available to Virginia Conference clergy is funded through a Conference apportionment, as described in Recommendation 1. The remainder of the cost of the plans is funded by participant contributions, as described in Recommendation 2.

Conference-sponsored health plan for Medicare-eligible retirees: retirees who are eligible to enroll in the Conference-sponsored retired clergy health plan and who are also enrolled in Medicare have two options for retiree medical coverage.

The first option is the Group Plan, which is a group Medicare Advantage plan created specifically for Virginia Conference retirees. The Group Plan integrates the retiree's Medicare benefit and includes prescription drug coverage. The majority of the cost of the Group Plan is funded through a Conference apportionment, as described in Recommendation 1. The remainder of the cost of the plans is funded by participant contributions, as described in Recommendation 2.

The second option made available to eligible retirees who are enrolled in Medicare is the Connector option. Under the Connector option, Medicare-eligible retirees are able to select any Medicare Supplement plan or Medicare Advantage plan, and any Part D prescription drug plan, offered by United Healthcare. The Conference will provide funding through a Retiree Reimbursement Account ("RRA"), and those funds can be used to partially or fully offset the cost of the coverage elected through the Connector option. The RRA funding made available to retirees who elect coverage through the Connector option is funded through a Conference apportionment, as described in Recommendation 1. The remainder of the cost of the elected health plan coverage, if any, is paid by the retiree directly to United Healthcare.

■ Report 3: Pension Plan Structure

There are four components to the Clergy Retirement Security Program (CRSP):

- A. Ministers Reserve Pension Fund (Pre-82) for service and benefits accrued on and/or prior to December 31, 1981.
- B. Ministerial Pension Plan (MPP) for service and benefits accrued on and/or after January 1, 1982 through December 31, 2006.
- C. Clergy Retirement Security Program - Defined Benefit Plan (CRSP-DB) for service and benefits accrued on and/or after January 1, 2007.
- D. Clergy Retirement Security Program - Defined Contribution Plan (CRSP-DC) for service and benefits accrued on and/or after January 1, 2007.

Wespath refers to plans A – C above as defined benefit ("DB") pension plans. That is, each year an eligible clergy member of the Virginia Conference served/serves and received/receives pension credit, the applicable plan will pay a certain benefit, or "defined" monthly income during retirement. Hence, the term "defined benefit." Defined benefit plans do not maintain participant account balances since the employer, or in our case, Wespath, has the responsibility to manage the funds in a manner sufficient to pay the monthly defined benefit.

Simultaneous to Wespath calculating each participant's defined benefit, it calculates each annual conference's cost to provide these defined benefits. Wespath bills each annual conference the amount due. Each annual conference, or in our case, VUMPI, then bills our local churches for the cost of these plans.

In addition to these defined benefit plans, annual conferences provide their clergy pension benefits from the CRSP-DC, a defined contribution ("DC") plan. Each year an eligible clergy member of the Virginia Conference serves and receives pension credit, the Virginia Conference determines how much pension contribution each clergy participant will receive in his/her pension account. VUMPI bills local churches for the required amount of pension contribution, then makes monthly contributions into the clergy CRSP-DC accounts.

■ Report 4: Welfare Plans Structure

The welfare plans made available to Virginia Conference clergy include the Comprehensive Protection Plan ("CPP") sponsored by Wespath, as well as supplemental benefits sponsored independently by VUMPI.

The CPP disability benefits are as follows:

- For Clergy disabled on or after Jan. 1, 2002, the CPP disability benefit equals 70 percent of Plan Compensation, with compensation capped at 200 percent of the DAC.
- For Clergy disabled prior to Jan. 1, 2002, they will continue to receive the same CPP disability benefit per the plan document in-force at the time their disability claim originated.

The following generally describes the death benefit amounts payable under the CPP to eligible participants and their beneficiaries:

Active Participant Death Benefits: payable upon the death of an eligible active CPP participant, as follows:

- Participant: $50,000, payable in 12 monthly installments or one lump sum
- Spouse of active participant: 20% of the Denominational Average Compensation ("DAC") in the year of death
- Surviving spouse of active participant: 15% of DAC in the year of death
- Child of active participant: 10% of DAC in the year of death
- Annual surviving spouse annuity benefit of 20% of DAC, less the annuity benefit payable from CRSP and other Church-related sources
- Annual surviving child benefit of 10% of DAC, payable in 12 monthly installments (for those age 17 and younger; benefits are paid through the month in which the child attains age 18)
- Annual surviving child educational benefit up to 20% of DAC, payable in equal installments (for those age 18 through 24 and attending school full-time)

Retired Participant Death Benefits: to be eligible for death benefits in retirement, a clergyperson must have been covered in CPP for a specified number of years. The 2012 General Conference approved a change to the CPP program which increases the length of service requirement for retirees. Retirees with 25 or more years of enrollment in CPP are eligible for the death benefits in retirement, and the eligibility criteria for those with fewer than 25 years in CPP was phased in with one-year increments, as detailed in the table below:

Retirement Year	CPP Enrollment Requirement for Death Benefit Eligibility
2013	6 of last 10 years
2014	7 of last 10 years
2015	8 of last 11 years
2016	9 of last 12 years
2017	10 of last 13 years
2018	11 of last 14 years
2019+	12 of last 15 years

The death benefit amounts associated with retired participants are detailed in the table below:

Plan Provision	Clergy Who Retired Before Jan. 1, 2013	Clergy Who Retire Jan. 1, 2013 or Later
Death of retired participant	30% of DAC in the year of death	$21,400
Death of retiree's spouse	20% of DAC in the year of death	$16,100
Death of retiree's surviving spouse	15% of DAC in the year of death	$10,800
Death of retiree's child	10% of DAC in the year of death	$8,600
Annual surviving child benefit, payable in 12 monthly installments	10% of DAC	10% of DAC
Annual surviving child educational benefit, payable in installments	20% of DAC	20% of DAC

The Conference Supplemental Death Benefit for active eligible clergy under episcopal appointment, and who are enrolled in CPP, is $25,000. The Conference Supplemental Death Benefit is payable in addition to the CPP death benefit. During retirement, a $5,000 Conference Supplemental Death Benefit will be payable to CPP participants, in addition to the CPP death benefit. The beneficiary will receive the Conference Supplemental Death Benefit payable in one lump sum.

In combination, the CPP and Conference Supplemental Death Benefit provide total death benefits as follows:

- $75,000 to beneficiaries of active clergy participants
- $26,400 (or 30% of the DAC for clergy who retired prior to January 1, 2013 + $5,000) to beneficiaries of retired clergy participants

Gift Benefit

VUMPI currently elects to provide a one time $1,500 gift at the time of retirement or disability (once awarded disability benefits under the Comprehensive Protection Plan) to each clergyperson who has served at least ten years of service in a full-time Virginia Annual Conference episcopal appointment in the Virginia Conference with pension credit. Further, a gift to the family of each clergyperson meeting the eligibility criteria above who dies in active service is paid in the same amount as the gift to retired or disabled clergypersons.

■ Report 5: Denominational Average Compensation

Several of the pension and welfare plans incorporate the Denominational Average Compensation (“DAC”) into the formula for determining the plan benefit. The formula VUMPI uses for funding those plans relies on the DAC, as well.

As reported by Wespeth, the DAC is projected to increase from 2024 to 2025 as follows:

Denominational Average Compensation
2024	2025
$78,292	$80,297

Section II: Recommendations for Annual Conference Approval

■ Recommendation 1: 2025 Clergy Benefits Apportionment Recommendations

For 2025, VUMPI recommends total Clergy Benefits Apportionments of $14,400,000. This represents a ten percent reduction from the 2024 clergy benefits apportionments. This reduction was enabled by the combination of lower than projected health plan cost trends and a decline in health plan enrollment. The total benefits apportionment amount includes funding for the Active Clergy Health Plan (which includes health care coverage for eligible clergy on medical leave and widowed spouses of active clergy) and the Retired Clergy Health Plan. The apportionment total is allocated between these components as follows:

Clergy Benefits Apportionment Recommendations - 2025
Active Clergy Health	$ 9,000,000
Retired Clergy Health	5,400,000
TOTAL CLERGY BENEFIT APPORTIONMENTS	$ 14,400,000

VUMPI recommends the above Active Clergy Health and Retired Clergy Health apportionments as part of its broad strategy focused on maintaining adequate health plans for Virginia Conference active and retired clergy, while moderating the financial impact on local churches and individual participants to the extent possible.

VUMPI makes the Conference-sponsored health plans available to clergy serving in Conference-related extension ministries that do not pay apportionments. For clergy appointed to such extension ministries who are enrolled in the health plans in 2025, VUMPI will bill the Conference Health Plan Fee. The amount billed will be $988 per month for each enrolled clergyperson, plus their applicable Participant Contributions for active clergy as noted in Recommendation 2: 2025 Participant Contribution Recommendations.

■ Recommendation 2: 2025 Health Plan Participant Contribution Recommendations

In administering the Conference-sponsored self-insured health plans, an element of VUMPI's strategy is to maintain plans that are similar to national average employer-sponsored health plans. In addition, VUMPI recommends participant contributions that are similar, as a percentage of the total health plan cost, to national employer-sponsored plan averages. For 2025, VUMPI is recommending no changes from 2024 in health plan contributions across all medical, dental and vision plan options.

Following are the 2025 participant contribution recommendations for the Conference-sponsored health plans:

Active Clergy:

	Medical Plans			Dental Plans
	PPO Core	PPO Buy-Up	HSA	Core	Major
Clergyperson Only	$109	$144	$84	$13	$34
Clergyperson + Spouse	$330	$387	$276	$49	$98
Clergyperson + Child(ren)	$334	$394	$282	$51	$100
Family	$349	$428	$294	$60	$109

Note: active clergy have the opportunity to earn a $15 reduction in the monthly participant contribution through participation in the Virginia Conference wellness program. Clergy spouses who are enrolled in the Conference health plans can also receive a $15 reduction in the monthly participant contribution, for a total potential monthly reduction of $30 in a non-individual coverage tier

Clergy on Voluntary Leave, Sabbatical, or Retired Under ¶358.2.a (With Twenty Years of Service) or ¶358.3 (Prior to Age 62 With Fewer Than Thirty Years of Service):

	Medical Plans		Dental Plans
	PPO Core	PPO Buy-Up	Core	Major
Clergyperson Only	$668	$774	$31	$60
Clergyperson + Spouse	$1,487	$1,659	$51	$124
Clergyperson + Child(ren)	$1,611	$1,797	$53	$126
Family	$2,075	$2,315	$64	$137

Clergy on Medical Leave with CPP Benefits & Under Age 65 Surviving Spouses of Clergy

	Medical Plans	Dental Plans
	PPO ($500 deductible)	Core	Major
Clergyperson Only	$118	$13	$34
Clergyperson + Spouse	$180	$49	$98
Clergyperson + Child(ren)	$183	$51	$100
Family	$194	$60	$109

Retired Clergy Under Age 65 – Retired Under ¶358.1, ¶358.2b, ¶358.2c, or ¶358.3

Years of Qualifying Virginia Conference Service	PPO Core		PPO Buy-up
	Retiree Only	Family	Retiree Only	Family
10-14	$688	$1,714	$797	$2,096
15-19	$608	$1,387	$744	$1,697
20-24	$465	$1,062	$569	$1,298
25-29	$322	$735	$394	$898

Years of Qualifying Virginia Conference Service	Dental Core		Dental Major
	Retiree Only	Family	Retiree Only	Family
10-14	$31	$58	$60	$131
15-19	$31	$58	$60	$131
20-24	$31	$58	$60	$131
25-29	$31	$58	$60	$131
30+	$31	$58	$60	$131

Optional Voluntary Vision Benefit Plan for Clergy and Lay Employees Enrolled in a Conference-sponsored Anthem Medical Plan

	Vision
Employee Only	$8.34
Employee + Spouse	$15.05
Employee + Child(ren)	$15.05
Family	$24.19

Retired Clergy Age 65 or Over – Retired Under ¶358.1, ¶358.2b, ¶358.2c, or ¶358.3

Under the Conference-sponsored medical plan for Medicare-eligible retirees of the Virginia Conference, there will continue to be two coverage options, as described below.

Group Plan Option: The group plan is a group Medicare Advantage plan. The group plan has a required participant contribution based on full time years of service in the Virginia Conference. The recommended 2025 participant contributions for the group plan coverage option are as follows:

Medicare-eligible Retirees - Monthly Personal Contributions
Years of Service	Individual	Family
10-14	$394	$788
15-19	$326	$651
20-24	$257	$515
25-29	$189	$378
30+	$121	$242

Connector Option: The Connector option allows qualifying clergy to select any available Medicare Supplement or Medicare Advantage plan, and any Part D prescription drug plan, offered by United Healthcare. Retirees electing coverage through this option receive Retiree Reimbursement Account (“RRA”) funding, which can be used to offset the cost of the selected coverage. VUMPI recommends 2025 monthly RRA funding based on qualifying years of Virginia Conference service as follows:

Connector Option - Monthly RRA Funding
Years of Service	Retiree Only	Retiree and Spouse
20-24	$150	$300
25-29	$200	$400
30+	$250	$500

The monthly RRA funding amounts will be prorated for qualifying retirees and/or spouses of qualifying retirees who gain Medicare eligibility or otherwise gain eligibility for retiree coverage within a calendar year. Any RRA funds remaining at the end of a calendar year will roll over into the subsequent year for use by the enrolled retiree and/or spouse for qualifying medical expenses.

General Virginia Conference Health Plan Information

For participants enrolled in the Anthem health plans, either as active clergy or as a retiree not yet eligible for Medicare, 2025 health plan selections will be made during the open enrollment period in the fall of 2024. If an eligible clergyperson does not elect coverage options during the annual open enrollment period, the default enrollment option is the prior year’s plan selections (except for Flexible Spending Account or Dependent Care Spending Account contributions), and enrollees will be subject to the associated individual personal contribution rates.

If not selected during the open enrollment period, no Flexible Spending Account contributions can be made during 2025, in accordance with federal laws.

All who are eligible to enroll in a Virginia Conference health plan are strongly encouraged to participate in online open enrollment in the fall of 2024.

Virginia Conference clergy members earn a year of service towards his or her Total Years of VAUMC Service as indicated in the coverage options above for each year that Virginia Annual Conference health plan eligibility is met.

Eligibility for the Conference-sponsored retiree medical plans requires a minimum of ten years of full time ministry in the Virginia Conference. Virginia Conference clergy on approved leave or serving in an Extension Ministry appointment earn credit towards retiree medical plan eligibility only if enrolled in the Conference-sponsored health plan while on leave or while serving an Extension Ministry appointment.

■ Recommendation 3: 2025 Pre-82 Pension Past Service Rate

The Pre-82 pension provides a benefit to all eligible clergy who have served in the Virginia Conference prior to 1982. This program pays the greater of the following:

- An annual benefit equal to the Past Service Rate (PSR) times years of pre-1982 service, or
- An annuity amount based upon the participant's cash balance in his or her Defined Benefit Service Money Account

The Virginia Annual Conference establishes the PSR each year. For 2025, VUMPI recommends that the PSR be increased from $611 to $626.

■ Recommendation 4: 2025 CRSP/CPP/Supplemental Plan Funding Recommendations

Clergy Retirement Security Program (CRSP)

The 2025 CRSP Contribution from the local churches and/or salary-paying-units for each appointed eligible clergy member under episcopal appointment at that location shall be:

- For the Defined Contribution component of CRSP: Plan Compensation (base salary plus housing allowance or parsonage rate in accordance with the Internal Revenue Service), times 3%.
- For the Defined Benefit component of CRSP: Plan Compensation (base salary plus housing allowance or parsonage rate in accordance with the Internal Revenue Service, up to 135% of the Denominational Average Compensation ("DAC")) times 9%.

Local churches and salary-paying units are to make their monthly CRSP payments to VUMPI.

Comprehensive Protection Plan (CPP)

The 2025 CPP contribution from the local churches and/or salary-paying-units for each appointed eligible clergy member under episcopal appointment at that location shall be:

Plan Compensation (base salary plus housing allowance or parsonage factor, up to 200% of the Denominational Average Compensation) times 4.4%.

Local churches and salary-paying units are to make their monthly CPP payments to VUMPI.

If, for any reason, CPP contributions are more than 30 days in arrears, participation in the CPP is suspended. If contributions are more than six consecutive months in arrears, participation in the CPP is terminated. For terminated participants, readmission into the CPP requires payment of seven months of contributions and submission of medical statement of good health.

Erroneously enrolled clergy who are ineligible to participate in the CPP have no right to benefits under the CPP. Eligible clergy who have not been properly enrolled in the CPP have no rights under the CPP until after proper enrollment.

■ Recommendation 5: 2025 Housing Allowance/Exclusion

Resolutions Relating to Rental/Housing Allowances for Retired, Disabled, or Former Clergypersons of the Virginia Conference

The Virginia Conference (the “Conference”) adopts the following resolutions relating to rental/housing allowances for active, retired, terminated, or disabled clergypersons of the Conference:

WHEREAS, the religious denomination known as The United Methodist Church (the “Church”), of which this Conference is a part, has in the past functioned and continues to function through ministers of the gospel (within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code section 107) who were or are duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed ministers of the Church (“Clergypersons”);

WHEREAS, the practice of the Church and of this Conference was and is to provide active Clergypersons with a parsonage or a rental/housing allowance as part of their gross compensation;

WHEREAS, pensions or other amounts paid to active, retired, terminated, and disabled Clergypersons are considered to be deferred compensation and are paid to active, retired, terminated, and disabled Clergypersons in consideration of previous active service; and

WHEREAS, the Internal Revenue Service has recognized the Conference (or its predecessors) as an appropriate organization to designate a rental/housing allowance for Clergypersons who are or were members of this Conference and are eligible to receive such deferred compensation;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:

THAT an amount equal to 100% of the pension, severance, or disability payments received from plans authorized under The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church (the “Discipline”), which includes all such payments from Wespeth Benefits and Investments, during the period January 1, 2025 through December 31, 2025 by each active, retired, terminated, or disabled Clergyperson who is or was a member of the Conference, or its predecessors, be and hereby is designated as a rental/housing allowance for each such Clergyperson; and

THAT the pension, severance, or disability payments to which this rental/housing allowance designation applies will be any pension, severance, or disability payments from plans, annuities, or funds authorized under the Discipline, including such payments from Wespeth and from a commercial annuity company that provides an annuity arising from benefits accrued under a Wespeth plan, annuity, or fund authorized under the Discipline, that result from any service a Clergyperson rendered to this Conference or that an active, a retired, a terminated, or a disabled Clergyperson of this Conference rendered to any local church, annual conference of the Church, general agency of the Church, other institution of the Church, former denomination that is now a part of the Church, or any other employer that employed the Clergyperson to perform services related to the ministry of the Church, or its predecessors, and that elected to make contributions to, or accrue a benefit under, such a plan, annuity, or fund for such an active, retired, terminated, or disabled Clergyperson’s pension, severance, or disability plan benefit as part of his or her gross compensation.

NOTE: The rental/housing allowance that may be excluded from a Clergyperson’s gross income in any year for federal (and, in most cases, state) income tax purposes is limited under Internal Revenue Code section 107(2), and regulations thereunder, to the least of: (a) the amount of the rental/housing allowance designated by the Clergyperson’s employer or other appropriate body of the Church (such as this Conference in the foregoing resolutions) for such year; (b) the amount actually expended by the Clergyperson to rent or provide a home in such year; or (c) the fair rental value of the home, including furnishings and appurtenances (such as a garage), plus the cost of utilities in such year. Each clergyperson or former clergyperson is urged to consult with his or her own tax advisor to determine what deferred compensation is eligible to be claimed as a housing allowance exclusion.

COMMON TABLE FOR CHURCH VITALITY

As the Common Table for Church Vitality continues to live out its mission “to resource mission and ministry to fulfill the conference mission and vision” and to partner with the Directors of Connectional Ministries in implementing the vision of the annual conference, the team continues to adapt to the changing landscape of church leadership.

Beginning in January 2024, Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson invited members of the Common Table, the executive committee of the Board of Ordained Ministry, and additional conference staff to meet with the Extended Cabinet monthly for the spring. These leaders have held focused conversations about the values of the annual conference, and new ways to enhance collaboration and coordination across departments and agencies within the conference.

For 2024, the Common Table has awarded $72,500 in special and sustaining grants to support local churches in ministry in their communities, and $131,000 in benevolence grants to support ministry partners beyond the local church level. The Grants Committee will anticipate coordinating their efforts with a larger initiative in the Annual Conference to simplify grant applications and ensure funding is available most readily for efforts that make large scale impact in communities around the Virginia Annual Conference.

As the annual conference has shifted to professional human resource management, the Common Table has recognized the need to rethink the role of its Personnel Committee. The Personnel Committee will continue to provide support and encouragement for staff, and will take part in the hiring of new staff, without additional responsibility related to human resource management.

The Connectional Ministries staff continues to provide support for local churches and their ministries as we live into a culture of innovation. The offices of Missional Engagement and Discipleship and Congregational Vitality continue to connect with local churches as they seek new ways of serving the Kingdom by strengthening local church ministry. Additionally, we are looking forward to working alongside the Conference Commission on Religion and Race to imagine a new office in the Annual Conference around Intersectional Justice. The Common Table is grateful for the dedication, faithfulness, creativity, and nimbleness of the Connectional Ministries staff.

Moving into the 2024-25 appointment year, the Common Table for Church Vitality will be in a space of continued discernment around the role this team is called to play in concert with other leadership entities in the Annual Conference. This is underway in an effort to ensure that local churches are served most effectively and that the Annual Conference is as collaborative in its resourcing work as possible.

BOARD OF CHURCH AND SOCIETY

The VA Conference Board has been organized following the issue areas developed by the UM Council of Bishops in their Letter to the Church (2009.) At that time in a document called “Hope and Action”, the Bishops identified 3 intertwined crises facing the world: 1. Proliferation of Violence and Weapons of Violence; 2. Pollution threatening Creation itself, and 3. Persistent Poverty and Discrimination facing people around the world. The Virginia Conference Board of Church and Society studied the Bishops’ letter, and is using this structure to organize and implement here in Virginia.

We partner with the General Board of Church and Society (GBCS) as it celebrates the 100th anniversary of the United Methodist Building on Capitol Hill in Washington DC. Two of our board members serve on the General Board. Our Co-chairs and Peace with Justice Coordinator meet regularly with staff of the GBCS, also.

Another partner of the Conference Board is United Women in Faith (Formerly United Methodist Women.) We join them in leading the annual United Methodist Day at the General Assembly to educate both our members and the elected members of the General Assembly.

We anticipate many changes in Social Principles after the upcoming General Conference in Charlotte NC. We are organizing our luncheon at the Annual Conference this year to be a report on the changes in Church and Society policies determined at the General Conference. We are inviting Virginia delegates serving on the relevant General Conference committees to be our luncheon speakers.

Please read carefully the following brief reports from our committees. We appreciate their work and that of the Staff who assist us- the Rev. JoAnne Batteiger and Rev. Amanda Garber.

Peace & Non-Violence (P&NV) Committee | Kenn Speicher, Chair

Our faith calls us to model our lives on the Prince of Peace. The P&NV team supports initiatives and equips congregations to work for peace and end violence in our communities, country, and world. Following the Book of Discipline, we have selected the following priorities for our activities: Gun Violence Prevention, Refugee & Immigrant Response, and Peace in Israel and Palestine. Among our activities this year, we engaged United Methodists across the Conference to help end gun violence and worked with the Virginia Interfaith Center for Public Policy to support the common sense gun safety legislation introduced in the General Assembly. P&NV also took on the mission of the Refugee Response Team, supporting a Veterans Day fundraising campaign for FAMIL, which provides prosthetics for financially struggling Afghan allies in Virginia, and advocated for legislation to provide a licensing pathway for qualified refugee doctors to practice medicine in Virginia.

Goals for the year ahead: P&NV will continue to advocate for gun violence prevention (GVP) legislation, connect congregations with faith-based and other GVP resources and information, and organize a conference-wide GVP training event in conjunction with the UMC General Board of Church & Society.

Virginia United Methodists are encouraged to join our GVP Work Group. Following the Bible’s call to welcome the stranger, P&NV will share information and resources with congregations about forced migrants: how to welcome and assist them in finding better lives and becoming contributing members of their new communities. There are many opportunities for sponsoring refugee families and volunteering to assist with resettlement.

P&NV will also support peace and humanitarian efforts in Palestine-Israel and Ukraine. While we agree that those guilty of war crimes and atrocities be brought to justice, we encourage our congregations to learn about and support efforts to bring food and other humanitarian aid to civilians trapped in the conflict.

Finally, we will update the P&NV section of the Conference website to reflect our priorities and share resources and information with congregations. For information, please contact P&NV Chair, Kenn Speicher.

Peace With Justice Special Sunday and Grant Program

Our Social Principles call us to love our enemies, seek justice, and serve as reconcilers of conflict. This is why United Methodists celebrate Peace with Justice Sunday with a special offering on the First Sunday after Pentecost. 50 % of the received offering supports programs and ministries to educate, equip and mobilize networks to work for peace, resolve conflicts, and end violence in our Conference and 50% supports ministries through the General Board of Church and Society.

Grants. Congregations, conferences, and other UMC groups can apply for both Virginia Annual Conference and General Board of Church and Society Peace With Justice grants. Typical grant awards have supported: 1) a community experience event in the West Ohio Conference to improve services and support for people reentering society from incarceration, 2) expenses for a Susquehanna Conference group receiving gun violence prevention advocacy training with GBCS in Washington, DC, 3) meeting urgent needs of newly arriving refugee families in the Virginia Conference, and 4) Community Legal Clinics for low-income immigrants through Justice for Our Neighbors in the North and Central Texas Conferences. For information, please contact VAUMC Peace With Justice Coordinator, Kenn Speicher.

Creation Justice Committee | Brian Christoffersen, Chair

The Conference Creation Justice team is excited about the many opportunities God has provided for us to celebrate, educate, and advocate the beauty and integrity of all of God's creation over this past year.

In 2023, at Annual Conference, we awarded the Green Church Awards and Sustaining Green Church Awards to five congregations. We hosted the Church and Society Luncheon at Annual Conference (Roanoke) focusing on climate and racial justice. Additionally a prayer walk was held near the Mountain Valley Pipeline (MVP) We founded the Northern Virginia District Green Team and reached out to other Districts to help establish district teams. We have continued the work assigned to us by the Annual Conference to develop green churches across the Conference and we are working to develop Green Teams for each District. We have also continued our assigned work on fracking and are partnering with Mt Olivet-Newport in Giles County to oppose the Mountain Valley Pipeline which is cutting through the mountains of West Virginia and Virginia to deliver fracked gas to overseas markets, ignoring the destruction being wrought here in Virginia.

The Creation Justice Committee held the first-ever webinar, From Energy Efficiency to Energy Justice to educate the Conference to demonstrate how faith communities can be part of the clean energy transition and work for climate justice from their congregations to their capitols. At this event, Faith Harris, Executive Director Virginia Interfaith Power and Light, Joshua Long, Congregational Organizer, DC. MD. NoVA Interfaith Power and Light, and Scott Peterson, Board Chair & Acting Executive Director of Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions spoke. Plans are to hold additional webinar opportunities in 2024 on topics such as: 1. Becoming an Advocate for Creation Justice 2. Greening the Conference and Your Congregation and 3. From Environmental Racism to Environmental Justice.

The Creation Justice Committee participated in listening sessions with Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson and continued conversations with Conference staff regarding hosting a Conference wide event on the intersectionality of Climate Justice and Racial Justice with Boards and Agencies who are stakeholders. The Rev. Dr. Kip Bernard Banks, Sr. framed our discussion at the November meeting. (Rev. Banks is the Senior Pastor of the East Washington Heights Baptist Church of Washington, DC; working to build up an intergenerational family of disciples who love God, love neighbors, and work to transform the community with the Gospel of Christ. He is the past General Secretary of the Progressive National Baptist Churches (the denomination founded by Martin Luther King, Jr. Rev. Banks also serves on the board of Wesley Seminary and teaches a course on environmental racism.)

We are partnering with the United Methodist Creation Justice Network to have a presence at the General Conference in Charlotte, NC. with VA delegates and volunteers.

Poverty and Human Rights Committee | Rev. Daniel Wray, Chair

The work of the Poverty and Human Rights Committee can be seen as a large umbrella with many different needs that fall under its purview. These needs include work on poverty throughout our commonwealth as well as issues of discrimination of all sorts. Guided by our United Methodist Social Principles we seek to address these needs through equipping laity and clergy with education, resources, and advocacy.

The 2024 focus of our committee is the housing crisis in Virginia. This includes both affordable housing and homelessness. (The statistics in Virginia are staggering. On any given night 6000 people go homeless in our commonwealth. It takes 2.1 people working at minimum wage to afford the average priced one-bedroom apartment in Virginia.) While our work is in its infancy, our committee is gathering resources, educational material, and opportunities for advocacy to better equip the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church and its local churches to respond to the growing crisis. We participated in the 2024 United Methodist Day at the General Assembly and met with our Commonwealth Delegates and Senators to advocate for solutions to housing problems in Virginia.

THE CHURCH DEVELOPMENT TEAM

The Church Development Team (CDT) continues in its mission to fulfill the All Things New vision of the Virginia Annual Conference. Using Conference resources, CDT provides grants, guidance, and accountability to new faith communities and supports leadership opportunities that disciple more people, more young people, and more diverse people for Jesus Christ in Virginia United Methodism.

During the Annual Conference of 2008 members voted to begin 250 new faith communities in 30 years. While we are not on track to establish 250 new faith communities by 2036, to date we have begun 59. Of these, 76 percent are still open. This is above the overall denominational average. Additionally, 25 of these are ethnic new faith communities that have a robust record of vitality and growth in the Virginia Conference, and our three newest faith communities aim to be multicultural.

CDT is supporting Crossroads (NV), and Good Shepherd (TN) with Leadership Grants. CDT is supporting St. Andrews Korean Congregation (TN) with a new faith community grant. Crossroads will be establishing a staff position to help their congregation engage in service opportunities in their community, and create a curriculum to engage those in service in discipleship. We look forward to learning from their experience. Good Shepherd is partnering with Anthem and Open Table in providing community and a living environment for young adults aging out of foster care.

This year CDT is continuing to embrace Ministry Incubators as a way to foster innovation in our conference. We will be partnering with Ministry Incubators to journey year-long with churches through innovative projects.

Rev. Michelle Matthews undertook a huge project of interviewing and compiling a Lessons Learned from church plants that have been a part of All Things New. A huge thank you to Michelle and others on CDT who helped interview pastors, as well as thanks to church planters and 2nd pastors for their honesty. We have already begun to implement the lessons learned and have plans to update our matrix in the coming year for both new faith communities and leadership grants.

I want to thank the talented and gifted clergy and laity who serve on CDT. Their experiences and passion for church development will continue to bear fruit in the Virginia Conference. Additionally, I want to thank our Conference staff person, Rev. Dr. Jonathan Page, Director of Connectional Ministries for Innovation and Creativity. Jonathan's abilities, passion and creative thinking serve CDT well. We are also excited that Rev. Amanda Garber, Director of Missional Engagement, brings her church planting experience to the Annual Conference staff and to the work of CDT. Finally, I want to thank all the local churches in the Conference. Apportionments paid through the sacrifices of local United Methodists provides the funding that makes great things happen with Church Development in Virginia.

—Stephanie Kimec Parker, Chair

THE BOARD OF COMMUNICATIONS

In 2023, the Board of Communications strived to find new ways to resource the churches in the Annual Conference as both the conference Communications Office and the Board work together to communicate news, information, and most importantly The Gospel. Together we continue to envision new ways church leaders can connect and communicate with their communities. Last year we partnered with T-Mobile, to offer affordable 5G Business Internet and equipment to churches around the conference. This helped many churches have internet and wireless access they may not otherwise have had access to.

We continue to work with T-Mobile and Verizon to offer expanded wireless internet access for rural churches and communicate information on how VAUMC churches can access these services. The churches across the Conference are communication hubs that convey news and information to members in the local community. Internet access helps pastors and leaders in churches receive information and pass it along, and it also gives reciprocal communication.

As a follow up to our 2023 Communications Webinar for small, rural church communications, the Board offered two webinar opportunities that focused on Digital Communications and Church Websites in February 2024. Both webinars are archived on the Virginia Conference YouTube Channel. We enjoy continuing to offer these webinar opportunities to develop a communications knowledge base around the Annual Conference. If you have ideas about future educational topics, please reach out to our Conference Communications staff.

Another area of growth we look at is a greater connection with the communication needs of our churches. The conference Communications Office sent out a survey in February 2024, to address communication needs across the Conference. The staff will use this data to identify areas for improvement and make necessary changes to the conference website and other communication channels.

The Board also continues to build out the Communications Resource page to have offers and help for local churches. You can find that page by going to <https://vaumc.org/communications/>. On that page you will see a help form where you can request information about specific communication needs for your church and information about our Conference Communications Staff and Board. You can also go to, <https://vaumc.org/communications-resources/>, for several resources to help you as well.

Know that this Board is always trying to discern ways to aid and resource the Annual Conference and churches for communication. Come by and visit the Communications display table during lunch to meet with some board members and communicators in the Conference or reach out if you have questions.

—Andrew Ware, President

BOARD OF DISCIPLESHIP

This year the Board of Discipleship has continued its work of ‘transplanting’ itself into more fertile settings so that it can best provide resources and training to local churches as they join Jesus in the making of disciples for the transformation of the world. As a part of our being transplanted, our teams continue to till the soil; the Operations Team under the skillful leadership of Susan Schall has led a workshop for the entire board on the Six Types of Working Geniuses, the Education Team is preparing coursework for this summer’s Lay Servant Academy, our Awards Team continues to seek nominees for the Denman and One Matters Awards, the Evangelist Team is working on standards for the position of what is called by the Discipline a General Evangelist, the Communications Team continues to effectively create and maintain avenues for the dissemination of information with both the BOD’s teams and our local churches through our board’s website. We have also renamed our Regional Planters Team to Regional Cultivators.

CONFERENCE MISSIONAL MINISTRIES BOARD

General:

The Missional Ministries Board (MMB) invites local churches to be part of God's mission through our connectional system. In order to cover all dimensions of our Acts 1:8 mission, whether in the local community, beyond the community, or the global community, the MMB operates using the following three teams – Missional Discipleship and Engagement, Missional Connection, and Partnerships of Hope. The MMB endeavors to connect people called to serve with those in need.

When I'm asked if the MMB has been involved in fruitful ministry during the 2023-24 conference year, my answer is a resounding "YES"! Our local churches and districts are missionally engaged within their communities, our districts, our Virginia Conference, the Southeast Jurisdiction, and the world - all to the glory of God! Needless to say, we are in a time of some uncertainty; however, it's also a time of great opportunity - Bishop Sue has a missional heart, our Connectional Ministries staff has been reorganized, and our Missional Engagement Office is open to what lies ahead!

For the 2024-25 conference year, the MMB's near-term focus will center on the following:

- ❖ Continue to support our missional partnerships
- ❖ Continue to plan for greater district and denominational mission impact
- ❖ Continue to assess the missional needs within our communities, districts, conference, and world
- ❖ Go forth in missional ministry to the glory of God

Missional Discipleship and Engagement Team:

This team includes the following committees – Health & Welfare, Immigration Outreach, Mission Encounter, UMCOR/Disaster Response, UMMVIM, and United Women in Faith (UWIF).

2023-24 conference year highlights include United Methodist Volunteers in Mission (UMVIM) leader training; Refugee responses; In-person and hybrid Mission Encounter offerings (spring for youth, summer for adults to include a Korean offering and children, and fall for Spanish speakers; Humanitarian relief and recovery; Early Response Team (ERT) certification training; and "Praying for & Celebrating" Ukrainian and Russian churches.

Missional Connection Team: (Advance Special List for 2024 at end of this report)

This team includes the following committees – Advance Specials & Initiatives, Conference Secretary of Global Ministries, District & Local Church Influence, and Missionary Personnel.

During the 2023-2024 conference year, the Missional Engagement Office gave thanks for the ministry of Rev. Seungsoo "RJ" Jun as he completed his time in office and moved back into the local church. The office welcomed both Rev. Jo Ann Batteiger and Rev. Amanda Miller-Garber as the Assistant Director and Director of Missional Engagement, respectively. This year has been full of listening, learning, and discerning where God is calling local churches and extension ministries within the Virginia Conference to best serve and be in relationship with their communities, as relationships are central to the work of mission. The Missional Engagement Office looks forward to being co-laborers in the vineyard with the conference to further bring God's kingdom into present reality.

Partnerships of Hope Team:

This team includes the following committees – In Mission Together, Missionary Itineration, POH Brazil, POH Cambodia, POH Haiti, POH Mozambique, POH Native American, and POH Vietnam.

During the 2023-24 conference year, Partnerships of Hope (POH), the Overseas Mission Committee of the Virginia Conference, went through a leadership transition. Rev. Seungsoo 'RJ' Jun followed the leadership of Rev. Dr. Clarence Brown to facilitate the overseas mission effort of the conference. Currently, POH continues to partner with overseas mission projects through their six team leaders and members of the MMB board.

First, the team would like to thank the support from the Virginia Conference for designating POH as one of the recipients of the Annual Conference Offering. We also want to thank the support from the churches around the conference, which established covenantal relationships with GBGM missionaries and projects. The insurmountable need requires collaborative work for all our churches to be part of the mission to reach people to the ‘end of the world’ (Acts 1:8).

For the conference to continue our effort to engage and support overseas missions, we ask you to keep the six partner countries in your prayers. We also invite you to be part of the Special Sunday for Partnerships of Hope in September as we continue to invite churches to be part of the overarching mission. If you have a mission country that requires collaborative support, please do not hesitate to contact the team members at poh@vaumc.org. We are blessed to be in partnership with the Virginia Conference. For more information, please visit www.vaumc.org/poh

Ministries and stories from the past year:

Brazil: The POH Brazil Team is in search of a leader to become a liaison between mission partners in Brazil and the Virginia Conference. Please contact Rev. Seungsoo ‘RJ’ Jun, seungsoojun@vaumc.org if you would like to nominate or serve in this position.

Cambodia: The Cambodia Team of Partnerships of Hope has continued to promote our long-standing relationship with the Methodist Church of Cambodia. Our team had a great loss this past year with the passing of Juanita Csontos. Juanita was the driving force for the Virginia Conference relationship with Cambodia as the Cambodia Team coordinator and primary liaison with the Methodist Church in Cambodia as it works to become an autonomous Methodist Conference in 2025. The next opportunity to participate in a Virginia UMVIM team to Cambodia will be in January of 2025 as part of a medical mission team. For information contact the office of Missional Engagement.

Haiti: The Virginia Conference has been in ministry with the Methodist Church of Haiti (Eglise Methodiste d’Haiti or EMH) since the mid-1970’s, partnering in many United Methodist Volunteers in Mission (UMVIM) church, school and clinic construction projects, supporting educational and medical programs, and providing relief in times of disaster and political turmoil.

Since Haiti was added to Partnerships of Hope in 2023, the Virginia Conference has focused on providing substantial food relief through the EMH and Food for the Poor, totaling over $30,000, which was raised through the Annual Conference offering, local church and individual gifts. As the EMH struggles to remain in faithful ministry during a time of devastating social and political turmoil, including widespread gang violence, hunger and disease, the Virginia Conference is committed to providing spiritual and material support to our Haitian brothers and sisters, praying that peace will be restored and abundant living can become a reality.

Mozambique: The Mozambique Team with Partnerships of Hope is reforming after some dormancy. If you or your congregation would like to join in ministry with Mozambique Partnerships of Hope, please contact Joel Robinette at joelrobinette@vaumc.org.

In 2023, missionary John NDay had two priorities for the Cambine Agriculture Ministry. The first priority was for expanded irrigation for the farm. The second priority was for an egg incubator. Virginia Partnerships of Hope partnered with local congregations, the New York Annual Conference, and Oklahoma Annual Conference to give $21,584 which made the first priority possible. John NDay has shared his appreciation and shared that the added water has made children and pastors happy at the Cambine schools as well as “happy crops and happy livestock on the farm!”

The Mozambique Team will consider the following ongoing projects: (1) agricultural ministry, (2) sewing ministries to train young and at-risk teenage women, (3) solar panels for parsonages so pastors may have electricity, (4) scholarships for students at Ricatla Seminary, Cambine Seminary, and Gondola Training Center, and (5) what ways congregations in the Virginia Annual Conference may fruitfully connect with Mozambique ministries.

Native American Ministries:

Boarding School Memorials – This initiative grew out of international gatherings hosted in person and online by Virginia Native American Ministries. Tribal elders and artisans are taking the lead in design and scope of this multi-media project. Rev. Larry Jent, VNAM Chair, met with Tuscarora, Mohawk, and Cayuga artists in December, 2023 to discuss next steps.

Generational Trauma – The Boarding School Experience is part of Native American generational trauma, resulting in the highest rates of suicide, addiction, and violence of any ethnic group in America. We are currently planning a July event in Virginia to address these generational wounds with hope and healing. Leadership will be diverse and international.

Vietnam: The Virginia Conference celebrates the ministries of United Methodist missionaries Rev. J. Park and T. Park based in Ho Chi Minh City. They were able to be in Virginia for our Annual Conference in 2023 and to make connections with their five supporting churches and others. Their work includes support of the Vietnamese Methodist pastors in their ministries, expanding Christian Education resources and supporting the development of new faith communities.

A visioning team plans to visit Vietnam later this year, with plans to connect the conference with the Vietnam Mission Initiative and God's mission in Vietnam. If you or your congregation feels led to partner with God's mission in Vietnam, you may contact Ann Klotz at jasnc5@gmail.com or Hieu Phan at hieuphan@vaumc.org.

PARTNERSHIP REPORTS

Heart Havens

As we reflect on the remarkable 25-year journey of Heart Havens, we are filled with profound gratitude and pride. We celebrate a quarter century; this milestone is not just a measure of time but a testament to the countless lives transformed through our commitment to empowering adults with developmental disabilities to live and thrive within their communities.

Founded on the vision of creating a world where parents have peace of mind knowing their children will be well cared for and every person with a developmental disability feels valued, included, and empowered, Heart Havens has grown from a single home in Virginia Beach into a robust network of supportive communities across Virginia. Our path has been shaped by tireless efforts, steadfast support, and a shared belief in the inherent dignity and potential of those we serve.

February 2024 heralded a new chapter in our leadership. Jennifer Boyden, our esteemed CEO of 15 years, stepped down to pursue new opportunities. Rebecca Huff, with nearly 8 years of dedicated service in program and leadership roles, assumed the role of CEO, with Mary Harvey, bringing 5 years of service, stepping in as the Chief Operations Officer. This transition is built on a foundation of mutual respect, deep understanding of our mission, and a shared history of navigating challenges, including the pandemic, with resilience and dedication.

The past year showcased significant achievements, notably the opening of the Meadowbrook location in Glen Allen and the securing of over $150,000 in grants and donations for its startup costs. Heart Havens mission grew to 8 four-bed group homes and reached a census of 29 residents. These milestones have enabled us to expand our reach, providing a nurturing environment for additional residents. Our progress reflects the generosity of our donors, volunteers, and community partners, to whom we owe our heartfelt gratitude.

Looking ahead to 2024, we are thrilled to announce the introduction of Sponsored Residential Services. This expansion of our mission offers a more personalized, family-like living experience, further supporting individuals with diverse medical and social-emotional needs. We encourage our community to explore this exciting development and consider joining us in this endeavor. For more information, please visit: <https://hearthavens.org/services/sponsored-residential-services/>

With the theme “Flourishing” guiding us into the new year, we are inspired to pursue greater growth, innovation, and community engagement. We are embarking on a strategic planning process with our Board and stakeholders as we plan for continued strategic growth. Your continued support is essential to our mission. Whether through financial contributions, volunteering, or advocacy, your involvement is pivotal in empowering individuals to lead lives of joy, dignity, and belonging.

In closing, I extend my deepest appreciation for your role in our shared journey. Together, we are setting the stage for an even more impactful future. As members of a compassionate and faith-driven community, we invite you to continue your advocacy and support for Heart Havens and the individuals we serve.

—Rebecca Huff, CEO

Pinnacle Living

Records show that leadership of the Virginia Annual Conference of The Methodist Church became interested in a “home for the aging” in the 1930s. Districts that had been part of the former Baltimore Conference had maintained a relationship with a Methodist home in Maryland and pointed out the need in Virginia. A special committee was appointed, including the Executive Committee of the Conference Board of Hospitals and Homes, to study the matter. The committee submitted its report to the 1944 Annual Conference meeting in Lynchburg, asking that Bishop William Walter Peele appoint a committee with authority to incorporate a board for the “Home for the Aged” and to seek out gifts, bequests, and offerings to support this mission.

Eighty years have passed since that Annual Conference vote. No one could have imagined at that time what senior living would be like today. Pinnacle Living continues this long-standing Wesleyan based tradition of Enriching Life's Journey for seniors by the provision of housing, healthcare, and financial security at four communities in Virginia: Hermitage Richmond, Hermitage Roanoke, Cedarfield and WindsorMeade. A keystone of our service is the Pathways to Wellness Program that focuses on ten domains of healthy living including a healthy body, creative expression, intellectual growth, and spirituality. Along with four senior living communities, Pinnacle Living manages the separate faith-based not-for-profit provider — Retired Clergy Housing Corporation — which provides independent housing for clergy with residential needs and partners with a faith-based provider for home-health and home-care services through Affirmation Home Health.

Pinnacle Living remains committed to honoring our heritage and building upon our strong foundation as we create new opportunities for adults to age faithfully and well. A few of our significant accomplishments during the past year include:

- ❖ More than 360 volunteers gave over 11, 500 hours of service to engage with residents, community outreach, and organizational support. The number of volunteers and their gifts of time continue to rebound following the pandemic. If you and/or your church would be interested in connecting with one of our communities, you can find contact information for Volunteer Coordinators on the Pinnacle Living website at <https://www.pinnacleliving.org/volunteer-coordinators>.
- ❖ Residents, community volunteers, and team members in partnership with 130 local organizations continued to do amazing work which impacted the broader community. From connections with local programs serving those who are homeless to reading programs for elementary school students, from being clinical training sites for certified nurse aide educational programs to packing backpacks for summer food programs, our residents and team members positively touched citizens of all ages and backgrounds in their localities.
- ❖ Pinnacle Living communities offered supervised internships, onsite training, and career exploration opportunities to 214 students last year, making a tremendous impact on the future workforce needed for aging services.
- ❖ Our Richmond communities — Cedarfield and Hermitage Richmond — along with the Pinnacle Living office were recognized for the seventh year in a row as one of the Top Workplaces in the large size company category in the Metro Richmond Region. The Richmond area program is sponsored by the Richmond Times Dispatch.
- ❖ WindsorMeade was named a top workplace in the midsize company category for the second year through the Hampton Roads Inside Business Top Workplaces initiative.
- ❖ Efforts continue to enhance support for those living with Alzheimer's and other dementias saw 233 new Dementia Friends made in Virginia and nine new Dementia Friends Champions trained.

A primary commitment to Pinnacle Living residents is the Samaritan Program. This program offers support to those Pinnacle Living residents who have been blessed with longevity and have outlived their financial resources. We extend our deepest appreciation to all local churches that included the Samaritan Program in your second mile giving. Each year we recognize the Virginia Conference top ten giving churches as Samaritan Award Churches. For Fiscal Year 2023, we are pleased to acknowledge the following congregations.

- ❖ Trinity UMC, Richmond, Three Notch'd District
- ❖ Reveille UMC, Three Notch'd District
- ❖ Rocky Mount UMC, Mountain View District
- ❖ New Hope UMC, Mission Rivers District
- ❖ Fairfax, Northern Virginia District
- ❖ Saint Mark's UMC, Daleville, Valley Ridge District
- ❖ Christ UMC, Newport News, Mission Rivers District
- ❖ Walker Chapel UMC, Northern Virginia District
- ❖ Gum Spring, Three Notch'd District
- ❖ Trinity, Lexington, Valley Ridge

Pinnacle Living is proud to be carrying on the tradition of advocacy and support for older adults that the Methodists of Virginia began discussing at Annual Conferences in the 1930s. We ask for your continued advocacy for the needs of older adults in your local community and across the Commonwealth. Together, as relationship partners in the mission outreach of the Virginia Conference, we can enhance health, wellness, and faithful aging for all people as we strive for a culture in which age does not define the person. Thank you for your continued trust, hard work, prayer, and generosity in support of the work of Pinnacle Living.

– Christopher P. Henderson, President and CEO
– Martha E. Stokes, Director of Church and Community Relations
– Charles W. Wickham, Director of Donor Development

2024 RECOMMENDATIONS FROM PINNACLE LIVING

We recognize these recommendations are the responsibility of the Missional Ministries Board and are traditionally included as part of the Common Table report and Council on Finance and Administration report. However, we do not want them to be forgotten.

1. The Relationship Agreement between the Virginia Annual Conference and Pinnacle Living be continued.
2. The period between Mother's Day and Father's Day be designated in support of the Pinnacle Living Samaritan Program, and each church promote an offering during this time dedicated to this purpose.

UMFS - United Methodist Family Services of Virginia

In 2023, UMFS continued to live out our mission as unwavering champions for high-risk children and families, collaborating with communities to help them reach their full potential. We serve children in foster care and children struggling with mental health and behavioral challenges through foster and adoption programs, specialized education schools, and residential mental health treatment programs. In 2023 we served 2,616 children and teens. We strive to support the entire family, helping us touch the lives of 9,160 high-risk children and family members in 113 communities across Virginia.

Since our founding in 1900, the churches of the Virginia Conference have partnered with us as advocates for high-risk children and families. Churches help recruit and support foster and adoptive families, serve as volunteers in UMFS programs, provide much-needed financial support, and donate countless gifts-in-kind. Church partners and the UMFS Auxiliary are critical resources for the children and families at UMFS.

In 2023, we celebrated the completion of the second phase of the UMFS Be a Champion capital campaign with the official opening of the new addition to the UMFS Charterhouse School building. The addition includes 10 new classrooms, a recreational therapy room, a cafeteria and a kitchen for our new dining program. We are grateful for the generous support of everyone who helped make this possible.

The past year we have continued to form deeper partnerships with grassroots organizations who share our mission of empowering high-risk children and families to achieve a brighter future. Our Generosity Partners include these organizations: Shalom Farms, Happily Natural Day, UMA, VAISEF, Voices for Virginia's Children, Virginia Kids Belong, Fit4Kids, Caring Closet and Worthdays. These organizations can operate rent-free, while reaching more individuals and extending their mission. There is power and strength in partnership.

We are grateful for the support of the Virginia Conference and for your partnership with us as unwavering champions for high-risk children and families. We ask for your continued advocacy for high-risk children, youth, and families. Together, we can create a world where caring, opportunity and generosity are passed on from generation to generation, empowering all children to contribute to society as engaged citizens.

– Nancy Toscano, President and CEO

Wesley Housing

Wesley Housing's (WH) vision is that everyone in the greater Washington, DC region has a safe, quality, affordable home, serving as a foundation to thrive, and has a place of value in the community. This guides our mission of building up the lives of our most vulnerable community members by creating and operating healthy, inclusive, stable, affordable housing communities and providing supportive resident services. For 50 years, we have served over 25,000 residents in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. We currently manage 29 properties serving 3,800+ residents in Alexandria, Arlington, Manassas, Falls Church, Fairfax County, Winchester, and the District. We also manage 13 Community Resource/Support Service Centers that offer a full range of crucially needed programs and services to support children, adults, older adults, those with chronic disease, and those with disabilities to regain their dignity and renew their lives.

REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT

Wesley Housing continued to move the needle in 202 by pushing forward critical affordable housing throughout the region. We are on track to bring over 700 new units of affordable housing to the DC metro region over the next four years, including new construction, acquisitions, and renovations. Recent pipeline updates include:

- ❖ WH, in partnership with First Christian Church of Falls Church plans to construct 95 affordable units of independent senior living on the land immediately adjacent to the Church (6165 Leesburg Pike). The community, recently named Kindred Crossing, received a $9.7M loan from the Fairfax County Redevelopment and Housing Authority (FCRHA) in February 2024, providing essential leverage for a competitive 9% Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) application in March.
- ❖ In November 2023, Melwood, a leading employer, advocate, and preferred provider of services for people with disabilities, announced that Wesley Housing will be its development partner for a new multi-functional building at 750 23rd Street South in Arlington. The project will convert one of Melwood's commercial buildings into affordable and inclusive housing, responding to a critical need in Arlington County. In addition to creating up to 104 units of affordable housing, Melwood will retain a portion of the space to continue offering on-site programs and services, including job skills training, for people with disabilities.
- ❖ 1 Hawaii (70 units, Washington, DC [Ward 5]) is expected to close on financing in Summer 2024 with redevelopment of the site to commence shortly thereafter.
- ❖ Beacon Landing, a 54-unit permanent supportive housing (PSH) community in partnership with The Lamb Center, was awarded $1.26M in low-income housing tax credits (LIHTC) from Virginia Housing in July 2023. The community for previously homeless individuals expects to break ground in late 2024.
- ❖ Following the acquisition of Holmead Apartments (100 units in Washington, DC [Ward 1]) in January 2023, we conducted "life and safety" upgrades to the property and continue advancing plans for a substantial rehabilitation within the next few years.
- ❖ Pre-development activities continue on ParcView II (200+ new units, Alexandria, VA).
- ❖ Acquisition activities continue on Virginia Village (Falls Church, VA), a 20-building, approximately 3.7-acre community.

RESIDENT SERVICES

- ❖ Housing Stability Initiative: With some of the most cost-burdened renters in the country living in our area, our resident services team provides 3,800 of them with award-winning supportive services. In 2023, our resident services team received 246 eviction prevention referrals from residents needing assistance with rent payments. Through their work, 99% of high priority referrals maintained their housing, 152 residents participated in employment coaching, 225 residents participated in health and wellness offerings, 957 residents received material assistance (i.e. food/hygiene items), and 234 kids and teens participated in youth programs. In addition, through our annual Supplies for Success program, more than 350 K-12 students received new backpacks filled with supplies and 600 residents received holiday assistance through our Holiday Help program.

OPERATIONS AND ADMINISTRATIVE

- ❖ In November 2023, Wesley Housing's Coppermine Place II received National Affordable Housing Management Association's (NAHMA) Communities of Quality® recognition. The community met NAHMA's high standards in physical maintenance, financial management, programs and services, employee credentials, endorsements, and several other categories.
- ❖ Wesley Housing will celebrate its 50th anniversary July-December 2024.

THE BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION AND CAMPUS MINISTRY (BHECM)

It has been another exciting and encouraging year for campus ministry and higher education in the Virginia Conference. We recognize the incredible work of our campus ministers, chaplains, student leaders, and local boards, and we continue to celebrate their resilience as we lean into a new and joyful season of United Methodism!

Last year, I shared how every local church is responsible for putting forward names of high school graduates to our campus ministries and schools. We cannot stress enough how important it is for these connections to take place. We hope that students will find formative experiences that embody our theological values, a culture of inclusivity, and a place of discernment and calling.

Through the diligent efforts of our campus ministers, our Board has been adapting and reshaping our evaluative processes to measure leadership and fruitfulness. Our new process simplifies many of the previous reporting systems while integrating more comprehensive storytelling and narrative reflection. We hope that this new model will pair well with the reflection of values identified by our campus ministers: Welcome and Hospitality (Inclusion); Service (Mission), including both works of compassion and justice; Student Leadership Development; Discipleship (Spiritual Growth including worship).

The campus ministers have participated in gatherings with Bishop Sue and other extension clergy for times of conversation and spiritual renewal. We appreciate Bishop Sue's advocacy for campus ministry and look forward to ways we can highlight ministries in future annual conference sessions. Additionally, our campus ministers have developed a strategic and collaborative plan to address the pastoral response necessary in incidents of tragedy, crisis, or violence on campus.

Additionally, we are grateful to the Annual Conference and the Council on Finance and Administration for budgeting funds for fundraising support. Our campus ministers and local board leadership teams have been meeting with a professional fundraiser to gain insights into best practices around capital campaigns, development, and strategies to support our Wesley Foundation buildings in their journey toward self-sustainability.

In the coming year, our Board plans to vision how we might improve upon our relationships with our United Methodist institutions beyond financial support. We want to ensure accountability with these relationship partners around staffing, pre-ministerial programs, so that these institutions best reflect the values and vision of the Virginia Annual Conference and the United Methodist Church.

We remain grateful for the prayers, leadership, and support of Dwayne Stinson and Becky Tate in the Connectional Ministries office as we celebrate the Virginia Conference's commitment and value of campus and collegiate ministry!

— Ryan LaRock, Board Chair

CAMPUS MINISTRY ASSOCIATION

This year, we are trying a new thing: sharing all of the information for campus ministries throughout the Virginia Conference in a single report. There is no way to completely share the fantastic work done by the student leaders, the board members, and the campus ministers in our Conference. The thirteen campus ministries are on the campuses of Longwood, Hampden-Sydney College, Virginia State, James Madison, Eastern Mennonite, Bridgewater, Community Colleges of Southwestern Virginia, Old Dominion, George Mason, NoVA Community Colleges, Christopher Newport, William and Mary, Norfolk State, Virginia Tech, University of Virginia, Mary Washington, and Virginia Commonwealth Universities. This report does not include reports from the chaplains of our United Methodist-related schools, but we are also connected and supportive of their incredible ministries.

Throughout the year, we have been active in spiritually supporting students, feeding the hungry, serving our campuses and the community, helping students with mental health crises, collaborating to call for social holiness, supporting student and faculty health, and influencing policies on our campuses to be more just. Our campus ministries support student leaders, give them opportunities to use their gifts, and help them remember God's love for them. Your generosity enables all these things to happen daily in our campus ministries.

Here is some data that only shows the immense impact you have had on the lives of our students.

- ❖ Nearly 500 unique students are involved in weekly spiritual growth opportunities. This includes worship, Bible studies, small groups, and more.
- ❖ Over 3300 unique students were recipients of our feeding ministries each semester.
- ❖ 129 student leaders, sharing their gifts and talents, leading groups, and serving others.
- ❖ 20 students exploring ordained ministry

These numbers only tell a part of the story, as big things are happening all over Virginia. Here are a few of those stories:

We are creatively meeting the needs of students. Norfolk State expanded its food ministry and is working to get ecumenical grants to expand the services. Arise at George Mason gives out approximately 100 meals weekly for food-insecure students. Wesley at William and Mary started a food ministry during spring break when students are in the dorms, but dining services are closed. This spring break, student leaders and staff have fed over 75 students multiple times a day. Wesley ODU is building community by providing weekly free lunches to assist our commuter students in having a healthy meal and are working with the university to partner in addressing food insecurity on campus. Rise at JMU has started and expanded its “Struggle Bus” ministry, which incorporates intentional play and mental health resources for students in need.

We prioritize student leadership. At VCU, the Pace Center returned its week-long Student Leadership Institute, highlighting some relation-based missions in the area. Wesley at Virginia Tech has seen people with no church background become leaders in the community and find the transformative power of Jesus Christ. CCC at Mary Washington University, UCM at CNU, and Wesley at VSU are also seeing new students and experiencing growth!

We build community partnerships. Wesley at UVA has taken the lead in creating and cultivating interfaith relationships that have included service projects and hosting an Iftar dinner for the Muslim students on campus. Wesley at Farmville is also building relationships and doing interdenominational work. Every 3rd Saturday of the month, F.L.O.W., the campus ministry at Virginia State University, partners with other student organizations to pack food boxes that provide meals for over 4,500 families in the Petersburg community. Community College Ministries in SW Virginia has formed a partnership with the Center for Truth, Racial Healing, and Transformation at Duke University. The program offers a model for changing the narrative of race and offers new ways of thinking and relating in a diverse community.

It is also important to note that all of us are welcoming and valuing of all students. Many of our groups are the only LGBTQ+-affirming Christian ministries on our campuses. Some of us are the only campus ministries recognizing and celebrating women’s full ordination in the church at our universities.

There are a few ways you, the Virginia Annual Conference leaders, are supporting our denomination’s present and future leaders. Thank you, and if you would like to learn more about any of our ministries, stop by our table. We are so thankful for all you do and your massive impact on our college students. Your generosity brings health and wellness to students and shares the transformative love of Jesus Christ on our campuses.

BOARD OF LAITY

The Board of Laity entered into a time of onboarding in November 2020 after the election of a new Conference Lay Leader. To enter fully into our work together, the Board of Laity developed a covenant to guide our efforts. We begin each board meeting by reviewing our commitments to one another to:

- ❖ pray for one another and for the work of the annual conference,
- ❖ prepare for meetings,
- ❖ listen openly and deeply,
- ❖ speak the truth in love as we share information and ideas openly and frankly, and
- ❖ communicate faithfully with each other and the laity of the Virginia Annual Conference.

It is our prayer that the laity of the Virginia Conference have found us to be faithful to this covenant as we have collaborated in ministry together.

One of the goals set from the onboarding was greater communication with the Bishop. This led to the establishment of the Lay Council, composed of the District Lay Leaders and Associates, which has met quarterly with the Bishop since January 2021. The meetings have taken new direction with Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson. Meeting monthly from last September through January, the Lay Council read and discussed Faith Working Through Love: A Resource for United Methodist Teaching. Written by the denominational Committee on Faith and Order, Faith Working Through Love invites us to revisit and reclaim essential Christian beliefs and practices as United Methodist. The teaching resource is a prototype study based upon a report from the denominational Committee on Faith and Order to the 2024 General Conference.

As we entered the last six months of our traditional quadrennial cycle, evaluative work including discernment of leadership was a priority. In February, the Board of Laity participated in an onboarding follow-up. While there is still much work to be done, the board noted a growing understanding of the call of lay ministry within our conference. Discernment will continue as to how the board can have the greatest impact with the local church as we focus on our roots as a lay movement of renewal and revival in the church. Much of our conversation over the next year will center on hearing from and collaborating with the Youth and Young Adult Councils as they are being reformed and revitalized. A task group continues to evaluate the role and work of the District Lay Leader as we seek to meet emerging needs. We continue to pursue greater collaboration with other conference boards and district committees so that we can best utilize the gifts and talents of our leaders serving beyond the local church. One of our Associate District Lay Leaders summarized the work ahead for the Board of Laity well at our spring meeting.

- ❖ We are called to ACCEPT and acknowledge the realities before us.
- ❖ We must RESET – returning to our United Methodist roots and focusing on what God is doing in our lives and in our churches today.
- ❖ We must see ourselves as equipped by the Holy Spirit to TRANSFORM individual lives, our local churches, our communities, and the world.

The evaluative work of the board this year also included discernment of a recommendation for the role of the Conference Lay Leader for the next four-year quadrennial term. The recommendation will be offered during the Annual Conference session. Great appreciation is due to Keith Jordan, Karen McElfish, Bill and Linda Stead, Susan White, and Rachel Zahradka for serving on the Nominating Committee.

To support laity as we discern our calls to ministry and continue growing in our knowledge and skills, The United Methodist Church has established three categories for laypersons in the area of lay servant ministries to develop, prepare, and engage principled Christian leaders: Certified Lay Servant, Certified Lay Speaker, and Certified Lay Minister. Certified lay servants who wish to develop their skills further may choose a track to become certified as lay speakers (those who are called specifically to pulpit supply) or as lay ministers (those who are called to long-term, intentional ministry as part of a ministry team). Our Conference Lay Servant Ministry (LSM) team under the direction of Richard Spiers, Conference Director of LSM, coordinates these ministry opportunities. Highlights of this conference year include:

- ❖ Two conference-wide Lay Servant Academy sessions held in August and February, offering ten full courses (10-hour courses) and four short courses (2- hours courses). A total of 310 participants took part in the learning sessions. Several districts have held online and in-person training with over 350 individuals participating.
- ❖ In August 2022, Rev. Joanna Dietz and Jenn Robinson-O'Brien started the first module of Certified Lay Minister (CLM) training specifically for the Virginia Conference. There are currently four cohorts of students in the process of completing the four required training modules. It is anticipated that there will be ten graduates from Cohort 4 recognized at this Annual Conference session. This movement takes us back to our Wesleyan roots. As with lay ministry in early Methodism, the certified lay minister expresses their gifts as evidence of God's grace.
- ❖ Richard Speirs, Joanna Dietz, and Jenn Robinson-O'Brien attended the national level conference of Certified Lay Ministers. Jenn and Richard attended the meeting of Annual Conference Directors of Lay Servant Ministries (AC-DLSM). These two conferences provided valuable learning and tools.

The Virginia Conference remains committed to being in an ongoing, fruitful relationship with Scouting Ministries. Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson and Assistant to the Bishop, Steve Summers, have had the blessing of meeting with several scouting executives in the last year to listen to one another and formulate plans to enhance our mutual support in the years to come.

On behalf of the Board of Laity, thank you for the many and varied ways you live out your baptismal vows, equipped by the Holy Spirit in the work of making disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world

—Martha E. Stokes, Conference Lay Leader

UNITED WOMEN IN FAITH

H-E-L-L-O Virginia Conference

from United Women in Faith. We are strong, bold, accomplished, savvy,

God-loving women who care about and for women, children, and youth near and far. We expose our hearts so that others can thrive. We accomplish much and yet not enough for the world is aching. We see our sisters and the plights they live every day, and we weep right along with Jesus. We pray, inspire, influence, and impact for we know that we are called to serve. We asked for purpose and were given opportunities beyond our imagining.

Facing the same changes as all United Methodists, our numbers are reduced, but our hearts are warm. We encourage the joining of all women to know God, experience freedom, develop fellowship, and expand mission through the Spiritual Life Retreat, a day at Ferrum College, which our predecessors helped start, and we continue to support, Mission Encounter, Young Women's Retreat, and the 51st Annual Meeting. The Southeastern Jurisdiction United Women in Faith Conference in April offers the opportunity to not only meet and greet but learn and share what and with our Jurisdictional sisters.

Ours is an exposure, a rethinking, and a forward-thinking gift. It is an experience like no other where we can lift hands and hearts through the love of God.

We practice faith, hope, and love. We are United Women in Faith! Thanks be to God!

—Nancy Walsh, President

UNITED METHODIST MEN

I would like to thank all of the Men of the VAC UMM for the service provided me during these past four (4) years. My term as Conference President will come to an end at the conclusion of this Annual Conference.

This year, I have had the opportunity of attending the SEJ BMCR Conference in Charlotte, NC; The SEJ UMM Conference for Conference Presidents in Durham, NC and finally, I attended the meeting for the National Association of Conference Presidents along with the Vice President for Spiritual Growth, David Collins in Nashville, TN. We learned in all three Conferences that Cooperative Involvement is required if we are to move forward as a United Methodist Church.

We thank Bishop Sue for allowing us to continue with our Healing Circles in the Virginia Conference. We thank DS. Rev. Dr. Cecelia Brookes for having the foresight for us to bring the First Racial Healing Circle to the Coastal VA District; and (Pastors) Tom Mercer of St. Paul's UMC in Chesapeake, VA and Scott Rimer of Community of UMC in VA Beach for allowing the VAC UMM to bring this program to their Churches and congregations. The Past President of SEJ UMM, Andrew Kissell and myself had only one goal and that was to begin discussions on RACISM.

The Program of a Racial Healing Circle is the first step in having meaningful discussions on a very difficult subject. Our Healing Circle met twice a month for six (6) months. The Healing Circle led to Discernment. I session open with Prayer and our Touchstones. This led us to Concernment. We were Black, White, Latino, and Native American all in one space. We were mixed ethnic married couples and folk from various walks of life all talking to each other and listening to the pain of fears of each other. This led to Understanding. Finally, Understanding led to relationship Building and discipleship. We have new Friends that would like to take this concept on the road. I do not know of any Greater measure of success that could be achieved.

We, the VAC UMM, have survived the Change from 16 to 8 Districts and we have begun to move forward with our Goal of Making Disciples for Jesus Christ. We have had various pastors from the different Districts to reach out to us (VAC UMM) in an attempt to reinvigorate their UMM. We need to get more of our District leadership involved. We would like to encourage the District Superintendents to get more of the Pastors to understand that the need for the Growth of the UMM fellowships in the local Church.

The VAC UMM is setting new Goals and Objectives for 2024 – 2026. It is our Desires and Plans to build our Districts and local Fellowships with the following Objectives:

- ❖ Expanding outreach) - Improved race relations and understanding in cooperative settings to achieve mutually beneficial objectives.
- ❖ Wesleyan Groups (AME; AMEZ; CME, etc.; and Campus Ministries (Younger Groups)
- ❖ Encourage Individual Spiritual Development (. i.e., Software geared to the younger Men and the Church)
- ❖ Welcoming Scouting
- ❖ Support for Clergy Women
- ❖ Advocacy for Environmental Issues and Creation Care

We are suggesting these Objectives, whereby we can set Goals that will be mission oriented and give each District and Fellowship a Blueprint into a new view into Making Disciples for Jesus Christ.

I reiterate our request to collect our annual $10 per man in the Virginia Annual Conference. We will be able to fund most if not all of the Conference Activities and Ministries and support the District UMM functions throughout the Virginia Annual Conference.

Finally, we are holding Elections this May for all positions of the VAC UMM. Nominations are being accepted by Andrew Kissell (arkissell78@gmail.com) for the positions of: President, Vice President for Spirit Growth, Vice President for Membership; Secretary; Treasurer; and Chaplain.

—Albert S Weal Jr, President

OLDER ADULT COUNCIL

Paragraph 651 of the 2016 Book of Discipline tells us that “each annual conference may have a conference council on older adult ministries”. Its purpose “shall be to strengthen the older adult ministries in the local churches and districts of the annual conference.”

The VAUMC Older Adult Council has met regularly throughout the 2023-2024 conference year, one time in-person at the VAUMC Center. Some of our accomplishments have included:

1. Providing resources at the Annual Conference session in June 2023.
2. Offering a class at the 2023 Licensing School.
3. Updating our website presence on the VAUMC website to include added resources and a new logo. (Please check it out.)
4. Offering leadership to and encouraging participation in The Festival of Wisdom and Grace offered annually at Lake Junaluska, NC. (This year’s event is scheduled for August 21-24).
5. Participating in lunch and a discussion with Bishop Sue during our September in-person meeting. Members of the council shared our goals and challenges and Bishop Sue shared her sense of mission and goals for the OAC.
6. Rev. Lisa Jean Hefner, new staff member for Older Adult Ministries at Discipleship Ministries, met with our council over zoom in February, listening and hearing our needs and celebrations, as well as sharing resources and ideas with us. (Resources from Rev. Hefner have been added to our web page, as well).
7. Plans for the coming year include:
 - a. Continuing to build the council to include a more diverse membership.
 - b. Seeking ways to offer support to congregations and districts.
 - c. Continuing to update website resources.
 - d. Lifting up the needs and gifts of Older Adults in our congregations and communities.

We welcome and encourage more participation in our council.

—Denise M. Childers and Louise Miller, co-chairs

COMMISSION ON DISABILITIES

The Commission on Disabilities affirms that all people, regardless of ability or disability, are of sacred worth. Through advocacy, education, and empowerment, we strive to fully include differently abled persons in the life of the church. We are working on updating our website; we have worked closely with the Just Compensation Task Force, and we would love to partner with you, too! This past year, the commission has focused on the charge conference required accessibility audit. If you have not filled out an audit, we want to encourage all churches to take the time to do so. The audit is designed to show you how to improve access to your building. While it might seem like an impossible task, I encourage you to pick one or two items on the audit that your church can improve on. It could be as simple as a greeter who opens the door and helps someone to their pew or cutting a pew to create wheelchair-accessible spaces throughout the sanctuary.

The Commission on Disability is working to implement a badge system designed by the Disabilities Ministry Committee of the United Methodist Church. Churches can earn four different badges that show how accessible they are: Honorable Mentions – these churches completed their annual accessibility audit, set goals, and held a Disability Awareness Sunday for two years. Bronze – The church is welcoming, offers basic amenities, trains ushers in disability etiquette, and offers website information on access. Silver – Church has many accessible features and offers accommodations for persons with disabilities, including hearing loss and limited vision, but some areas are not yet fully accessible. Gold – goes beyond ADA and strives to provide full accessibility, inclusion, and accommodations such as accessible chancel and automatic door openers. We hope you'll join us by completing an accessibility audit as the first step in moving towards becoming more inclusive of persons with disabilities.

While it is true one of the most significant barriers to full inclusion for persons with disabilities is our buildings, accessibility barriers are also found in our etiquette and communication with differently-abled persons. For example, when speaking with a deaf or hard-of-hearing person, be sure you have the person's attention before speaking. If the person is facing you, gently tap them on the arm or elbow and make sure the person is looking at you before you speak. If the person is not facing you, use a gentle tap on the shoulder. Always look at the person who is deaf or hard of hearing, not an interpreter who may be working with them.

In the case of a person who is blind, deaf-blind, or has vision loss, it's best to identify yourself when approaching a person and say where you are standing in relation to that person. Then there are just "common sense things," like using a natural conversational volume and ordinary tone and never touching, distracting, or offering food to a service animal unless you have permission from the owner. If you would like to know more about the commission's advocacy, programming, accessibility grants, and resources, find us on the VAUMC website or reach out to the Missional Engagement Office. Our commission members would love to connect with you!

– Timothy Joseph Barth, Chair

THE COMMISSION ON ETHNIC MINORITY CONCERNS AND ADVOCACY (CEMCA)

The Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy (CEMCA), according to our stated mission, is called to advocate for the full and equal participation of all ethnic and racial constituents in the life and mission of the Virginia Annual Conference, to be a voice to the church for their concerns, and to guide the Conference in its fight against all forms of evil including racism.

In our meetings and ongoing work, we listen to and represent the voices of African American, Asian American, Hispanic/Latinx, and Native-American Ministries. We continue to address our charge to voice the needs and concerns of ethnic clergy, laity, and local congregations, communicating them to the Conference and its leadership. We provide a forum for listening to ethnic minority concerns in our churches and our world, praying for guidance from the Holy Spirit to confront the sin of racism in the church, the nation, and the world.

The United Methodist Church in Virginia is uniquely positioned to catalyze consciousness and reconciliation, given its institutional resources and membership that crosses racial and cultural lines and includes grassroots and elites in its congregations. The Commission has prioritized improving our organization by creating steering and communications committees. We have met with Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson and are providing a voice for racial and ethnic concerns at the Common Table, the Conference Nominating Committee, and the General Conference Delegation. One priority has been to increase the participation of and support for ethnic members of our conference boards and agencies, where minorities are widely underrepresented.

We continue our Annual Conference monitoring efforts in collaboration with COSROW to assess the degree to which diverse voices are heard in our sessions. As you can see from the combined reports of monitors on Thursday and Friday afternoon, few ethnic minority voices are included in our common deliberations.

Our conference has many spiritual gifts from diverse heritages, and we are trying to share them. In addition to preparing Pentecost devotions, we have distributed Lenten devotions from a Native American perspective, crafted by the Rev.

Larry Jent: Forty Days with Jesus: A Vision Quest

Our constituent ministries have made significant contributions this year:

African American Ministries:

Asian-American Ministries:

Latino Ministries: The Latino Caucus, formerly known as the Latino Clergy Caucus, convened for a memorable luncheon at the Virginia Conference 2023, which was both inspiring and co-hosted with CEMCA. Rev. Larry Jent imparted deep and meaningful insights, and the spirit of unity and purpose resonated throughout our time together. The Latino Caucus continues to plan and pray together over Zoom. As a significant milestone, in the last quarter of 2023, the Latino Clergy Caucus gathered to formally vote on and adopt its new name, the Latino Caucus, reflecting our formal inclusion of laity into our leadership and membership. We're excited how God is already working through our more inclusive vision for the future."

Native American Ministries:

Boarding School Memorials

Work continues on boarding school memorials. This initiative grew out of international gatherings hosted in person and online by Virginia Native American Ministries. Tribal elders and artisans are taking the lead in the design and scope of this multi-media project. Rev. Larry Jent, VNAM Chair, met with Tuscarora, Mohawk, and Cayuga artists in December 2023 to discuss the next steps.

Generational Trauma

The Boarding School Experience is part of Native American generational trauma, resulting in the highest rates of suicide, addiction, and violence of any ethnic group in America. We are currently planning a July event in Virginia to address these generational wounds with hope and healing. Leadership will be diverse and international.

We look forward to serving our ethnic minority communities as a listening space for ethnic and minority concerns and collaborating with the new Conference Commission on Religion and Race. We hope to share our diverse spiritual traditions with the Conference and serve local ethnic-minority, cross-racial, and cross-cultural churches, pastors, and laity.

– Eduardo Carrillo (Clergy) and Lester Kurtz (Laity), Co-Chairs

THE COMMISSION ON THE STATUS AND ROLE OF WOMEN (COSROW)

The Commission on the Status and Role of Women is committed to the work of advocacy for all women in the church, clergy and lay, at every level. We encourage the clergy and lay leadership of each local church to consider the demographics of their churches. Are women represented in official leadership roles, including Church Council, Finance, Trustees, Lay Leadership Development, and SPRC? Are women invited and welcomed to serve as scripture readers, ushers, counters, and greeters? Do small groups and Bible Studies use resources written by women? For our male colleagues, have you considered inviting female clergy or lay servants to lead worship in your churches?

COSROW also urges churches, clergy, and laity to be mindful of language used, both at annual conference and in the local church. One of our members, Allison Hickey, has put together an incredible D.Min project around the use of inclusive language and best practices – come and visit our display area to check it out and be inspired!

In 2023, several members of the Virginia Annual Conference reached out to COSROW following the Ordination Service. While we celebrate the commissioning of six women as provisional elders and deacons, we mourn that no women were ordained in this conference in this service. We encourage people in all levels of the process to consider ways to continue to encourage and empower women in the life of the church, so that we do not have another ordination service without women.

COSROW supports the work of the Annual Conference in rectifying these mistakes, including the Just Compensation task force that was created following last year's annual conference. If individuals or local churches are interested in further information surrounding best practices for supporting women in all levels of the church, or would like resource ideas, please visit our website (vaumc.org/COSROW) or Facebook page (search for 'Commission on the Status and Role of Women – VA United Methodist Conference').

THE CONFERENCE NOMINATIONS TEAM

Co Chairs:

Martha Stokes, Conference Lay Leader
Dwayne Stinson, Director of Connectional Ministries for Discipleship and Congregational Vitality Jonathan Page, Director of Connectional Ministries for Creativity and Innovation

Monitors:

Lester Kurtz, CEMCA
Karen Robison, Commission on Disabilities
Lauren Wright, COSROW

District Representatives:

Albert Weal, Costal Virginia District
Ken Thrasher, Living Waters District
Angie Hoen, Mission Rivers District
Bonnie – Karen Byrne, Mountain View District

VACANT, Northern Virginia District
VACANT, Shenandoah River District
Scotty Doyle, Three Notch'd District
Jonathan Greer, Valley Ridge District

The goal of the Conference Nominations Team is to carefully discern over individuals who can provide leadership and diverse skills to our boards. While discerning, the Conference Nominations Team must consider the needs of the boards to ensure that boards are properly filled, and representation is taken into consideration. This year, the Nominations Team has taken a new approach to this process. In doing so, the names lifted for approval of the Annual Conference have been included in the Welcome Packet instead of the Book of Reports. This allowed the Nominations Team to ensure the most up to date list of names is provided to the Annual Conference.

BOARD OF ORDAINED MINISTRY

The Board of Ordained Ministry (BOM) has three core values:

1. Whole Person: in working with candidates and clergy, the whole person is considered, including their theological knowledge, emotional intelligence, practical skills, and cultural competency.
2. A Changing World: Effective ministry leadership is needed in the pulpit and far beyond it; Christ is present – and our witness is needed – in and for a rapidly changing world.
3. Spiritual Discernment: The Holy Spirit is at work in the BOM's practice of discernment; being prepared, being prayerful, and being healthy all help the Spirit to move among us.

Every weekday morning at 6:00 am, members of the BOM and others of the conference gather by zoom to pray for our conference, for clergy and laity, and for the world. "Simple Presence" is open to anyone who would like to join us. Join Zoom Meeting <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/86853130886?pwd=dUxqeTN5NnpwSmhHdjNUeGpFT3FPQT09>.

The Board wants to thank all those who serve on the eight District Committees of Ministry (dCOM), extensions of the BOM's work. dCOM's interview, listen and guide all those who seek to answer God's call upon their lives for full and part time ministry. As the voice of the church and of God becomes more crowded by the sounds of the world, the dCOM work becomes more vital to our UMC mission of making disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world. This summer the BOM will hold a gathering/training for all dCOM's and BOM members as we continue to serve the Annual Conference.

We are grateful for those who have served so faithfully on the Board and have spent many hours meeting, reading papers, interviewing, discerning, praying and serving on dCOM's and different committees of the BOM. Your faithfulness among us has enabled God to work in mighty ways among us. On behalf of the BOM and the Conference and all the candidates served over the years, we thank those who leave us to do other ministries: Bill Bearden, Lyndsie Blakely, JaeHaeng Choi, Beth Givens, Susan Hannah, David Hindman, Darcey Johnson, Alan Layman, Mike Mayton, Gary Miller, Brandon Robbins, Jason Stanley, Christian White, Tim Ward, and Tracy Wines. We lost Mr. Willie Weigand, to cancer on February 3, 2024. We are grateful for all those who have served among us and embodied the grace, love and reign of God in our midst. We thank all the local churches and families who support our Board members and cover for them so they can do this holy work. Finally, thank you to the staff of the Center for Clergy Excellence: Rev. Jessie Colwell, Rev. Crystal Sygeel, and Rev. Lyn Harding. You three rock!

Know that those you elect to serve on the BOM for the next quadrennium will hold our disciplinary task with humble and prayerful hearts, seeking to follow Wesley's general rules to do no harm, to do all the good we can and to follow the ordinances of God.

COMMITTEE ON EPISCOPACY

The Committee on Episcopacy (COE) is responsible for the review and evaluation of the resident bishop as required by the Book of Discipline. A process for this review has been created and is used by all Conferences in the Southeastern Jurisdiction (SEJ). The Virginia Conference COE has met with Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson at least two or three times this year to engage in conversation around this process and discuss matters present in the Virginia Annual Conference and larger connection. The COE communicates parts of the results and insights of this review with the SEJ COE for use in their assignment process.

The Virginia COE is pleased with Bishop Sue's leadership and forward thinking style and we are looking forward to another great year of ministry here in Virginia with Bishop Sue Hauptert-Johnson.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Earlier in this Conference year, the Board of Trustees closed the final disaffiliations of local churches from our Conference under paragraph 2553 of the Book of Discipline. This legislation expired on December 31, 2023, and accordingly there will be no more disaffiliations. The sunset of paragraph 2553 marks the end of a challenging time for The United Methodist Church, the Virginia Annual Conference and all of its members, and all members of the churches that disaffiliated. While we all look forward to turning the page on this chapter of our history, a short recap of the disaffiliation process is in order.

The Annual Conference approved the disaffiliation pursuant to paragraph 2553 of 10 churches at the Called Annual Conference held on October 10, 2022, of 33 churches at the Called Annual Conference held on February 6, 2023, of 64 churches at the Called Annual Conference held on May 6, 2023, and of 120 churches at the Called Annual Conference held on October 7, 2023. That brings the total number of paragraph 2553 disaffiliations approved by the Annual Conference to 227. The Board of Trustees and its counsel have completed the legal closing process, with monies being wired to the Conference and Deeds of Release being delivered to the church to release the Trust Clause, for all 227 churches.

The total consideration paid to the Conference from all 227 closings was approximately $16.68 million, which is comprised of the following:

- ❖ Contributions toward the Conference's unfunded clergy benefits liability of $8.98 million, with $3.95 million allocated to the pension liability and $5.03 million allocated to the retiree medical liability;
- ❖ Payments to the Conference for Conference and District apportionments of approximately $5.19 million, pursuant to the requirement under paragraph 2553 that each disaffiliating church pay roughly two times the Annual Conference and District apportionments (note that when taking into consideration apportionments paid by the disaffiliating churches during the disaffiliation period but outside of the closing process, this figure exceeds $6 million);
- ❖ Repayment of Conference and District grants made to these churches over the years, totaling approximately $1.18 million; and
- ❖ The remaining amounts represent (i) the Conference's legal fees that were paid by the disaffiliating churches, and (ii) clergy support, including for compensation and housing, for the remainder of the Conference year for those disaffiliating churches whose pastor remained in the UMC.

During the course of handling 227 disaffiliation closings, the Trustees and its counsel developed significant efficiencies, allowing us to handle the later closings well under budget. In fact, due to these efficiencies and the manner in which closings were conducted, in addition to the payment in full by the disaffiliating churches of all Conference legal fees related to each closing,

- (i) 100% of the Conference Chancellor and Conference Trustees' legal expenses related to the demand letters received in August of 2022, which expenses totaled approximately $43,000, were repaid by the 26 churches on whose behalf the NCLL sent the demand letters (all of these churches disaffiliated), and
- (ii) the Conference Trustees recouped approximately $211,000 of their $213,000 of legal expenses related to the disaffiliation process that were not allocated to the closing of a particular church.

Again, the goals of the Board of Trustees throughout the disaffiliation process were to manage these transactions in an efficient way, to cause the least possible disruption to our Conference, District, and local church leaders so as to allow them to focus on the more important aspects of the ministry, and to allow all parties to move forward with grace and dignity. We feel that we were able to accomplish these goals.

Looking forward, as the Board of Trustees, we will be working on the Conference initiative to centralize the management of District and Conference owned properties so as to reduce the burden on our District leadership. We are excited to announce our contractual relationship with Wesley Community Development which is affiliated with The North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, to help us with this endeavor. Wesley Community Development is not only an excellent Property Management Firm, but it is also deeply committed to the mission and ministry of The United Methodist Church. Their philosophy is to retain closed church property whenever possible and repurpose it to address the needs of the surrounding community. They also offer consulting services to local churches who wish to maximize the usage of their own local church property.

As we put disaffiliations behind us, we face the future with a renewed sense of hope and joy as we strive to be good stewards of the properties and assets within the Annual Conference.

UNITED METHODIST-RELATED SCHOOLS

Ferrum College

Ferrum College is a private, liberal arts college founded by the women of the United Methodist church 110 years ago in rural southwest Virginia in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains. The College serves a student body of more than 800, offering undergraduate and a growing number of advanced degrees, as well as certifications in several areas of Career and Technical Education (CTE.) The College lives out its traditional ideals of serving “Not Self, But Others” by providing outstanding educational opportunities to our diverse student body (52% of our students are Pell grant eligible, 97% receive tuition assistance; 40% are minority students; 37% of our students are the first in their families to pursue higher education.) The College is known for having the second oldest environmental science program in the U.S. and continues to be an academic trailblazer. In February 2024, the College announced it will partner with Franklin County Public Safety, Carilion Clinic, Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU), and the Institute for Advanced Learning and Research (IALR) to initiate Franklin County’s Paramedic Apprentice program – the first of its kind in the state. In the same year, the College announced it would reduce the cost of tuition by $10,000 for all students and unveiled the Panther Promise, which affords qualifying Virginia resident students free tuition to attend Ferrum College.

The College remains the only private, liberal arts college in Virginia to offer a four-year degree in Agricultural Sciences and teaching licensure in vocational agriculture. Ferrum College is an economic, cultural and academic pillar of the Franklin County community and, in keeping with its motto of “Not Self, But Others,” adds valuable, hands-on experience to our students’ educations through ongoing outreach such as the water quality project at Smith Mountain Lake. Over the past 37 years, students and faculty have monitored the levels of bacteria, algae, and pollutants during the lake’s peak use season to ensure public health and safety.

The College has been moving boldly to forge new partnerships and explore new directions in curriculum to best serve today’s learners. Over the past year, the College sought and was given approval to award CTE certifications in construction project management; construction site management; construction small business management; sustainable construction; emergency medical technician/paramedic; fire science and technology; and advanced fire science and technology by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges. This move is intended to close educational gaps for students, and is also a boon for regional employers, helping to ensure a highly skilled workforce while helping young people gain living-wage jobs in their home community. The College also won a Virginia Department of Education Laboratory School Planning Grant to explore CTE programming with Franklin County Public Schools in partnership with local industry leaders in skilled trades education. The College’s next step will be seeking further grant funding to create the Ferrum College Academy for Opportunity and Innovation to take this concept to surrounding school systems.

REPORTS

In December of 2023, the College signed a historic memorandum of understanding with the Universidad de Guadalajara to offer dual enrollment credit to Universidad students, extending the College's reach further afield than our founders ever imagined.

Along with a new vision, the College welcomed new visionaries in 2023 to build and accelerate our momentum: including Dr. Joseph Han as Vice President of Finance and Chief Operations Officer, and also promoted faculty and staff to new roles including Dr. Delia Heck as Chief Academic Officer and Dr. Jason Powell as Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs and Chief Innovation and Research Officer, and John DeVault as Associate Vice President for Recruitment and Retention. Ferrum College is especially blessed to welcome its new Chaplain the Reverend Michael Little, who has already touched the lives of students with his energetic outreach and messages of hope and purpose.

Randolph-Macon Academy

Randolph-Macon Academy holds the unique status of being the only United Methodist affiliated secondary school in the Virginia Conference. Consistent with our 132 years of commitment to developing young people in mind, body, and spirit to lead and positively impact the world they inhabit, R-MA continues to evolve and adapt for modern world realities while standing on the unchanging foundation of God and holding fast to covenant with the United Methodist Church.

In a boarding school environment, we are uniquely equipped to share all aspects of life together, including academic and spiritual formation, intergenerational relationships, sports, clubs, meals, prayers, worship, community, and fellowship.

This year, 317 students plus 75 faculty and staff attended chapel service every single week where scripture, song, prayer, and sacraments are part of the regular formative practices. 30-40 students voluntarily lead and/or attend weekly Bible study. 45 students are enrolled in World Religions class. 25 students and adults participated in a life-changing mission trip with the Appalachia Service Project that has resulted in deepening relationships.

Academically, 100% of our students were accepted into college or university, to include 14 appointments to military academies. Our students are globally, racially, socioeconomically, ethnically, and religiously diverse, representing 18 countries and every major world religion. Academic and spiritual formation, along with character and leadership development are embedded into the fabric of R-MA. Similar to our United Methodist roots, we understand that formation must always be intentional, relational, and immersive. As such, we create structures and rhythms to ensure that happens. We believe the United Methodist Church should enhance its support for mission and ministry at R-MA, as R-MA commits fully to our covenant, discipleship, academic excellence, and fruitful ministry.

—David C. Wesley, President, Brigadier General, USAF, Retired

Randolph-Macon College

In its 194th year, Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Va. remains committed to a steadfast mission of “developing the minds and character of each student,” with rigorous academics, opportunities for learning beyond the classroom, and an exceptional faculty.

The College welcomed a class of 430 freshmen this year, each class more diverse than the one before it. The 2023-24 academic year opened with 1501 students from 26 states (including the District of Columbia) and 22 other countries. About 80% of the students continue to live on-campus. The school maintains a student-faculty ratio of just over 10 to 1 and an average class size of 16 students. This personal attention, paired with an intentional career pathways program, has earned RMC a reputation for excellent preparation for careers, including a top 20 ranking for career services by the Princeton Review for four years in a row.

Last summer, the College launched branding that emphasizes this focus on personal attention and pathways to career with the theme “Up Close, Future Ready.” “Up Close” communicates the deeply individualized academic and co-curricular experience that is a hallmark of a Randolph-Macon educational experience. “Future Ready” speaks to the enduring life and career-advancing skills with which students tackle their futures, thanks to RMC’s hands-on, interdisciplinary curriculum, exceptional mentorship and advising, and character and leadership development.

RMC is proud to continue our pre-ministerial grants and A. Purnell Bailey Scholarships for those discerning a call to Christian ministry. Educating Christian clergy has been a part of our history from the very beginning. We also value our summer programs that include Convergence: A Youth Theology Institute on Faith and Science and Pathways to Science. Convergence helps teens explore how Christian faith and the sciences can inform and inspire one another. Pathways to Science is an opportunity for rising sophomore Hispanic girls to meet scientists and explore STEM related activities. In 2023, we partnered with the Fox Foundation and Va UMC to host the faith and science symposium on our campus, and we hope to continue this in the years ahead. We are honored to be home to a significant part of the Va UMC Conference Archives in our library and invite interested parties to visit the Archives and discover many amazing historical pieces.

Duncan Memorial UMC serves as our college chapel and offers a number of worship, service, and leadership opportunities to our campus. The church hosts the weekly RMC Student Fellowship, visits the college cafeteria following worship once a month, and invites students to join in opportunities such as the twice weekly Child Watch for adult English classes, alternative spring break service projects (Westview on the James was our 2023 focus), Rise Against Hunger, and more. Chaplain Kendra Grimes has formed connections between our students and the Hermitage and Cedarfield retirement communities, Ashland Christian Emergency Services, and other area ministries. Chaplain Grimes continues to serve with the Va UMC Missional Ministries Board, Va Methodists for a New Thing, and the Va Conference Historical Society.

As the oldest continuously operating Methodist college in America, Randolph-Macon College greatly appreciates our historic and ongoing relationship to the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church and the mutual resources and support that we offer one another.

Shenandoah University

Your Shenandoah University is larger and stronger and doing more good than ever! With more than 4300 students, a strongly balanced budget, and a zeal for serving our students and communities, Shenandoah continues to offer values-based education. Our mission is to educate and inspire individuals to become critical, reflective thinkers, lifelong learners, and ethical, compassionate citizens who are committed to making responsible contributions within a community, a nation, and the world. I am proud to report significant strides in advancing this mission, a number of which I believe will be of interest to the people of the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church.

As our Social Principles remind us, “mental health eludes many in our world resulting in considerable distress, stigma, and isolation...no person deserves to be stigmatized because of mental illness”. Shenandoah University remains at the forefront of addressing the burgeoning mental health crisis among young people in our nation, of which our Counseling Center bears the weight first hand. They provided 1,981 counseling hours to 364 students over 2,046 appointments from July 2023 to January 2024. In an effort to be a part of an upstream solution to this problem, we launched a Masters of Science in Clinical Mental Health Counseling program, and our first cohort of students will begin their studies in the Fall 2024 semester. This initiative not only enriches our academic offerings but also prepares a new generation of counselors to advocate for wellness and social justice in the Northern Shenandoah Valley and beyond.

Additionally, our commitment to global learning remains strong. Most recently, our Barzinji Institute for Global Virtual Learning helped secure a generous grant from the Stevens Initiative to embed global virtual exchange into every one of our First Year Seminar courses this fall. Therefore, every incoming first year student will be collaboratively learning alongside peers at Yarmouk University in Jordan. This initiative sets SU apart as an institution that is living out its responsibility to foster opportunities for learners to think globally, no matter their vocation. Fortunately, our incoming students’ exposure to cultures and peoples different from their own will not stop at the end of their mandatory First Year Seminar course. Global learning is in our DNA. Over the past year, 250 students engaged in Global Experiential Learning trips through our Office for International Programming. On these trips, students worked with our esteemed faculty to earn academic credit during these travel experiences. We additionally sent 40 students on five different Global Citizenship Project (GCP) trips over our March spring break to American Samoa, Argentina, India, Slovenia, and Zambia. Thanks to our generous donors, these students get to experience cultures different from their own and broaden their horizons for free.

Our commitment to service learning is also deeply embedded in Shenandoah University’s culture. In 2023, our students dedicated over 2,300 hours to community service in Winchester, facilitated by our Center for Civic Engagement. These activities, supported by over 300 volunteers, resulted in a direct economic impact of over $92,000. Moreover, our Office of Spiritual Life orchestrated two service trips, extending our outreach beyond Winchester to North Carolina, partnering with Islamic Relief-USA, and to various indigenous communities across Virginia. These efforts not only embody our commitment to service but also reinforce our connections with diverse communities, fostering a spirit of inclusiveness and compassion.

Our Office of Spiritual Life is a hub for spiritual formation for persons of all faiths, embracing a commitment to celebrating religious diversity, which is rooted in our United Methodist heritage. Over the past year, our Spiritual Life staff engaged over 100 students in direct relational ministry as professors in the classroom. The courses they taught covered the spectrum of academic disciplines: Christian leadership, mental health, interreligious activism, music therapy, and study skills. Through these efforts, they formed lasting relationships with students who might not otherwise darken the doors of their offices. To deepen partnerships across the Virginia Annual Conference, the Office of Spiritual Life can be reached at spirituallife@su.edu.

SU also continues to make higher education more accessible and affordable. We have, once again, expanded our January-Term and Summer Term course offerings, which allow students to progress in their degrees during academic breaks, offering courses at a significantly reduced rate of $495 per class. This cost is lower than most community colleges at a discount of 80%! In the summer of 2023, we served over 900 students, and in the 2024 January-Term, we served over 580 students. Furthermore, we open these opportunities to rising high school seniors, enabling them to earn transferable college credits at a discounted rate while acclimating to the demands of college-level coursework.

Lastly, I am excited to share that one of our United Methodist students—Jolonnice Reed ('25)—has been selected to serve on the Student Leadership Team of the U.S. chapter of the World Student Christian Federation. I have no doubt that Jolonnice's service on this team will be a blessing to our University and the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church.

I remain grateful for the support and prayers for Shenandoah University from the Virginia Annual Conference, along with its districts and congregations. We are the "Big Little University Rising," with a passion for education and service rooted in our shared Wesleyan heritage.

— Tracy Fitzsimmons, Ph.D., President

Virginia Wesleyan University

VWU continues to garner widespread recognition as a member of the highly selective New American Colleges and Universities (NACU) collaborative. As one of the most innovative National Liberal Arts Colleges in the country, total enrollment in all programs and all locations from Virginia Beach to Tokyo, Japan, reached 4,517 learners including 1,500 in our traditional campus in Virginia Beach in 2023.

Addressing national trends, affordability remains a top priority. Virginia Wesleyan offers a multi faceted plan of affordability that combines multiple consecutive years of freezing tuition costs, the endowed Batten Honors College, an expanded donor-funded Work & Learn Program for student employment, a concurrent enrollment program and fair transfer agreement with Virginia community colleges, affordable out-of-semester 12-month course options, and a fifth-year tuition guarantee. A recently awarded federal Title III grant helps the university offer robust academic support for students.

VWU continues to add sought-after undergraduate and graduate programs along with widely popular talent development programs offered in-person and online. The newest academic programs include a major in Cybersecurity and a Master of Arts in Arts Leadership and Nonprofit Management, both starting in Fall 2024. Talent development programs, held in partnership with Virginia Beach Economic Development, help learners of all ages add and advance skills in pursuit of high-demand careers.

The University has completed several campus projects over the last year. Thanks to a grant, Phase III of our modernization of Clarke Hall was completed, adding new technology for enhanced teaching and learning in cybersecurity. Construction of the D. Henry and Eleanor Watts Field House at Tom and Betty Broyles Field for softball and the Perry Field House at Kenneth R. Perry Field for baseball (both in TowneBank Park) have been completed. A two classroom addition for the Blocker Youth Center is nearly completed. Construction for the new Virginia Museum of Contemporary Art at Virginia Wesleyan University will begin this summer.

The Greer Environmental Sciences Center and highly selective Batten Honors College, both opened in 2017, continue to be national niche programs. The Greer Environmental Sciences Center has enhanced prominence in the natural sciences programs and has helped the University earn multiple accolades, including 2018 Conservationist of the Year from the Chesapeake Bay Foundation and induction into the Elizabeth River Project's River Stars Hall of Fame in 2023. The University was also recognized as a Tree Campus Higher Education by the Arbor Day Foundation and awarded a Silver rating by the Association for the Advancement for Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE) in the Sustainability Tracking, Assessment & Rating System (STARS).

The Batten Honors College (BHC) continues to operate at full capacity with 160 students. The inaugural BHC Louis and Prudence Ryan Research Symposium and Excellence in Research Prize was held last spring, with the prize awarded to a student project that addressed urban tree planting to combat runoff and excessive heat. Additionally, students in the Batten Honors College are taking advantage of the opportunity to use their academic scholarship to enroll in one of our graduate programs, should they complete their undergraduate coursework in less than four years.

A third national niche program of VWU is the Robert Nusbaum Center. The center aims to create a civil society through education, respectful dialogue, and mutual understanding, and it equips students and community members to address difficult and urgent problems. The university is dedicated to diversity and inclusion and joined the Reconciling Ministries Network, an organization dedicated to advancing LGBTQ+ justice in The United Methodist Church, in 2023.

Religious life on campus is vibrant as Campus Ministries serves students of all faiths, interests, and backgrounds. VWU students, faculty, and staff are active members on campus and at our partner congregation at Haygood United Methodist Church. The donor-funded Boyd Fellows program provides opportunities for student leaders to assist with the administrative, visionary, and programmatic aspects of religious life on campus. Agreements with the Boston University School of Theology, Candler School of Theology at Emory University, and the Duke University Divinity School provide early assurance opportunities for students interested in pursuing careers in the ministry.

Duke Divinity School

Duke Divinity School attests to the work of God’s Spirit to usher us into a season of hope and continued faithfulness to the mission and calling to serve the church, academy, and the world. In 2023, Dean Edgardo Colón-Emeric was appointed for a five-year term.

The Office of Black Church Studies (OBCS) commemorated its 50th anniversary. The Rev. Dr. Cynthia Hale (D’79) received Duke University’s Distinguished Alumni Award in recognition of her outstanding contributions in ministry and service. The Hispanic House of Studies (HHS) celebrated its quinceañera (15th anniversary). HHS was created by the Divinity School, with support from The Duke Endowment, to support the formation of ministers to Hispanic/Latinx congregations and communities in the North Carolina and Western North Carolina Annual Conferences and beyond. These efforts extend throughout our academic and ministerial programs.

This fall, we welcomed 215 entering students from 35 different states and 17 countries. The Master of Divinity program gained 104 new students, with 54 residential students and 50 in the hybrid program. The Master of Arts in Christian Practice enrolled 13 new students; the Doctor of Ministry, 22; Master of Theology, 11; Master of Theological Studies, 29; the Doctor of Theology welcomed five new students to campus, and five special students. The Certificate in Theology and Health Care welcomed 11 residential students and 15 in the hybrid program.

Divinity+ launched the Church Administration series focused on developing practical skills for church leaders. More than 1,000 learners have enrolled in the first two courses, “Theology and Time Management” and “Strategic Management.” We inaugurated the Certificate in Chaplaincy, designed to prepare students to provide spiritual care in a variety of settings including hospitals, hospice, prisons, higher education, and the military.

The Office of Black Church Studies is now led by the Rev. Dr. Eric Lewis Williams (D’05), assistant professor of theology and Black Church Studies; and the Anglican Episcopal House of Studies named the Very Rev. Timothy Kimbrough (D’83), Jack and Barbara Bovender Professor of the Practice of Anglican Studies. Key staff members joining our team include Anita Lumpkin, executive director of enrollment management; and the Rev. Sarah Belles (M.Div’14) an ordained elder in full connection with the Western North Carolina Annual Conference, as the director of student life.

With gratitude for funding from the Lilly Endowment, the Divinity School launched the Transformative Preaching Lab which will expand preaching training for students in the hybrid M.Div. program with new courses and capacities to explore digital tools for community worship, preaching and formation in trauma-informed preaching and preaching in immigrant communities.

The Theology, Medicine, and Culture initiative launched the Mental Health Track for Christian mental health practitioners as part of its Certificate in Theology and Health Care. The work of all Duke Divinity initiatives, including Duke Initiatives in Theology and the Arts; Leadership Education at Duke Divinity; and Thriving Rural Communities, continue to provide opportunities to bear witness to God’s creativity, compassion, and care for communities and congregations.

—Edgardo Colón-Emeric, Dean of Duke Divinity School

RETIRED CLERGY HOUSING CORPORATION

It is important to know one's purpose in life. As Christians, we exist to serve as God's representatives in this world sharing the love of God and pointing people to a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Retired Clergy Housing Corporation (RCHC) exists to provide attractive, affordable housing to the Virginia Annual Conference retired clergy and their family in need of housing within their financial means. Through the strength of our conference pension program, the need for financial support has declined through the years. Because of the great work of the conference, the RCHC Board has expanded the definition to include physical and emotional support. The majority of our 19 properties are accessible for people with disabilities. Therefore, this ministry has opened itself to retired clergy families dealing with accessibility-related housing needs.

There have been transitions in the lives of our residents. One home is now available in North Chesterfield due to a current resident moving into assisted living. In addition, our resident, Rev. Ed Gant, earned his heavenly reward. Our thoughts and prayers continue to be with his wife of 65 years, Louise. Also, please pray for Winston and Olivia Crichlow and Betty Murphy who have all experienced the death of a child.

Many of our properties are now between 15-20 years old. As many know, that is a time when repairs and replacements often begin. The RCHC budget is a faith budget, the rental income does not cover our budget and we depend on donations from individuals, churches, and organizations. This is why we are asking you to participate in our Covenant of Gratitude.

The Covenant of Gratitude requests a commitment of a $1 minimum per commissioned Provisional Elder and Deacon at this Annual Conference session. With the ever-increasing cost of providing support, you are asked to consider a gift of $10 per commissioned Provisional Elder and Deacon at this Annual Conference. Your ongoing support is important to meeting the needs of those we serve.

I also invite you to make RCHC a part of your estate planning. If you are interested in learning more about how to support this mission, please contact Rev. Charles Wickham at 804 474 8724 and he will be happy to meet with you.

On behalf of the RCHC Board of Directors, I thank you in advance for any assistance you give. All the hard work is so worthwhile when you hear a resident say, "Thank you for this beautiful home in which we live. I appreciate you more than you will ever know!" Our clergy and their families have given themselves to the service of God and what an honor to now help support them with housing.

—Dr. Michael Houff, RCHC Board of Directors, Chair

PREACHERS' RELIEF SOCIETY

The Preachers' Relief Society has been a ministry to the clergy of the Virginia Annual Conference since 1870. The sole purpose is to assist clergy families who are facing emergency financial needs.

If in need, clergy, retired and active, their widows and widowers should apply for help through their District Superintendent. The Superintendent will forward the request to the Society with a recommendation as to how large a grant should be awarded. Each request is responded to immediately in what the Society believes is appropriate after it has carefully evaluated the crisis and also considered the financial resources of the Society. All grants given are confidential. The recipients, of course, are free to disclose whatever they wish.

The Society welcomes contributions. In recent years these have been small in number. Fortunately, the Society's ability to provide grants has been sustained by the returns on its investments. The Mercadante Riggan Wealth Management Group of Davenport and Company currently serves as the Society's investment advisors. Those wishing to contribute to this ministry may contact our treasurer, Katherine Kidwell at kbkidwell@msn.com.

The current directors of the Society are: Robert F. Cofield, Jr., president; Edward D. Lilly, vice-president; Clark D. Cundiff, secretary; Katherine Kidwell, treasurer; Esther Agbosu; Robert N. Baker, III; James R. Bergdoll, James S. Mathews; and Elizabeth W. Taylor.

THE UNITED METHODIST CREDIT UNION

Serving the North Carolina, Western North Carolina, Baltimore-Washington, West Virginia, and of course Virginia Conferences, The United Methodist Credit Union (TUMCU) serves thousands of churches, clergy, laity, and organizations with a multitude of financial services. We offer savings and checking accounts, loans of all descriptions, credit cards, online banking services, and personal financial management resources, as well as:

- ❖ SnapLoans that provide educational lines of credit for college students (with discounts attending a United Methodist affiliated college or seminary);
- ❖ An Emergency Loan Program in partnership with local churches to help their church members in financial distress avoid turning to payday lenders;
- ❖ Secured Church loans to help with major building projects and initiatives, as well as refinancing church loans for better rates or terms;
- ❖ Project loans (up to $50,000 unsecured), for things like church and parsonage repairs, van or bus purchases, HVAC projects, and even new A/V or technology purchases; and
- ❖ Visa ChurchRewards credit cards offering cash back to member's' local churches.

During 2023, the Rev. Burt Brooks, the credit union's Director of Stewardship & Outreach, continued TUMCU's commitment to help churches grow in their mission and ministry. He hosted several online "Stewardship Academy" sessions, as well as several specialized seminars around giving, budgeting, and stewardship planning.

TUMCU also launched a new program called ClergyAssist, to help active and retired clergy facing economic hardships with low interest loans and other financial assistance so they can avoid predatory lenders.

Another new offering this past year for the credit union are No-Fee Home Equity Lines of Credit (HELOCs), which allow our members to access the equity in their homes in order to make home improvements, make major purchases, or consolidate debt at lower rates than regular consumer loans.

The credit union is also proud to have helped a number of churches that have had their credit revoked or not renewed by their bank or credit union since many financial institutions have chosen to exit the "church" market for being, in their estimation, too risky and unprofitable. In contrast, we are proud to be a faith-based financial resource for our churches and pastors and intend to remain that way for many years to come.

We extend a heart-felt thank you to board members Susan W. Lewis, Thomas A. Rachele, and Joel H. Pollard for their invaluable service to the credit union. Sue retired from the board this past year after more than two decades of membership on the board, including service as secretary and treasurer. Thomas leaves after serving four years on the Supervisory Committee and eleven years as board member and treasurer. Joel retired from the board after serving eight years as secretary. In addition, we welcome to our board Paul Eichelberger, treasurer of the Baltimore-Washington Conference.

Special appreciation is also extended to our CEO, James Eads, and his exemplary staff for bringing a special level of personal and skilled expertise to their work on behalf of the credit union and its members.

With the assistance of such dedicated volunteers and staff, and as a result of TUMCU's focus on its member churches and individuals, the credit union has continued to grow and improve its financial strength. This has been a very busy and fruitful year for The United Methodist Credit Union as we have helped our members gain all they can, and save all they can, so they can give all they can.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The 2023 Spring and Fall meetings of the Trustees of the Virginia Conference Historical Society were held both in person and via Zoom. On February 25, the program was Ben Campbell and his book Richmond's Unhealed History regarding slavery. The October 7 program was Prof. Douglas Tzan and his book on Methodist missionary William Taylor.

The Reports below will show the very active work of our Society in its subgroups.

The Old Brunswick Circuit Foundation

In 2023 the Old Brunswick Circuit Foundation (TOBCF) accomplished the following:

1. Continued the implementation of the $209,605 ESHPF grant (aka Hurricane grant) received in 2021 from the Virginia Department of Historic Resources (VDHR) in partnership with the National Park Services (NPS) by:
 - ❖ Working to obtain the services of a qualified general contractor to do the construction needed to stabilize the foundation and chimneys of Canaan (the Edward Dromgoole House).
 - ❖ Accepting and funding a proposal submitted by the architectural firm, Glave and Holmes, for them to help us prepare a request for proposal (RFP) to solicit suitable candidates, provide construction and contract administration services and develop basic foundation engineering and framing repair designs needed for the job.
 - ❖ Arranging and participating in site visits for contractors so they could examine the Dromgoole house, ask questions and subsequently submit their proposals. As part of TOBCF's contract with them, Glave and Holmes provided these contractors and TOBCF with general engineering foundation design specifications to guide the required construction.
 - ❖ Negotiating with the general contractor who was the strongest contender for the job to determine the scope of work that could be completed within the budgetary constraints of the project
 - ❖ Organizing a site visit to the Dromgoole property for the VDHR's staff archaeologist, Mr. Michael Clem so that he could confirm the areas of archaeological significance on this site that contractors should avoid during construction. Mr. Clem surveyed the premises including what is initially believed to be a graveyard for enslaved people as well as other historical features on the grounds discussing with TOBCF representatives possible paths forward for their preservation.
2. Set up an informational tent on the courthouse square for the Boydton Day celebration that took place October 28, 2023 in Boydton, Virginia near TOBCF's Randolph Macon College and Boydton Institute historical site. This was done to engage with the local community in order to re-discover, save, and celebrate the history of the Boydton Institute. On display in the tent was an exhibit with short biographies, photos and the currently known names of Boydton Institute's scholars and teachers as well as historical photos of scenes around the campus. Walter Beales gave an afternoon interpretive tour of TOBCF's historical site. TOBCF also sponsored a professional storyteller, Mrs. Becky Stone, who performed in the Boydton library by telling stories written by the author, Dr. Lorenz Graham who had family ties to Dr. Charles Morris, the first African-American principal at the Boydton Institute
3. Board member Lewis Turner and wife Sylvia traveled to and did historical research at the Morristown and Morris Township Library in Morristown, New Jersey. They uncovered a scrapbook of Adeline W. Owen, Boydton Institute teacher and daughter of Dr. Frederick and Louisa Graves Owen, major contributors to the establishment of the institute. The scrapbook contained about 20 labeled photos of students, teachers, staff (including Mrs. Helen B. Sharpe, headmistress of the school) and life around the Boydton Institute campus in 1898/99.
4. Undertook an informal marketing survey in the community around the Ebenezer Academy Memorial Park identifying the need for and subsequently creating a brochure focused singly on that historical site.
5. Identified contractors for and solidified a contract to complete the brick repairs on the chimneys of the Helensha cottage, “Dry in” the house , grade the grounds around the house and spray herbicides on the large vines that are growing high up on the brick walls of the ruins of the main Randolph Macon and Boydton Institute brick building.

The William Watters Foundation

The William Watters Foundation is responsible for the preservation and interpretation of the William Watters Gravesite, United Methodist Historic Site No. 7, located in McLean, Virginia.

William Watters was the first American-born Methodist itinerant preacher to be officially appointed to a circuit at the first Methodist Conference held in America, in Philadelphia in 1773.

The William Watters Foundation held its annual meeting on September 9, 2023, at Trinity United Methodist Church in McLean, Virginia. The foundation’s vice president, David Meyers, led a very interesting discussion about the use of Ground Penetrating Radar (GPR) to detect unknown graves. The board granted permission for David Meyers and Myra Lindsey to meet with Aimee D. Wells, a Fairfax County Park Authority (FCPA) archaeologist, to discuss costs and requirements for performing GPR at the historic site. They also contacted archaeologist Mark Ludlow of M3 Archaeology LLC, who will perform the scan, upon approval of the board.

The foundation approved its slate of directors at the annual meeting, including a new director, the Rev. Bruce Johnson of Pender UMC in Fairfax. The Virginia Conference Historical Society confirmed the directors at its fall 2023 meeting. The foundation elected its officers at the October 6, 2023 board meeting, held via Zoom.

Care for the William Watters Gravesite, United Methodist Historic Site No. 7, is ongoing. The Rev. Rudy Tucker provided excellent lawncare at the site last year.

The Old Stone Church Foundation

The Old Stone Church Foundation was established in 1974 by the Virginia Conference Historical Society to preserve, protect and interpret the Old Stone Church site in Leesburg. The site, a United Methodist Heritage Landmark, was the first Methodist-owned church property in America, deeded in 1766.

The Old Stone Church Foundation continues to maintain the site in a manner befitting its stature as a superb United Methodist Shrine.

- ❖ Pictures in the entrance display at the site were renewed.
- ❖ President Bill Harrison vacated the Presidency for health reasons.
- ❖ The Foundation ended 2023 fiscally in the red.
- ❖ To correct its funding deficiency the Foundation plans a 2024 effort to increase membership.
- ❖ The Foundation plans to have a display at the June 2021 VA Conference.
- ❖ Three and perhaps four of the Foundation positions are expected to be vacated ion 2024
- ❖ Jack King was elected President of the Foundation vice Bill Harrison.
- ❖ Jack King participated in the VCHS February meeting at Shenandoah University.
- ❖ Jack King was asked, and he agreed, to be nominated as a VCHS Trustee.
- ❖ It remains to be seen in 2024 whether or not the Foundation can reverse its declining funding and membership trends.

Archives Committee

The primary activities of the Archivist of the Virginia Conference, Stephanie Davis, have centered around preparing for the anticipated receipt of the records of the 227 disaffiliated churches in the Conference. Records in the current collection have been consolidated and rearranged and materials not deemed appropriate for inclusion in the collection have been removed to make space for anticipated arrival of records.

To ensure that the records transferred to the Archives are handled as specified in The Book of Discipline, records guidance was developed and provided to the District Offices, and included a list and descriptions of records series that are to be transferred. In addition, a Church Records Delivery Form was created to assist with the efficient transfer.

The Conference Archivist has spoken with various District Offices about the importance of these records as well as providing phone guidance to District Administrators. To date, one set of records has been received in the Archives.

Early Virginia Methodist Records are maintained in the McGraw-Paige Library of Randolph Macon College, Rutland, Virginia, and the library works closely with the Virginia Conference Archives to provide continued maintenance and access to the collection. The Virginia Conference Historical Society recently approved a $15,000 disbursement of funds to the McGraw-Paige Library to support the digitization of 55 reels of microfilms of The Richmond Christian Advocate for the years 1867-1939. This will ensure their continued preservation and online availability to historians and scholars. Future processing and digitization of additional paper copies will be done over the next few years with continued support from the VCHS.

Work continues on the Conference Archives Website to make records and other resources readily available to scholars and others with an interest in Virginia Methodist history. Finding aids to the Archives' collections, links to other relevant collections on other sites, tools for researchers, and various researcher and donation forms are included.

Virginia United Methodist HERITAGE

Virginia United Methodist HERITAGE is the bi-annual scholarly journal produced by the Virginia Conference Historical Society. Its purpose is to document and to inform our readers of the rich United Methodist history found in the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The Fall 2023 issue of HERITAGE featured Father Kobler, by Omer Kelly Blosser, and was a discussion of the Rev. John Kobler's life in retirement and his contributions to the ministry of the church known today as Fredericksburg UMC.

Our Spring 2024 issue features Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church, Fauquier County, Virginia, a brief history from the church's founding in 1844 through Reconstruction, written by Lyle Minter. We also present How to Be a History Detective – One Easy Lesson, by Omer Kelly Blosser. The story tells of a mysterious box of artifacts found in the church archives, and the processes the Fredericksburg UMC History and Archives Committee used when researching the items to uncover hidden church history. We also begin a series called Many Churches' Mini Histories, brief accounts of interesting and unique historical events experienced by our Virginia Conference churches. We continue Saddlebags, short vignettes about the daily lives of Methodist circuit riders, composed by Mark Leep.

The VCHS Publications Committee voted to increase HERITAGE subscription rates, which took effect with the Spring 2024 issue. A "Spring Special" offered subscriptions at existing rates until the end of March 2024.

The Spring 2024 issue of HERITAGE will be delivered in mid-May. The publications committee has had a very positive response to advertising HERITAGE on ClergyNet and LaityNet and will continue to use these assets to improve our subscription numbers.

History Update Committee

The History Update Committee of the Virginia Conference Historical Society was formed in 2021. For several years now the committee of some fifteen people has been writing chapters treating various topics that are important for understanding the last 70 plus years of our conference history. The previous history of the Virginia Conference was published in 1955 by William Warren Sweet. It is expected that the current enterprise will entail several years to complete. Our methods for the project have involved researching conference archives and interviewing people with memories. We also want to give careful attention to emerging issues and current trends. The committee is making progress and is close to compiling a number of drafts of its work. We expect that our project will be digital in format so as to allow for flexibility in content, together with the preparation of an abbreviated print version.

The Historical Society and its Update Committee welcomes the interest and participation of others in this project as we continue our work. Especially now, we would welcome persons with editorial skills

STANDING RULES OF ORDER AND PROCEDURE

As Approved by The Virginia Annual Conference at its 2023 Session

The annual conference shall elect a Rules Committee as allowed by ¶604 of the Discipline and as set forth in ¶V.B.18 of the Standing Rules.

The Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies shall be those published in the Journal of The Virginia Annual Conference United Methodist Church of the preceding annual conference and shall be published in the Book of Reports of each annual conference.

The current edition of Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised shall apply to any and all situations not covered elsewhere by these rules.

I. THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

A. THE PURPOSE OF THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The purpose of the Virginia Annual Conference is to make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world by equipping its local churches for ministry and by providing a connection for ministry beyond the local church; all to the glory of God.

B. MEMBERSHIP

1. Clergy Membership. The clergy membership of the annual conference shall consist of deacons and elders in full connection, provisional members, associate members, affiliate members, and local pastors under full-time and part-time appointment to a pastoral charge.
2. Campus Ministries. Campus ministers, chaplains and Wesley Foundation directors shall be included in the annual conference composition. In districts where United Methodist laypersons serve as campus ministers/directors of Wesley Foundations, they shall be added as district-at-large lay members to the annual conference. In districts where United Methodist clergy who are members of the annual conference serve as chaplains, campus ministers, or directors of Wesley Foundations, the laypersons elected as their balancing counterpart shall be elected from and by either that campus ministry board of directors or the students from that ministry/foundation and their expenses paid by the district. Special consideration shall be given to the inclusion of United Methodist young adults who are active participants in campus ministry.
3. Lay Membership. All lay members of the annual conference shall conform to the requirements for membership of the 2016 Book of Discipline in ¶ 602.4, and consist of the following (or designated alternate), if lay persons:
 - a. a professing member elected by each charge; except that each charge served by more than one clergy member under appointment (including deacons in full connection for whom this is their primary appointment) shall be entitled to as many lay members as there are clergy members under appointment. (¶ 32, 2016 Book of Discipline)
 - b. diaconal ministers;
 - c. the active deaconesses and home missionaries under episcopal appointment within the bounds of the annual conference;
 - d. the conference president of United Methodist Women (hereinafter "United Women in Faith");
 - e. the conference president of United Methodist Men;
 - f. the conference lay leader;
 - g. district lay leaders;
 - h. the president of the conference young adult organization;

- i. a member of the conference youth organization;
 - j. the chair of the annual conference college student organization;
 - k. the conference secretary of global ministries;
 - l. the conference director of lay servant ministries;
 - m. one youth between the ages of 12 and 18 and one young person between the ages of 18 and 30 from each district, to be selected as set forth in 2016 Book of Discipline, ¶602.4.
 - n. at least three additional youth between the ages of 12 and 18 and at least three additional young adults between the ages of 18 and 30 from each district, to be selected by the District Council on Ministries or equivalent body.
 - o. the conference Treasurer;
 - p. the Chancellor(s) of the annual conference;
 - q. the Director of Connectional Ministries;
 - r. lay members of general boards, councils and commissions, and lay members who serve on agencies related to the general church and are mandated by the Discipline because of their office to serve on related annual conference agencies, who are members of such as of August 31 of the previous year;
 - s. district presidents of United Methodist Men;
 - t. district presidents of United Women in Faith;
 - u. conference Scouting coordinator;
 - v. the president or chairperson of the following annual conference agencies: Commission on Archives and History; Board of Church and Society; Church Development Team; Commission on Disabilities; Board of Discipleship; Commission on Equitable Compensation; Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy; Council on Finance and Administration; Missional Ministries Board; Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries; Board of Ordained Ministry; Rules Committee; Site Selection Committee; Commission on Status and Role of Women; Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc.; Trustees of the Virginia Annual Conference, Inc.; and Virginia Conference Board of Communications and Virginia United Methodist Foundation.
 - w. And by annual conference formula to equalize the number of lay and clergy membership of the annual conference (¶ 32, 2016 Book of Discipline) additional lay members to be elected by the lay members of the district conference of each district in such numbers as to provide that the total number of lay members from that district shall bear the same ratio to the total lay membership of the annual conference as the church membership of that district bears to the total church membership of the annual conference. Each district conference shall also elect alternates to those elected under this paragraph in number to equal at least one-third of the numbers provided under this subparagraph. The computations that form the basis for the determination of the additional lay membership to be elected by each district hereunder shall be based on the various membership categories as of the adjournment of the preceding annual conference. In making these computations, a lay person shall not be counted in more than one membership position. The Director of Connectional Ministries shall furnish to the Bishop by September 1 of each year the totals of each category of members together with the number of additional lay members to be elected by each district.
- 4. Members of Next Succeeding Annual Conference. By the adoption of Paragraphs 3. d-v, all lay persons holding the positions enumerated in those subparagraphs are elected as lay members of the next succeeding annual conference. In the event of a change in the persons holding a position in ¶ I.B.3. between sessions of the annual conference, the person holding the position at the time of the next succeeding annual conference shall be the member of the annual conference.
- 5. Expenses. Unless otherwise covered by a local charge, expenses of attending annual conference shall be born as follows:

- a. By the districts:
 - i. two youth between the ages of 12 and 18;
 - ii. two young adults between the ages of 18 and 30;
 - iii. the district lay leaders;
 - iv. the district president of the United Methodist Men;
 - v. the district president of the United Women in Faith;
 - vi. additional district members at large;
 - b. By the annual conference:
 - i. the Director of Connectional Ministries
 - ii. the Conference Director of Lay Servant Ministries;
 - iii. the president of the conference young adult organization;
 - iv. a member of the conference youth organization;
 - v. the conference Treasurer;
 - vi. the conference Chancellor(s);
 - vii. lay members of general boards, councils and commissions, and lay members who serve on agencies related to the general church and are mandated by the Discipline because of their office to serve on related annual conference agencies, who are members of such as of August 31 of the previous year;
 - viii. the chair of the annual conference college student organization;
 - ix. the conference scouting coordinator
 - c. By annual conference boards or agencies:
 - i. the Conference Lay Leader
 - ii. the conference president of the United Methodist Men;
 - iii. the conference president of the United Women in Faith;
 - iv. the Conference Secretary of Global Ministries
 - v. the president or chairperson, of the following annual conference agencies: Commission on Archives and History; Board of Church and Society; Church Development Team; Commission on Disabilities; Board of Discipleship, Commission on Equitable Compensation; Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy; Council on Finance and Administration; United Methodist Foundation; Missional Ministries Board; Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries; Board of Ordained Ministry; Rules Committee; Site Selection Committee; Commission on Status and Role of Women; Virginia United Methodist Pensions; Inc., Trustees of the Virginia Annual Conference, Inc.; and Virginia Conference Board of Communications.
- 6. Right to Floor and Right to Vote. With the exception of provisional members, associate members, and local pastors serving full time and part-time appointments, those members of the conference listed in ¶¶ I.B.1.,2., and 3. shall be full members of the conference with the right to the floor and the right to vote. Provisional members, associate members, and local pastors serving full time and part-time appointments have the right to the floor and the right to vote on all matters except the following:
- a. Constitutional amendments.
 - b. Matters of ordination, character and conference relations of clergy. These shall be the sole responsibility of clergy members in full connection.
- For the election of delegates to the General and the Jurisdictional conference the following clergy are eligible to vote:
- a. Active and retired members (elders and deacons)
 - b. Active and retired provisional members
 - c. Active and retired associate members
 - d. Part-time and full-time local pastors who have completed the educational requirements and have been under uninterrupted appointment for two years (2016 Book of Discipline ¶316.6).

e. Retired local pastors (including those under appointment) are NOT eligible to vote for the election of delegates (2016 Book of Discipline ¶320.5).

7. Roll of Conference. The roll of the conference shall be the official registration signed by the members of the conference.
8. Privilege of Floor Without Vote. The following shall be seated in the annual conference and shall be given the privilege of the floor without vote: official representatives from other denominations, especially from member churches of Churches Uniting In Christ, invited by the annual conference; missionaries regularly assigned by the General Board of Global Ministries and serving within the bounds of the annual conference; lay missionaries regularly appointed by the General Board of Global Ministries in nations other than the United States and certified lay missionaries from nations other than the United States serving within the bounds of the annual conference (quoting 2016 Book of Discipline ¶ 602.9).

C. ANNUAL CONFERENCE OFFICIALS

1. The Presiding Officer. The resident Bishop of the conference shall preside at all sessions of the conference but shall have the privilege of appointing a presiding officer to preside in his or her stead in the event of illness or temporary absence from the annual conference floor.
2. Annual Conference Secretary. The secretary of the annual conference shall be elected quadrennially by the annual conference upon nominations arising from the floor at annual conference following each regular General Conference of The United Methodist Church. In the event a vacancy occurs between sessions of the annual conference, the Bishop, after consultation with the District Superintendents, shall appoint a person to act until the next session.
3. Assistant Secretaries. The secretary shall annually nominate a sufficient number of assistant secretaries who shall be elected by the annual conference to handle properly the work of the annual conference.
4. Treasurer. The annual conference Treasurer shall be nominated by the Council on Finance and Administration. He or she shall be elected by the annual conference at the first session of the annual conference following the regular General Conference. He or she shall be elected for the quadrennium or until his or her successor has been elected and qualifies. If a vacancy should occur during the quadrennium, the Council on Finance and Administration shall fill the vacancy until the next session of the annual conference.
5. Statistician. The annual conference statistician shall be elected by the annual conference on nomination by the Cabinet at the annual conference following each regular General Conference of The United Methodist Church. In the event a vacancy occurs between sessions of the annual conference, the Bishop, after consultation with the District Superintendents, shall appoint a person to act until the next session of the annual conference.
6. Assistant Statisticians. The annual conference statistician shall annually nominate a sufficient number of assistant statisticians who shall be elected by the annual conference for the annual conference year.
7. Editor of the Annual Conference Journal. The annual conference secretary shall nominate annually the editor of the conference Journal, who shall be elected by the annual conference for the next calendar year. He or she shall be responsible for editing and printing the Journal of the Virginia Annual Conference and shall be amenable to the conference secretary.
8. Conference Parliamentarian. The Bishop may appoint a conference parliamentarian whose duty shall be to advise and counsel concerning rules of order and procedure.

D. NOMINATION AND ELECTION OF BOARDS, COUNCILS, COMMISSIONS, AND COMMITTEES

1. The Conference Nominations Team: There shall be a Conference Nominations Team. The team shall meet at least quarterly. The Director of Connectional Ministries and the Conference Lay Leader shall serve as co-chairs. The Conference Nominations Team shall consist of 18 members in addition to the co-chairs. Two members (one clergy, one lay) shall be appointed by the Bishop to ensure appropriate age, ethnic and gender representation on the Conference Nominations Team. The Bishop will make replacement appointments in a manner that continues to ensure appropriate age, ethnic and gender representation and in a manner that maintains the clergy/laity balance on the Conference Nominations Team. Of the remaining 16 members, eight shall be clergy and eight shall be lay. Each district of the Virginia Annual Conference shall be represented. Representatives of the Commission on the Status and Role of Women, the Commission on Disabilities, and the Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy shall monitor and have voice at these meetings.

All persons shall serve terms of four years, and no person shall serve for more than four consecutive years. As terms of district representatives expire, each District Nominations Facilitation Committee will name one replacement individual to serve on the Conference Nominations Team, clergy to replace lay, lay to replace clergy. In the event that a member moves from the district, resigns, or dies during his/her term, a replacement shall be selected in the manner which was applicable to the departing member, with the replacement only serving until the end of the original term.

Each District Nominations Facilitation Committee shall designate one of its members as an alternate to its District Representative on the Conference Nominations Team.

2. District Nominations Facilitation Committee. There shall be on each district a Nominations Facilitation Committee composed of the District Superintendent as chair; the district lay leader; president of United Methodist Men; president of United Women in Faith; a representative of United Methodist Youth; a college chaplain or a campus minister (applies only to districts with Wesley Foundation or ecumenical campus ministry programs), the district representative to the Conference Nominations Team, plus one to three persons (lay and clergy) elected by the district council on ministries. The committee shall meet on the call of the chair at least twice a year between annual conference and March 1. The committee shall develop and maintain a talent bank of lay and clergy persons from the district who could be qualified nominees for the various boards and agencies of the annual conference. The committee shall prepare a profile on each person nominated and upon having a person nominated to a board or agency of the conference, will provide a copy of that profile, including address and phone number, conference boards or agencies the individual is already serving, and the person's willingness to serve, to the co-chairs of the Conference Nominations Team.
3. Information to Be Furnished to Each District Nominations Facilitation Committee. Each board, council, commission and committee of the annual conference shall furnish to the co-chairs of the Conference Nominations Team on a timely basis for the use of the District Nominations Facilitation Committees:
 - a. A summary of its responsibilities and the specific division/committee for which a vacancy exists;
 - b. A list of the gifts and talents desired;
 - c. Length of service expected;
 - d. Demographic information about its current makeup (e.g., number of men, women, ethnic representation, district representation, etc.); and
 - e. Schedule of times and locations of its meetings during the year.

It may also suggest names and profiles to the Conference Nominations Team through its co-chairs.

4. When Conference Nominations Team Should Make Nominations. The Conference Nominations Team shall annually or quadrennially, as set forth by Disciplinary provision or Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies, nominate the membership of the boards, councils, commissions, and committees of the annual conference. Nominees for boards and other agencies shall be published in the Book of Reports.
5. Removal Due to Absences. Any member of any board, council, commission or committee who is absent from two meetings of such board, council, commission or committee without excuse, or from three consecutive agency meetings for any reason, shall automatically cease to be a member of such board, council, commission or committee. The secretary of each board, council, commission or committee shall notify the co-chairs of the Conference Nominations Team of vacancies. Any vacancy shall be filled by action of the board, council, commission or committee until the next annual conference session, at which time the annual conference shall fill the vacancy.

6. Request at Annual Charge Conferences for Names to be Given to District Nominations Facilitation Committee. At each annual charge conference the elder presiding at the charge conference shall ask if the Lay Leadership Committee has any names to recommend for conference boards, councils, commissions or committees. Such names shall be given to the district Nominations Facilitation Committee.
7. Multicultural Inclusiveness. The Conference Nominations Team shall strive to insure multicultural inclusiveness.
8. Normal Term Of Service Is Four Years. Unless otherwise specified in these rules or in the Book of Discipline, a person elected to a board, council, commission or committee of the annual conference is elected for a four-year term of service and is eligible for re-election to an additional four-year term. However, if one is first elected to fill an unexpired term of two years or less, that person is eligible for re-election to two full terms. A person completing two consecutive full terms is eligible for re-election to that agency after an interim of one year. In the case of a board or agency with an eight-year term, members elected to fill unexpired terms of three years or less shall be eligible for re-election to one full term of eight years. Program boards and agencies other than the Board of Ordained Ministry may co-opt specific persons for specific projects for short periods of time as consultants, without vote. Any combination of continuous service as either a regular or co-opted member shall count on the eight-year time limit for consecutive service. The term of office of members of conference boards and agencies shall begin with the adjournment of the Annual Conference at which said members are elected and shall extend until their successors are elected.
9. Ex-Officia Members. Members of general boards or agencies shall be members ex-officio of the corresponding conference board or agency.
10. Nomination or Election to Only One Board, Council, Commission, or Standing Committee with Limited Exceptions. No person is eligible for nomination, election, or interim appointment to more than one board, council, commission, or standing committee, except where permitted by the Discipline and/or conference structure.
11. District Superintendent Not Eligible to be Chairperson or President of Board, Council, Commission, or Standing Committee. No District Superintendent shall be eligible to serve as a chairperson or president of any board, council, commission, or committee of the annual conference. The Bishop may appoint a representative of the Cabinet to any board, council, commission, or committee which is not program related of which a member of the Cabinet is not already an elected member. The appointment of District Superintendents to boards, councils, commissions, or committees which are program related shall be made annually.
12. Officers of Quadrennially Elected Boards, Councils, Commissions or Committees. Officers of boards, councils, commissions, and committees whose members are required to be elected quadrennially shall be elected by the representative agency at the session of the annual conference at which new members are elected or within ninety days after adjournment. Nominations shall come from a nominating committee appointed by the outgoing president of the agency and/or from the floor. The organizational or first meeting of each agency shall be convened by a person designated by the Bishop.
13. Officers of Other Boards, Councils, Commissions and Committees. Officers of other boards, councils, commissions and committees shall be elected by the representative agency at the agency's last regular meeting prior to each annual conference. Nominations shall come from a nominating committee appointed by the outgoing president of the agency and/or from the floor.
14. Tellers. For those sessions of the annual conference where there is no election of delegates to General Conference and the jurisdictional conference, the Conference Nominations Team shall, as necessary, appoint a chief teller, who shall be ineligible to serve again for a quadrennium. It shall additionally appoint a team of tellers composed of four persons, twoclergy and two lay, from each district. Each time a count vote is called for in the annual conference session, the chief teller shall have the tellers ready to count the vote, having previously trained them to accurately and efficiently perform their duties.

II. REPORTS, PRESENTATIONS, PETITIONS, PROPOSALS AND CONSENT AGENDA

A. REPORTS

1. Submission of Annual Reports and Publishing of Book of Reports. Agencies shall submit annual reports to the designated person before the date set annually by the Common Table for Church Vitality. The Director of Connec-tional Ministries shall make available the Book of Reports to each clergy and lay member of annual conference at least 30 days before the opening session of annual conference.
2. Reporting At Annual Conference. For reports printed in the Book of Reports, verbal introductions shall not exceed five minutes, and there shall be no further reading of reports, unless requested for clarification or requested by a majority vote of the annual conference. The presiding Bishop may amend the Annual Conference agenda or schedule as needed.
3. Amendments to be Submitted in Writing. Persons proposing amendments to any report must submit them in writing to the secretary upon presentation to the annual conference.
4. Submission of New Reports, Changes, or Additions to Printed Report. Persons proposing new reports, changes or additions to the printed report of an agency in the Book of Reports must submit them in writing for delivery to members of the annual conference at or before the opening session, but not to be considered by the annual confer-ence before the morning session of the second day of annual conference, or at such time as directed by the resident Bishop or presiding officer for consideration.
5. Presiding Officer of Agency giving Report has Privilege of Floor, without Vote, for that Report. When the annual conference has before it the report of any agency, or a matter concerning any agency, the presiding officer of that group, if not a member of the conference, shall have the privilege of the floor, without vote, for that report.

B. PRESENTATIONS

Requests for inclusion of presentations for the annual conference agenda shall be submitted to the Director of Connec-tional Ministries by the due date for the publication of the Book of Reports. The author or originating agency must be identified if other than the submitter(s) of the proposal.

C. PETITIONS

An area designated by the annual conference planning committee shall be determined for receiving signatures for petitions.

D. PROPOSALS

1. Proposals Requiring Publication of Materials. Proposed annual conference action that includes publication or dissemination of information shall be referred to the Print Media Committee of Virginia Conference Board of Communications for its consideration and report on the proposed action, including the financial consequences, prior to conference action. The committee may act through its chairperson, the Virginia Conference Director of Communications, or other representatives to make its report and recommendation.
2. Proposals Requiring Funding. Proposals or amendments which may require expenditure of funds, which have not been considered by the Council on Finance and Administration (CFA), must be submitted by the conclusion of the afternoon session preceding the concluding day of annual conference, or at such time as directed by the resident Bishop, presiding officer, or the CFA. Such proposals of amendments which may require expenditure of funds shall be referred to CFA for its consideration and recommendation prior to final annual conference action.
3. Proposals Requiring Addition to Agenda. During the first business session of annual conference, the agenda shall include time to introduce items in addition to the printed agenda. Any such items not referred to conference agen-cies under the preceding paragraphs shall be referred to the Rules Committee for its consideration and recommen-dation prior to adjournment of annual conference.
4. Proposals from the Floor. A motion is a formal proposal. Anytime the Annual Conference is in session and there is no business on the floor of the Annual Conference, a proposal from the floor may be made. This proposal will need to be placed in writing and in conjunction with the rules as stated in VII K.

E. CONSENT AGENDA

Agenda items and reports not requiring action by the Annual Conference other than a vote to receive said items for publication in the Journal shall be placed on a Consent Agenda. For any item or report to be eligible for placement on the Consent Agenda, it must have been distributed in the pre-Conference materials. Determination of items to be placed on the Consent Agenda shall be made annually by the Bishop in consultation with the Consent Agenda Committee. This committee shall be composed of the Conference Secretary, the Conference Lay Leader, the Chair of the Conference Rules Committee, and the Director of Connectional Ministries. An individual item may be removed from the Consent Agenda at the request of no less than 30 members of the annual conference. The process for making that request will be determined by the Consent Agenda Committee, and the deadline for such requests will not be prior to ten minutes after the call to order of the annual conference session. The Consent Agenda will be made available electronically one week prior to the annual conference. When an individual item has been removed from the Consent Agenda, it shall be placed into the regular agenda

III. ELECTION OF DELEGATES TO GENERAL CONFERENCE AND THE JURISDICTIONAL CONFERENCE

A. AN INCLUSIVE CHURCH

We are an inclusive church. We desire to have a delegation that will capably represent the annual conference. The delegation should be representative of the annual conference considering such factors as sex, age, race, disability, ethnic background, economic conditions and geographical locations.

B. ELECTION PROCEDURES

Clergy and lay delegates to General Conference and the jurisdictional conference shall be elected in a fair and open process at the session of the annual conference held not more than two years preceding the session of General Conference.

1. Special Sessions. Clergy and lay delegates elected to the preceding General Conference and the jurisdictional conference shall be the delegates to special sessions of the respective conferences.
2. Number of Delegates. The number of clergy and lay delegates to the General Conference and the jurisdictional conference shall be that number of delegates to such conferences respectively as furnished by the secretary of the General Conference.
3. Election of General Conference and jurisdictional conference Delegates. The number of General Conference delegates authorized by the secretary of the General Conference shall be first elected, followed by balloting on the authorized number of the jurisdictional conference delegates who shall be reserves to General Conference in the order of their election. After the authorized numbers of the jurisdictional conference delegates have been elected, 10 clergy and 10 lay reserve delegates to the jurisdictional conference shall be elected on a single ballot with the 10 persons receiving the greatest number of votes in each category being elected in the order of the number of votes received.
4. Speeches/Printed Materials. No speeches may be made or printed materials distributed at the site of the Annual Conference on behalf of any nominee.
5. Nominee Participation. Nothing herein shall prevent any nominee from
 - a. appearing and speaking, once recognized, for the purpose of conducting Conference business
 - b. fully participating in activities of the Conference including the debate over budgets or proposals pending before the Conference. This shall include the right to bring petitions or amendments to the Conference and encourage votes for or against the same.

- c. conducting one-on-one conversations about the election of delegates to the General Conference and the jurisdictional conference including how that nominee proposes to represent the Conference at such events. Nominees are reminded to respect the need of the Conference to conduct business and are asked to take such conversations off the floor of the Conference.

C. CLERGY NOMINATIONS

1. Eligibility

- a. To be nominated. All clergy members in full connection and those who are recommended by the Board of Ordained Ministry to full membership in the connection are eligible to be nominated (2016 Book of Discipline ¶35), except as provided in 2016 Book of Discipline ¶354.8.

- b. To vote

- i. The following clergy are eligible to vote:
 - a) Active and retired members (elders and deacons)
 - b) Active and retired provisional members
 - c) Active and retired associate members
 - d) Part-time and full-time local pastors who have completed the educational requirements and have been under uninterrupted appointment for two years (2016 Book of Discipline ¶316.6)
- ii. Retired local pastors (including those under appointment) are NOT eligible to vote (2016 Book of Discipline, ¶320.5).

2. Nomination Process.

- a. All eligible clergy have the opportunity to serve as delegates to General Conference and jurisdictional conference. Clergy persons desiring nomination/election as delegates to General and jurisdictional must follow the process outlined below. No exceptions to the process, including deadline dates, will be granted except as mandated by changes in The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church and/or the Annual Conference in changing these rules.

Those who consent to or desire nomination are asked to commit to the following expectations:

- 1) Pray for God's guidance in decision-making;
- 2) Commit the time needed to read and study the issues;
- 3) Attend the meetings of the Virginia Conference delegations;
- 4) Attend both General Conference and jurisdictional conference.

Each clergy nomination shall be submitted on a clergy nomination form. Clergy nomination forms will be posted on the conference web site in January preceding the Annual Conference session of delegate elections. The form shall include the names one clergy who is eligible to vote who is making the nomination. Alternatively, any clergy who desires nomination must complete a clergy nomination form. All nominations shall include the nominee's name, picture not to exceed 1 1/2" by 2 1/2" unless nominated from the floor of the Annual Conference, address, phone number, e-mail address if available, church, district, and should include a personal statement no to exceed 150 words in which may be indicated the nominee's experience, qualifications, and reasons for wanting to serve. There shall be a box to be checked stating: "Nominee is aware of nomination and agrees to serve if elected.", and a line for the signature of the nominee. The completed nomination form or facsimile thereof must be returned to the Director of Connectional Ministries no later than March 1 preceding the Annual Conference session of delegate elections. The deadline is non-negotiable.

- b. Clergy Nominations from the Floor. After the convening of the Annual Conference session, prior to entering block voting, the presiding Bishop will ask for any nominations from the floor. Any nominations made from the floor must be made by eligible clergy (III.C.1.b.i) and the nominee must be present to accept or decline the nomination. Nominations from the floor shall be closed by the presiding Bishop.

- c. Clergy Nomination Review Committee. The committee shall be composed of two persons appointed by the bishop plus one clergy member of the Rules Committee designated by that committee. The Director of Clergy Excellence shall serve as an ex-officio member. The committee shall review and compile all nomination forms alphabetically according to the last name of the nominee. This clergy nomination booklet will be available on the conference web site. Printed copies will be available at cost from the office of the Director of Connectional Ministries. An alphabetical listing will be included in the clergy Book of Reports packet. This committee will also be responsible for reviewing and validating any nominations made from the floor of the Annual Conference.

D. LAY NOMINATIONS

1. Lay Nominations from Districts. Nominations for lay delegates to General Conference and the jurisdictional conference shall be made by the lay members of the district conference of each district from names submitted by the District Council on Ministries and/or from names of all persons given by any member of The United Methodist Churches of the district to the District Superintendent. These names shall be submitted by the superintendent to the District Conference. Additional nominations at the district conference may be made from the floor, provided that no nomination may be made without the agreement of the nominee to serve if elected. In the event of a tie for the final nominee(s), the nominee(s) shall be selected by lot.

Each district may nominate up to one person for each 2,000 members of The United Methodist Church or major fraction thereof in that district, based upon figures reported at the preceding annual conference. District nominees need not be from the district which nominates them
2. Agency Nominations. The lay members of the following agencies of the annual conference may also nominate one additional lay delegate: Board of Church and Society; Commission on Disabilities; Board of Discipleship; Commission on Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy; Council on Finance and Administration; Missional Ministries Board; Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries; Board of Laity; Commission on the Status and Role of Women; United Methodist Men; United Women in Faith; Virginia Conference Board of Communications; and Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc. In addition to the aforementioned nominees, the Conference Council on Youth Ministries, and the Virginia United Methodist Student Movement each may nominate one delegate.
3. Church Membership. All nominees shall have been professing members of The United Methodist Church for at least two years preceding their nomination and must be members of churches in the Virginia Annual Conference and shall have been active participants in The United Methodist Church for at least four years preceding their election. They also must be active members within The United Methodist Church at the time of holding General Conference and jurisdictional conference. The four-year participation and two-year membership requirements may be waived for young persons under twenty-five years of age. Such persons must be members of The United Methodist Church and active participants at the time of election.
4. Nomination Forms. All nominations shall include the nominee's name, picture not to exceed 1½" x 2½" (unless nominated from, the floor of the Annual Conference), address, phone number, e-mail address if available, church, district, and should include a personal statement not to exceed 150 words in which the nominee may indicate his or her experience, qualifications and reasons for wanting to serve. There shall be a box to be checked stating: "Nominee is aware of nomination and agrees to serve if elected.", and a line for the signature of the nominee. The nominations shall be on a form or facsimile thereof furnished by the Director of Connectional Ministries. It is recommended that the nomination forms for persons to be voted upon by the district conference be circulated to the members of the district conference in advance of the district conference at which voting is to take place.
5. Lay Nominations from the Floor. After the convening of the Annual Conference session, prior to entering block voting, the presiding Bishop will ask for any nominations from the floor. Any nominations made from the floor must be made by lay members of the Annual Conference (I.B.3) and the nominee must be present to accept or decline the nomination. Nominations from the floor shall be closed by the presiding Bishop.
6. Conference committee on lay delegate nominations.
 - a. Membership. The committee shall be composed of two persons appointed by the Bishop plus one member of the Rules Committee designated by that committee.

- b. Function. Each District Superintendent shall by January 15 of the year of election submit to this committee in care of the Director of Connectional Ministries completed forms for all nominees from the district. The committee shall then forward a list of all nominees to the agencies named in ¶ III.D.2. Each agency of the annual conference shall be responsible for forwarding to the committee any completed nomination form no later than March 1. The committee shall review and compile all nomination forms alphabetically according to the last name of the nominee. This lay nomination booklet will be made available on the conference website. Printed copies will be available at cost from the office of the Director of Connectional Ministries. An alphabetical listing will be included in the Book of Reports. This committee will also be responsible for reviewing and validating any nomination forms made from the floor of the Annual Conference.
- c. List of Nominees. The lay nominees shall be those persons named on the nomination forms and nominated from the floor.

E. BALLOTING PROCEDURES

1. Separate Voting Areas. Following the convening of Annual Conference, clergy and laity will separate to elect General and jurisdictional delegates and alternates, allowing five (5) hours to complete the process.
2. Ballots Shall be Counted Electronically. The Rules Committee shall determine the electronic equipment and procedures to be used and shall do so in consultation with the chief lay and clergy tellers.
3. Valid Ballots. To be valid, a ballot:
 - (a) must be cast on the ballot bearing the number designated by the presiding officer for that particular ballot; and
 - (b) must be voted for the number of delegates and/or alternates to be elected on that ballot, no more and no less.
4. Voting Area. The presiding officer shall designate the areas for Lay and Clergy voting. Ballots shall be cast from only those present and seated within the voting areas of the annual conference and displaying the proper credentials.
5. Ballot Reporting. After a ballot has been counted, the chief teller, either clergy or lay, shall furnish a written report to the Bishop which shall contain (a) number of ballots cast; (b) number of invalid ballots; (c) number of ballots counted; (d) number of ballots necessary to elect; and (e) list of names of persons voted for, including the number of votes received by each, beginning with the largest number of votes.
6. Conditions for a Revote. After the ballots have been counted and reported, if the number of collective invalid ballots exceeds 15%, the Bishop shall declare the prior ballot invalid and shall order a revote.
7. Majority Required for Election. On every ballot, a majority of the valid votes cast shall be necessary for the election of a delegate, except on the ballot to elect reserve delegates to the jurisdictional conference.
8. Reading or Distributing Names. On the first ballot for General Conference, the presiding officer shall read or display all names receiving votes with the number of votes cast for each. After the first ballot, the 25 nominees receiving the highest number of votes shall be read or displayed, according to the highest number of votes received. In the event of a tie between two or more nominees for the last available position on the General or jurisdictional delegation, a run-off election will be ordered by the bishop to select the person to fill that position. Only the names of those in the run-off are open for votes. The names will be read in order of their election. The person with the highest number of votes cast will be seated with the appropriate delegation.

When all General Conference delegates have been elected, the same procedure shall be followed for jurisdictional conference delegates

9. Handling of Ballots after Counting and Recording. Upon completion of the counting and recording of a ballot, the chief teller shall seal the ballot results and deliver them to the annual conference secretary. The annual conference secretary shall retain all ballot results until the adjournment of the annual conference after which they shall be destroyed.

F. TELLERS

1. Appointment of Chief Tellers, Assistant Chief Tellers and Tellers. The Conference Nominations Team shall appoint a chief teller and an assistant chief teller for the clergy tellers and a chief teller and an assistant chief teller for the lay tellers. The chief tellers shall not be eligible to serve in the year of the next election of delegates to General Conference and jurisdictional conference. The Conference Nominations Team shall additionally appoint four (4) clergy and four (4) lay members of the annual conference from each district to form a pool of tellers from which as many teams shall be formed as the chief tellers deem advisable. One member of each team shall be designated as the captain for that team.
2. Expenses for Balloting. All expenses incident to the balloting for and election of delegates to General Conference and the jurisdictional conference shall be borne by the annual conference.

G. EXPENSES OF CLERGY AND LAY ALTERNATES

The expenses of two clergy and two lay alternates to General Conference and to the jurisdictional conference shall be borne by the annual conference. Such expense allowances shall not exceed the expense allowances, per diem and travel, as are paid to the regular delegates.

H. DELEGATES UNDER THE AGE OF 18

When a General Conference or jurisdictional conference delegate will be under the age of 18 at the time of General Conference and/or jurisdictional conference, the Virginia Conference Child Protection Policy will be observed for this person. The leader of the General Conference Delegation will be responsible for implementation of the Child Protection Policy.

IV. NOMINATIONS FOR EPISCOPAL ELECTION

At the annual conference immediately preceding the jurisdictional conference, nominations for the office of Bishop may be made by submitting the name of an elder and a biographical sketch of not more than 100 words to the secretary of the conference signed by not fewer than 50 members of the annual conference. To be eligible for nomination the person must not have attained his or her 68th birthday prior to the first day of the month in which the jurisdictional conference is held. Nominations shall cease at the close of the afternoon session of the first day of the annual conference.

The conference secretary shall cause copies of each sketch to be prepared and distributed to the members of the annual conference. Ballots shall be prepared containing the name of each nominee and, beside each name, a square followed by the word “yes.” The ballots shall be distributed to the members of the annual conference immediately before they are to be cast. A member of the annual conference may vote for one or more nominees, but not more than the number of episcopal vacancies to be filled, or may choose not to vote for any of the nominees. To be nominated to the jurisdictional conference, a nominee must receive an affirmative vote of not less than 60 percent of the total ballots cast.

V. ANNUAL CONFERENCE PROGRAMS — COMMON TABLE FOR CHURCH VITALITY, BOARDS AND AGENCIES

A. THE COMMON TABLE FOR CHURCH VITALITY. The Common Table for Church Vitality (“Common Table”) exists to resource mission and ministry to fulfill the conference mission and vision. As a diverse body of representatives, the Common Table coordinates with Boards and Agencies, assists in the disbursement of ministry and program grants, and oversees the personnel of the Annual Conference offices that are under its guidance. The Common Table supports the Director of Connectional Ministries to fulfill the requirements of Paragraph 208 in the Book of Discipline. The mission, values, membership, officers, committees, meetings, finances, as well as the responsibilities of the Director of Connectional Ministries are set forth in the Charter for the Common Table for Church Vitality. This Charter is an Appendix to these Standing Rules of Order and Procedure for ease of reference but is not incorporated into these Standing Rules.

B. ANNUAL CONFERENCE PROGRAM BOARDS AND AGENCIES

The following are defined as program boards and agencies: The Board of Church and Society, the Church Development Team, the Board of Discipleship, the Missional Ministries Board, the Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries, and the Board of Laity. Each board and agency shall meet at least annually.

1. Membership. All program board and agency members shall be elected for a four-year term by the annual conference. So far as possible, board membership shall be composed of an equal number of clergy and laity. No elected member may serve more than eight consecutive years except as authorized by the Discipline or in ¶ I.D.8 of the Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies. The bishop shall annually appoint for one year terms at least one District Superintendent to each board, agency or commission. Except for the Board of Ordained Ministry, the presiding bishop and the Director of Connectional Ministries are members of all boards, agencies and commissions with vote unless otherwise provided for by the Book of Discipline.
2. Organization. The boards shall organize in the several divisions or equivalent structure listed below to carry out their respective functions. Each member of a board shall serve on one division or equivalent structure. There shall be an executive committee of each board whose duties and responsibilities shall be determined by the board. A board may develop such additional structure, including the election of division members at large, as it deems necessary to discharge its assigned responsibilities, provided, however, that where additional funding is required for such structure, prior approval of the Common Table for Church Vitality shall be obtained by the board. Division members at large are not members of the board.
3. Function. The conference boards will provide consultative services and resources to the local church, the District Councils on Ministries, the annual conference and the Common Table for Church Vitality. Each board will make program recommendations to the Common Table for Church Vitality, will be responsible for the essential functions of the area of concern assigned by the Common Table for Church Vitality, or by the Book of Discipline, and will be related to the objectives and scope of work set forth by its General Board. Each board is amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality.
4. Responsibilities.
 - a. Church and Society. The Board of Church and Society, in cooperation with the General Board of Church and Society and the Common Table for Church Vitality, shall develop programs on Christian social concern within the bounds of the annual conference. To discharge its responsibilities it shall divide its membership into committees, which so far as practical shall be patterned after the divisions of the General Board of Church and Society. The total membership shall be 20 (10 lay and 10 clergy).
 - b. Church Development Team. There shall be a Church Development Team dedicated to working on strategies for and implementation of church development and new faith communities in the annual conference. This team/board will consist of a minimum of 12 and up to 16 persons: six nominated by the bishop and Cabinet, six nominated by the Conference Nominations Team, and up to four additional persons who may be co-opted by the team for expertise and diversity. The membership of this team will be placed in four classes to ensure continuity. The team is amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality.
 - c. Discipleship. TThe Board of Discipleship in cooperation with the General Board of Discipleship and the Common Table for Church Vitality shall create partnerships by providing a network of experience, knowledge and coaching through intentional connection to enhance or create effective disciple making processes. These partnerships are created by: (1) coaching at local levels and pulling in identified district and conference resources as needed, (2) training at district or regional levels, (3) drawing on best practices gathered locally, jurisdictionally, nationally and globally, (4) connecting mentor/resource churches with those who request assistance and information, (5) organizing in regional teams, and (6) raising vision, visibility and possibility during Annual Conference sessions and inviting people to connect with a congregational coach. The Board of Discipleship shall consist of a directing board to set the vision for disciple-making ministries in the annual conference and to support research on best practices, gathered and distributed by a Conference Awareness Team at events and through all other forms of communication.

The Directing Board will consist of the following eight (8) members: three officers (chair, vice-chair, and secretary)

to be elected by the Annual Conference, the chair of the Disciple Resource Team, and four (4) Regional Network Leads. In addition, the Bishops' Foundation will be represented by one person with voice but no vote. The Directing Board will select individuals to serve as leads of the Regional Network Teams. The Regional Network Leads will be ex-officio members of the Directing Board with voice and vote.

The Disciple Resource Team will consist of eight (8) members, Four classes of two, one laity and one clergy per class. Members of the Disciple Resource Team will be nominated from the Conference Nominations Team (CLDDT) and elected by the Annual Conference.

Members of the Regional Network Teams will be selected by the Regional Network Leads, in consultation with the Directing Board, based upon best practices research.

Each age-level council will meet at least annually as the conference council for the respective ministry areas (with additional members as required by conference Rules and the Book of Discipline, if any) for: (a) sharing of the best practices in their regions, (b) training which will enhance their service to the faith communities within each region, (c) coordinating of conference programs and initiatives as appropriate, and (d) serving as resources to the Regional Network Teams.

The Youth Council and Young Adult Council (ages 18 – 35) will consist of members as mandated in the appropriate sections of The Book of Discipline.

The Youth Council shall have one youth representative (grade 7 – 12) elected by each District Youth Council or equivalent. Six adults shall be elected to the Youth Council: three adults elected by the Youth Council or equivalent and three elected by the Annual Conference.

The Young Adult Council shall have three additional young adult members at-large elected by the Annual Conference.

The Older Adult Council shall have six members elected by the Annual Conference.

d. Missional Ministries. The Missional Ministries Board in cooperation with the General Board of Global Ministries and the Common Table for Church Vitality shall develop programs to assist and invite districts and local churches to carry out all phases of the work of the church in mission and of church extension within the annual conference. The Associate Director of Serving Ministries shall serve as the Conference Secretary of Global Ministries (CSGM), fulfilling the responsibilities outlined in ¶ 633.3 of the 2016 Book of Discipline. To discharge its responsibilities it shall divide into three (3) mission teams: (1) Missional Discipleship and Engagement and (2) Missional Connection and (3) Partnership of Hope. The position of Conference Coordinator of Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns (CUIC) shall be appointed by the Bishop and shall be an ex-officio member of the Mission Connection Team of the Conference Missional Ministries Board, as outlined in ¶ 633.2 of the 2016 Book of Discipline.

The membership of the board shall be 20, with 6 or 4 persons (one-half lay and one-half clergy) elected each year to replace outgoing classes.

- e. Higher Education and Campus Ministries. The Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries in cooperation with the General Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries and the Common Table for Church Vitality, shall develop programs to provide for higher education and ministry objectives as set forth in ¶ 1405 of the 2016 Book of Discipline, and to perform the responsibilities in regard to education and professional campus ministries as set forth in ¶ 634 of the 2016 Book of Discipline.

Membership: With an effort to maintain a balance of clergy and laity, the Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries shall have 12 Conference elected members (placed in four classes): a current campus minister, a current Campus Ministry Local Board Chairperson, a current local church pastor with passion for campus ministry, a current United Methodist College or University President (or their designee), a young adult/student, a member with expertise in property management, and six general members (with a preference for expertise in executive leadership, finance, communication, and marketing). The member who has expertise in the area of property management shall also serve as the chairperson of the Conference Board of Property Managers of the Wesley Foundation, Inc. Ex officio members shall be: the Director of Connectional Ministries, a Liaison District Superintendent (liaison between the BHECM and the Cabinet), the Conference Treasurer, and any Virginia Conference member to the General Board of Higher Education and Campus Ministries. The designated conference staff person will serve as members with voice but no vote. The term for chairperson shall be four years and terms for members shall also be four years and follow section I.D.8 of the Conference Rules and Policies. Nominations and election of the chairperson shall follow section I.D.11 of the Conference Rules and Policies. The Executive Committee of the BHECM shall consist of the chairperson, the Liaison District Superintendent, the current campus minister, the member with expertise in property management and three general members.

Organization: The BHECM will meet a minimum of every other month. The Executive Committee will meet as needed. The BHECM will also be responsible for a minimum of one annual meeting for the following: Effectiveness Training Forums for Local Campus Ministry Boards, Effectiveness Training Forums for Campus Ministers/Chaplains, and Effectiveness Discussion Forums for District Superintendents. The incorporated entities of the board are the Wesley Foundation, Inc., and Francis Asbury Loan Fund, Inc. The conference board of property managers is a sub-group of the Wesley Foundation, Inc. The Executive Committee of the Board shall function as the board of directors of both the Wesley Foundation, Inc., and Francis Asbury Loan Fund, Inc.

- f. Laity. The Board of Laity shall act as an advocate for the Virginia Annual Conference laity in all forums of the annual conference. The purpose of the Board of Laity is to fulfill the mission of making disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world; and carry out the vision of the Annual Conference. Membership of the Board of Laity shall be composed of the conference lay leader, four associate conference lay leaders, the Conference Director(s) of Lay Servant Ministries, the presidents of the conference organizations of United Methodist Men and United Women in Faith or their designees, Young People's Representative selected by the Youth or Young Adult Council, district lay leaders, one Connectional Ministries staff representative, one District Superintendent appointed by the Bishop, and the Bishop. No more than three clergy who model excellence in the lay-clergy partnership for ministry will be appointed by the Executive Committee. The Conference Director of Scouting Ministries is to be appointed by the President and approved by the Board with voice representation. The Board of Laity shall nominate to the annual conference for election a layperson to be the conference lay leader for the ensuing four (4) years. Any person elected to the office of conference lay leader shall not be eligible to serve more than two consecutive terms, or a total of eight (8) years.

C. ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES

The following agencies having administrative responsibilities are grouped together under the general title "Administration" with duties and responsibilities as indicated.

1. Archives and History, Commission on. There shall be a Commission on Archives and History and a Virginia Conference Historical Society. The duties and responsibilities of the commission shall be as set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline (See ¶ 641). Members of the annual conference shall be members of the Virginia Conference Historical Society, which will elect 48 members to the commission who will also serve as the directors of the Virginia Conference Historical Society. The officers of the commission and the society shall be the same.
2. Bishops' Foundation. There shall be a Bishops' Foundation whose purpose is to provide funding for leadership development of both lay and clergypersons of the Virginia Conference of The United Methodist Church in the areas of evangelism and preaching in the Wesleyan spirit, and whose Board of Directors shall consist of nine (9) directors nominated by the Cabinet of the Virginia Conference and elected by the Annual Conference: five (5) clergy members and four (4) lay members serving for staggered terms of three (3) years after the initial term of 1, 2, and 3 years. The director of Connectional Ministries of the Virginia Conference or his/her designee will serve as an ex officio member of the Board of Directors.
3. Communications, Virginia Conference Board of. There shall be a Conference Board of Communications which is to serve all of the agencies of the annual conference in the area of communication. It shall be administratively related to and amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality. The board and/or its subunits may be incorporated.

- a. Function: The mission of Virginia United Methodist Communications is to assist faith communities in communications and related technologies, empowering their mission to make disciples of Jesus Christ.
- b. Membership: Virginia Conference Board of Communications shall consist of 24 persons, 14 of whom (half lay and half clergy) shall be elected by the annual conference. The 14 members thus elected and ex officio members shall elect 10 additional members at large selected with regard to professional expertise, nonprofessional objectivity, and media representation. The ex officio members shall be the Director of Connectional Ministries, a Cabinet representative, Director of Communications for the Virginia Conference, the Conference Manager of Technology, and any member of United Methodist Communications, the United Methodist Publishing House, and any other general board or agency whose purpose or function is included with the purposes and functions of this organization, or their successors, who is a member of a local charge in the Virginia Annual Conference or a clergy member of the Virginia Annual Conference. There shall be a president, vice president and secretary.
- c. Organization: There shall be the following committees:
 - i. Executive Committee. shall consist of the elected officers of the board, the conference Director of Communications and one additional member of the board. The non-officer member of the Executive Committee shall be elected quadrennially by the Board of Directors and shall hold office until the successor is elected and qualified. Vacancies may be filled at any meeting of the Board of Directors. All non-officer members of the Executive Committee shall be chosen from among the directors. The Executive Committee shall include both laypersons and clergypersons. The president shall act as chair of the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee shall also serve as the committee on Nominations, with the board vice president overseeing the business of nominations. The Executive Committee shall review board membership annually and recommend changes in membership to the board.
 - ii. Project Committees. As needs arise, project committees may be appointed by the president to function on behalf of specific projects or activities of the board. Any two (2) members of a project committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the committee's business. The president shall be an ex-officio of all such project committees. It is strongly encouraged that all board members serve on a project.
 - iii. Finance. The Director of Communications for the Virginia Conference shall be designated as the person who can authorize expenditures on behalf of the corporation under the direction of the Board of Directors.
 - iv. Budget. The Director of Communications for the Virginia Conference, working closely with the board president, committee chairs, and communications staff will annually develop the various communication budgets and submit them to the board for approval and will regularly review expenditures to insure compliance with the adopted budgets. The Board of Directors, prior to the budget deadline of the annual conference Connectional Ministries office each year, shall recommend an income and expense budget covering all activities for the next fiscal year, including capital improvements or expenditures.
4. Conference Nominations Team. (See ¶ I.D.1. for composition and function of the Conference Nominations Team.)
5. Disabilities, Commission on. The commission shall consist of 18 members, half clergy and half lay. Membership shall include persons with physical disabilities and persons with intellectual disabilities. The Bishop may appoint to the commission a District Superintendent to serve as Cabinet representative with voice but not vote.
6. Episcopacy, Committee on the. There shall be a Committee on the Episcopacy, the membership and duties of which shall be as prescribed in ¶ 637 of the 2016 Book of Discipline.
7. Equitable Compensation, Commission on. The Commission on Equitable Compensation shall be composed of an equal number of lay and clergy persons including at least one lay and one clergy from churches of fewer than 200 members who are nominated by the Conference Nominations Team and elected by the annual conference. In addition, one District Superintendent named by the Cabinet shall be a member. It shall perform the duties assigned to it by the 2016 Book of Discipline (See ¶ 625). It shall receive all requests from or on behalf of all pastoral charges for aid to be used solely for clergy support. It shall administer the Equitable Compensation Fund and may employ money from other agencies, including those which may be granted by the Missional Ministries Board, as appropriate in each case, to meet these requests.

8. Ethnic Minority Concerns and Advocacy, Commission on. There shall be a Virginia Conference Commission on Minority Concerns and Advocacy amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality. The commission will provide for the functions as outlined in the current Book of Discipline for the Committee on Ethnic Local Church Concerns and Commission on Religion and Race. The basic membership of the commission shall consist of 10 clergy, 10 laypersons, and five members at-large elected upon nomination of the Conference Nominations Team. A minimum of two members shall be youth and young adults between the ages of 12 - 35. The commission will be constituted so that two-thirds of the membership be representative of people from diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds. The district coordinators for Religion and Race shall be ex-officio members of the commission with both voice and vote. The presidents or chairs of conference caucuses, fellowships, or associations for racial and ethnic constituencies shall be ex-officio members of the commission with voice but not vote. The bishop may appoint to the commission a district superintendent to serve as Cabinet representative with voice but not vote.
9. Finance and Administration, Conference Council on. There shall be a Conference Council on Finance and Administration elected and organized with responsibilities as set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline (See ¶¶ 611-619), provided that membership of the council shall be composed of five clergy, five lay women, and five lay men nominated by the Conference Nominations Team.
10. Foundation, United Methodist. There shall be a United Methodist Foundation organized with responsibilities as set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline ¶2513 and pursuant to the Foundation charter the directors elected by Annual Conference shall be no less than fourteen (14) or no less than 60% of the total Foundation Directors. As the total number of Foundation directors can fluctuate from year to year, the Foundation will confirm annually with the Director of Connectional ministries on the number necessary to meet the Annual Conference 60% requirement.
11. Clergy Medical Leave, Joint Committee on. There shall be a Joint Committee on Clergy Medical Leave consisting of two representatives from the Board of Ordained Ministry, two representatives from the Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc., one representative from the Cabinet and one representative of the General Board of Pension and Health Benefits. Their duties shall be as prescribed by the 2016 Book of Discipline (See ¶ 652).
12. Investigation, Committee on. There shall be a Committee on Investigation nominated, elected, and with duties as set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline (See ¶ 2703.2).
13. Minutes, Committee on. There shall be a Committee on Minutes consisting of seven members nominated by the Cabinet for a term of eight years, provided that the terms of four members shall expire at the end of one quadrennium and terms of the other three shall expire at the end of the next quadrennium. At least three members shall be lay persons and at least three shall be clergy. The chair shall be designated by the Cabinet. The committee shall review the daily minutes of the annual conference proceedings and report at the next session. Within three weeks of the close of the annual conference session, the committee will meet with the conference secretary to review and correct the minutes of proceedings before submitting the same for printing in the conference Journal.
14. Ordained Ministry. The Board of Ordained Ministry in cooperation with the General Board of Higher Education and Ministries and the Common Table for Church Vitality, shall develop programs to assist districts and local churches in preparing and aiding persons to fulfill their ministry in Christ as historically understood by United Methodism. The Board of Ordained Ministry shall perform all the duties and functions as set forth in the Book of Discipline (2016 BOD ¶635.2) and shall be directly amenable to the annual conference. The Board of Ordained Ministry shall have no more than sixty-seven (67) persons nominated by the bishop, (2016 BOD ¶635.1a) in consultation with the Board Chair and Cabinet, and elected by the annual conference at the beginning of each quadrennium. The Board shall elect from its membership officers deemed necessary to fulfill its duties (2016 BOD ¶635 1c). The annual conference registrar and at least one District Superintendent appointed by the bishop shall also serve as members of the Board of Ordained Ministry. At least one person from each district shall be included on the Board. If during the course of the quadrennium a district loses its representation on the Board, an additional person shall be appointed ad interim to the Board by the bishop in consultation with the Board Chair and the Cabinet, ensuring inclusive representation from each district. Ad interim members will be voted on at the next annual conference.

- 15. Pensions and Related Benefits, Virginia United Methodist, Inc. This agency, which is incorporated as Virginia United Methodist Pensions, Inc., shall be composed of twenty-four (24) members serving eight-year terms, and arranged into classes at the agency's discretion. It is recommended that all classes consist of one-third laywomen, one-third laymen, and one-third clergy. Any clergy member of the conference or lay member of a church within the conference who is a member of the Wespath shall also be a member of the agency (2016 Book of Discipline ¶639.2a) If no District Superintendent is a member of this agency the Bishop may name one to represent the Cabinet. He or she shall have a voice but not vote.

This agency shall perform the duties set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline (see ¶ 639). In addition, it shall administer the conference program for participant supplemental benefits including the various insurance programs, shall study on a continuing basis the problems of participant disability, making recommendations relative to these problems as needed, and shall provide for a continuing pastoral ministry to disabled participants.

- 16. Preachers' Relief Society. This is an incorporated body with invested trust funds, the income from which is used from time to time for the relief of needy members of the clergy and their families.
- 17. Professional Administrators of the United Methodist Connectional System. There shall be a Chapter of the Professional Association of United Methodist Secretaries (VAPAUMCS), which is to provide church secretaries and other administrative professionals a supportive base for unity and fellowship so as to promote individual growth, professional development, continuing education, and spiritual enrichment. There shall be an Executive Committee consisting of a President, 1st Vice President, 2nd Vice President, Secretary, Membership Secretary, Treasurer and the Standing Committees Chairs. There shall be standing committees: Communications composed of five members; Finance composed of four members (the President, 1st Vice President, 2nd Vice President and Treasurer); and Nominating composed of six members in classes of two for three-year terms.
- 18. Rules Committee. There shall be a Rules Committee consisting of nine members elected by the annual conference on nomination of the Conference Nominations Team or from the floor for a term of eight years. The terms of four members shall expire at the end of one quadrennium and the terms of the other five members shall expire at the end of the next quadrennium. Five members of the committee shall be lay and four members shall be clergy. The chancellor(s) of the annual conference shall be ex officio members of the Rules Committee. The Rules Committee shall review the Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies between sessions of the annual conference, and make its recommendations to the annual conference. Proposed amendments to the Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies and any other matters of parliamentary order or procedure in the business of the annual conference shall be referred to the Rules Committee. All members of the Rules Committee are encouraged to take a basic parliamentary procedure course within 6 months of their election. However, those who wish to be parliamentarians of the Annual Conference must take a more advanced course at the approval of the Rules Committee Chair. The cost of these courses will be reimbursed upon the passing of the class.
- 19. Site Selection, Committee on. There shall be a Committee on Site Selection consisting of four members, one half lay and one half clergy, elected on nomination of the Conference Nominations Team for a term of eight years. The committee shall be divided into two classes with the terms of one class to expire at the end of one quadrennium and the terms of the other class to expire at the end of the next quadrennium. This committee shall make arrangements for the meeting of the annual conference and shall recommend a location for the meeting of the annual conference a minimum of three years in advance.
- 20. Status and Role of Women in the Church, Commission on the. There shall be a Virginia Annual Conference Commission on the Status and Role of Women in The United Methodist Church amenable to the Common Table for Church Vitality. The membership shall consist of up to two representatives from each district plus six persons at large elected by the annual conference. In addition, the conference United Women in Faith shall name one member. The Bishop may appoint to the commission a District Superintendent to serve as Cabinet representative with voice but not vote. The majority of the commission, including both lay and clergy, shall be women. The chairperson shall be a woman.

- 21. Trustees, Board of. There shall be a Board of Trustees consisting of 12 members, elected by the annual conference, organized and with responsibilities as set forth in the 2016 Book of Discipline (§§ 2512-2517).

D. TASK FORCES

A task force may be established to accomplish a specific objective. If it is organized by direction of the annual conference, the authorizing legislation shall contain a termination date for the task force. Such task force desiring continuation beyond its termination date shall seek and receive their established termination dates (June or December). Task forces should not as a general rule exist beyond a four year term. Task forces may request funding for conference projects, but no task force shall disburse funds unless so directed by its parent board or requested to do so by the Common Table for Church Vitality and approved by the Council on Finance and Administration in its report to annual conference. A conference organized task force continuing beyond its first year shall annually request, in its report to annual conference, funding to cover operational costs in the succeeding year.

E. CHANGING STRUCTURE OF PROGRAM BOARD OR AGENCY

Any proposal to the annual conference to amend or change the structure of any program board or agency at the division level or above may originate (1) upon recommendation of the board or agency itself and shall be submitted to the Common Table for Church Vitality for its recommendation; (2) upon recommendation of the Common Table for Church Vitality, provided such proposal shall have been submitted to the board itself for its recommendation; or (3) on petition of a member or members of the annual conference if such a petition has been previously submitted to the Common Table for Church Vitality and the board or agency for their recommendations, or if not previously so submitted in time for consideration by these organizations, such petition shall be referred to the Common Table for Church Vitality and the board or agency for their recommendations prior to action by the annual conference. Internal change below the division level shall be the responsibility of each board.

F. MEETINGS OF THE COMMON TABLE, BOARDS, COUNCILS, COMMISSIONS, FOUNDATIONS AND COMMITTEES

For the Common Table for Church Vitality, and all District, Board, Council, Commission, Foundation and Committee sessions or meetings, the terms “meet” and “meeting” shall include meetings where members are physically present in one room or area (“in-person” meetings), and when deemed necessary by the presiding Chairperson, may also include meetings held through electronic means such as the Internet or by telephone.

VI. THE DISTRICT CONFERENCE

A. DISTRICT CONFERENCE SHALL MEET AT LEAST ONCE A YEAR

Each district within the Virginia Conference shall hold a session of the district conference in the manner designated by the District Superintendent at least once during the annual conference year (in accordance with the 2016 Book of Discipline, §658).

B. AGENDA

The district superintendent, in consultation with the district lay leader, shall set the agenda for the district conference. The agenda shall include a report from the district committee on ordained ministry.

Members of the district conference shall elect the district lay leader (§660.2) to serve a four-year term, not to exceed two consecutive terms. The district conference shall also elect the committee on the district superintendency (§669.1,2), the district trustees (§2518.2) and such other officers as it deems appropriate. The district committee on ordained ministry (¶666.1) and the district board of church location and building (¶2519) are approved or elected by the annual conference.

C. MEMBERSHIP

The membership of each district conference shall be composed of the following: all ordained and commissioned clergy, licensed local pastors, lay supply pastors, certified lay ministers, diaconal ministers, and deaconesses and home missionaries related to that district; a church lay leader, chairperson of the church council*, church school superintendent, president of the United Women in Faith, and president of the chartered United Methodist Men from each local church in the district; the district steward from each charge; the lay member of the annual conference from each charge; and three members at large, one of whom shall be a youth, elected by each charge conference;.

District officers who are members of the district conference include*: the chairperson of the district Council on Ministries*, the district trustees, the district treasurer, the district lay leader and associate lay leaders, the president of the district United Women in Faith, the president of the district United Methodist Men, a representative of the district youth council*, the president of the district United Methodist Young Adults*, the district coordinators of children, youth, young adult, adult, and family ministries, other district coordinators and directors, five youth members elected by the district youth council and five young adult members* elected by the District Council on Ministries*. Special attention shall be given to inclusiveness. *Designates or equivalent body.

D. ELECTION OF DISTRICT LAY MEMBERS AT LARGE OF ANNUAL CONFERENCE

District members at large of the annual conference shall be elected by the lay members of the district conference. Nominations may be made in whatever manner the district determines, but provision shall always be made for nomination from the floor. Districts are encouraged to include members-at-large from non-chartered faith communities being served by clergy with voting rights at Annual Conference, provided that they meet the provisions of the 2016 Book of Discipline ¶602.4. Election shall be by written ballot, and those nominees receiving the most votes shall be the members at large, and the rest shall be alternates in order of the votes received up to the number of members at large and alternates allotted to each district by the annual conference.

E. RECORD OF DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The secretary of the district conference shall keep an accurate record of the proceedings and send a copy to the secretary of the annual conference within 30 days following the district conference.

VII. RULES OF ORDER AND PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

A. RULES THAT APPLY WHEN THE CHAIRPERSON STANDS

When the chairperson stands and calls the conference to order, no member shall speak, address the chair, or stand while the chairperson stands.

B. VOTING AREA

The annual conference shall fix the voting area of the conference at the opening business session and voting on all annual conference matters must take place within the prescribed area. The voting area of the conference shall be separated from other areas at the meeting site. All entrances to the voting area shall be staffed by ushers and admission shall be by official badge only. All members of the conference within the voting area when the vote is taken shall be entitled to vote except such persons as otherwise are ineligible to vote.

C. SUFFICIENT SEATS SHALL BE PROVIDED

Sufficient seats shall be provided for all lay, clergy, provisional, and associate members and all youth members, members on special assignment, and all other persons entitled by the Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies to be within the voting area of the conference.

D. VOTERS TO DISPLAY PROPER CREDENTIALS

Members of the conference and others entitled to be seated within the voting area of the conference shall be furnished proper credentials as set forth in Appendix “A” (attached). During balloting, ballots will be distributed to and collected from only those persons displaying the proper credentials.

E. METHOD OF VOTING

Method of voting shall be determined by the presiding officer. A count vote may be ordered on call of any member supported by one third of the members present and voting, in which case the members shall arise as they are able from their seats and stand until counted.

F. ELECTRONIC VOTING PROCEDURE

Anytime the presider opens the floor, during an electronic meeting, whether for questions, discussions, motions, and/or amendments he or she shall wait at least 3 minutes before putting the question, motion, report or amendment to a vote.

G. EXCEPTIONS TO THE NO INTERRUPTION RULE

No member who has the floor may be interrupted except for a question on the matter under consideration, a breach of order, a misrepresentation, to direct the attention of the conference to the fact that the time has arrived for a special order, or to raise a very urgent question of high privilege.

H. LIMITS ON SPEAKING

No member shall speak: 1. more than once on the same question if any member who has not spoken desires the floor; 2. more than twice on the same subject under the same motion; 3. any longer than two minutes, unless this two minute period may be limited or extended by a two thirds vote of the conference.

I. HIGH PRIVILEGE

A member claiming the floor for a very urgent question of high privilege shall be allowed to indicate briefly the nature of the question, and if it be adjudged by the chair to be such, he or she may proceed until the chairperson judges that he or she has exhausted the privilege.

J. CALL FOR DIVISION OF ANY QUESTION

Before a vote is taken any member shall have the right to call for a division of any question, if it is subject to such division as he or she indicates. If no member objects, the division shall be made; but if there is objection, the chair shall put the question of division to vote, not waiting for a second.

K. MOTIONS TO BE PRESENTED IN WRITING

For the benefit of the secretary, and for the sake of clarification, motions, including amendments, shall be presented in writing. If an approved motion is requested to be sent to entities, the maker of the motion shall provide names and addresses to the Secretary of the Virginia Annual Conference.

L. SUSPENSION OF THE RULES

The operation of any of the provisions of the Virginia Annual Conference Rules and Policies or of these Rules of Order and Procedure may be suspended at any time by a two thirds vote of the conference.

M. CHANGE OR AMENDMENT OF THE RULES

The Virginia Annual Conference Standing Rules of Order and Procedure, including these Rules of Order and Parliamentary Procedure, may be amended or changed by a two thirds vote of the conference; provided the proposed change or amendment has originated in the Rules Committee, or has been presented to the conference in writing and referred to the Rules Committee, which committee shall report as soon as practicable taking into account all of the facts and circumstances of the proposed rule change.

N. ROBERTS RULES OF ORDER APPLIES

The current edition of Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised shall apply to any and all situations not covered elsewhere by these rules.

GATHERING

“Be Still My Soul” & “Still”

Gathering Prayer

William T. Greer III, Cave Spring UMC

O Master, Lord and Savior,
God of ends and beginnings. God of comfort and of hope.
As we worship today, we give you thanks for the faithfulness of those who committed their lives to you and to your service, who through lives of prayer, worship, and service shared your word of love,
who have completed their journeys of faith and now rest from their labor.
We praise you for your never-failing care, which leads us through the storms of our lives,
And will bring us at last with them to the peace of your presence
Through the power of Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen.

MEMOIRS

THE REV. PAMELA LYNNE CLARK-EGAN 1953 – 2023

Rev. Pamela Lynne Clark-Egan's wish to find true freedom in death in the name of Jesus Christ was granted unexpectedly October 2, 2023. She is survived by her husband of 40 years Timothy; her son Robert, wife Katie & granddaughter Delaney; her daughter Danielle Davis, husband Bill, son Reed, and daughters Amanda, Peyton & Ainsley; her daughter Katelyn Dunford, husband Brenden, daughter McKenna, & sons William & Jamie; her sister Betty-Anne Roberson, husband Ken, & daughters Christine, Kendi, her husband James, Molly, Megan, partner Shawn & their daughters, Amelia & Aria; her friend Pamela Appleton; and her sister Kathy Sue-Gainous, husband Marty & son Brett Jarnigin.

She was born December 31, 1953, in Tazewell (Virginia). She and her mother Phyllis Ranger lived with her Grandparents Robert & Florence Ranger in Falls Mills (Virginia) until she was nine; for a short time near Tampa (Florida), then in the DC area until she and Tim were married on July 23, 1983, where they raised their family in Alexandria (Virginia).

Pamela graduated from the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center in 1975 before becoming an officer with the Metropolitan Transit Police. After leaving that career to raise her family, she followed her call to ministry, graduating from George Mason University in 1999 and earning her Master of Divinity at Wesley Theological Seminary in 2000. Shortly thereafter she became an elder with the United Methodist Church (UMC).

She served Clarendon UMC as a seminary student before being assigned in 2002 as the pastor of Sleepy Hollow UMC (Falls Church) until 2019, and as a temporary pastor at the Trapper Creek (Lutheran) Fellowship in 2012 and 2022. She was privileged to participate in the ordination of a Presbyterian pastor and delivered sermons at Lutheran & several non-denominational churches, and the Pocahontas Baptist church. On a trip to Ephesus (Turkey) she served communion to her friends at an amphitheater where Paul preached. Under her guidance many UMC mission teams worked in Pocahontas (Virginia) performing household repairs, assisting the Baptist Church with their Vacation Bible School, and purchasing Christmas gifts that were delivered by a Catholic charity.

Pamela & Tim developed a love for cruising late in life, accumulating almost two months onboard in the Mediterranean, the Baltic, a Transatlantic trip, and the Caribbean. She particularly liked the ship's itinerary listing a "sea day" because that meant she and her friend Bonita Mills could have a "spa day". Her favorite vacation was a week spent in a "cave house" carved into in caldera in Oia, Santorini (Greece). She & Tim visited 34 states, along with 26 countries. Her desire is for him to continue traveling and distributing her ashes wherever he goes.

Pamela was passionate about ministering to the police, establishing a "break room" at Sleepy Hollow UMC to provide a quiet and secure respite for the officers. When traveling she usually sought-out the country's officers for a "photo-op", some conversation, and a prayer for their safety.

THE REV. EDWARD P. GANT 1930-2023

Reverend Edward P. Gant, 93, passed into the arms of his Lord and Savior on November 29, 2023, in Lynchburg, Virginia. Ed was born on July 23, 1930, in Newell, West Virginia. He was the only child of Pearl Gant and Goldie Gant. He is survived by his devoted wife of 65 years, Louise Gant and their three children: Doug (Liz) Gant, Debbie (Barry) Schmitt, and Libby (Tim) Roberts. He is also survived by his 7 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild: Alexandra Schmitt (Ben) Norwood, Caitlin Roberts, Jonathan Schmitt, Christopher Schmitt, Anne Gant, Camden Roberts, Grayson Roberts, and Charlotte Norwood.

As a young man, Ed felt a strong call to Christian ministry and began pastoring a small Nazarene church in the mid-1950s. During this time, Ed attended a Church of the Nazarene delegate event in Huntington, West Virginia, where he met Louise Clark. They spoke briefly and saw each other one other time before he volunteered to serve in the United States Army - accepting what he believed was his responsibility. Ed served in the Army in Germany from 1955-1957. During this time, in addition to his duties, which took him all over Europe, Ed had the privilege to serve as an assistant to the Chaplain where he was stationed. When he returned home in August of 1957 he reconnected with Louise again. They were soon married on January 4, 1958, in Moundsville, West Virginia.

Ed's seminary training began at Wesley Theological Seminary, and he was ordained a deacon in the West Virginia UMC Conference. In the early 1960s Ed and Louise made the decision to move to Virginia where he would continue his education and complete his seminary training at Duke. In 1964 he was ordained as an elder and soon became a full member of the Virginia UMC Conference.

Ed's call to ministry would lead them to spend their lives in service to the Lord, and to the communities in which they lived. First, serving small churches in West Virginia, and then serving many churches in the Virginia UMC Conference. In addition to pastoring churches, Ed was involved with Industrial Commercial Ministries (ICM) where he spent time in the field riding with officers of the Fairfax & Danville Police Departments. While serving in Franklin County in the early 70s Ed was involved in helping secure the lease of the property which was the early beginnings of the Henry Fork Service Center, which continues to serve and make God's love visible in Franklin County. During those years he taught religious education in two of the elementary schools. Ed also served for many years as a member and Chaplain of the Virginia Defense Force. When Ed retired in 1995, after 39 years of full-time ministry, he and Louise settled in Lynchburg, Virginia and became active members of Heritage United Methodist Church where they would continue to serve their church and support other local churches when needed. He also continued for a short time in a leadership role with ICM.

Over the years, Ed's engagement in the communities he served outside of the church, included being part of the local Masonic Lodge and membership in both the Scottish Rite and Shrine Club. His interests also included all things photography. Ed loved taking pictures and videos and as technology evolved, he was excited to embrace new ways to capture special moments, the images of the people he loved, and the places he visited.

Ed and Louise led an active life together loving their children, grandchildren, and their many church families. He was privileged to officiate many weddings and baptisms over the years, but it was his special joy to be able to officiate the weddings of his three children, baptize his seven grandchildren, and most recently officiate the wedding of his granddaughter, Alexandra.

Ed had a true servant's heart and was devoted in his service to the Lord and to sharing the gospel. He genuinely loved those he ministered to, was willing to see the good in people, and was never hesitant to share his time or pray with them.

THE REV. DOUGLAS D. GESTWICK

1958 – 2023

Douglas D. Gestwick was born in Buffalo, NY. After graduating from SUNY, Geneseo in business and finance, he entered the world of computers working first with IBM, then Apple and finally in his own computer company before heading back to graduate school at Duke Divinity School to live into his calling from God which he first heard in college. While at Duke, Doug met and married Clara. They moved to Virginia in 1990 to begin serving God through the local church, first in separate churches but after four children were born, they took the plunge (with heavy marital counseling) and asked to be appointed to the same church. They served side-by-side until his medical leave in 2018.

While Doug loved serving in the local church, one of his passions was taking people on foreign mission trips and pilgrimages to Israel. He loved traveling and learning about other cultures. He participated in conference wide trips to Russia and later led a trip to Prague. He was a delegate to the World Methodist Council when it met in South Africa.

Closer to home, Doug enjoyed his work on CF&A and with Pensions. He was always a number person and not just with dollars. He counted every shape and pattern he could see. You were probably counted at Annual Conference if you came into his line of sight — which of course you did because he loved to walk the floor at Annual Conference.

Doug especially cherished his family and friends. He loved being a father to his four children — he was IMMENSELY proud of each of them. He was a doting husband to his wife of 34 years. His home became a bed and breakfast for the many people from all walks of life who came to visit. His backyard became the destination for the neighborhood with regular weekly gatherings for all. He loved to cook and continued to prepare feasts until his last few months.

In 2016, Doug was diagnosed with Mantle Cell Lymphoma and was told to get his affairs in order. But the doctor didn't know Doug well. He took on the challenge and lived seven more years. He was able to get the MCL under control. He ended up calling the MCL a blessing because during all the testing, the doctors discovered a small tumor in his lungs. It was the lung cancer that couldn't be eradicated. The seven cancer years were filled with many struggles but blessings and times of pure joy outweighed those struggles. He kept a journal of both the struggles and blessings on the CaringBridge website and then turned his cancer journey into a book titled Do Whatever is Next: Sur-Thriving a Cancer Diagnosis. He didn't "lose the battle" with cancer. Doug fought hard and with great courage — he died.

Doug Gestwick was BIG. A big man. A big voice. A big heart. He was both passionate and compassionate — always considering the impact of his own life on others. We will always remember him — STILL in one PEACE!

THE REV. WILLIAM THOMAS GREER JR. 1942 – 2023

William Thomas Greer, Jr. 81, died peacefully at his home in Asheville, NC, on August 30th, 2023.

Born to parents William Thomas Greer and Winnie Agnes Duke Greer in Brunswick, GA, on July 28th, 1942, Billy Greer grew up in Tifton, GA, and graduated from Valdosta State University. Feeling called to the ministry, he studied at Emory University's Candler School of Theology and earned an M.Div. degree from Drew University. Seeking yet broader theological understanding, he was research assistant for a year for Professor William Barclay, the distinguished Scottish theologian at the University of Glasgow. He went on to earn a Doctor of Sacred Theology degree at Emory University and a PhD. in higher education administration at Georgia State University and continued his studies at the Harvard University Institute for Educational Management.

On returning from Scotland, he was ordained as elder in the South Georgia Conference of the United Methodist Church. Over the next 12 years he served churches in Macon, Centerville, and St. Luke United Methodist Church in Columbus. In Cuthbert, Georgia, he was pastor of the church, and served Andrew College as chaplain, teaching Old and New Testament, and serving on the Board of Trustees and its executive committee. Recognizing his leadership skills, which were enhanced by his pastoral spirit, Andrew College tapped him for the presidency in 1980. His dramatic success as Andrew's president led to him being called to Brevard College where he served as president for seven years (1985-1992). In 1992 he assumed the presidency of Virginia Wesleyan College, a small, young, liberal arts college in Norfolk/Virginia Beach. Under Greer's 23 years at the helm, Virginia Wesleyan notably increased its enrollment, athletics program (earning the coveted ODAC Commissioner's Cup in 2014-15), physical facilities, and endowment. One of his proudest achievements at Wesleyan was the establishment of the Center for the Study of Religious Freedom. He was often heard to say, "We must stop killing each other over religious beliefs." The Greer Environmental Sciences Center was given in honor of his retirement, fulfilling his dream and placing Wesleyan in a unique position among liberal arts colleges. Following his retirement from Virginia Wesleyan he served for 18 months as interim president of the Eastern Shore Community College, where he enjoyed the diversity of the students and the academic programs. His gifts as a dynamic leader were recognized by his peers, and they selected him as President of Leadership Georgia and for leadership positions in many educational associations, including The Virginia Foundation of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association, and the National Association of Schools and Colleges of United Methodist Church. He was among a select group of college administrators invited to participate in a Fulbright Scholars Program in Germany and as a Visiting Scholar at Princeton Theological Seminary.

As a young man Billy Greer met and fell in love with Fann Dewar, the love of his life. Their 58-year marriage was a true partnership. He was a devoted husband and father to their three sons, William Thomas, III (Carrie Meade), Robert Dewar (Rachel Simmons), and David Benjamin (Amanda Womble). He was so proud of the men his sons became and of their families: grandchildren Meade Alison Greer, William Thomas Greer, IV and Martin Dewar Greer of Roanoke VA, and Polk Truan Greer and Watson Parker Greer of Chapel Hill, NC. In addition to his wife and children he is survived by his sister Linda Greer Burton (Joe) of Raleigh, NC, brother-in-law Robert Y. Dewar, Jr. (Sarah), their wonderful families and loving cousins. His family was his greatest joy.

Always a visionary, he believed in building community, often around breaking bread. He famously used the barbecue grill as a site for fund-raising as well as a place to nurture closer relationships with colleagues, students, and family. At the institutions he led, many students, faculty and staff members were touched by his personal interest and acts of kindness. A lifelong sports enthusiast, Billy Greer especially loved rooting for sports teams at both Brevard and Virginia Wesleyan, sometimes leading student cheers at basketball games. His love of sports grew from his own long athletic experience playing basketball, which continued into college. At the University of Glasgow, he was awarded Full Blue Colors, the highest athletic award given in British Universities.

As a man of high moral character, Greer faced decisions with a clear sense of right and wrong. Always environmentally conscious, he and Fann were awarded “Eastern Shore of Virginia, Environmentalists of the Year” and served on Virginia’s Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. He loved relating to people regardless of their station in life and was on the front lines of pushing for racial equality from the student athletic church league in Brevard, NC, to the Old Dominion Athletic Conference and beyond. He was interested in and accepting of all people. Humble and gracious, he drew people to his side with his boundless energy, unpretentious ways, ability to empathize, love of a good story, and tremendous sense of humor—how Billy Greer enjoyed a good laugh!

THE REV. HUGH ELTON NICHOLS

1929 – 2023

The Rev. Hugh Nichols completed his earthly life on August 18, 2023, following a long illness. He grew up in Kentucky, graduating from Asbury College where he met his future wife, Dee Dawson. He earned his Master of Divinity from Candler School of Theology, Emory University, and then got married in 1952. After grad school, they moved to Eagle Rock, VA, where he had a four-point charge and Dee taught school.

When he was seven years old he attended a revival meeting and heard a message based on Revelation 3:20: “Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and eat with him, and he with me.” That night he opened his life to the ever-growing presence of Jesus. The joy of that experience, and that way of living, were his continuing call to ministry over the years.

Hugh's 40 years of ordained ministry were spent as follows: 1953-54: North Georgia Annual Conference; 1954-58: Eagle Rock Charge (Botetourt County); 1958-60: Tazewell Avenue (Roanoke); 1960-64: Melrose Avenue (Roanoke); 1964-67: Greenwood (Glen Allen), 1967-70: St. John's (Buena Vista); 1970-77: Central (Salem); 1977-78: Court Street (Lynchburg); 1978-82: Ferebee-Halstead (Virginia Beach); 1982-84: Lane Memorial (Alta Vista), 1984-88: Central (Clifton Forge), 1988-93: Providence (Richmond).

Hugh was a beloved minister who had special gifts for sharing the Gospel, administration, visitation, and especially for encouraging others. More than 50 years ago, while pastoring in the area, he helped pick out the land for the (then) Roanoke District's Camp Alta Mons. Over the years, his children, grandchildren, and even great-grandchildren have enjoyed attending the camp and learning about God's creation.

Among his hobbies were hunting, fishing, gardening, photography, and playing the violin. He also greatly enjoyed playing with his children, Sherrie, Perry and Terri. Hugh had a wonderful sense of humor and never took himself too seriously! He and Dee retired to Botetourt County, where they eventually moved to The Glebe retirement community. In addition to their children, they have seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

The Scripture Hugh wanted to be on his lips when he died is Luke 2: 29-32: "Sovereign Lord, now let your servant die in peace, as you have promised. I have seen your salvation, which you have prepared for all people. He is a light to reveal God to the nations, and he is the glory of your people Israel!"

DR. VINSON H. SUTLIVE, JR.

1932 – 2023

Vince was born in Thorsby, Alabama to Vinson and Ruth Sutlive on October 29, 1932. At seven, Vince, his sister Jane and parents moved to Birmingham. Vince graduated from West End High School. After high school, he attended Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky. Vince met Joanne in his sophomore year and after he graduated with a degree in Psychology, they were married June 17, 1953. They recently celebrated 70 years of marriage in 2023.

In the Fall of 1953, Vince and Joanne moved to Nashville where he attended seminary at the Vanderbilt University School of Religion. In 1957, Vince and Joanne and two children, Vins and Susan, sailed to Sarawak, then a British colony, now a state in Malaysia on the island of Borneo. Vince taught and served as principal at the Methodist Theological School in Sibuh. He and Joanne worked among the Iban, the largest indigenous group in the area. A second son, Thom, was born in 1962. Vince traveled extensively in Sarawak and was involved in church development. A desire to understand more about the culture of the Iban people led him to study anthropology at the University of Pittsburgh where he earned a Ph.D. He developed an interest in linguistics that would play a significant role in his work as missionary and later as anthropologist. He translated several books of the Old Testament into Iban.

In 1972, Vince and family returned to the U.S., settling in Williamsburg, VA. He taught in and later served as the Chairperson of the Department of Anthropology at the College of William & Mary. During that time, Vince continued to travel and do fieldwork in Sarawak. This included curating different aspects of Iban literature and culture. His time at William & Mary included several recognitions: The Phi Beta Kappa Award for Advancement of Scholarship, and the Thomas Jefferson Award. After Vince retired in 2002, a former student established the Vinson H. Sutlive Book Prize & Lecture, that is presented annually.

Vince had a great love of music and was an excellent musician. He liked to say that he played two Instruments: the violin and fiddle. In high school, he was a member of the Alabama All-State Orchestra and a local “hillbilly” band. At Asbury College, he discovered an appreciation for singing. He sang in the men’s glee club and in a gospel quartet. When he moved to Virginia, Vince joined the choir at the Williamsburg UMC. He remained a faithful member for over 40 years.

Vince maintained his membership in the Virginia Annual Conference, serving on several conference-wide committees, often filling in for pastors who were on vacation. He participated in Kairos Prison ministry for more than 10 years. In 2017, he and Joanne moved to the Wesley Village Senior Retirement Center in Wilmore, Kentucky. On the morning of October 4th, Vinson H. Sutlive, Jr. passed away peacefully with Joanne, his life-long love, by his side.

JAMES WELFORD THORNTON, SR.

Jim claimed the promise of the Resurrection at his home in Louisa, Virginia, on the morning of October 2, 2023, after a long, hard-fought battle with cancer and kidney disease. The third child of Evelyn and Thomas Thornton (and much younger than his siblings!), Jim grew up in Highland Park in Richmond. He was baptized at Northside Baptist Church in 1954 and accepted Jesus as his savior in October 1983. He was a proud member of the Corps of Cadets at John Marshall High School, from which he graduated in 1963. Jim married his high school sweetheart, Carol Rogers, in 1966, and together they reared two children, Jay and Julie. Since Jim was Baptist and Carol was Episcopalian, they settled upon Methodism as a compromise! They were active members of Chester UMC for many years.

Jim attended Virginia Tech and earned a B.S. in Sociology and Social Welfare from Richmond Professional Institute in 1968. After graduation he worked as a parole officer at the Virginia State Penitentiary in Richmond and then as a probation and parole officer in Richmond and Petersburg until 1972, except for one year when he was employed by the Virginia State Police as a trooper. He was awarded a Master of Social Work degree from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1974 and became a United States Probation Officer in January 1977. Clearly the Lord had plans for this man who as a boy had been discouraged about his future academic prospects! Jim very much enjoyed his career in the state and federal criminal justice systems until 1991, when he responded to his call to ordained ministry. Jim's first appointment as a student-pastor was to a 3-point charge in Accomack County on Virginia's Eastern Shore, serving Saxis, Sanford, and Hallwood. He later served the Drummondtown Charge. Jim had experienced his Walk to Emmaus in 1989 as spiritually transformative, and during his years of ministry on the Eastern Shore, he made time to participate actively in the Eastern Shore Emmaus Community. His Master of Divinity from The Wesley Theological Seminary was conferred in 1995. After his ordination as an elder in 1997, Jim served Macedonia UMC in Louisa County and Byrd Chapel UMC in Fluvanna County, a 10-year appointment. He retired from Ivy Creek UMC in Albemarle County in 2016 after his health began to decline, having served that congregation for nine years. Jim's preferred "title" at his churches was "Pastor Jim," although at Ivy Creek sometimes “P.J.” meant “Paper Jim,” due to his aversion to working digitally! (He did what was necessary, though.) Sadly, Carol passed away in 2011; Jim and Sandra Benson married in 2012, and a special joy was having a dear friend, the late Rev. Travis DeLoach, officiate the ceremony.

Jim leaves a great legacy of love, devotion, service, and sacrifice. He showed people God’s heart and helped them to experience God’s love for them in new ways. He had the heart of a pastor whether he was under appointment or not. Jim was a loving, devoted husband, and he dearly loved his children and his grandchildren, Sarah, Delaney, Rachel, Macauley, and Zach. He cared deeply for his parishioners and their spiritual growth, and often that care extended to parishioners’ extended families and friends. Jim will be remembered for his commitment to the gospel of his Lord, Jesus Christ; his humble strength; his calm but firm leadership; his wisdom and encouragement; and his compassionate, reassuring presence. His sense of humor and fun and love of fishing, beach-going, photography, movies, target practice, music, and singing with the men’s chorus will also be enduring memories!

XII. HISTORICAL STATEMENT

The Virginia Conference of The United Methodist Church is the direct descendant of the original annual conference of the United Brethren in Christ and of one of the six original conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The present conference was formed in 1970, by the merger of the Virginia Conference, formerly Methodist, with the former Evangelical United Brethren Conference of the same name. It is the successor to 39 Annual Conferences of eight denominations. Since the oldest of these dates back to the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1784, the 1970 session was declared to be the 188th session of the Conference (two "annual" sessions having been held in 1791 and 1841).

These 39 antecedent conferences are as follows:

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Virginia (1784-1844), Baltimore (1784-1939), Philadelphia (1784-1869), North Carolina (1836-1844), Washington (1864-1939), Delaware (1864-1939), Virginia and North Carolina Mission (1864-1868), Virginia (1868-1906), North Carolina (1869-1939), Wilmington (1869-1939), East Tennessee (1880-1939), Holston (1906-1939), West Virginia (1906-1939), Atlantic Mission (1906-1912), Blue Ridge- Atlantic (1912-1939)

THE CHURCH OF THE UNITED BRETHREN IN CHRIST

Original ("Old" or "Mother") (1800-1829), Hagerstown (1829-1830), Virginia (1830-1946)

THE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

East Virginia (1829-1834), Maryland (1829-1939), Virginia (1834-1870), North Carolina (1860-1939)

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH

Virginia (1844-1939), North Carolina (1844-1874), Baltimore (1866-1939)

INDEPENDENT CONFERENCE

Baltimore (1861-1866)

THE METHODIST CHURCH

Virginia (1939-1968), Washington (1939-1965), Delaware (1939-1965), East Tennessee (1939-1965), North Carolina-C.J. (1939-1965), North Carolina-Virginia (1965-1968)

THE EVANGELICAL UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH

Virginia (1946-1968), Central Pennsylvania (1948-1964), Susquehanna (1964-1968)

THE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Virginia-M (1968-1970), Virginia-E (1968-1970), Susquehanna (1968-1969)

Virginia was the scene of the ministries of many of the pioneers of the Methodist and United Brethren churches, most notably among them Francis Asbury, one of the first two Methodist bishops; William Watters, Methodism's first Native American minister; Philip William Otterbein, bishop and leader in the founding of the United Brethren in Christ; and Christian Newcomer, United Brethren pioneer in Virginia and later bishop.

Twenty bishops of the denominations now comprising the United Methodist Church were born within the bounds of the Virginia Conference. They are: William McKendree, Enoch George, John Early, Samuel Hiestand, Beverly Waugh, David S. Doggett, William Taylor, John C. Granbery, William W. Duncan, James W. Hott, Collins Denny, William B. Beauchamp, Paul B. Kern, Paul Neff Garber, Edgar A. Love, Walter C. Gum, Carlton P. Minnick, Jr., R. Kern Eutsler, H. Hasbrouck Hughes, Jr., and Timothy W. Whitaker.

SOME LANDMARK DATES OF THE CONFERENCE

May 11, 1766: Earliest known property for a Methodist Church in America deeded to Methodist Society in Leesburg.

November 14, 1772: Missionary work carried on during 1772 in Southern Virginia by Robert Williams, William Watters and Joseph Pilmoor results in organizing, in Portsmouth, what is now Monumental Church, the oldest church now in existence in the Conference.

May 19, 1778: The Sixth American Methodist Conference held in Leesburg.

May 13, 1781: Harry Hosier preaches first recorded Methodist sermon by a Negro, at Fairfax Chapel in Falls Church.

May 1, 1785: First Session of the Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church held at home of William Mason in Brunswick County.

1792: Virginia was the center of the first schism of American Methodism, led by James O'Kelley, a member of the Virginia Conference. It resulted in the formation of the Republican Methodists, now a part of the United Church of Christ.

September 25, 1800: First Session of the Original Conference of the United Brethren in Christ (later called the Virginia Conference) at the home of Peter Kemp, near Frederick, Md.

May 25, 1808: First United Brethren Conference to be held in Virginia, at Abraham Niswander's home near Middletown.

March 31, 1816: Francis Asbury, pioneer Methodist bishop in America, died at the home of George Arnold, near Spotsylvania.

March 29, 1827: First native American itinerant, William Watters, died at his home in McLean.

May 1, 1846: First General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, met at Union Street Church, Petersburg.

November, 1870: Virginia Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church merged with the Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Lynchburg.

October 16, 1939: Virginia Conference of The Methodist Church organized, including all or parts of nine previous conferences, at Richmond.

June 10, 1968: Virginia Conference and North Carolina-Virginia Conference, formerly of The Methodist Church, are merged to form the Virginia Conference of The United Methodist Church, at Richmond.

January 3, 1970: Present Virginia Conference of The United Methodist Church organized at Madison College, Harrisonburg.

THE NUMBERING OF CONFERENCE SESSIONS

The Virginia Conference was organized in May of 1785. That was its first session. It was one year old at its second session in 1786, and so on, so that its age would always be one less than the number of that year's session. Then, two annual sessions were held in April and December of 1791 and in January and November of 1841, so that in 2022, the 240th annual session, the conference was 236 years old.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

Council on Finance and Administration
The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church
Glen Allen, Virginia

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church (the "Central Treasury"), which comprise the statement of financial position as of December 31, 2023, and the related statements of activities, functional expenses, and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church as of December 31, 2023, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audits. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church's ability to continue as a going concern within one year after the date that the financial statements are issued or are available to be issued.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not absolute assurance, and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control-related matters that we identified during the audit.

THE CENTRAL TREASURY OF THE VIRGINIA CONFERENCE OF THE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Notes to Financial Statements

Note 1. Organization and Nature of Activities

The Central Treasury of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church (Central Treasury) is a division within the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church (Conference). The Central Treasury receives and disburses, in accordance with the actions of the Conference, remittances from local church treasurers for all duly authorized general, jurisdictional, Conference, and district causes. It also implements administrative and fiscal policies and procedures as directed by the Council of Finance and Administration.

The purpose of the Council on Finance and Administration is to develop, maintain, and administer a comprehensive and coordinated plan of fiscal and administrative policies, procedures and management services for the Annual Conference.

The purpose of the Conference is to coordinate the relationship between the general program boards and commissions and the conference, districts, and Virginia United Methodist churches.

These financial statements include only the accounts of the Central Treasury and are not intended to present the financial position and results of the whole Conference.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Classification of Net Assets

The financial statements of the Central Treasury have been prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP"), which require the Central Treasury to report information regarding its financial position and activities according to the following net asset classifications:

Net assets without donor restrictions: Net assets that are not subject to donor-imposed restrictions and may be expended for any purpose in performing the primary objectives of the organization. These net assets may be used at the discretion of the Central Treasury's management and the Council on Finance and Administration for use in the Central Treasury's operations. Approximately $19.7 million of these net assets at December 31, 2023 are board-designated funds.

Net assets with donor restrictions: Net assets subject to stipulations imposed by donors and grantors. Some donor restrictions are temporary in nature; those restrictions will be met by actions of the Central Treasury or by the passage of time. Other donor restrictions are perpetual in nature, whereby the donor has stipulated the funds be maintained in perpetuity.

Notes to Financial Statements

Revenues and support are reported as increases in net assets without donor restrictions unless use of the related assets is limited by donor-imposed restrictions. Expenses are reported as decreases in net assets without donor restrictions. Gains and losses on investments and other assets or liabilities are reported as increases or decreases in net assets without donor restrictions unless their use is restricted by explicit donor-imposed stipulation or by law. Expirations of restrictions on net assets with donor restrictions (i.e., the donor stipulated purposes have been fulfilled and/or the stipulated time period has elapsed) are reported as reclassifications between the applicable classes of net assets.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expense during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes items such as short-term, highly liquid investments with maturities of three months or less at the date of purchase.

Investments

Purchased investments are initially recorded at cost. Investments received by gift are initially recorded at fair value at the date of the donation. The Central Treasury's investments are pooled into larger investment funds. The Central Treasury's pooled investments are valued at fair value based on net asset value of each fund as provided by the investment holder or other observable information.

Church Receivables and Bad Debts

Church receivables are reported at their estimated realizable value, net of an estimated allowance for doubtful accounts. The allowance is based on management's estimate of the amount of receivables that will actually be collected. It is the Central Treasury's policy to charge off uncollectable accounts receivable when management determines the receivable will not be collected. As of December 31, 2023, management determined that no allowance was necessary.

Loans Receivable

Loans receivable are stated at their principal amount outstanding less the related allowance for loan losses and are collateralized by buildings and land. Interest rates on loans are subject to review and adjustment on a periodic basis.

Notes to Financial Statements

Allowance of Loan Losses

The allowance for doubtful loans is maintained at a level that, in management's judgment, is adequate to absorb probable loan losses. The amount is based upon an analysis of the loan portfolio by management including, but not limited to, review of the collectability of the loan portfolio, adverse situations that may affect the borrower's ability to repay, estimated value of any underlying collateral and prevailing economic conditions. The analysis is also based on a periodic review of payments and other factors based on the Central Treasury's historical experiences. To date, no loans have been in arrears or default and no loan has required modification to acclimate to a borrower's adverse circumstances or ability to repay. This process is based on estimates and ultimate losses may vary from current estimates. As changes in estimates occur, adjustments to the level of the allowance are recorded in the provision for loan losses in the period in which they become known. In addition, the net realizable value of the property serving as collateral for delinquent loans will be assessed on an annual basis.

A loan is considered impaired when, based upon current information and events, it is probable that the Central Treasury will be unable to collect all amounts due according to the contractual terms of the loan agreement. Loans are classified as delinquent when payments are 30 days overdue. Loans will continue to accrue interest when a loan is delinquent; however, all accrued interest may be included in the allowance for doubtful loans. Payments for delinquent or impaired loans are treated as a payment of interest due until all accrued interest has been paid. Interest income on delinquent loans is recognized according to the original amortization schedule (accrual method). The accrual of interest income is discontinued when, in management's judgment, the scheduled interest may not be collectible within the stated term of the loan. Interest income is recognized on a cash basis for loans classified as nonaccrual loans, with subsequent payments applied first to interest and fees, if any, and then to principal. Loans classified as nonaccrual loans are returned to accrual status when all the principal and interest amounts contractually due are brought current and future payments are reasonably assured. At December 31, 2023, the Central Treasury has no loans it considered impaired. As a result, management has elected not to record an allowance for loan losses.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are stated at cost or the estimates fair value at the date of contribution. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over estimated useful lives as follows:

Buildings and improvements	15 - 40 years
Furniture, fixtures, and equipment	5 - 7 years
Computer equipment and software	3 - 5 years

Maintenance, repairs, and minor renewals are expensed when incurred. When property and equipment are sold or otherwise disposed of, the asset account and related accumulated depreciation account are relieved, and any gain or loss is included in the current year's operations.

The Central Treasury reviews its long-lived assets for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of assets held and used is measured by a comparison of the carrying amount of an asset to undiscounted expected cash flows. Future events could cause the Central Treasury to conclude that impairment indicators exist and that long-lived assets may be impaired. To date, no impairment losses have been recorded.

Notes to Financial Statements

Recognition of Contributions

Contributions are recorded at their estimated fair value when the donor makes a promise to give that is, in substance, unconditional.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues from contracts with customers include registrations and administrative service fees. The nature of the Central Treasury's exchange contracts generally do not include variable consideration that require significant judgments to estimate the transaction price or related constraints due to risk of significant reversal.

Registrations

The Central Treasury organizes and hosts various events and trainings for United Methodist churches and members. Fees are charged to attendees at the time of registration. In some cases, the Central Treasury may receive payment prior to the recognition of revenue. These contract liabilities are reported as unearned revenue on the statement of financial position. Revenue is recognized at a point in time, upon completion of the event. Registrations revenue is included in other income on the accompanying statements of activities.

Administrative Services Revenue

The Central Treasury provides accounting and bookkeeping services for various related and affiliated entities. The Central Treasury bills these entities in equal monthly installments based upon the annual agreed upon fee. As the Central Treasury has agreed to perform these activities throughout the year, revenue is recognized over time, ratably per month. As this recognition corresponds with billings, there are no amounts recorded as contract liabilities or assets related to administrative services revenue. Administrative services revenue is included in miscellaneous program income on the accompanying statement of activities.

Disaggregation of Revenue from Contracts with Customers

The following table disaggregates the Central Treasury's revenue based on the timing of satisfaction of performance obligations for the years ended December 31, 2023:

Over time	$ 156,033
Point-in-time	589,972
	$ 746,005

Performance Obligations

For registration revenue, the Central Treasury's obligation is completed at the time of the event.

For performance obligations related to administrative services revenue, completion of the Central Treasury's obligation occurs over time throughout the term of the agreements. The Central Treasury uses the output method measured by a month of service delivered compared to the total months agreed to under the contract to recognize revenue over time.

Notes to Financial Statements

Income Taxes

The Central Treasury is a division of the Conference, which is a not-for-profit organization and is exempt from federal and state income taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Section 501(c)(3) and the tax statutes of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Accordingly, no provision for income taxes has been made in the accompanying financial statements.

Advertising Costs

Advertising costs are expensed when incurred. There were no advertising costs for the year ended December 31, 2023.

Concentration

Financial instruments which potentially subject the Central Treasury to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of investments and cash. The Central Treasury places its investments and its cash and cash equivalents with creditworthy institutions and diversifies its holdings among entities, thereby limiting the amount of credit exposure to any one entity. As of December 31, 2023, the Central Treasury had $3,555,319 of cash deposits in excess of federally insured limits being held by a federally insured financial depository institution.

The Central Treasury's investments, in general, are exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, credit and overall market volatility risks. In addition, due to the level of risk associated with certain investment securities, it is reasonably possible that changes in the values of investment securities will occur in the near term and that such changes could materially affect the amounts reported in the statements of financial position.

Functional Expenses

The Central Treasury allocates its expenses on a functional basis among its program and supporting services. Expenses that can be identified with a specific program or supporting service are allocated directly. Other expenses that are common to several functions are allocated between program and administrative expenses based on an estimate of time expended.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncement

The Foundation adopted ASC 326, Financial Instruments--Credit Losses, as of January 1, 2023, with the cumulative-effect transition method with the required prospective approach. The measurement of expected credit losses under the current expected credit loss ("CECL") methodology is applicable to financial assets measured at amortized cost, which include loan receivable. An allowance for credit losses under the CECL methodology is determined using the loss-rate approach and measured on a collective (pool) basis when similar risk characteristics exist. Where financial instruments do not share risk characteristics, they are evaluated on an individual basis. The CECL allowance is based on relevant available information, from internal and external sources, relating to past events, current conditions and reasonable and supportable forecasts. The allowance for credit losses as of December 31, 2023, and change in the allowance for credit losses during the year ended December 31, 2023, was not material to the financial statements.

Notes to Financial Statements

Note 3. Availability and Liquidity

The following represents the Central Treasury's financial assets at December 31, 2023:

Financial assets at year-end:

Cash and cash equivalents	$ 4,055,319
Church receivables	1,791,903
Other receivables	46,472
Certificates of deposit at face value	834,000
Investments	17,115,154
Financial assets at year-end	23,842,848

Less those unavailable for general expenditure within one year:

Financial assets with donor restrictions	4,911,715
Board-designated	19,678,526
Financial assets not available to be used within one year	24,590,241

Financial assets available to meet general cash needs

expenditures within one year	$ (747,393)
------------------------------	---------------------

The Central Treasury's policy is to structure its financial assets to be available as its general expenditures and other obligations come due. Included in the available financial assets shown above are board-designated funds totaling approximately $19.7 million of net assets at December 31, 2023 that could be made available if necessary. Release of these board-designated funds would require approval by the Council on Finance and Administration to be made available.

Note 4. Investments

Investments are carried at fair value and consist of the following at December 31, 2023:

	Cost	Fair Value
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 8,270,497	$ 8,270,497

	$ 15,630,930	$ 17,115,154

Notes to Financial Statements

Investment income consisted of the following for the years ended December 31, 2023:

Interest and dividend income	$ 452,510
Realized and unrealized gains	486,822
Investment management fees	(12,603)
Investment return, net	$ 926,729

Note 4. Fair Value Measurements

Accounting standards establish a fair value hierarchy that prioritizes the inputs to valuation techniques used to measure fair value. The hierarchy gives the highest priority to unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (level 1 measurements) and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs (level 3 measurements). The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described below:

Level 1 Inputs to the valuation methodology are unadjusted quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets that the Organization has the ability to access.

Level 2 Inputs to the valuation methodology include:

- quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets;
- quoted prices for identical or similar assets or liabilities in inactive markets;
- inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the asset or liability;
- inputs that are derived principally from or corroborated by observable market data by correlation or other means.

If the asset or liability has a specified (contractual) term, the level 2 input must be observable for substantially the full term of the asset or liability.

Level 3 Inputs to the valuation methodology are unobservable and significant to the fair value measurement.

The asset or liability's fair value measurement level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement. Valuation techniques used need to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. The following is a description of the valuation methodologies used for assets measured at fair value. There have been no changes in the methodologies used at December 31, 2023.

Money market funds, mutual funds, U.S. government securities, corporate and municipal bonds, and equity securities are valued at the closing price reported on the active market on which the individual or similar securities are traded.

Notes to Financial Statements

The following table sets forth by level, within the fair value hierarchy, the Central Treasury's assets at fair value as of December 31, 2023:

	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3	Total
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 8,270,497	$ --	$ --	$ 8,270,497
Exchange traded products	4,636,434	--	--	4,636,434
Total assets at fair value	$ 12,906,931	$ --	$ --	12,906,931
Alternative investments (a)				4,208,223
				$ 17,115,154

- (a) Alternative investments are valued using the practical expedient at the Central Treasury's pro-rata interest in the net assets of these entities. Investments held by these entities are valued at prices which approximate fair value. The fair value of certain investments in the underlying entities, which may include private placements and other securities for which values are not readily available, are determined in good faith by the investment advisors of the respective entities and may not reflect amounts that could be realized upon immediate sale, nor amounts that may be ultimately realized. Net asset valuations are provided daily, monthly, or quarterly by these entities. Appreciation (depreciation) of investments in these entities is net of all allocations to the investment advisors. The Central Treasury invests for the long-term, guided by its investment policy which reflects its macroeconomic views and expectations regarding the drivers of future economic growth.

Note 6. Property and Equipment

Major classes of property and equipment consist of the following at December 31, 2023:

Land	$ 2,522,219
Building and improvements	6,721,985
Furniture, fixtures, and equipment	393,388
Computer equipment and software	758,667
	10,396,259
Accumulated depreciation	(3,504,547)
Property and equipment, net	$ 6,891,712

Note 7. Loan Receivable

The Church Development Team of the Conference makes loans to districts of the Conference for acquisitions and improvements. Loans receivable consist of a Charlottesville District loan of $120,612 as of December 31, 2023. The loan due from the Charlottesville District is non - interest bearing and there is no set maturity date.

The Central Treasury provides an allowance for doubtful collections that is based upon a review of outstanding receivables, historical collection information, and existing economic conditions. Delinquent receivables are written off based on individual credit evaluation and specific circumstances of the borrower. No allowance for doubtful collections is deemed necessary by management as of December 31, 2023.

Notes to Financial Statements

Note 8. Commitments

The Church Development Team of the Conference committed grants to churches for approximately $435,000 at December 31, 2023, in connection with the Church Extension Fund, which will be funded with Central Treasury assets. The Conference committed from their District Support Fund $280,000 in 2024 and $200,000 in 2025 to each of the 8 new districts.

Note 9. Retirement Plans

Ministerial and lay employees of the Conference are eligible to participate in pension plans offered by the United Methodist Church through Wespeth, Inc. Conference clergy members and local pastors under Episcopal appointment are eligible for pension coverage under the Clergy Retirement Security Program (CRSP).

In addition to the CRSP, certain ministerial employees are provided disability and death benefits as well as certain minimum benefits related to pension coverage through participation in the Comprehensive Protection Plan (CPP).

CRSP and CPP are defined contribution plans which currently encourage a one percent employee contribution and call for a 16.4 percent employer contribution (12 percent for CRSP and 4.4 percent for CPP). The contribution is limited to approximately $66,300 of employee wages. CRSP and CPP pension expense for the Central Treasury amounted to approximately $304,414 for the year ended December 31, 2023.

Conference lay employees are eligible for pension coverage under the United Methodist Personal Investment Plan (UMPIP). UMPIP is a defined contribution plan which calls for a nine percent employer contribution but does not currently call for an employee contribution. UMPIP pension expense for the Central Treasury amounted to approximately $97,190 for the year ended December 31, 2023.

Note 10. Net Assets with Donor Restrictions

Net assets with donor restrictions consist of the following at December 31, 2023:

Other donor restricted	$ 1,495,966
Church Extension Fund	2,644,120
Ministerial Education Fund	314,624
Richmond Area Episcopal Fund	93,273
Clergy Support Obligation	363,732
	$ 4,911,715

Notes to Financial Statements

Net assets during the year ended December 31, 2023 were released from restrictions by incurring expenses satisfying the restrictions or by the occurrence of other events specified by donors consisted of the following:

Other donor restricted	$ 178,184
Church Extension Fund	796,893
Ministerial Education Fund	24,016
Richmond Area Episcopal Fund	109,019
Clergy Support Obligation	76,570
	$ 1,184,682

Note 11. Related Party Transactions

The following is a summary of transactions with the Foundation, which is affiliated with the Central Treasury, for the year ended December 31, 2023:

Rent income	$ 32,700
Administrative services revenue	73,200
	$ 105,900

As of December 31, 2023, $2,022,938, of the investments of the Central Treasury are administered by the Foundation.

The Central Treasury holds congregation savings certificates with the Virginia United Methodist Development Company in the amount of $2,185,285 at December 31, 2023. These savings certificates earned $58,731 during the year ended December 31, 2023.

Note 12. Note Payable

In August 2023, the Central Treasury received assets, including property, and the related mortgage of a church not approved for disaffiliation. Land and buildings were valued and recorded at $1,729,200 and $1,569,500, respectively. The note payable has an interest rate of 5.5% and a balance $1,138,151 at time of transfer. The note matures in May 2033. The balance of the note payable was $1,109,592 at December 31, 2023. Maturities of the note payable are as follows for the years ending December 31 are as follows:

2024	$ 131,338
2025	138,746
2026	146,573
2027	154,841
2028	163,575
Thereafter	374,519
	$ 1,109,592

Notes to Financial Statements

Note 13. Church Disaffiliations

Through Paragraph 2553 in the Book of Discipline, the United Methodist Church has allowed churches to disaffiliate from the denomination because of theological differences. During the year ended December 31, 2023, the Virginia Annual Conference held special meetings to review and approve disaffiliations. The cost structure of disaffiliation consists of total unfunded pension and retiree medical benefits liabilities, two years of apportionments (less apportionments paid for the applicable period), grants that must be repaid, the Conference's attorneys' fees, and any clergy support obligations owed. Costs associated disaffiliation were not negotiable.

In February 2023, the Virginia Annual Conference held a meeting to review and approve churches seeking disaffiliation. The Annual Conference approved the departure of 34 churches. Disaffiliation payment received from these churches was $3,829,562.

In May 2023, the Virginia Annual Conference held a meeting to review and approve churches seeking disaffiliation. The Annual Conference approved the departure of 64 churches. Disaffiliation payment received from these churches was $4,719,646.

In October 2023, the Virginia Annual Conference held a meeting to review and approve churches seeking disaffiliation. The Annual Conference approved the departure of 120 churches. Disaffiliation payment received from these churches was $8,286,244.

Note 14. Richmond Area Episcopal Fund

Historically, the Richmond Area Episcopal Fund (Episcopal Fund), which operates the Bishop's office for the United Methodist Church for the Richmond area, had operated separate from the Central Treasury. Effective January 1, 2020, those charged with governance of the Episcopal Fund contributed the net assets of the Episcopal Fund to the Central Treasury to operate as a fund within the Central Treasury.

Notes to Financial Statements

The financial activity of the Episcopal Fund is recorded in the Central Treasury's financial statements; however, as requested by the General Council on Finance and Administration (GCFA), the table below represents the transactions of the Episcopal Fund during the year ended December 31, 2023:

Beginning Episcopal Fund net assets, January 1, 2023	$ 101,671

	$ 24,620,000

B. CONFERENCE APPORTIONMENT RECOMMENDATION SPECIFICS:

The Conference Apportionments are intended to carry out the mission and ministry of the Virginia Annual Conference. All balances at the end of the year are to be closed to Conference Reserves unless an exception is granted by the Conference Council on Finance and Administration.

401-Conference Mission & Ministries

This apportionment provides funding for the Conference Common Table benevolences and ministries, including Ministries at Educational Institutions, other Common Table Program Boards and Agencies support.

402-Conference Services

This apportionment primarily covers the administrative requirements of the Book of Discipline and Conference owned properties.

403-Appointive Cabinet Fund

This apportionment covers the personnel and travel costs of the Appointive Cabinet.

404-Equitable Compensation

This apportionment is required by the Book of Discipline and is administered by the Equitable Compensation Commission to provide clergy salary supplementation based upon their policies and procedures.

405-Church Extension and Development Fund (CEF)

This apportionment is based on recommendations of the Common Table and is directed to the Church Development Team for use in providing conference-wide grants to new and existing churches in accordance of the policies of the Common Table.

412-General & Interdenominational Fund

This apportionment represents three areas of denominational support. The 2025 Budget breakout is below:

	Budget
General Fund	320,000
Interdenominational Cooperation	26,000
Southeastern Jurisdiction	49,000
	395,000

Report on 2023

As set out in the Annual Conference procedures, the Annual Conference is informed, through this report, of shortfalls in the Apportionments that impact Conference Reserves. These shortfalls were managed through budget cuts, contingency funds, and Conference reserves in accordance with Annual Conference-approved policy. Below are the stated Apportionment Shortfalls for 2023.

	Shortfall
401 Conference Mission & Ministries	598,223
402 Conference Services	408,171
403 Appointive Cabinet	208,342
404 Equitable Compensation	45,586
	1,260,322

SECTION III — Apportionment Procedures

A. APPORTIONMENT FORMULA:

- All Apportionments except for the Active Clergy Health Benefits

Apportionments are calculated using the last year of available statistics of each local church (i.e. 2025 apportionments are calculated using 2023 statistics). The formula is based on total net paid expenses which are the total expenditures of the church minus expenditures for benevolent causes, apportionments, capital improvements, and payments on loans and mortgages. The apportionments for each church are sent to each district based on decimal calculations from the formula below:

$$\text{Individual Church Net Paid} / \text{Total of all Conference Churches Net Paid} = \text{Church Decimal}$$

- Active Clergy Health Benefits Apportionment Formula

The costs of the active clergy health benefits will be apportioned using a two-tier calculation. The first tier will consist of a fixed dollar amount ($6,000) per health plan eligible clergy based upon the July 1, 2024 appointment list. The remaining costs after the tier one calculation will be apportioned to the churches based upon total clergy (regardless of classification) compensation (salary plus accountable reimbursement) paid by a church divided by the total clergy compensation paid in the last year of available statistics (2023 for 2025 apportionments).

- The district then passes the apportionments on to the local church according to recommendations developed by the district superintendents and the district stewards.
- The Council on Finance and Administration, in consultation with the Church Development Team and Cabinet, has the authority to set a policy for apportioning newly chartered churches, Legacy churches, and 2nd sites of chartered churches.
 - Effective January 1, 2016, the policy will be to phase in the apportionments for new chartered churches over a five year period with the first year beginning at 20% and increasing 20% for each subsequent year until the church is at 100%.
 - Effective January 1, 2016 for a 2nd site (satellite & multi-site) locations that are recognized as new faith communities by the Church Development Team and the Cabinet, the existing chartered church may exclude direct expenses of the second site from the apportionment calculation based upon the following schedule:

0-42 months	100%
43-54 months	80%
55-66 months	60%
67-78 months	40%
79-90 months	20%

- Effective January 1, 2020, Ecumenical (multi-denominational) churches will be direct billed for health insurance when they are served by an eligible United Methodist pastor and will not be subject to the 407 apportionment.

B. REPORTING GUIDELINES:

- District superintendents will report the apportioned amounts for each church to the Conference treasurer and the apportioned amounts will be shown on the monthly Treasurer's report sent to each church.
- Apportionments are to be calculated and distributed annually rather than on a quadrennial basis.
- The Annual Conference will raise World Service funds only through contributions from the local churches. CFA urges that district superintendents, pastors, and local church leaders seek to fully implement Section 812 of the 2016 Discipline.

C. IMPORTANCE OF WORLD SERVICE:

The importance of World Service to the life of the Church is lifted up to the Annual Conference. "The World Service Fund is basic in the financial program of The United Methodist Church. The World Service apportionment represents the minimum needs of the general agencies of the Church. Payment in full of these apportionments by local churches and annual conferences is the first benevolent responsibility of the Church." (Section 812 of the 2016 Discipline).

SECTION IV - Annual Conference Special Offerings

Annual Conference offerings provide important and life-giving support for key Conference programs. The following are recommended for approval for 2025:

- United Methodist Family Services. It is recommended that December be designated as United Methodist Family Services Month and that each church promote an offering during this time for this purpose.
- Pinnacle Living (Samaritan Fund). It is recommended that the period between Mother's Day and Father's Day be designated in support of the Pinnacle Living (Samaritan Fund), and that local church offerings collected during that period be dedicated to this ministry.

- Heart Havens. It is recommended that February be designated as Heart Havens Month and that each church promote an offering during this time for this purpose.
- Partnerships of Hope. It is recommended that September be designated as Partners of Hope Month and that each church promote an offering during this time for this purpose.
- Annual Conference Offering. CFA recommends continued support for this important offering.

SECTION V - Policies

A. APPOINTIVE CABINET FUND

Overall Policies for the Fund:

- In compliance with the Book of Discipline, the current salaries and expenses for district superintendents (DS), and those under special appointment, will be published in the Conference Journal with each DS's salary individually calculated and assigned each year as part of the appointive process, using the following criteria:
 - Each District Superintendent's salary shall be $100,000.
 - Each year, the annual salaries of the District Superintendents are to be recommended by CFA to the Annual Conference.
 - CFA also administers salary-related expenses, to include such items as pensions, supplemental benefits, travel by voucher, continuing education, and other Cabinet-related expenses. CFA, in consultation with the Bishop, sets the Assistant to the Bishop's salary and related personnel costs.
 - The total cost of salaries and related expenses apportioned to Districts are to be based on the current approved decimal system (upon recommendation of CFA).
 - All other District Superintendents' costs, such as housing, district office expenses and staff, are to be paid at the district level.

B. TRAVEL & MEETING EXPENSES

Board and Agency members and staff engaged in Conference business are provided and are to be managed as follows:

- The mileage reimbursement rate is set at 50 cents for Conference staff. The mileage reimbursement rate for volunteers is set at half the IRS rate for volunteers (currently 34 cents) for those serving boards and agencies of the Conference.
- Meals are to be reimbursed at actual costs, but not to exceed $50 per 24-hour period. (Breakfast on the date of departure from home/office is not accepted; dinner on the date of return is not accepted, except when the arrival to home/office is after 7 p.m.).
- Reimbursement for daily room charges is set at $200, if the travel incurred extends to a period over three hours prior to the starting time of 10 a.m. on the day of the meeting.
- Spouse expenses are not part of allowable expenses.
- To encourage stewardship in this area, CFA suggests: (1) that advance reading materials be provided for study prior to meetings; and (2) that there be use of teleconferencing, where feasible.

C. INDIVIDUAL EXPENSES FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Provided for and managed as follows:

- Each charge is responsible for the expenses of both the clergy and lay members (including diaconal ministers) from that charge to the annual conference, working out its own plan of compensating for actual expenses.
- Persons not covered through local church appointment shall receive annual conference reimbursement not to exceed $200 a night for mileage, meals and lodging; the Conference treasurer shall reimburse the claimant through voucher of approved expenses. Coverage under this section extends to:
 - (a) retired clergy who retired with pension under one of the Disciplinary options and who are not serving full-time;
 - (b) clergy on medical leave;
 - (c) clergy on sabbatical leave who are members of the Virginia Annual Conference;

- (d) retired diaconal ministers who served at least eight years in the Virginia Conference and who are granted a retired relationship by the Conference;
 - (e) persons expecting their first appointment;
 - (f) members of the conference who have been appointed to attend a theological school;
 - (g) those serving as chaplains in Armed Forces;
 - (h) deaconesses under appointment;
 - (i) furloughed missionary members of the Virginia Annual Conference;
 - (j) those on loan to other annual conferences, whose expenses are not otherwise provided for; and
 - (k) clergy returning from an approved leave of absence receiving local church pastoral appointments.
- Each district is responsible for the expenses of its district superintendent, youth members and members-at-large.
 - Each board, agency or committee is responsible for the expenses of its chairpersons, if that person is not a clergy or lay member whose costs are covered by their charge or district.

D. CONFERENCE RESERVE FUNDS

Policies on the Maintenance of Reserve Fund Levels:

- The Council monitors the Conference Reserves to ensure the ability to cover future contingencies including,
 - a) Reserve funds for emergencies and catastrophic needs related to the maintenance of Conference property held by the Conference trustees and include: (1) Virginia United Methodist Center; (2) Wesley Foundation buildings; (3) the Episcopal residence and (4) closed church properties. [The total value of these properties is estimated at more than $15 million.]
 - b) Reserve funds for cash flow purposes.
 - c) Reserve funds for economic and financial downturns.
 - d) Council on Finance and Administration has the authority to utilize reserves in excess of the minimum to preserve the Conference's financial stability.
- The Council has set the following target for Conference Reserve Funds:

Core Reserves:

A.	20% of the Conference Budget that closes to reserves	$ 1,239,000
	a.	401 – Conference Mission and Ministries
	b.	402 – Conference Services
	c.	403 – District Superintendents Fund
	d.	404 – Equitable Compensation Fund
B.	15% of Invested Assets not including cash equivalents and investments designated for specific purposes	350,000
		$ 1,589,000

On December 31, 2023, the Annual Conference had reserves in excess of the target amount, see Treasurer's Report for details.

- Consistent with approved Annual Conference policies (effective January 1992), the use of investment income is authorized to maintain reserve levels. (At the discretion of CFA, excesses may be used to: (1) meet shortfalls in Conference benevolences; (2) meet shortfalls in Conference Services; and/or (3) reduce apportionments from the Annual Conference to local churches.
- Reserve funds in the amount of $300,000 are available to cover actions emerging from Annual Conference vote, emergencies, support of advances for campaigns, and potential liabilities of the Conference
- Of the amounts reserved: (1) up to $50,000 is available for emergency needs of the Common Table, with the approval of CFA; and (2) up to $100,000 may be allocated by CFA between sessions of Annual Conference, as deemed necessary.
- The status of Conference reserves at the end of the prior actual year is to be reviewed each year by CFA and included in the Treasurer's Report to the Annual Conference Session.

E. PASTOR RELOCATION TRANSITION FUND

1. By action of the June 2003 Annual Conference, CFA has established Pastor Relocation Transition Fund and has provided funding through the Conference Services apportionment.
2. Churches/charges which are served by fulltime clergy appointed to their charge as pastor may request reimbursement on the following schedule for an incoming pastor, if the previous pastor served two years or less in the appointment to their charge:
 - One-year appointment – Seventy-five percent of the verified moving expenses up to a maximum of $3,000 reimbursement.
 - Two-year appointment – Fifty percent of the verified moving expenses up to a maximum of $2,000 reimbursement.
3. No moving expenses will be reimbursed that are not in compliance with the Virginia Annual Conference Guidelines for Moving Expenses as printed in the Journal of the Virginia Annual Conference.
4. Payment will be made at the end of the year based on a pro-rata share of the apportionment receipts from the churches.

F. CONFERENCE JOURNAL

The 2025 Journal, as sections are finalized, will be posted on the Virginia Conference website (www.vaumc.org) as a PDF file. Please note that going forward the Journal publication will only be a digital publication due to size of publication and greatly reduced numbers of orders for print copies. It will remain available for free on the conference website. When the whole publication of the Journal is completed, notifications will be sent out to the conference and conference members.

G. AUDIT REPORTS

The Council on Finance and Administration reminds all district offices, agencies, institutions, and organizations receiving any financial support from conference funds or from any authorized conference-wide appeal to be in compliance with the 2016 Book of Discipline 617.2 and 617.3 to submit audited financial statements to the Conference Treasurer no later than six months after the end of the organization's fiscal year.

H. IRS REGULATIONS

CFA reminds all church and/or charge treasurers to comply with the IRS regulations.

I. REQUESTS FOR BUDGET FUNDING

CFA recommends that all groups requesting funding from CFA submit requests for budget funding to CFA by January 15 of the year the request is being made. This will allow the requests to be reviewed by CFA in sufficient time for consideration at the Annual Conference Session the following June.

J. FINANCIAL COMMUNICATIONS

When CFA proposes significant changes in apportionments (10% or more), for any board, agency, or other recipient of financial support, such proposed changes and the guiding rationale shall be presented in writing to the Annual Conference for its information and final approval and convey this information no later than 30 days prior to the Annual Conference session.

K. LEGAL EXPENSE POLICY

The Annual Conference shall not pay for the legal expenses for local church or district matters such as non-appointed personnel, churches seeking disaffiliation, property issues, etc.

SECTION VI – A Church in Mission

We are a Church in Mission and a three-pronged focus of teaching, communication, and recognition enriches us as a Conference and as Christians. With it, we are able to share and learn further what it means to enter into the vision and share concerns with many people. But more importantly, it sets out a focus throughout our Conference on the value and importance of the unique connectional relationship we have as United Methodists.

Our charter has already been defined for us and it is set out in Scripture: “Just as in the human body, though it is made up of many parts, is a single unit, because of these parts, though many, make one body, so it is with Christ.” (1 Corinthians 12:12). And that body is composed of all of God’s children, including the rich and poor, found and lost, and secure and dispossessed. For as Jesus said, “Truly, I tell you, just as you did it to one of the least of these who are members of my family, you did it to me.” (Matthew 25:40).

As part of that body, we are called to serve our brothers and sisters in mission throughout the connection. Because of our covenant with God and with each other, it is our goal to fund the basic missional witness of the United Methodist Church.

We have much to be proud of as a Conference, as we live out the full meaning of the Stewardship of the Gospel. Our connectional giving — the important life blood of the work we all do together — is a reflection of the great commitment that Virginia United Methodists have to the mission and ministry work of our Lord. The budgets we draw up, while important, are more than a series of numbers. They reveal the very character of the people who build them, support them, and act through them. They are Christ’s work in the world, put into a plan for receiving and spending — collective understandings of commitments to fulfilling ministries and mission priorities. It’s no small thing we do individually, when collectively we are making such big impacts beyond our church doors.

The Stewardship of our Conference is part of our response to the needs we know about, as well as those not yet seen. Seeing the need, then doing what Jesus would do. That’s true Stewardship! It’s our faith in action!

William H Talley IV, President
